After thirten days in training at Barriefield Camp, Kingston, the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, including a unit from Millbrook in charge of Major Sloan and Captain Herbert Mason, arrived in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, their special train pulling in to the C.P.R. Station at 3.10. The Peterborough men were in command of Major C. Stewart and Captain E. G. Johnston.

Officers and men, in conversation with The Examiner, expressed their belief that this year's encampment had been one of the best ever enjoyed, the schedule of training having been so arranged as to give full scope to the various phases of camp life. Fortunately, and indicative of good organization, was the fact that no accidents befell the members of the Dragoons. Some of the men proudly pointed to a 9-8 softball victory over the 4th Hussars of Iroquois Falls.

ENNISMORE FARMERS LEARN ABOUT ONTARIO WHEAT POOL

Forty Gather at Meeting in Parish Hall—Appoint Organizers.

NOT PROFITEERING.

Farmers Rather Than Manipulators Should Gain Profits Says Speaker.

Forty Ennismore township farmers at a meeting in St. Martin's Parish Hall on Friday night manifested their approval of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Grain Pool, and appointed ex-Reeve W. H. Crough and Reeve Thomas Cavanagh to canvass the township for members who will contract to sell all or part of their grain products through the pool.

W. R. Shields who has been assisting in the present organization campaign in Peterborough County, was chairman, and H. A. Gilroy of Lambton county, a director of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, explained the Pool contracts and the system of contract marketing. Rev. Father McAuley, pastor of St. Martin's parish, said that the principle seemed to be an excellent one and worthy of the serious consideration of every farmer. He declared that he was deeply interested in every movement for the welfare of rural Ontario. He was brought up on a farm and understood the problems and general conditions which farmers have to contend with, and such an organization as the Grain Pool, operating for their benefit, had his full sympathy.

Mr. Shields reported an encouraging response throughout the county. "We wanted to give the farmers of Ennismore a chance of deciding whether they wish to come in with us", he said "and judging by this meeting I beleive you will be well represented."

Bishop a Member.

Mr. Gilroy's address was an informal exposition of the Pool idea and practice. Incidentally he said that Bishop Fallon of London was an enthusiastic member of the Pool.

"I assume from the church and school and this hall," he said, "that this is a Catholic community. It may interest you to know that Bishop Fallon is one of the largest Pool grain growers in Ontario. When he signed his contract he said to me: "Gilroy you are on the right track. I hope every Ontario farmer will join."

The Pool was not intended to be an orginazition to take toll from the consumer. Its history during the last three years had shown that, while farmers received a higher price for their wheat, consumers had not paid more for their bread.

"It is high time we farmers made up our minds to have more say about the price at which our products will sell, and also to see to it that more of that price goes into our own pockets instead of into the pockets of brokers and other speculators and price manipulators who have had control too long. Don't forget that you were members of the Pool during the war. It was known as the Canadian Grain Board, and you had to belong whether you liked it or not. That was the Pool principle as carried out by the Government. Today it is up to you to say whether you will join with us or not, and I would emphasize the fact that 165,000 Canadian farmers are members, and by their co-operation have demonstrated its success."

Mr. Gilroy answered various questions from the audience. The cost of organizing, advertising and selling Ontario wheat last year was one and a half cents a bushel. He left the city at 11.30 o'clock Friday night by motor for his home about twenty miles for Sarnia.

"I think I can report very satisfactory prospects for Peterborough county," was his parting compliment to Mr. Shields.

INSTITUTE WORKER EXPLAINS PURPOSE

Inspirational Talk Given at Regular Meeting of Havelock Ladies.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 3.—Institute work with or without an objective, was the subject of an address given by Mrs. McDonough of Capetown at the regular meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute held on Thursday afternoon in the town hall. The purpose of the organization, she said, was for the good of home and country and it was the duty of every member to boost their branch and in order to accomplish the most good it was necessary to have an objective. Where there is no objective there is a liability to quarrel. Choose and objective to be done by the whole body and work for the good of all with special favours to none, she advised. In dealing with the work with objective, she said to begin at home and work for the betterment of the homes of the less fortunate in the community.

Mrs. J. A. Sexsmith, district president, also gave a very interesting address.

An invitation was received from Mrs. Wesley Johnston to hold the July meeting at her home, when the roll call is to be answered by a jam or jelly recipe.

Mrs. Morrison donated a dozen and a half teaspoons to the Society and each member was asked to bring a teaspoon to the next meeting.

NEW PASTOR IS INDUCTED

Rev. W. W. Jones, Formerly of Warkworth, Takes Over Millbrook Charge.

LARGE CONGREGATION.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 3.—Rev. W. W. Jones, B.A., B.D., formerly of Warkworth, was formally inducted into the pastoral charge of the Millbrook circuit at a congregational meeting, representative of the four appointments, held in the United Church on Thursday evening, Rev. Dr. J. T. Daley, of Port Hope, chairman of the Presbyterial Induction Committee, conducting the service.

The singing of the doxology, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, and an anthem by the choir, "The Lord is My Strength", preceded the inducting sermon, preached by Rev. W. E. Honey, of Welcome.

Taking his text from John 15:16: "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name he may give it you", the speaker addressed the gathering on the subject: "The Master's Personal Appointment to a Fruit-Bearing Ministry."

Pointing out that all Christ's followers must be fruit bearers if His church is to do effective work, Mr. Honey dealt with the suggestion that all life callings are, in a sense, sacred, giving Scriptural illustrations as Bezaleel of whom God said to Moses, "See, I have called Bezaleel... and I have filled him with the spirit of God...to devise cunning works, to work in gold, i silver, in brass", etc. nevertheless while the ministry is not necessarily more sacred than other callings, there is a separateness' about it.

"Secular occupations we choose by self-determination, but not one of us would dare to enter the office of the Christian ministry in this manner: rather the attitude is that indicated in the text: "I have chosen and ordained you." Then the minister is rightly recognized as an ambassador of Christ, speaking to the people in His behalf."

"There is need of this sense of 'call' for an effective ministry; it is not to a rulership, but to a pastorate as Peter exhorts, 'Feed the flock of God'; aim, then, directly for results, for this is an attainable ideal though not always may we wield the sickle in the ripened field; still

LONDON, Eng., July 3.—(American Press.)—British and Continental banking circles, thirsting for justice, have called on Scotland Yard and the Belgian and French police for the swift capture of a clever gang of swindlers who have mulcted British, Belgian and French banks of $750,000 in recent days.

Not since the famous Bidwell gang come to London from America 65 years ago and induced the Bank of England to part with $500,000 for forged bills of exchange have the bankers been so alarmed.

The present swindlers began their activities in London only recently. Within the last few days several banks in West London were presented with forged letters of credit on large amounts, all of which they honored, except in one instance. This incident almost resulted in the capture of the cheaters in a similar manner as the Bidwell quartette who were arrested when they presented an undated letter of credit for $125,000.

The banker told the member of this modern gang to return later while he examined the $50,000 bill of exchange, but the swindler failed to appear. At other banks, however, they were eminently successful and reaped a harvest of $300,000 in London alone.

When things got too hot for them in England they chartered an aeroplane at Croydon and flew to Brussells where they fleeced Belgian banks in a similar manner to the sum of $100,000.

Chief Constable Wensley of Scotland Yard believes that a member of the criminal organization is employed in an Italian bank where the drafts are supposedly issued on London banks.

ORANGEMEN ATT END DIVINE SERVICE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. N. Clark Wallace Addresses Members in Christ Church.

REVIEWS ORDER.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3.—Brethen of L.O.L. 526, accompanied by the Lady True Blues with their band and several visiting brethren attended divine service this morning in Christ church. The Reverend N. Clarke Wallace, rector of Christ church, welcomed the brethren to the service and included in his words, the Lady True Blues as well as other representatives of the order.

As his text, Mr. Wallace selected the seventeenth verse of the second chapter of Peter, "Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the King." In beginning his sermon, Mr. Wallace reminded the visitors that they had come to church to commemorate a great event which had definitely decided that no outside authority should govern the British Isles in either spiritual or temporal matters. It also happened that they had come to church on the anniversary of the birthday of the Dominion of Canada, and it was only proper that we should recall that on this day Britain gave to us the same civil and religious freedom which she herself enjoyed. It was also well to remember that the members of the Loyal Orange Association had sworn to defend these liberties and to maintain our connection with the British Empire.

Mr. Wallace did not think that he was expected to rehearse the principles on which the order was founded, but rather to link up these principles with the principles of the church, for that reason he had chosen the text from Peter. It expressed not only the ideals of the Orange order but also was the essence of the teaching of the Master. It was not possible to be a good Orangemen and a bad Christian. Honor all men was a universal precept and its meaning could not be limited. It was a denunciation of all forms of intolerance. It does not mean that we can not differ with others but we must respect their views.

Love the brotherhood, the second command of the text, meant that the general honor must be transformed to a Christian love of those who form our brotherhood. The apostle had meant the brotherhood of all christians, but in this case there was a special application. The great and noble principles on which the order was founded should bind its members together in love. In the interests of the cause, self should be forgotten.

VISCOUNT BYNG APPOINTED HEAD OF SCOTLAND YARD

Former Governor-General of Canada To Succeed Sir William Horwood.

ANNOUNCED IN HOUSE.

Will Control 20,000 Men Policing an Area of 700 Square Miles.

LONDON, July 3.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — Viscount Byng, of Vimy, former governor-general of Canada and leader of the Canadian corps at Vimy Ridge, will succeed Sir William Horwood as commissioner of the metropolitan police and head of Scotland Yard, it was announced in the house of commons yesterday.

Sir William was connected with the recent inquiry charges against the police following the arrests of Sir Leo Money and Miss Irene Savidge in Hyde Park, but his retirement is nothing to do with this case. As long ago as last February the home secretary stated in the house that Sir William had indicated a desire to retire, as he would celebrate his 60th birthday this autumn.

Cries of "Oh" from the labor members greeted the announcement by the home secretary yesterday. Questioners asked why the government had gone to the army instead of the police force for a successor, and whether Viscount Byng would get another pension at the end of his period of service.

The Speaker said the latter question was not permisisble.

The government, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary, pointed out, aimed at getting the best man possible. Viscount Byng had hesitated greatly before accepting the appointment but finally accepted it as being a stern call to duty.

Control 20,000 Men.

Viscount Byng will be in control of 20,000 men policing an area of 700 square miles. Sir William, his immediate predecessor, was highly popular with the force and also gained the respect of the public at large, though personally he was not very well known. Sir William Horwood's predecessor, Sir Neville Macready, left Scotland Yard in 1920 after two years in office, to command the military forces in Ireland. Before him the commissioner was Sir Edward Henry, who held the position for 15 years.

It was in Sir Edward Henry's time and during the war that the famous strke occurred. Sir Edward fully realized the force at that time was overworked and underpaid, but in the war struggle it was hardly feasible to draw proper attention to the grievances. The strike, however, resulted in an immediate and adequate measure of improvement. He retired with a baronetcy.

The commissioner of police is directly responsible to the home secretary, who himself decides what police tax shall be levied upon the metropolitan boroughs and parishes. The police forces in England are controlled by municipal or county police authorities, but the state pays half the maintenance costs.

CAR UPSET.

Sedan Turns Over on Havelock Road, Ten Miles From City.

A 5-passenger sedan was upset about midnight on Saturday when the driver missed a turn about ten miles east of the city on the Havelock road. There is a bend in the road at this point and the driver, who is said to be travelling at least 50 miles an hour, apparently missed it. The track of the car through the grass could be seen, ending at a big stone which lay beside the fence and had been shifted by the impact. The car had flipped over and stopped upside down with the front toward the west, which was the way it was travelling. The five men in it were unhurt, a seemingly miraculous escape.

Incidentally, in less than twelve hours after the accident the front cushion and the battery had been removed and more than one passer-by looked longingly at a steady drip of gasoline which was draining the tank.

the text, was urged as the beginning of all wisdom. It was an old expression which we had all heard so often and most people knew what it meant generally but there might be some difficulty in making a definition of what was meant. Men were sometimes referred to as God fearing men. This meant that they were not Christians and churchgoers on Sundays only, but practicised their religion during the week as well. They were not pharisees. This was another precept which a good Orangemen could not forget.

Honor the King, was meant as a submission to authority in the present day meant to us submission to the King of Great Britain, "By the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Dominions beyond the seas, King, Defender of the Faith and Emperor of India. The Orange Order stood for loyalty and devotion not only to the King in person but to the Empire of which he is head.

And we in Canada have a great trust, to insure that nothing is allowed that will weaken the bonds of the empire, the empire which we can say has been used by God as an instrument in establishing Liberty and precepts and commands on which Honor all men. Love the Brotherhood, Fear God. Honor the King, Christian precepts and commands, and precepts and command on which the Loyal Orange Order is founded. The Order knows no other emblem save the altar and the throne.

LAKEFIELD, July 3.—The funeral of Mrs. Robert Allen took place at 3 o'clock on Friday morning in St. Paul's Church and was largely attended by many friends and neighbors who united in a tribute of respect to a good woman, a loyal wife, an excellent mother and a faithful friend. The requiem mass was sung by Rev. J. J. Garvey.

The pall-bearers were her three elder sons: Thomas, Edward and Leo, of Detroit, and Edward Allen, William Whibbs and Victor Kennedy.

Interment was made in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro.

Mrs. Allen had many friends in the village, who sincerely join her family in mourning her loss. She was a Christian mother and was devoted to her church and to her home and family. She passed peacefully away after a long, trying illness, borne with Christian fortitude. In all the activities of St. Paul's Church she always took an active part and her cheery presence will be missed in the parochial gatherings.

AVOIDING A RUSH.

School Trustee Victor Lauriston, of Chatham, is responsible for a new idea in regard to the purchase of school books that promises to do away with the rush to the book-stores that usually develops on the first day of each new term.

It has been the custom when the schools re-open after the holidays to give the pupils a list of the new books required, and with hundreds of children setting out at the one time to do their purchasing, congestion is unavoidable.

Mr. Lauriston has solved the problem so far as Chatham is concerned.

Shortly before the schools closed last month for the summer vacation each pupil was supplied with a typewritten list informing him of the books he would require next September.

As these books and supplies are already in stock it will be possible for parents to buy what is needed at their leisure during the summer, and by this means the promoter of the plan hopes the first-day rush will be eliminated when Chatham's schools open in September.

If the parents co-operate with the board in this respect the system should prove a decided improvement.

THEY SHOULD MEAN SOMETHING.

Whatever may be the case in other parts of Ontario, there is no doubt that in this section of the Province several of the traffic regulations mean little or nothing.

Particularly is this true of the section dealing with glaring headlights and the regulation requiring horse-drawn vehicles to carry lights at night.

Despite the law regulating headlights, it is impossible to drive very far after dark before finding plenty of evidence that many motorists are making no attempt to comply with the requirements of the Traffic Act.

Surely something can be done to show all such offenders that the law was passed for the purpose of removing a very fruitful cause of accidents, and that the authorities intend to see that it is respected and acted upon.

As for the section requiring the carrying of lights by horse-drawn vehicles, it need only be said that in a night drive of over one hundred miles recently it was noticed that scarcely a horse-drawn vehicle encountered had the light called for by the law passed two sessions ago.

If these necessary regulations are to be more honoured in the breach than in the observance, it need scarcely be wondered at that in spite of safety campaigns the highways continue to take an appalling toll of human life.

THE REVERSE SIDE OF THE SHIELD.

Those Canadians who are accustomed to speak of the United States as a land of wonderful weather, where everybody is prosperous, and where the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow is within the reach of all, may be surprised to learn that the faraway pastures are not so green as they appear at this distance.

"Swollen values have shrunk to a level below pre-war days, especially in residence real estate.

"There is much unemployment, much more than usual.

"More rigid economy is being practised by citizens of Los Angeles than has been known for years.

"Business houses are reducing salaries and old and valued employes are being left out and their places are not refilled.

"There are now no 'steady' jobs in Southern California, except working for the State, county and city."

Comparing the conditions outlined above with the evidence on all sides of Canadian prosperity, greater bank deposit, larger railway revenues and prospects of the greatest crops in years, it might be necessary for some people on this side of the line to revamp their opinions in regard to the possibilities offered in the Republic.

Reasons why Canadians have every right to rejoice that they are living in a country of wonderful opportunities are surely not hard to discover.

CANADA'S FARM RELIEF FOR U.S.

While the appeal for farm relief has not ceased to ascend from the ranks of the agriculturists in the United States, Canadian farmers apparently have been doing what they can to meet the situation by sending across the line substantial relief in the form of large consignments of agricultural products. These consignments, according to a recent table compiled by the external trade branch at Ottawa, have been enormously increased of late, and the figures reveal the United States to be an expanding market, so far as Canada is concerned, for live stock, milk, meats, grain products and many other farm commodities. Canada exported farm products to the value of $46,390,700 to the United States in the eight months ending in May of this year, compared with exports valued at $43,840,682 in the same period a year ago. Last month alone the United States took Canadian farm products worth $6,498,330, compared with $4,973,657 in May of the previous year. To cite a few of the items:

	Eight months ended May
Cattle	$3,564,616	$10,293,883
Sheep	115,782	157,514
Grain products	1,139,410	2,094,739
Bacon	872,907	1,053,406
Beef	1,615,945	4,451,532
Mutton	165,880	214,786
Wool	939,996	1,296,169
Maple sugar	345,089	733,549

Comparing the exports of wheat and milk for the month of May, 1928, with those for the month of May, 1927, an unusual increase is also noted:

	May, 1927	May, 1928
Wheat	$938,777	$2,678,589
Milk	19,811	47,083
Cream	468,396	591,786

In the case of milk and cream the figures for the eight months do not provide a fair comparison because of the embargo enforced by health authorities of many United States cities for long periods. For the eight months period the exports of our milk and cream were just slightly under the exports for the previous eight months period, but now they are forging ahead.

Practically all the commodities mentioned entered the United States subject to a heavy duty, applied or increased in 1922; in the case of cattle, from 1½ to 2 cents a pound; cream, 20 cents a gallon; beef, 3 cents a pound, and so on. The duty on wheat is 42 cents a bushel, but this is not applicable if the wheat is sent in bond to be milled for export.

The expanding market in the United States for Canada's farm products is a matter of satisfaction. It is not likely that any bread is being taken out of the mouths of agriculturists across the line. It appears simply a case of a country whose population is growing faster than its farm production. Range lands are not increasing in area, but rather the reverse, with the result that Canada is supplying some of the live stock, an increasing amount of meats, and a great deal of the cream, especially to the larger cities close to the Eastern Canadian farm sections.—London Advertiser.

WHY HOOVER WORRIES BUSINESS.

(From New York World.)

Whatever the platform may say, whatever Mr. Hoover as candidate may say, a Hoover administration is bound to be quite a different thing from a Coolidge administration.

So far as it is possible to forecast these matters, the difference is likely to arise out of this fact: Mr. Coolidge has perfect confidence in the leadership and judgment of the big Republican business men. As nearly as it is humanly possible he has made his administration conform to their ideas. Mr. Hoover, on the other hand, has very great confidence that American business men have a lot to learn about how to conduct business and that the technicians are the ones who can teach them. He does not have Mr. Coolidge's inordinate respect for money and position, and he does not have Mr. Coolidge's humility in the presence of commercial success. Mr. Coolidge, never having been in business, has always been the admiring amateur. Mr. Hoover, having been in the midst of big business most of his life, feels that in business matters he is an expert and a chieftain among experts.

Just what the consequences of this temperamental difference would be nobody can really say. But the uneasiness of the biggest Coolidge supporters among business men has been made perfectly plain. They do not know where they get off with this man who knows so much about their affairs. They know that he went into the Department of Commerce when it was a sleepy and inconsequential bureau and that in eight years it has accumulated experts and officials until now it is necessary to construct one of the largest Government office buildings in the world to house the staff. They do not know whether all this activity is a good thing or a bad one. They don't know whether it promotes business or bureaucracy. But they do know that in Calvin Coolidge they had a man who preferred to do nothing and that in Herbert Hoover they have a man who enjoys doing as many things as possible.

DISAPPOINTMENTS WHICH MEAN NOTHING.

This is the time of the year, school examination time, when there are successes at school and disappointments for both pupils and parents. The results either way should not be taken too seriously. There are instances of very bright pupils becoming failures in after life; we do not like to emphasize these. What is more to the point is the example of dull boys at school amounting to men of genius and there are many examples in history of such.

Genius, according to The Mentor Magazine, rarely writes promissory notes. Seldom is greatness foretold. One's contemporaries, it seems, simply refuse to see promise where nothing much has been requested of one. Take Beethoven, for instance. Having a certain inherited tendency to hardening of the ossicles of the ear, if his parents had consulted a "vocational expert" it is scarcely to be imagined that they would have received encouragement to give their son a musical education. The malady overtook him relatively young, but it did not balk his becoming the Shakespeare of music. As for Shakespeare himself, no "itinerant deer-slayer" could have secured credentials from any schoolmaster in England in his day.

Herbert Spencer was backward in his studies and in very poor health as a youngster. One biographer says: "Morally he was extremely disobedient and contemptuous of authority. . . . . Yet without money, without special education, without health, he produced eighteen volumes . . . . and set forth a profusion of new and original ideas when he became a man." Sir Isaac Newton was a most unpromising child, with frail body and poor eyesight, who "showed no aptitude for study."

In modern times, there is Winston Churchill who was a disappointment in school life. Steinmetz, the electrical genius, would never have been picked as a Rotary medal winner. There are scores of successful men within acquaintance who were "duds" at school and who now boast about it. The fact is, there are girls and boys whose latent qualities do not ripen until well on in adolescent life. This should be remembered by the fond parent, whose offspring has a lame school report at the end of the term.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

So this is July 1.

Speculating on the number of pennants seen on automobiles, and also on the number of motor accidents, a contemporary can't decide whether this should be known as a bumper year for banners or a banner year for bumpers.

Fish stories seem to be taking the usual form. It is astounding the number of big fellows that got away yesterday.

With prohibition an issue in the United States presidential campaign, it would be a shrewd move on the part of Ontario temperance organizations to sell the advertising matter left over from the last provincial fight to the Hoover forces. We expect no commission, let it be understood.

If Herbert Hoover is elected President he may discover that feeding the starving Belgians was a soft thing compared to appeasing the appetites of job-hunting party henchmen.

A hermit has little chance in Ontario. No matter how secluded a spot he selects he is sooner or later destined to find that he is located on a detour.

(Address inquiries to "The Question Box")

ABOUT MUFFLERS.

P. T. Q.—If the motor-boats can make so much noise on the lake and get away with it, why can't I run my car out the highway without a muffler?

A.—Because the law forbids it. It is required that motor vehicles travelling the roads shall be equipped with noise mufflers which must not be removed. The penalties are, progressively, up to $5, $10 and $25.

O Lord, our Heavenly Father, as Thou hast graciously spared us to the light of another morning, accept Thou our gladt hanksgiving for this and all Thy countless mercies to us.

Pardon us wherein we have grieved Thee in the past. Grant unto us, we humbly beseech Thee, all such benefits for body, mind and spirit as Thou seest best for us this day. Show us Thy will, and may it be our pleasure.

Impart unto us such faith in Thee that we may successfully meet all the testings that await us. May ours be the patience, the courage, and the joy of those who know Thy love and have learned the secret of the Lord. Make thy blessings to us to be, through us, Thy gifts to our world.

A Thought

UNDEVELOPED MAN

Man is like a palm-tree grown under northern skies—stunted and dwarfed and misshapen because the bright sunlight and gentle air which are necessary to its right development are wanting, and yet having in itself that which, under favorable circumstances, would have made it a miracle of gracefulness and beauty. He is like the diamond or other precious stone in its rough shape, with nothing attractive about it, duller than a piece of common glass, and yet of such a texture that when polished and cut into a hundred facets its become the key to the treasury of the sunbeam, and breaks it up into all the colors of the rainbow. Or he is as the marble in the quarry; in its natural condition there is no beauty that we should desire it; but let it be cut and polished and chiselled, bring to bear on it the labor of the artisan and the knowledge of the builder, the skill of the architect, and the genius of the sculptor, and such artistic miracles as Milan Cathedral or the Venus of Milo may be the result.—Mackay.

THE MARKETS

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 3 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for Canadian grain here on Saturday was again of a limited character and little business was transacted.

There was practically no change in the condition of the local cash grain market, prices being steady with a small business passing for domestic and country account.

A moderate amount of business was done in spring and winter wheat flour and prices for all grades were firm.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained under a good demand from local and United States buyers. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, but values were unchanged.

Owing to the marked decrease in the receipts of eggs last week and the increasing scarcity of fresh extras a stronger feeling developed and jobbing prices generally were advanced one to two cents per dozen. The demand was good and a large volume of business was done. The receipts were 2,726 cases.

A stronger feeling developed in the butter market and prices were marked up ¼c per pound. This was attributed to the keener interest shown in the trade and the fact that holders were not free sellers owing to the smaller supplies coming forward.

The receipts were 5,571 packages.

The local and export trade in cheese was quiet, but prices were firm. The receipts were 8,027 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 3 (Canadian Press). — Wheat ran up in price here yesterday, but the gains failed to hold well, holding partly, it was said, to weakness of the stock market. The chief bullish factor was reported Russian purchasing of 6,000,000 bushels of wheat in Europe. On the other hand, domestic wheat harvest conditions had improved and receipts yesterday amounted to 406 cars at Wichita alone.

Wheat in Chicago closed unsettled at ¼c to ¾c net gain; corn, ½c off to ½c up; oats varying from ¾c decline to ⅝c advance; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c to 17c.

A big jump in wheat quotations at Liverpool tended to confirm advices that Russia had become a heavy buyer from other European countries. The fact that houses with seaboard and foreign connections were active in the purchase of future deliveries here was also regarded as of bullish significance.

Meanwhile export in wheat from North America over the week-end was estimated at 1,500,000 bushels, and there was 2,500,000 bushel decrease in the amount of wheat afloat for Europe.

On the other hand, unofficial monthly crop estimates issued here yesterday proved to be about as looked for and deliveries on Chicago July contracts were on a large scale amounting to 4,999,000 bushels.

Corrected figures making wheat arrivals at Wichita much larger than had been previously announced acted also as a bearish influence, together with stock market weakness, as the day drew to an end.

Corn values eased back after private estimates were out suggesting a corn crop this year of 2,970,000,000 against 2,786,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Besides corn deliveries here yesterday on July contracts aggregated 1,359,000 bushels. Oats were firm, sympathizing with wheat.

In line with the hog market, provisions averaged higher.

Just the thing for Camping!

"You know," said Plain Mr. York of York, Yorks., confidentially, as he hitched up his stool, "Rowntree's Motoring Chocolate is just the thing for camping. Or for anywhere else, for that matter."

"Why?" asked the Pathfinder.

"Because it's the most satisfying and sustaining chocolate bar you can buy. The very finest chocolate, with delicious Valencia almonds and luscious Nectar raisins all through it. Simply wonderful for a meal or a mouthful—in the woods or at home. How can it help being just the thing?"

Rowntree's Motoring Chocolate comes in two forms, —one is plain chocolate with almonds and raisins, the other, milk chocolate with almonds and raisins —both equally delicious.

W. R. MORRIS IS NEW PRESIDENT OF ROTARY CLUB

Executive For Ensuing Year Introduced at To-day's Meeting.

CANADIAN LEGION.

Rev. Father Costello Explains Aims and Objects of Organization.

W. R. Morris is the new president of the Peterborough Rotary Club, with Ross L. Dobbin as vice-president and Rev. Father Costello, Robert Abbott and Chris. G. Graham as directors. The president-elect and his executive were introduced to the club at to-day's luncheon by Past President A. L. Killaly, and President Morris took charge of the meeting.

In his introductory address the new chairman neatly summed up his views of Rotary, stressing first the desirability of paying particular attention to the fostering of international peace, secondly the need of being particular in regard to business ethics and finally the duty of Rotarians toward their own community. In this connection President Morris reminded members of the club that they should solidly support the City Council and Chamber of Commerce in every movement for civic benefit.

Rev. Father Costello was the speaker of the day, giving a fine address upon the aims and objects of the Canadian Legion.

On beginning the speaker, who was introduced by Past President Killaly, explained the situation after the war when returned soldiers formed various organizations of veterans operating individually. The need of one great organization led eventually to the Canadian Legion, which was the Canadian branch of the British Empire Service League.

"Imperialism has taken on a new meaning since the birth of so many new nations that go to comprise the British Commonwealth of nations—an entirely new meaning in the minds of those people who before the war felt that there was something about the word that had to do with the British Isles and the administration of affairs at Westminister, said Rev. Father Costello.

Today the word has a very much broader meaning and to only the casual observer of empire affairs, it means that now the British Isles and Westminster have developed into the British Commonwealth of Nations, each nation with its own Westminster and with that responsibility of setting up in the minds of each nation that national individuality that today must leave its mark upon the minds of oncoming generation. That stamp and impression of the new Imperialism upon the minds of Canadians is going to be just what those people who are now directing our national affairs seek to make it.

The Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. is just as much an offspring of the great war as are the now self-governing nations of the Commonwealth. Canada is now actually and totally and completely an autonomous nation, placed there along with (the one time other colonies) very largely as a result of her splendid contributions in manpower and direction during the great war.

The intention of those same forces operating in their respective nations, all rendering service in civil life to the service of the Empire is the aim of the B.E.S.L.

The Anglo-Saxon capacity for co-operation, good sportsmanship, and in the case of Canadians their unique ability of adaptibility, played a very important part in the successful prosecution of the war. There is yet very much of that adaptability yet available for service in civil life and it is the particular aim of the Canadian Legion to serve that purpose and to mould the minds of the oncoming generation with this new and broader meaning of Imperialism.

Rev. Father Costello read a section of the Legion's constitution to set forth the objects of the organizations and pointed out that these aims were much the same as those of the Rotary Club. He predicted the Legion, with Sir Arthur Currie as its head, would eventually have a membership of several hundred thousand, and urged Rotarians to get behind the movement and support it. The speaker also paid a tribute to the fine work done by the women's auxiliary of the Legion.

It was announced that 37 boys were already at Camp Skookum and more are expected. Rotarians C. H. Rogers and J. H. Seels appealed to the members for some lighting facilities and games for the camp.

Rev. James Gordon was a guest at to-day's luncheon, and Rev. Father Costello expressed his regret at the departure of the former pastor of St. Andrew's, whom he described as a fine citizen. In reply, Rev. Mr. Gordon said farewell to the members and expressed sorrow at parting from Rev. Father Costello, who had been a good friend.

Mr. Free Visited Lakefield.

in Hudson Super-Six. Service counts, and all authorized Hudson-Essex dealers give service."

Mr. Free will make twenty calls in Peterborough each day this week. Grab The Examiner and say the magic words of greeting to every person who rings your door bell or knocks at your door.

Mr. Free uses Super-Power and Peerless Gasoline, distributed by the British American Oil Co., Ltd., because it fires quickly and cleanly and their stations everywhere are ready to serve you.

Mr. Free believes in Safety First, so he has L. L. Maguire protect his car with fire, theft, collision and liability and property damage, and his clothes cleaned at Parker's Cleaners and Dyers, where they make old garments look like new, and buys his shoes at Lillow's Shoe Store for Foot Kumfort and perfect fit, and has his clothes washed at Fanning's Laundry—the laundry where the tedious, irksome task of bending over steaming suds is a thing of the past for the thousands of homemakers who have turned to the modern laundry for relief. Try their Damp Wash Service to-day.

The best tip that Mr. Free can give you is to watch for the big Hudson Super-Six Sedan. Mr. Free will make twenty calls each day for the remaining three days of his stay. He will park the car in the same block where he is working. When you see the sedan reach for the most recent copy of The Peterborough Examiner. If he should knock at your door, take The Examiner with you and greet him with the slogan for that day. If you repeat it correctly and have the right copy of The Peterborough Examiner in your hand, you will be awarded the five dollar prize. Don't get flustered, say the words slowly, as Mr. Free will say nothing to interrupt you. The next time you hear the door bell ring or a knock at the door, be ready. What if you do say the slogan to the wrong man. Mr. Free may be your next caller, and why worry about a little mistake like that when you might be the lucky winner of a five dollar prize.

Mr. Free's Special Prizes.

Have you filled in your coupon yet in the mileage contest. The winner receives a cheque for $250 payable to ——— to apply on down payment on the Hudson Super-Six Sedan that Mr. Free is driving during his visit here. The rules of the contest are simple. The prize goes to the person who guesses the nearest to the correct mileage on his speedometer. The speedometer on the Super-Six Hudson Sedan was sealed from view when Mr. Free started to drive it and will be uncovered at the end of his stay here, Thursday, July 5. All you have to do is fill in the coupon and mail it to Mr. Free, care of The Peterborough Examiner.

Slogan for Wednesday.

Pardon me, Mr. Free, from The Daily Examiner, the paper with the exclusive features. I was admiring your fine new Master-Six Hudson Super-Six Seven-Passenger Sedan. We are regular customers of Bond's Drug Store, and are well pleased with the courteous service we receive there.

Mr. Brewer, of the Brewer Motor Sales, overjoyed by the extensive week's business, took unto himself a holiday, Dominion Day, and journeyed to the home of his wife at Port Hope, leaving in charge of the sales, Mr. Edward Collins, who recently connected with the Brewer Motor Sales, as new and able manager, surprising Mr. Brewer, upon his return, with wonderful sales record of 15 new and used cars, names of purchasers appearing below. They, like Mr. Free have chosen wisely in their selection of cars for business and pleasure:

New Cars Sold During Last Week.

F. A. Tanner, Lakefield.
George Graham, Peterborough.
Harry Zacks, 560 Homewood, Peterborough.
R. W. Moore, R. R. No. 5, Cannington.
Veronica Gannon, Ennismore.
Rita Cavanagh, Ennismore.
Mary O'Brien, R. R. 4, Kingston.

M. H. Jefford, R. R. 3, Keene.
Peter Robinson, 1019 Water Street, Peterborough.
Jack Hynes, 147 River Road.

Now, folks, just sit down, read over their respective advts. and exercise your memory and think out the slogan you would like to have Mr. Free use on the different firms he has chosen to do business with and mail to to Mr. Free, care of Peterborough Examiner. He may use it and you will be $5.00 to the good.

MR. FREE'S CAPITAL PRIZE

One of Mr. Free's Special Prizes.

Mr. Free will give to the first fifteen persons that guess closest to the mileage on the speedometer of his car at the end of his stay here, cash cheques from $25.00 to $350.00. GEORGE STREET CHOIR PICNIC

SPORTS HELD.

The annual picnic of George Street United Church choir and a number of their friends was held at Cobourg on Monday, July 2. Several cars kindly loaned and driven by members of the congregation transported the members of the choir and their friends to Cobourg.

The weather was all that could be desired and about seventy sat down to a splendid dinner at the British hotel, after which all adjourned to the park, where softball was indulged in, many showing almost professional skill. The sport program then commenced and was carried out very successfully, with A. V. Lillow as starter. The balloon race proved very amusing.

At 5.30 p.m. the crowd assembled for eats in the park and sat down to a bountiful supper. After singing grace all fell to with wonderful appetites, after their strenuous games and the invigorating breeze from Lake Ontario. About seven o'clock they started on their homeward journey, all declaring they had spent a most enjoyable day. In the sports the following were the successful contestants:

Ladies' straight race—Miss Lillian Nash.

ALL AT SEA

CHAPTER XLVIII

"No," Madeline told her husband, "but I think I would have done so if I could have accomplished it. But how was I to go about it, Ned? Well, he gave me twenty-four hours to think it over, and told me I must make up my mind to go away with him or he would not only tell you, but he would see to it that it was put in the papers and would be the biggest sort of scandal imaginable."

"And you didn't tell me that night?"

"I couldn't. I tried, but I couldn't. I was going to tell you the next day, and then—you know what happened."

"Yes. Who killed him, dear?"

"Don't ask me, Ned. I don't know, really, and yet—I fear——"

"But from now on, my girl, there's to be no shadow of a secret between us. No tiniest film of shadow, no faintest trace of reserve. So, come on, out with it."

And Madeline told him, but he couldn't believe it.

Now, had Miss Anastasia Folsom known all this, she would not have done what she did do.

She had finished her luncheon and had repaired to her room to rest and think over matters pertaining to her brother's death.

The new detective, she felt sure, was going to ferret out the truth. He hadn't told her much yet, but she knew intuitively that he would succeed in finding Garry's murderer and bringing him to justice.

And to her, impelled only by mere curiosity, came Myrtle, the chambermaid.

The girl had been deeply impressed by Stone's surprise and excitement at the sight of the doll Pelton had given her, and she was deeply desirous of knowing who it was that the doll looked like and who was, therefore, Garrett Folsom's best girl.

So, without much concern, she presented herself to Miss Folsom with the inevitable clean towels, and with her doll slung over her arm.

"This is the doll Mr. Pelton gave me," she vouchsafed, for Miss Folsom was of a chatty sort when in the mood.

"Is it?" and Anastasia took the lovely doll in her hands.

And then, to Myrtle's secret delight, Miss Folsom showed much the same amazement and agitation that Stone had done.

But only for an instant. Then she was her quiet, dignified self again.

"A beautiful doll, Myrtle. Do be careful with it, it is a very expensive one."

"Do you think it looks like anyone you know, ma'am?"

"No, of course not. Go away now, you bother me."

Myrtle went, and as she departed, Miss Folsom went to the telephone and called for Fleming Stone.

And when that gentleman presented himself, she told the story of Myrtle and the doll.

"So you noticed the resemblance, too?" Stone said, his deep eyes sad and his whole face somber.

"Of course. And so she was Garry's best love, and so she had some secret affair with him, and so she is the one who killed him."

"Oh, Miss Folsom, don't go so fast," he implored.

But she was adamant.

"Fast! I'm going straight up to her room and confront her with it. Then if she is innocent there's no harm done. You may go with me or not, as you like, but I'm going and I'm going now."

They found the Barrons getting ready to go down to luncheon.

Barron, seeing that the matter was of grave import, decided to have the whole thing out then and there.

"Come in," he said, as the visitors appeared. "I think you have some matters of importance to discuss."

And in that instant Fleming Stone realized that whatever the truth was about Madeline Barron, her husband knew it.

"Yes, we have," said Anastasia Folsom, who was spokesman by her own election. "And there's no use mincing matters. Mrs. Barron, you were acquainted with my brother in the past, although you have denied it since his death."

"I will answer for my wife," Barron said, quietly. "Yes, she was, Miss Folsom."

This took the wind slightly out of Anastasia's sails, but she went steadily on.

"You were in love with him, Mrs. Barron?"

"He was in love with her," Ned Barron answered, inexorably determined to do the talking himself. "And, Miss Folson, it was not an honorable love."

"My brother could do nothing dishonorable."

"He did, in this instance. He lured the girl, not twenty years old then, away, under false pretense of marriage. By which I mean he had a marriage ceremony performed which the girl thought genuine but which was only a mock marriage. After the ceremony he laughed at her, and—but I need not go into details; by good luck the girl was rescued from his clutches in time by her father."

Now, devoted though Anastasia was to her brother, there was one thing toward which she had absolutely no mercy. And that was the wrong-doing of a man toward a woman. Perhaps her own spinsterhood made her even more bitter, but if she were convinced that her brother had really wronged a woman, that would be to her a blot that could not be wiped out.

"I suppose you can prove this?" she said, slowly.

"Yes," and Madeline spoke quickly. "Mr. Folsom had with him down there some letters I wrote him——"

Like a flash it came to Stone. Carmelita had taken those letters with her own. Dan Pelton had missed them and was glad they were gone. After all, Pelton was a good sort, and Carmelita, too.

But though Anastasia Folsom was gently inclined toward the victim of her brother's passions, that could not condone murder.

"I don't wonder you wanted to kill him," she began, but Barron interrupted.

"My wife did not kill Garnet Folsom," he declared. "Who did kill him I do not know. But I am on the job now, and I will hunt down the even if it means an exposure of my wife's past history."

There was a knock at the door, and when it was opened, Ross Folsom's former valet, stepped into the room.

"I have intruded, gentlemen," he said, looking from Stone to Barron and back again, "because I have been listening at the door and it is time I should have my say."

"I'm sure you can have nothing to say, Ross, on the subject we are discussing," Madeline said to him. "Please leave the room. I urge you to do so."

Stone stared at her, but the man Ross gave her what seemed to be a meaning look.

"I must speak, madam," he said, "for I have a confession to make. I killed Garrett Folsom."

"You, Ross!" MissAnastasia said, in utter bewilderment. "Now, why in the world would you kill him?"

"I cannot tell my reasons for it," Ross said, with a dogged look. "I only say I confess to the murder and I want to give myself up."

"But, it's too absurd, Ross," Miss Folsom went on. "You were in the hotel at the time he was killed."

"No, madam, I spoke falsely as to that. I was in the ocean."

"But you were at the other end of the hotel beach. You were far away."

"I can swim under water, madam, as well as any other way. I did so, and I killed my master, and then dressed and returned to the hotel quickly, so that I might not be suspected."

"And why are you making your confession now?" asked Stone, who was beginning to see through some dark places.

"To save the innocent from being suspected. It is possible that Mrs. Barron may be charged with this thing, and I want to forestall such a possibility. I assure you, Mr. Stone, you will find I am telling the truth."

"Then you are the man with the white mustache who bought the antique dagger late that night?" Stone said.

"Yes."

"I can scarcely believe it, Ross," Miss Folsom said, "but if it is true, then our quest is at an end. You shall pay the penalty and my brother's murder will be avenged."

"Yes, madam," said Ross.

"He shan't! He shall not!" cried Madeline Barron, wildly. "Listen! That man you call Ross is my father. He saved me from the wrong Garret Folsom would have done me. Then, for Mr. Folsom did not know him, he gave up his own career, and went to be valet to Mr. Folsom so he could keep watch on him. He meant to keep him from further molestation of me, and devoted his life to that. He went with Garrett Folsom wherever he went. He never let him out of his sight, and when they came down here—tell them, Father, what Mr. Folsom said."

"He said," the man they called Ross stated, gravely, "that he had seen here at the hotel the only woman he wanted. He said he meant to get her, too. He had no idea I was her father, and he declared he would manage it. He said he should confront her in the ocean and claim acquaintance, and then he would be guided by circumstances what course to pursue, but he would get her away from her husband and would have her for himself. This he told me with a leering chuckle that night he arrived, as he was dressing for dinner. So I knew the time had come when I must strike, whatever the consequences might be.

"I had no weapon, but I went for a walk and saw the auctions here and there, and realized I could get one of those old daggers. The white mustache I always carried around, thinking I might some day meet Madeline and it might be necessary that she shouldn't recognize me. As a minor precaution I put it on, before I bought the knife, and the rest I think you all know. I have no regrets. I rid the world of a scoundrel. I am sorry, Miss Folsom, to speak thus of the brother you adored, but I knew him better than you did, and he would have ruined my girl's life had he been allowed to live."

Then Anastasia Folsom spoke.

"Ross," she said, and her voice was gentle, but it sounded full of heartbreak, "you are right. I am, perhaps, a strange woman, and I worshipped my brother. But I see now it was an imaginary man I worshiped. If he did these things you tell of, and I cannot doubt what I have heard, then you did right. I don't mean I am glad you killed Garry, for I loved him so, but I can see it from your point of view and I can understand what you have been through these years of watchful servitude to a man you hated. I can appreciate it all, including Mrs. Barron's agony of spirit, and I withdraw all charges and I wish the investigation stopped.

"I don't know what must be done, exactly, but you, Mr. Stone, and Mr. Barron will know how to arrange matters. Only I want Ross to go free, to be unsuspected by anyone at all. I want the police to be told that the mystery will remain forever unsolved. I want Croydon Sears exonerated, and—oh, I don't know about these details, but I want them all attended to. This does not mean that I condone the killing of my brother, but that I exonerate the man who killed him, because I understand. To me there is no sin on earth like the sin against a woman's virtue. And since my brother was guilty of that, I forgive the man who took the law into his own hands and who saved the daughter he loved."

And Ross, with no thought of melodramatic effect, knelt down and kissed the hem of Miss Anastasia's smartly tailored frock.

THE END.

we go on plodding with the assurance that fruitage is assured."

In his concluding remarks Mr. Honey emphasized the responsibility of the people entering into a partnership, or a fellowship of service, with their minister, making prayer the master key to unlock the riches of God's grace that his pastorate might indeed bear fruit, "and that this fruit should remain."

Intimating that an induction has no legal aspect, "but signifies the sanction of the church for Rev. Mr. Jones' presence on this circuit as your pastor, and offers an opportunity for the minister to meet his people, and for them to meet him," Rev. Dr. Daley explained that a very unique feature in connection with the evening's service was the fact that four men who ha been members of the official board of the former Methodist church of the South Cavan circuit when Mr. Jones who was born and brought up in this vicinity, was first recommended for the ministry by this board, were present, and on invitation came forward: Messrs. J. Albert Brown, William Mullen, Martin Brock, and R. Henry Hubbeard.

Mr. Brown gave a brief outline of the circumstances: "In 1927 the officials of the Cavan South Methodist church board gave Wesley W. Jones license as an exhorter, and the following year, in November, he became a candidate for the ministry, and on motion of Messrs. M. Pethick and W. Mullen, was received on trial as a local preacher. In 1902 Mr. Jones began his college course, and now in 1928 he has come to his home community as pastor of the United church on the Millbrook charge, which now includes the appointments formerly making up the Cavan South circuit."

Rev. Mr. Daley, after assuring the congregation that all the preliminary steps had been properly taken for having Rev. Mr. Jones placed here as minister, asked the new pastor to take his place before the altar, and the formal ceremony of induction took place, the questions and answers including obligations on the part of both minister and people.

Rev. J. F. Mears, of Port Hope, then gave the charge to the pastor, and those to whom he will minister, his preliminary remarks dealing with the rather surprising information that twenty-four years ago next August he had preached the ordination sermon when Rev. Wesley W. Jones was receiving this rite at the annual conference.

His text on that occasion Mr. Mears had taken from Acts p:5: "And they chose Stephen, a man full of the Holy Ghost", and now choosing just two words, 'a man,' he proceeded to impress some valuable lessons on the minds of his hearers.

"Not to angels, but to men, has God entrusted the great commission of carrying the good news of the gospel to all mankind. To men who have felt the curse and the burden of sin themselves, and who have become personally acquainted with Christ, who is Himself the remedy for sin."

"I always dwell with peculiar pleasure on these words when I find them in the gospels, the Son of Man"; it seems to bring Him so much nearer, and is indicative of the fact that He had so many of the experiences which are ours. If you would help your fellowmen you cannot do it at long distance, but must come into happy, friendly contact with them."

"'A man sent from God' is solemnly, happily true in this present instance; not alone sent by the Presbytery, or by the Settlement Committee; and the supreme qualification and test of what a man is makes up the sum of his personality."

Adressing the minister particularly, Mr. Mears said: "Virtue must go forth from you, healing, helpful, inspiring; doubtless you are even now asking: 'Who is sufficient for these things?' Let me point you to the only answer: 'Through Christ strengthening me, I can do all things.' If you would lift up, you must look up."

To the people the speaker urged: "As a man, will you receive my good friend, Mr. Jones, as your minister?" He will need your sympathy, not alone that which you feel, but what you express; he will need your prayers to uphold him; he will need your hearty and constant co-operation. Throw in your lot with him; become one in thought, purposes, and plans in carrying on God's work here. Lift up your banners in His Name, and may the pleasure of the Lord prosper in your hands."

The choir sang an appropriate anthem, "As the heart paneth after the water brooks", with duets by Mr. and Mrs. H. W Johnston, and by Messrs. M. McDowell and V. C. Lambert, and after a brief reference to the fact that the new minister's wife and his two daughters would be a decided acquisition to the church and community, their musical talents being particularly mentioned, the impressive service was brought to a close with the benediction pronounced by Rev Dr. Daley.

A reception was afterward held in the Sunday School auditorium when Mr. and Mrs. Jones had opportunity to meet a large number of their people, refreshments being served by the Ladies' Aid Society. The decorative scheme was in white and gold, each daintily-laid table being centred with yellow lillies in crystal holders.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

Then it was all over, and there was nothing more to do but climb again into the carriages and go jogging back to Kilburn.

Now and then the three men from the bank looked at her helplessly. They had liked Edward Fry, even though it had been with a faintly contemptuous liking, and they wanted to say something kind to his daughter but words did not come easily to their lips. And when they got back to the house they all refused tea or any other refreshment, and they went away as quickly as they could, leaving Jennifer and her mother alone.

"I think one of your uncles might have come," Mrs. Fry sobbed. "I suppose we are not important enough for them to trouble about. it would have been very different if your poor father had been a branch manager."

"The bank sent a lovely wreath," poor Jennifer said hopelessly.

For her the world seemed to have come to a standstill, every nerve in her body seemed shocked and wrenched beyond endurance.

V—AN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

In the morning she wrote to Gaunt again, telling him about the funeral and hoping that his mother was better. He had given no address at Cannes, so she wrote to his rooms, with "Please forward," on the envelope.

But the days passed and the weeks and there was no reply, and Christmas was close at hand.

Mrs. Fry had roused herself sufficiently to count up her resources and take stock of the future, and she found that, all told, there would be about one hundred and forty pounds a year for Jennifer and herself to live upon.

"We must give up this house and go into cheap rooms," she said.

Jennifer agreed to everything. She did not care what happened.

They moved into rooms in the neighborhood of Willesden Green, and there they spent a terrible Christmas, Mrs. Fry in tears and Jennifer with a heart of stone that would not let her weep.

She was always thinking of Gaunt, always tormenting herself with doubts and unanswered questions. She had been so sure that he loved her, even though he had not told her in so many words, and she loved him with a great single-heartedness. She had been content to drift, confident of ultimate complete happiness, and the shock to her belief stunned her. She found to her cost that after all sometimes books were true to life. If he had only written one word of explanation or farewell she could have borne it.

Christmas came and went.

"I must get some work to do, or I shall go mad," Jennifer told her mother.

Mrs. Fry took refuge in her usual burst of tears. Since her husband's death she had utterly changed. From being a plump, kindly soul, she had grown into a fretful, haggard-looking woman, with an eternal grievance.

It was as if she everlastingly looked out on life through the upper windows of the bank of which her husband had never been manager, and, after all, found them fitted with distorted glass.

"It's cruel, cruel!" she would rave. "Why should I be robbed like this?"

"Things might have been worse," Jennifer protested. "There is always something to be thankful for."

"For you, perhaps," Mrs. Fry retorted. "You are young, with life before you—which reminds me! What has become of that young man who was so attentive to you last summer?"

Jennifer's cheeks flew crimson flags of distress.

"Mother, what do you mean?" she gasped.

Mrs. Fry did not know. It was merely her artful way of obtaining confirmation of the suspicions that had been in her mind ever since the day she commented on Jennifer's increasing prettiness. She had been secretively proud then to think that her daughter had an "affair"; but now she felt mortified and angry because obviously it was all at an end.

"I suppose he got tired of you when the trouble came," she complained bitterly. "I suppose it would have been different if your poor father had been a branch manager and I had a pension."

And so on, until Jennifer could have screamed.

"That's why you've grown so pale and thin-looking," the mother insisted. "You hardly ever smile, and I never hear you sing. As if I haven't enough troubles of my own without yours to add to them."

"You just imagine things, mother," Jennifer said as quietly as she could.

Mrs. Fry cast a bitter look at her daughter. "Imagine things, do I? Well, perhaps there would have been less to imagine if you had made a confidant of your mother instead of being so shy and secretive about it."

Jennifer's eyes blazed.

"There is nothing for me to have been secretive about," she protested tremulously.

"And now you're lying as well, and that's worse," Mrs. Fry lamented. "If there is one thing I despise it is a liar. I always brought you up to be truthful."

Jennifer fled from the room.

She put on her hat and coat and went out. Her cheeks were burning and her eyes smarted with tears, but she felt better for the cool air on her throbbing brows. At the end of the road the trams were rattling by, their bells clanging and their yellow lights shining through the chill January evening like malignant eyes.

Jennifer stood on the curb feeling lost and helpless, and the thought flashed into her mind. "Why didn't I drown that day at Herne Bay. Why didn't Nicholas let me drown?"

It would have been such a swift and simple ending and she would have been spared all this pain and disillusionment.

Then came the inevitable revulsion of feeling.

This was cowardly, and she despised cowardice.

This was only a bad patch in life, which had hitherto always treated her kindly. If she struggled bravely on some day it would pass and she would find herself in sunny places once again.

When she turned back home the tears were running down her face, but they were gentle, healing tears, which washed much of the hardness and bitterness from her heart and left her with fresh hope. She remembered that she had not been quite kind to her mother, and she remembered her mother's loss—her husband, the one whom she loved best on earth. She tried to realize how it would have been with her had she been married to Nicholas Gaunt, and he had died.

Then came a fresh wave of bitterness. Surely better dead a thousand times than unfaithful and cruel?

She went back home and found Mrs. Fry still weeping. Jennifer knelt down beside her and encircled her with her arms.

"Mummie dear, I'm sorry I was unkind. I'll tell you all about him if you like. Not that there is very much to tell," she added with sudden devastating memory. But Mrs. Fry would not listen.

"You've chosen to keep me in the dark all this time, and now I've no wish to hear. No, I don't even want you to kiss me," and she took herself off to her lonely bed and sobbed herself to sleep.

But Jennifer lay awake all night, her eyes dry and her heart breaking.

The old monotonous days of undisturbed peace had been the happy ones after all—before Love had come into her life, before Death came. She longed passionately to have them back again.

In the morning, when she was waiting for the kettle to boil before taking in her mother's breakfast tray, her eyes fell on the front page of a newspaper several days old, and amongst the gossipy paragraphs one headline caught her eye.

"Earl's beautiful daughter engaged."

Jennifer was not interested in an earl's beautiful daughter, but the hint of romance appealed at the moment to her sore heart, and she went on mechanically reading the announcement which followed.

"The engagement is announced between Lady Edith Masters, only daughter of the Earl of Clantree, to her cousin, Mr. Nicholas Gaunt, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Westover Gaunt."

The kettle boiled over, spluttering indignantly and sending clouds of steam into the air, but Jennifer did not heed it. She stood there in the cold kitchen, gripping the newspaper with both hands, her eyes closed.

To-morrow—Alone.

Stay Young with Your Daughter

As scores of mothers do by keeping that schoolgirl complexion, the result of natural ways in skin care. The daily rule to follow:

THE present generation recognizes charm only in Youth; with every daughter wishing, in her heart, for her mother to retain, above all things, her youthful allure.

Most mothers know how true that is. And those who are wise in modern beauty methods know too that natural ways in skin care are the most effective known for holding back the hands of time.

That means soap and water—a clean skin, pores cleansed regularly of age-inviting accumulations. Beauty experts advise it. Skin specialists urge it—but always, of course, with the Right Kind of Soap. That is the important point.

The rule to follow if guarding a good complexion is your goal

So, on expert advice, more and more thousands of women turn to the balmy lather of Palmolive, used this way.

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

For the girl of thirteen or fourteen a first grown-up ensemble of flowered chiffon.

Acquiring her first grown-up ensemble is to the thirteen- or fourteen-year-old girl of to-day what putting on long skirts and doing up her hair was to the girl of other generations. To be sure there are ensembles for little girls. Even baby has her ensembles nowadays, but usually they are rather simple affairs. Among people of taste as well as the means to dress well, there is always a decided difference between the sort of clothes worn by little girls and girls old enough to consider themselves young ladies.

The sketch shows a costume of flowered chiffon recently chosen for a girl of fourteen—a first grown-up ensemble. And the girl for whom it was chosen, going with her mother to the dressmaker's for fittings and then to the milliner's to choose just the right hat, and after that to get stockings and shoes and gloves of just the right shade, had all the thrills that young girls used to have when they donned their first trains and went through the ceremony of doing their hair up for the first time.

Incidentally the little girl in question is letting her hair grow—a privilege that now comes to the girl in her teens. And she isn't doing anything about it, either.

A young girl tried to explain to me the other day why the younger women were not following the vogue for short hair. She tried to let me get her point of view without hurting my middle-aged feelings. The idea in her mind seemed to be that the bob or even the shingle would have remained in fashion indefinitely—only the older women spoiled it. If they had continued wearing their hair long—as apparently they should have done—then the younger women would have continued to wear theirs short. But the mothers spoiled it all. Much as one may admire one's mother, one doesn't like to have her dress precisely like one.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

THERE came to The Examiner office last week an interview with a said-to-be noted screen artist, called "The Screen's most sophisticated lover," in which he describes a woman's love as "A strain of music filtered through midnight jade." Tommyrot—but I shall refrain from giving his name because he now boasts the great number of notes he finds on his breakfast table, "some silly, a few remarkable, a few wonderful," and some might be caught by the phrase and add to his correspondence boredom. After a lengthy digression in which he reveals the secret of his attraction for women, denies that woman is weak and holds up Josephine, Cleopatra, Catherine de Medici and Queen Elizabeth as shining examples of wonderful love, this "most sophisticated lover" announces: "I know little about women . . . but I have always been profoundly interested in the feminine soul, in the feminine heart. The moods of women have intrigued me as much as their most curious and provocative actions." Amazing man! How like his interview sounds to the airy persiflage that a dog fancier might use at Peterborough Dog Show! It is apparently the study of a species, rather than a love of individuals.

But more amazing revelations are to come, all of which will interest the woman who seeks to know what the "sophisticated lovers" of the world think of our sex. "I have usually been more attracted by the woman of over 25 than the girl of under 25," he says. And after you have digested that, you mere girls who thought yourselves at the lovable age, read why: "Like Balzac, I believe that a woman has not learnt how to love, what love indeed means, until she reaches the age of 30. At 30 a woman begins to be a real personality." Isn't it a scream?

Strange as it may seem, I was glad to reach the end of this astounding interview, not alone because the whole thing seems to be so foreign to our modern standards, but also because in this last paragraph is found one germ of sense. "It is only very, very rarely that you find high intelligence in a young woman that does not work. The mere fact that they do some work and don't fritter away this all-too-brief life on earth is proof in itself of profound intelligence." And I don't need to call to your attention the "profound intelligence" displayed by this superior male, this "most sophisticated lover."

What I should like to point out is that he is still unmarried.

Now, it's your turn. Tell us your views, whether you class yourself with this man's women of erudition or whether you think a girl of under 25 may be capable of loving.

Last week a lady called us to ascertain the name of the man whose wife wrote telling about his collecting old firearms, because her son is interested and would like to see the trophies. It would be very indiscreet, wouldn't it, to give out the name of a man whose wife sought aid to curb his annoying hobby? I hope to maintain a reputation for keeping confidential the names of correspondents on such topics, and I am sorry that I must refuse even so simple a request as this.

I am told by a local dealer who caters to the latest in feminine desire that nothing is smarter than a skirt and coat in different shades of beige worn with a silk sweater blouse of bright colors reminiscent of Hungarian tapestry.

Orchids in a Charlotte street garden are no less bright than those trimming large type straw hats in a George street store. A butterfly bow on the crown of another straw reproduces in its soft satin all the hues of the exotic insects of the orient.

Why lose the fragrance of your roses? A pot pourri can be easily made that will retain the perfume to give you joy throughout the winter. For full directions just drop a note to Marion, at The Examiner office, enclosing a stamped addressed envelope.

Everyone should keep a notebook in which to jot down important things. A war time nurse who spent a day in the city recently would have given a great deal to remember the names of the parents of a Canadian soldier who had died in a French hospital in which she nursed. They live in Peterborough and she lives in New York City. Failing to recollect their names, she could not telephone them. One can imagine the joy of those people could they have talked for a while to the one who was nearest their boy during his last days on earth.

Several requests have come in for the free services offered last week, and these will be sent just as quickly as I can have them typed.

ANSWERS TO SOS

WOMEN'S LOVE.

(Requested by Mrs. J. W.)

A Sentinel angel, sitting high in glory,
Heard his shrill wail ring out from purgatory;
"Have mercy, mighty angel! Hear my story:

"I loved, and, blind with passionate love, I fell;
Love brought me down to death, and death to hell—
For God is just, and death for sin is well.

"I do not rage against His high decree,
Nor for myself do ask that grace shall be,
But for my love on earth, who mourns for me.

"Great spirit, let me see my love again,
And comfort him one hour, and I were fain
To pay a thousand years of fire and pain."

Then said the pitying angel: "Nay, repent
That wild vow. Look! the dial-finger's bent
Down to the last hour of thy punishment."

But still she wailed: "Pray thee, let me go:
I can not rise to place and leave him so.
Oh, let me soothe him in his bitter woe!"

The brazen gates ground sullenly ajar,
And upward joyous, like a rising star,
She rose, and vanished in the ether far.

But soon adown the dying sunset sailing,
And, like a wounded bird, her pinions trailing,
She fluttered back with broken-hearted wailing.

She sobbed: 'I found him by the summer sea
Reclined, his head upon a maiden's knee;
She curled his hair, and kissed him. Woe is me!"

She wept: "Now let my punishment begin;
I have been fond and foolish. Let me in
To expiate my sorrow and my sin."

The angel answered: "Nay, sad soul, go higher!
To be deceived in your true heart's desire
Was bitterer than a thousand years of fire!"

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

I have great difficulty in selecting gramaphone dance records. I like a piece I hear in the store, and then when I get it home it doesn't sound the same. Can you tell me what other people like? Perhaps if I get a record that is a general favorite I will like it too.

Yours sincerely,
N.W.A."

It is difficult to select another's music, but the following are highly spoken of:

Brunswick (3882) "The Beggar," by the A. and P. Gypsy Orchestra. It is not in strict rhythm. On the other side is "Fleur de Lis," by the same orchestra—a gorgeous melody.

Victor (21333) "Hello Montreal," an amusing number by Waring's Pennsylvanians at their best, and "Lila," which opens strong and holds up well. It is rated "extra good" by dancers.

Columbia (1191) "Weary Stomp." If you like your jazz crazy, here it is, by Curtis Mosby and His Dixieland Blue Blowers. On the other side is "In My Dream," a little quieter, as dreams should be, but still kind of crazy. It's good for a wild mood.

Tell me if you like these.

"Dear Marion:

Will you please give me some advice as to the clothes, etc., a girl should take and wear when going on a week-end visit?

We are going to travel by car, starting on Saturday morning and arriving at our destination late that afternoon. I will probably have to drive part of the way and I would prefer low-heeled oxfords for this. What about the rest of my outfit? Would a plain black satin dress be suitable for Saturday evening? What would be suitable for Sunday morning?

Yours truly,
Cora."

Wear a sports suit of jersey or knit wool, if you have one, to drive. A two-piece suit, with a coat for warmth, if necessary, also would be appropriate. Any clothes that are comfortable and not dressy are in good taste for motoring.

If no party is planned for Saturday evening the black satin would be fine. If there is to be a dance, or some other sort of party, however, you will want a simple evening dress.

If you spend Sunday morning at the home of your friends, the same costume you wore coming would be all right. Or a printed silk dress would be pretty.

M.S. Yes, a delicious beverage can be made from tomatoes, good for breakfast, dinner or afternoon. Here are the directions for making Tomato Juice Cocktail:

2 cups strained tomato juice.
4 teaspoons chopped chives,
4 teaspoons chopped parsley,
½ teaspoon lemon juice,
1-8 teaspoon tobasco sauce,
1-8 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce,
1 teaspoon salt.

Let chivies and parsley stand in tomato juice for about three hours. Strain and add seasonings. Chill thoroughly, shake well, and serve in glass surrounded by shaved ice. This serves 6 small glasses.

Muriel: I am afraid, judging by what you write, that "Life and I; An Autobiography of Humanity," would be uninteresting to you, much as your friend "raved" about it. It is the author's opinion of man's battle for power, of his dream of beauty, and his search for truth. It is not because I do not agree with Bradford's version that I advise you to read something more simple in your quest for knowledge. Why not consult the young ladies at the Public Library, who can help you out of wide experience with books and readers—and are always willing? In the realm of novels, I think you will enjoy "Blue Mountains."

A lady suffering from chafed and bruised hands and knees, caused by a fall on the uneven pavement, voices the wish of many, that the authorities would send out a man with a wheelbarrow of cement and a trowel and have the uneven places levelled. On the dark, west side of Stewart street between Smith street and Edinburgh streets are two of these tripping places.

VACATION TOGS OFFER VARIETY

City Stores Give Wide Choice, But a Lot Depends Upon Plans.

SOME IDEAS.

Have you planned your clothes for vacation yet? If not, now's the time, for vacation-time is here! Where we spend our holidays directs us in what clothe we must purchase. If we were travelling to Europe or across the continent, we certainly would need more clothes than if we were only going camping in our own Peterborough county. If we are to travel by motor, all we would need might be that combination costume of knickers and sweater, with a separate skirt for wearing over our knickers when we arrive in a city. With, of course, some sport dresses for unexpected occasions in stopping. Th n, too, we have a sport costume which is formed from a plaid blouse, with a hipband, manish collars and patch pockets. This is buttoned in the front, while the sleeves are gathered into snug wristbands. The knickers made for this are of tweed and have buttoned leg-bands which close at each side. These are belted and have diagonal pockets. With this could be worn a small matching hat of felt.

For the seashore we have many different styles of bathing costumes to choose from, also robes, and sometimes we are even shown the new popular sun-shades of bright harmonizing shades to match our costume. One costume for bathing and beach wear consists of a sleeveless slip-on blouse and straight bloomers attached to a bodice. Both pieces are of printed satin, while the blouse has a V-shaped neckline and a straight sash of plain satin.

One robe, lately viewed, is made very simply of a striped material. A notched collar and turn-back cuffs are of a plain material. Two large patch pockets and a matching cord girdle are the finishing touches. These may also be purchased in a plain or figured goods.

Possibly the newest coat for the bathing costume is of a bright linen, lined with a lighter shade of towelling, and trimmed with printed linen to match the suit.

Our bathing cap and shoes are chosen to match our costume, and may be either light or heavy, according to our desire.

Tub silks in almost every color of the rainbow are to be seen, wonderful hand-worked linens, and printed materials. The ensemble, too, is quite popular for vacation wear, and the coat may be worn with so many of our frocks, if chosen wisely. Hats to match our frock or ensemble are to be seen in felt, with lovely hand-painted holiday scenes on them; and in the new printed straws. The large hat, too, often sets our costume in the foreground on the beach.

There is nothing quite so cool and charming for holiday wear as a printed chiffon frock. This costume, made with sleeves, makes it suitable for daytime wear or more formal occasions, while without sleeves it is as one person put it, "The answer to the problem of what to wear for informal dinners and dances during vacation." One interesting one is made with a yoke starting in the front and extends into a dainty little cape at the back, while the tiered skirt falls in the new uneven hemline.

Nothing is more useful during the summer, or any time, than a black satin frock. One may be chosen which is dressy enough for a dinner while on a trip, and yet is simple enough to be worn all day if necessary.

Seniors Score Double Triumph On Holiday

STRONG FINISH IN DOMINON DAY BATTLES ENABLES PETES TO BEAT BELLEVILLE AND DELORO

TIMELY HITTING.

Homesters Develop Much Needed Punch To Grab Off a Twin Win.

Coming from behind in each battle the Petes materially improved their position in the Senior Central League race yesterday when they auspiciously celebrated Dominion Day by beating Belleville here 5 to 2 in the morning and Deloro on their own grounds by 7 to 4 in the afternoon fixture.

In the morning argument the Petes pounded out a victory in an exciting eighth inning rally, the verdict over Deloro was not earned until the ninth when their bats rattled against the Spalding for a cluster of four runs, turning a defeat of one counter into a three marker margin.

In both tussles the winners showed a fighting spirit that was refreshing, along with a welcome tendency to bunch hits that, if continued, will shoot them up to the top of the heap before long.

THE MORNING BATTLE.

The biggest crowd of the season saw the Petes knock off Belleville up to yesterday at the top of the ladder for the third time in succession, and they saw a scrappy battle into which a lot of nice baseball was crowded.

The home talent spotted the Railroaders a couple of runs took them back into the third, handed on even terms until the eighth and then slammed over the knockout punch through some timely hitting by Ray Rose and Fred Ash.

It was a pitching duel between Jeff Hardill and Vinnie Uzonik, Belleville's Ottawa Valley pitching recruit and for the third time this season Hardill forced the Gerow men to lower their colors, the ultimate winners' defence developed several gaping holes and Deloro got all their runs for the day Heck was away ahead of the opposition who got only two assists against eleven for the locals. Batters and the Petes big rightfielder was on top of them in great style.

Uzonki also turned in a nice card holding the Petes to five hits, but they jammed four of these into two frames and made them count to the limit. In the third Jake Hall and Ray Rose cashed in with a double and a triple behind a base on balls for two runs and in the exciting eighth two singles, a double by Ash and Ash were sandwiched between a couple of errors with disastrous results to Mister Uzonki's win column.

There was a lot of snappy fielding. Ash played a bang-up game at first and Ray Harrison handled a lot of chances at second for the Petes while Weir at second and Blakely at short did some fine defensive work for the Railroaders.

Walter Gerow's error started the scoring in the second. After Blakely had been safe on the error at second, Flagler fanned and when Bayley raised a soft fly to left centre the frame should have been over. Hall and Rose got their signals crossed however, and the easy fly latter dropped safely for a single and Uzonki converted the break into a run with a sharp single between short and third. Rose ended the inning with a fly to Hall.

The visiting talent came back with another marker in the third that was well earned. Weir singled, went to second on Harry Mills' sacrifice and rode home on W. Mills' long drive to left centre which Perrey thought was a triple until a fast relay, Hall to Holyman to Batten that stopped him at third convinced him that the hit was only a double after all. Holyman tossed out Blakely to end the frame.

Petes Tie It Up.

The Petes wiped out that deficit in their half. Batten walked Uzonki out and walked, going round to third on two infield outs. Jake Hall crashed one over Flagler's head for two bases to score Batten, and Rose promptly poled a long triple to deep right to send Hall in with the tieing run.

For the next four frames the teams battled along without a score. Belleville had a good chance in the fourth when Scott got a fluky double on a high fly to short right but Hardill fanned Flagler and Bayley and tossed out Uzonki, and from then on had the invaders tied up tightly.

The deadlock ended in the eighth when Uzonki paved the way for his own downfall by throwing nasty to first on Holyman's roller. Jae Hall forced Holyman on a bunt to Scott and the next moment was speeding around to third on Rose's rattling single over second. Rose going down to second on the fruitless throw to get Hall. Fred Ash chose this perfectly proper moment to interfere a line drive over Scott's head, a gorgeous single on which Hall and Rose gladly seambered home while Ash continued on to second on the toss to the plate. Harrison forced Ash to Weir for the second out. Swanston hit one in the same spot with more speed and Weir made a great stop only to have Harry Mills lose the low throw. Ash, of course, scored home while all this was going on. Hardill brought the gala inning to a conclusion with a roller to Weir.

Hardill fanned Flagler, Gilmore batting for Darragh, rolled to Ash. Jack to the mound and Wood went to short. Swanston hit to Jack, forcing Harrison at second, but Turner scored on the play. Heckman also rolled to the short stop-pitcher and the inning was over with the Petes still one own.

They moved not a wheel in the sixth but Ash singled with one out in the seventh and stole second, only to have Scott rob Harrison of a hit by a glittering stop.

Heckman singled to left with one gone in the eighth, and stole second. Yes sir he did. After Batten had passed one to Hughes Bert Hall walked but Holyman fanned.

That left all up to the ninth. Macdonald, batting for Turner to start that frame, struck out. Jake Hall, however, beat out a single to short and the attack was on. Ash walked to the new cover second after Hall, by nice running, made third. Ash going to second on the throw to the plate. Hap Harrison had grown hitless up to this fateful moment but only up to this moment. He met one on the nose for a terrific drive over Ralph's head in right centre, an easy double and two counters that set the stands out and then Cyril Wood took up the gunnery duties. He started off in whirlwind fashion by striking out on the side in the sixth and stayed off the Petes until the ninth when with one gone they suddenly smoked a fusillade of hits of which a tremendous triple by Hap Harrison was the crowning feature and after four runs had been chased in Jack once more mofved over from shortstop into the box and ended the storm.

Both teams tossed in some peppery fielding. Jack Hall made a few beautiful running catches in left field for the Petes and Ash also drew brackets by a fine sprint for a long one while Regan and Jack contributed some sparkling defensive work for Deloro and Scott made a fast play on a vicious drive by Harrison that started like a sure hit.

This time it was the Petes who started the scoring. Harrison, first up in the second, was hit and Swanston moved him over to second with a neat sacrifice. Heckman exploded a hot single to left to send the run in. Batten rolled to Shea and was safe for fouled to Hughes.

Deloro, after doing nothing in the first two frames, did plenty in the third. Scott got a lucky hit on a high fly which dropped between the two Haps. Shea, bunting for a sacrifice, laid it down so nicely that he turned the play into a single. Burgess put in an orthodox bunt and Regan cracked a single to right to score Scott and Shea. He went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Holyman's low throw to first on Hughes. Ash rolled to Batten at second. He was allowed to steal third unmolested and then caught Heck flat-footed by tearing for home as the Petes' pitcher started to wind up. He made it standing up. Shea walked, stole second and went to third when Swanston's throw got him on the leg. Hughes fouled to Swanston. It was a messy inning, and the net result was a three run deficit.

An Uphill Fight.

Deloro as it proved were through for the day but the Petes had a long pull uphill to get back what had been tossed away.

They had a good chance in the fourth when after Ash had to out to Regan, Harrison walked and Swanston singled to right. Heckman was called out on strikes but Batten, batting for Jack Hall, however, beat out a single to short and the attack was on. Ash hooked in to score over second after Hall, by nice running, made third. Ash going to second on the throw home

The "B.S.A." competition, seven shots at 600 yards with service rifles, in which .493 marksmen took part, resulted in a tie between Regimental-Sergeant-Major Foster, East Yorks, and Captain Stockwood, veteran South Wales Borderers marksman, with a score of 34 out of 35. C.S.M. Cyster, Small Arms School, was third with 33.

HOMERS AID YANKS

NEW YORK, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Lou Gehrig hit his seventeenth and eighteenth home runs in the first game of the Yankee-Athletic double-header here Sunday before a crowd of 60,000, but remained far behind his record for 1927 when he hit forty-six to finish second to Ruth. Gehrig's drives helped the Yankees pile up a lead of 10 to 5 over the Athletics in the first six innings.

Gehrig's first was driven high into the right field bleachers in the third with Ruth on base and Joe Bush in the box. His second was hit inside the park in the sixth with Koenig and Ruth on the paths and Ossie Orwoll pitching. This was one of the few home runs Gehrig ever got inside the field.

GIRLS IN SWIM AT THE BEACHES

Hilda Visits City's Bathing Places and Tells Their Features.

Swimming is a sport in wich most city girls indulged, and with the approach of vacation time everybody who intends spending a holiday near the water is learning to swim. It is not a difficult art to achieve, but one needs confidence in one's ability and freedom from worry. These are things that one must gain by one's self, and all that the instructor can add is tuition in how to move one's arms and legs.

E. P. STARS WIN BENEFIT GAME FROM PETES

ERRORS ARE COSTLY

Outfield Muffs Responsible for All Four of Winners' Runs.

(By F. D. C.)

The East Peterborough All Stars, playing steady ball in support of nice pitching by Scotty Maudsley took Saturday's benefit game from the Petes by 4 runs to 2 and it detracts little from their snappy all-round performance that a couple of outfield errors were responsible for their runs. Jeff Hardill muffed one with two out in the first and three counters eventuated and Moore, who replaced him later on in the game, dropped another to give the All Stars their last run in the eighth.

Outside of the clever pitching of Maudsley and some fine outfielding by the Jones brother, the feature of the game was the good performance of Angus Macdonald who pitched the last four innings for the Petes. Macdonald showed nice speed and a variety of stuff along with excellent control and the young left-hander should be a big help to the Petes.

Scotty Maudsley held the Petes to six hits, none after the fourth and outside of the fourth frame when they bunched four of their safeties the All Star heaver was always away ahead of the Petes. His infield worked nicely and Joe and Freddy Jones did some fine fielding, the latters' catch of Rose's long fly to left being the feature play of the day.

The All Stars line up consisted of Maudsley, Rogers, Barry, Scully and Nicholls of the Rangers; Wilson, Vannest and Baker of the Cogs and Ross, Joe Jone, F. Jones and Mein of the Crescents, and they justified their selection by a smart exhibition. Barry was the batting star, the first baseman banging out a double and two singles. He was the only player on his team to get more than one safety.

The game was won and lost in the first frame. Joe Jones rolled out to Harrison. Nicholls singled to right and went to second while Wilgar was tossing out Scully. Bob Ross lofted a fly to right which Hardill muffed and Nicholls scored. Singles by Wilson, Barry and F. Jones chased in two more runs before Baker fanned to end the inning.

That was the last All-Star run until the eighth when another right-field muff paved the way for a counter. Moore dropped Scully's fly and the batter reached second. Rogers popped to Macdonald and Mein struck out by Barry got his third hit, a single to score Scully.

The Petes scored the only earned run of the game in the fourth, which was Maudsley's worst inning. Harrison opened with a single to left but Hardill fanned out and Wilgar forced Harrison. Heckman singled to centre and Batten over tried to score Wilgar. Holyman also singled, filling the bases, but Turner was called out on strikes.

The other Peterborough counter came in the fifth and was a gift. With one out Asa got a life on Wilson's error, went to second on a wild pitch and scored when Wilson made a bad throw to first on Hardill's roller.

PONIES LOSE TO OSHAWA

Lakeshore Boys Take Double Header From the Kingston Team.

FIRST WAS CLOSE.

OSHAWA, July 3.—Oshawa took two games from Kingston here yesterday in a Central Ontario Baseball League attraction, the morning game going eleven innings. The score of this game was 9 to 6, a homer with two bases being occupied was responsible for the three-run margin.

The afternoon fixture was somewhat of a burlesque affair, Kingston using seven pitchers. The visitors uncorked five errors, while Oshawa batters drew eleven charities. The first game was a pitchers' battle between Matthews for Oshawa and Jamieson for Kingston. Daisy went the entire route for the locals in the afternoon and pitched consistent ball. A number of double plays featured both games.

SPORT CHATTER

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes have fought themselves back into a contending position in the Central Ontario League race and also into the good graces of the local fans by their double victory yesterday, following upon last week's fine win in Belleville. A big crowd of fans enthused by the morning triumph followed them to Deloro in the afternoon to see them knock off the Smelter crew.

Max Swanston was willing to admit after the second game yesterday that he was tired. Catching two ball games on a red hot July day with a motor ride on a dusty road sandwiched in is not getting all the breaks.

Lambert Collins was out of yesterday afternoon's game as a matter of discipline so it was rumored. Anyway Art Quinn, who used to catch to Kingston, was the receiving end of the Deloro battery yesterday.

Fred Ash did some decidedly useful hitting in both the holiday games. His timely single in the eighth innings in the morning fixture decided the issue and at Deloro he got three hits, driving in a run in the fifth and coming through with a hit in the ninth that paved the way for Harrison's mammoth wallop.

When longer smashes are hit in the Central Ontario League Harrison will hit them. That drive in the ninth in Deloro was a terrific wallop.

Jack's steal of third and home in the third inning of the afternoon battle was a feature. Little attention was paid to him when he purloined third and when he dashed for the plate Heckman was taking a full wind up and the Deloro short stopped without a slide. It worked so well that Scott tried the same thing in the next inning and was an easy out.

A funny feature of yesterday afternoon's game was that while the Petes outhit Delora 11 to 6, the Smelter fielders didn't have a put out while the Petes' gardeners snared six flies.

Jack, besides stopping two Peterborough rallies as an S.O.S. pitcher and stealing home, did some nice fielding at short. He also pulled a boner when, with the bases full, he took Swanston's roller and threw to second instead of the plate, giving the Petes a soft run.

Carl Woods hasn't had much luck against his fellow townsmen who have given him two lacings this season.

LEAFS BEAT REDS TWICE ON HOLIDAY

O'Hara's Men Strengthen Position in First Place of International.

ROYAS WIN.

Buffalo Bisons Drop Two Games to Montreal, Score 2-1.

TORONTO, July 3. — The Leafs celebrated Dominion Day in royal order at the Fleet Street Park yesterday, winning both parts of a morning and afternoon double-header from Rochester, 5 to 0, and 5 to 3. The victories further strengthened the first place hold of O'Hara's men, and also gave them the five-game series four to one, while on the season the Leafs lead the Reds nine to six, and their league margin over Montreal, now in second place by virtue of a double win from Buffalo yesterday, is two full games. The Orioles are lying third, with the Cardinal farm hands down in the fourth hole. Some drop, but shows what a tight race the International is enjoying. Twelve thousand fans witnessed the two games, fifty-five hundred and in the morning.

Johnnie Prudhomme hung up his third victory of the year over the Reds in the afternoon contest. Things looked bad for the Shreveport Farmer until the eighth inning when the Leafs started right after Jim McCracken and scored three runs, more than enough to top Rochester's one run lead.

Break in Eighth.

McCracken had pitched splendid ball until the break came in the eighth. He always took hold in the pinch and retired the enemy batter. In the eighth, however, his grip failed to hold, and Toronto took advantage of its golden opportunity.

Clayton Sheedy started the rally by working the Rochester hurler for four balls, and then rode home on Dale Alexander was making third on a hot triple to centre. A double to pushed Alex home while Burke left. Styles took third at first by was being thrown out at batterfield, batting McCracken. ...ingle to left and it for Cote, ...e shouting. was all over but the shouting.

Tony Kaufman relieved McCracken after batterfield had injected his ...eup and retired the side. He pitched to one batter, Prudhomme, who struck out. Billy Webb, running for Satterfield, was caught stealing when the pitcher missed the third strike.

Royals Take Two

MONTREAL, Que., July 3.—Before a crowd of nine thousand people the Montreal Royals took another twin bill from the Bufafio Bisons here yesterday, by the same score in each game, 2 to 1. Gaudette and Dick Smith starred in Montreal's double victory.

Gaudette, with a miraculous throw from short left field to Smith, at the plate, in the ninth inning of the opener, completed a thrilling double play that cut off the tying run and gave the locals their victory.

In the second game, scheduled for seven innings, but forced to ..., Dick Smith cracked out a single through second that scored ..., running for Haines, with the winning run.

Ahletes Suspended By the Association

BLACKPOOL, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Following a sweeping investigation into the practice of paying amateur players a flat sum for expenses, the English Football Association Saturday professionalized, and then suspended 350 athletes. A number of clubs were fined sums ranging from $50 to $200 and many officials of the clubs were black-listed.

The report of an investigating committee to the Association disclosed that several clubs in Durham paid amateurs a flat rate for games considerably in excess of actual expenses.

BIG SWIM NEWS

By The Walrus

MENDELL BURDITT swam fourteen miles in the Second Wrigley Marathon at the Canadian National Exhibition last year before he was taken out with cramps. He was then right up with the leaders, and at times looked like a certain winner. He had neither manager, trainer, nor coach. Ambition prompted him to enter the swim, and sheer determination proved him to be the dark horse. His unassisted performance stirred the pulses of over two hundred thousand spectators.

This year he is a vastly improved swimmer. His stroke is incalculably better. He has put on the necessary weight, and he is strong as a lion. He has been training daily in Lake Ontario since the middle of May, and seems to be utterly impervious to cold. A two-mile jaunt is merely a breather to him.

Watch this boy—he has the earmarks of a winner—build, stamina, stroke and, above all, brains.

Burditt will carry the crest of the Canadian National Railways on his husky chest in the Big Swim this year. Fellow employees in tens of thousands will root for him.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LATE FROG.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Well," said Uncle Wiggily as he closed the book and looked at the Lady Mouse Teacher and the Big Black Bear, "if my red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch doesn't get stuck in the mud I'll hop off and have another adventure."

"That was a fine story you read us," squeaked Miss Mouse.

"Very funny, indeed!" laughed the Big Black Bear. "It makes me feel like having my back scratched again."

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily as he scratched the Bear's back with the end of the crutch. "But if you hadn't made a picture of a cut-out puzzle-book I wouldn't have had anything from which to read the story."

"True enough," spoke Miss Mouse.

For it was when she and Uncle Wiggily met the Bear that the Big Black chap had scratched on the bark of a tree a picture of a book. It was a book of Uncle Wiggily's stories, but it was all so cut up that at first sight it looked like some hash. However, the bunny gentleman put the book together, as, I suppose, you children did, and read a story.

"Good-by!" called the Bear as he shuffled back to his den. "I must go see about my supper."

"And I about mine," squeaked Miss Mouse.

"Then I'll hop along and see what happens," said Mr. Longears, and away he went over the fields and through the woods. He had not gone very far before, all of a sudden, he met a little Red Ant Lady who was trying to carry home a very large loaf of bread. It was too heavy for her. For, though it was really only a crumb of bread, yet to the Red Ant Lady it was as large to her as half a chair might be for you to lift.

"Let me help you," said Uncle Wiggily politely.

"Oh, thank you," whispered the Red Ant Lady.

So the bunny gentleman lifted up the crumb loaf of bread as easily as if it had been a feather and took it to the Ant Lady's house, for which help she was very thankful.

It was the next Monday morning, when Uncle Wiggily had spent a quiet Sunday in his hollow stump bungalow, that something else happened to him. The old rabbit gentleman was thinking that school would soon be over for the long summer vacation and that perhaps he had better pay a visit and tell the animal boys and girls to study their best so they would pass the examination.

So Uncle Wiggily turned toward the Hollow Stump School and he had nearly reached it when he heard a noise in the bushes and out hopped Bully No Tail, the frog boy.

"Why, Bully! You're late!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily as he looked at his dumb watch with a tick bug inside to make the tocking noise. "It is after 9 o'clock, Bully, and you aren't in school. You are a late frog."

"I guess I am," croaked Bully. "But I couldn't help it. My brother Bawly and I were playing leap frog and once when I jumped over his back I got stuck in the mud. Bawly wasn't stuck and he ran on to the school. And I ran, too, when I could get unstuck. But I guess I'm late."

"You are, surely," said Uncle Wiggily. "I don't know what Miss Mouse will say to you."

"Oh, I guess she won't say anything," croaked Bully.

"Why not?" asked Mr. Longears in surprise. "She always says something when any of her pupils come late to class."

"Well, she won't say anything to me!" chuckled Bully. "For as soon as I hop in I've got a puzzle riddle to ask Miss Mouse. And she will be thinking what the answer is so she won't mark me late."

"We shall see," spoke Uncle Wiggily. He hopped to school with Bully. And as soon as the late frog was in his room he went to the blackboard and drew a puzzle picture of a boy.

"What is that for?" squeaked Miss Mouse. "What's the idea, Bully?"

"The puzzle is to tell why my picture box is like a clock," croaked the late frog, hopping to his seat. "Can you answer, Miss Mouse?"

NOTICE

Weed Cutting, Township of North Monaghan.

Public notice is hereby given that all ratepayers of North Monaghan must cut and destroy all noxious weeds growing on their property, by July 10th, 1928.

The Township Weed Inspector will proceed after that date to cut and destroy the same and the costs will be charged in the taxes against the property.

ARCHIE PATTERSON,
Weed Inspector.

Claude E. Bowers, New York newspaper man, and one of the most famous after-dinner speakers in the United States, who "stepped on the gas" when he addressed the Democratic convention at Houston, Texas, on the subject of Republican rascality. The 16,000 delegates, as might be expected, did not differ greatly. Mr. Bowers must have felt highly honored as an after-dinner speaker, when at one point in the course of his remarks anent the Hoover hordes, the Democrats got up and cheered him (Bowers) for exactly 22½ minutes.

SOME EGG RECIPES.

Eggs are easily digested if prepared in any manner without the use of grease. For this reason, fried eggs are not advisable since they can only be thoroughly digested by one who has a cast-iron stomach. Raw eggs are more difficult to digest than soft boiled eggs, especially when they are swallowed "en mass" like an oyster.

I have no doubt that many tuberculars have been killed by stuffing with raw eggs and milk. The healthiest person living cannot digest twelve eggs per day, and certainly one with a weak digestion, such as a tubercular patient, would be poisoned by this excess of protein food. (I have prepared a special article on feeding tuberculars which I will be very glad to mail to you if you will send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Coddled eggs are prepared by placing the whole egg in a quart of boiling water, first removing from the fire, and allowing it to remain in the water for about eight minutes. This will give the amount of coagulation which makes the egg most easily digested. Hard boiled eggs are difficult to digest unless they are very finely chewed. The best way is to prepare them as in the coddled method, but allow them to remain in the water from twenty to thirty minutes.

Poached eggs may be deliciously prepared by placing the egg in about four ounces of milk and putting the pan on the broiler so that the heat will cook the egg and milk on top. This may then be poured over Melba toast, with the addition of butter and salt as desired.

Baked eggs: Place a small round of Melba toast in the bottom of a muffin tin, moisten slightly with milk, break the egg onto the toast and place in a slow oven until it is of the desired consistency.

Cup custard may be prepared by beating three whole eggs together, adding a cup and a half of sweet milk, a cup and a half of seedless raisins, and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour into custard cups, being careful to distribute the raisins evenly. Place cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until the custard is slightly browned on top. Figs or other dried fruit may be substituted for the raisins, as you will find they make the custard sweet enough without adding sugar or honey. Eggs prepared in the form of custard would not be considered merely as a dessert, because they really should form the protein part of a meal.

French omelet: Another delicious way of preparing eggs is to beat together two ounces of milk for each egg and cook slowly while constantly stirring, in an ungreased pan. The heat should be turned low so that the egg will cook to a jelly-like consistency without sticking to the pan. This resembles a yellow cottage cheese when finished, and may be served either in egg cups or by pouring over Melba toast.

Questions and Answers.

Question—Mrs. A. L. writes: "My four-year-old son has flat feet. Will arch supporters cure this? Should he ride his tricycle, or is it better for him to walk a lot?"

Answer: Arch supporters cannot cure flat feet any more than crutches can make you strong. Riding a tricycle should be good exercise, but the best one of all is to take your son for a walk once or twice daily, having him walk "pigeon toed" part of the way. This is walking with the toes turned in like the Indians do. Just tell him to walk Indian fashion part of the time and let him think he is playing a game.

Question—Interested writes: "How do you prepare Melba toast as given in your Cleansing Diet?"

Answer: Cut all of the crust from an ordinary loaf of white bread, and slice the entire loaf in pieces one-quarter of an inch thick. Allow these to dry at least overnight and preferably even longer. When thoroughly dry, they should then be put into a moderately hot oven and toasted so that the heat will entirely penetrate the dried bread and it will be browned all the way through.

Question—J. H. writes: "I have what the doctors call 'encephalitis lethargica.' I am told that there is no cure for this. Is that so? I feel as if I want to sleep all the time and have pains in the pit of my stomach—pains more at night than during the day."

Answer: Most people who think they are suffering from sleeping sickness are really only toxic and bilious. The chances are, you can get rid of your sleepy feeling as soon as you de-toxicate yourself with a fruit fast followed by the right diet.

Historians have been telling the world that Chris' ashes are buried in Seville, Spain. But Senor M. A. Cocco, who attended the Pan-American road convention here, takes issue by asserting the remains are buried in America—specifically under the great cathedral in Santo Domingo City.

Senor Cocco says that the wife of Diego Columbus, son of the discoverer, petitioned Charles V to remove the ashes of the discoverer from Valladolid, Spain, to Santo Domingo. Permission was granted for the remains to be moved to Hispania America, according to his story, and in 1542 burial was effected under the altar of the cathedral in Santo Domingo City.

Call Money Rate Decreases With Bullish Demonstrations

NEW YORK, July 3.—(Canadian Press).— Passing of the temporary credit stringency, which was reflected in the easing of call money from the renewal rate of eight to six percent. was the signal for another bullish demonstration in today's stock market. Early losses of one to four points were wiped out and converted into substantial gains ranging from one to five points in the popular rails and industrials and from six to thirteen points in few high priced rails and specialties.

Ten percent call money yesterday attracted a huge influx of funds here from interior cities and European capitals with the result that the call money renewal rate was fixed at eight percent. it dropped to seven before mid-day and to six by early afternoon.

Covering by "Bear" traders, who sold stocks yesterday was an important factor in the day's advance. Radio dipped two points to 175 in early trading and then rebounded to 186¼ by early afternoon. Case threshing rallies from low of 333 to 345. International Harvester soared nine points Dupont 5 and America International, American Republics, General Motors and Montgomery Ward sold four points or more above yesterday's final quotations. Atlantic refining advanced more than four points to 141½, highest since 1923. Outside of thirteen point jump in Texas and Pacific to new record high for al. time at 168, there were few changes of importance in the rail group.

Selling Houses Force Decline In Wheat

CHICAGO, July 3. — (Canadian Press.—Houses with both Northwest and Southwest connections took the selling side of the wheat market early today and prices declined. Favorable weather was reported for the winter wheat harvest and for progress of the spring wheat crop. Opening ⅛ to ⅝ cents lower, wheat subsequently underwent an additional sag. Corn and oats developed firmness with corn stating ½ cent off to ⅛ cent up and later scoring gains, July delivery in particular.

Among unlisted stocks, Standard Paving took the lead in sales volume and advanced 1¼ to 29. Cockshutt at 26 was down a point, while Massey-Harris Common gained ¾ to 39¾ and P.F.O ½ to 110. Hamilton United theatre was more than usually active, [illegible] slightly higher at 14½. [illegible] unchanged at [illegible]. Imperial dropped a point to 66½ and International Petroleum ½ to 3[illegible]. Super Petroleum was ¼ at 33. The acquisition of Christie Brown by National Biscuit Company had little effect on stock, only few shares changed hands at 81½.

STILL SAVING LIVES.

F. W. Brown, who in 1897, saved the Prince of Wales from possible injury when H.R.H., then a little boy, was threatened by a runaway hansom horse, is once again in the limelight by rescuing two Oshawa, Ont., youngsters from similar predicament. Steps are being taken to have this act recognized with a Humane Society medal. In 1897 Brown was a color-sergeant of the King's Royal Rifles, stationed at the Tower of London. To-day he is a letter-carrier in Oshawa. Last year when the Prince was in Canada he personally invited Brown to attend a garden party in his honor.

Around the City

The Rubidge street "gang" held their annual Dominion Day fishing trip to Ball Lake, and report the best of luck.

From all points of view the holiday was a success. The rain held off until to-day, and perfect weather greeted the holiday-seekers. The firemen were also blessed with good fortune, fires held off as well as the rain until to-day. There were no fires to bother the fire department's holiday until a chemney fire at 212 Aylmer Street broke the perfect peace of the station this morning. No calls were received on Saturday, Sunday or Monday.

If Mr. Free is caught three more times one of the lucky eleven will be luckier still.

The excitement over the five dollar gold pieces is so high, especially with the extra one hundred and fifty dollar prize award. If Mr. Free is caught eleven times, that some people are not waiting for Mr. Free to call but are stopping him on the street and repeating the slogan with feverish haste. Mr. Free had one such experience this morning, but the lady had forgotten to bring the correct copy of The Evening Examiner. As the rules emphatically state that Mr. Free will call at the home, the lady would not have qualified for the prize anyway.

Remember the special prize offer. If Mr. Free is caught eleven times during his visit here, one of the lucky eleven persons will receive, besides the five dollar prize, an award of one hundred and fifty dollars in cash. This amount will be deposited in the Royal Bank, "the Friendly Bank," which Mr. Free chose himself.

The path of the five dollar gold piece distributor is getting more difficult toward the end of his engagement here, and Mr. Free is on his guard. You must follow the rules of the contest faithfully, and have everything correct down to the smallest detail. The rules of the contest are simple so it will pay you to be accurate.

Simple Rules to Win Five Dollars.

Here is the way to win the $5 prize, and the best tip that Mr. Free can give you is to watch for the big Hudson Super Six Seven-Passenger Sedan. Mr. Free will make twenty calls each day for the remainder of the week. He will park his car in the neighborhood where he is making his calls, and he always leaves the car in the same block where he is working. When you see the sedan reach for the most recent copy of The Examiner. If he should knock at your door, take The Examiner with you and greet him with the slogan for that day. If you repeat it correctly, and have the right copy of The Evening Examiner in your hand you will be awarded the five dollar prize. Don't get flustered, say the words slowly, as Mr. Free will say nothing to interrupt you. The next time you hear the door bell ring or a knock at the door, be ready. What if you do say the slogan to the wrong man, Mr. Free may be your next caller, and why worry about a little mistake like that when you might be the lucky winner of the five dollar gold piece.

Everybody is looking for Mr. Free for everyone wants to win that five dollars. When Mr. Free called this morning at one of the business places, where he carries out his plans, the young lady in the office exclaimed, "Why, Mr. Free, I have memorized the slogan every day but I heard you went to Campbellford this morning, and I forgot to memorize the slogan."

"Too bad, young lady," said Mr. Free, "you were misinformed."

Mr. Free's Special Prizes.

Have you filled in your coupon yet in the mileage contest? All coupons must reach this office by 12 p.m. on Friday, so be sure to mail yours at the earliest date. The winner receives a cheque for $350.00, payable to the Brewer Motor Sales, to apply on down payment on the Hudson Super Six Sedan that Mr. Free is driving during his visit here. The rules of the contest are simple. The prize goes to the person who guesses the nearest to the correct mileage on his speedometer. The speedometer on the Hudson Super Six was sealed from view when Mr. Free started to drive it, and will be uncovered at the end of his stay here, Friday, July 6th. All you have to do is fill in the coupon and mail it to Mr. Free, care of The Evening Examiner.

Mr. Free's Memory Exercise

Mr. Free has chosen the following business places to carry out his plans and each place of business has a special day. To the readers of The Examiner, Mr. Free offers $5.00 in Gold for the Best Slogan on the place of business to be featured each day.

TEACHERS ARE APPOINTED TO NEW ADDITION

Several Appointments Are Made By Board of Education To Vocational School.

WERE IN COLLEGIATE.

Other Teachers Will Give Part of Their Time to the New Department.

A fairly heavy slate of business was disposed of by the Peterborough Board of Education when it met last evening in the Board Room of the Toronto Loan and Savings Company, George Street. This, the last meeting until the month of September, was under the chairmanship of President E. Bruce Fowler, and during its progress, numerous reports of the various committees were received and adopted.

Changes in Staff.

The report of the Vocational Committee recommended or provided for many changes so far as the teachers of the Collegiate Institute were concerned. In all, seven teachers will be transferred to the staff of the Vocational School, while others will have part time work to do in this new branch. Every clause save one in the report was approved, Section Seven, which would have made Principal Kenner's salary $4,600, with a yearly increase of $100 until reaching the $5,000 mark, being referred back to the committee, with a recommendation that the salary be set at $5,000 a year.

The Committee on Appointments, submitties its report through J. F. Strickland, recommended among other things, that the resignation of Miss G. R. Glover from the Public School staff, be accepted, and that Miss Musa Cox be appointed to that staff.

Tenders Awarded.

The Building Committee announced the awarding of contracts for steel lockers at the new Collegiate extension, the General Fireproofing Company's tender, $2,357.10, being accepted along with that of the Miller-Powell Company's $3,798.00 for electric fixtures and installation of same. The Property Committee reported advertising for tenders for painting and decorating to be done at the various schools during the holidays, the contract being awarded to Coleman Brothers, at $1,494.00.

The payment of numerous accounts was approved, following the reading of recommendations made by the Finance Committee.

Supervise Playgrounds.

The Supervision Committee of the Board of Education submitted a valuable recommendation, which will be acted upon, the suggestion embodied in its report being that for six weeks commencing July 9, the playgrounds of three of the Public Schools be supervised. Those appointed are J. Abraham, supervisor, and Kenneth Goheen, W. E. Yelland, Marjorie McDonald, Musa Cox, and Lahring Parsons, assistant supervisors.

CABINET RESIGNS.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, July 4.—(Canadian Press)—Premier Vukitchevitch handed the resignation of his entire Cabinet to King Alexander. The decision to resign was reached by the Ministry after consideration of a resolution adopted yesterday by the Radical and Democratic parties in favor of the formation of a broad Coalition Cabinet.

Eastern Canada Is Struck By Heat Wave High Temperatures Will Continue Today

TORONTO, July 4 (Canadian Press). — Eastern Canada is experiencing its first heat wave of the summer. The highest point the mercury touched yesterday was 86, in Montreal, and this morning Toronto registered 76.

It is probable the high temperatures will continue to-day in the Lower Lakes, Georgian Bay, and Ottawa Valley regions, with a general slackening of the temperature likely to-morrow.

TURKS STAY HOME FOR CENSUS MEN

By NEA Service.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 4—This city has just celebrated Stay-at-Home Week, under government orders. Wives didn't have to worry about their husbands going out at night; husbands didn't have to worry about getting to their jobs; children didn't go to school.

The only persons allowed at large were physicians, firemen, police, midwives, and 6,500 census takers. The latter's job was responsible for the enforced restriction; for the census men went from house to house and counted everybody in each one. When the task was finished bells were tolled and business resumed as usual.

GLASS OF BEER ONE TOO MANY

Manitoba Government Urges Motorists Not To Drink Brew It Sells.

AFFECTS JUDGMENT.

WINNIPEG Man., July 4.—"Don't collide with scientific facts! Two glasses of beer contain as much alcohol as one glass of distilled liquor. Scientific tests show that a car driver taking one drink of spirits does not react to danger as quickly as the one who has not imbibed!"

In "Safety First" Drive

This is not prohibition propaganda. It is official literature issued by the Government of Manitoba in a campaign of "safety first" on the highways. Since the so called "beer parlors" have been introduced in this province car drivers have killed and crippled a much larger percentage of pedestrians than for the same period last year when booze was not easily obtainable. Sixteen persons have been killed in Winnipeg alone and 225 injured so seriously as to require hospital treatment since Jan. 1. This is more than double the record of accidents of the same period last year.

In many of these cases police investigation show that that the drivers had "just a glass or two of beer—not drunk, of course not!"

Preaches Temperance

While the Manitoba government sells booze in the government stores all over the province, the same government maintains a highly paid civil servant to preach prohibition and the danger of indulgence. His title is "government agent for morals and temperance."

It is W. D. Bayley. He moves around the province delivering addresses on those subjects. He has charts showing the injury to the human system of alcoholic stimulants. If he were delivering political prohibition speeches he could not more effectively denounce the rum traffic.

And this is the anomaly—the government sells booze and part of the profits of the government-owned booze stores goes into the salary of the civil servant employed to show school children the evils of intoxication.

Both Flourishing

And the two ideas, as wide apart as the poles, seem to be flourishing but the government policy is based on the theory that, at least it will give ample warning to the coming generation of the evils of booze. Just now Bayley is busy getting out his chart for wide distribution among car drivers. It is a big card for us especially at the country fairs, giving scientific facts concerning the danger of driving a car after drinking even a single glass of beer— and it is easy to get beer in all cities and most villages. The hard stuff from the government stores—that is different. It can only be drunk legally at the home of the purchaser. To even have it unsealed in a car is punishable with a $300 fine in Manitoba. And that's that.

FIRE UNDERWRITERS FIND BRIGADE IS INEFFICIENT

Campbellford Town Council Receives Report of Fire Inspectors.

BY-LAWS PASSED.

Report Recommends Four Men and Chief On Permanent Force.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—All the councillors were present at the regular meeting last night, with the exception of R. H. Cole. Compared with some of the recent meetings, the session last night was brief. By 10.30 all the business had been attended to and the account and pay-sheets passed. Among the items which came up for discussion was the petition for the extension of the pavement north on Frant street and the matter of who should be responsible for the proper work being done at the town dump. Two citizens wished to have their names removed from the petition for the paving of Front street. His Worship advised the council that J. J. L. Hay had been paid $250 by the Globe Indemnity Company as settlement for the injuries he received some time ago when he fell into an open excavation in connection with the paving. The necessary by-laws financing the $25,000 extension to the original paving plan were passed, signed and sealed. Several points of interest were noted from the report of the inspector of the Fire Underwriters' Association, which caused some of the councillors to remark that the town was apparently expected to maintain a city fire department. There was also some informal discussion as to the advisability of carrying their own insurance. In order to deal with the case of McKelvie and McCook, a court of revision was named to sit 7.00 p.m., July 9th, at the clerk's office. The matter of the erection of a barn by William Hall contrary to the building by-laws of the town was discussed, but no immediate action taken.

Wants Name Removed

Before the council heard the minutes read, which required twenty-two minutes, Mrs. Hubble, Front street, was given the opportunity of addressing the members present. She wished to have her name removed from the petition to extend the paving north of Front street. She said she had been told she might do so before the petition was officially accepted. After hearing her case, the council advised Mrs. Hubble that the petition would not be dealt with at the present meeting, and that if her name were still on it when it were brought in, it would be investigated. She was assured that if the gentleman who had the petition had said that her name would be taken off, it would be done.

When the regular time came to address the council, Mr. Crosson was the first to speak. He reminded the council that they had given him permission to use a certain piece of land as a garden. He found that it had already been plowed and understood that it was planted. At any rate it was in such a condition as to be of no use to him and he merely wished to express his appreciation for the offer of the land. He felt sure that the council did not know that it was already being used by another person.

Mr. MacIntyre, paving engineer, asked for information regarding the depth of the Front street sewer. In order that it would be low enough to drain the west side cellars, he pointed out that it would have to go down another three feet. This was only an approximate estimate.

Wants Pay

James Parcels who, until the end of April of this year, has been employed to look after the town dump, asked whether or not the town intended to pay him for the work he had done during the last two months. Mayor Kingston pointed out that he had only been engaged for one year and that the time was up. Councillor Wilkinson thought it a matter for the road and bridge committee, but Councillor O'Sullivan reminder the other members that Chief Light had volunteered to tend to matters at the town dump. He had not been asked, but had volunteered to do so for certain reasons which he believed adequate. Reeve Bygott thought that the council should get a report from Light. They should know whethe ror not he had attended to this duty. He also thought that the chief should attend the regular council meetings. This was generally agreed upon. After

Sir George Wilkins Is Presented With Geographical Society Medal

NEW YORK, July 4 (Canadian Press). — Sir George Hubert Wilkins, trans-Atlantic flier, was yesterday presented with the first medal to be issued by the American Geographical Society under a bequest by Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, for "the encouragement of geographical research."

Sir George and Lieut. Carl B. E. Nielson, his co-pilot, were guests of the society at a luncheon attended by explorers, scientists, and men of letters.

The explorer attributed his success in large part to the support of the society, even during periods "of censure not only by the world, but by scientific men."

He said that he had hurried his Arctic trip so that he might turn his attention to the Antarctic where his interest, he revealed, has been centred from the first.

"Now that that part of the job is done," he said, "I can turn my attention to the South Polar seas and meteorological forecasting. Perhaps in a year from now I will be able to report favorably on those efforts."

"GOLD FINDER" ON TRAIL OF PIRATE

By NEA Service.

ANCON, Panama, July 4.—Pirate gold which legend says amounts to $50,000,000 is the subject of the latest quest of George Williams and his "scientific gold finder." His mysterious machine, the secrets of which he closely guards, is said to have uncovered several small finds in Central America.

The new expedition is heading for Cocos Island, where some of Sir Henry Morgan's treasure is supposed to have been buried. Williams holds a four-year treasure-hunting concession on certain portions of Panama and has been delving in the ruins of old Porto Bello.

INCREASE IN CITY FIRE LOSS

Total Loss To Date Is $56,319.92 From the 17 Destructive Fires.

INCREASE GENERAL.

Peterborough's fire loss shows an increase to date this year of $36,000 and an increase so far of $33,000 over the entire twelve months of last year. Fire Chief Gimblett explained this by saying, fires like many things travel in cycles, and this seems to be the year for an increase. This increase is not local as the report of the Ontario Fire Marshal shows that it is a general fact all over the province.

The largest fire during May was at Loew's Theatre in Toronto, which was damaged to the extent of $74,261.

The local report shows the total number of alarms so far this year is 231, with 17 destructive fires causing a loss of $56,319.92. By months this report the fires and losses have been:

Month	Alarms.	Fires.	Losses.
Jan.	31	2	$51,835.72
Feb.	33	1	100.00
March . ..	36	1	1,958.00
April	51	4	1,921.50
May	33	6	397.50
June	47	3	106.50

The number of fires for May, 1928, were 1,183 with a loss totalling $1,094,658, which shows an increase in the number and loss over last year by 332 fires and $673,843. The figures last year were 851 fires with a loss of $410,815.

A comparison of the first five months this year also shows a decided increase. Prof January to May 1928, there were 5,456 fires with a loss of $6,897,876, as compared with 4,892 fires and a loss of $4,327,719 in 1927. The increase for the first five months of the year is 564 fires and $2,570,157.

The four leading classes of buildings also showed an increase in both the number and the total fire loss when compared with last year. The number of fires in barns increased by 47 with an increased loss of $68,012; for dwellings increase of 420 and increased loss of $146,439; for stores, an increase of 37 in the number and $654,224 in the amount lost, and finally for factories there were 12 more destroyed this year with an increased loss of $654,950.

How Is This For Rice Lake?

While duck hunting last year a story is told of a couple of local sports who lost three decoys and though they scoured the lake for hours they were unable to locate them. This year with the opening of the fishing yesterday they again took up the hunt and after spending the day fishing, catching several nice pickerel they finally landed a lunge which was immediately prepared for the evening meal. Imagine the surprise of the fellow who prepared it when on opening the fish, not only did he find the three missing decoys but six others. Quite an ordinary sized fish, too, for these waters.

He is in the hospital, and had not gained consciousness at a late hour last evening.

Alderman Hamilton Thinks the Council Should Be Represented on Hospital Board

ASKS FOR $300,000.

B. F. Ackerman, Son and Company Claims $18,000 Damage From City.

The July meeting of the City Council proved to be the shortest session so far this year, lasting a little less than the hour. Only routine business was discussed and there was very little discussion over committee reports.

When the committee of the whole report was presented by Alderman McIntyre, Alderman Hamilton wanted to know if any arrangement had been made with the Hospital Board whereby the city would have a representative on that body. Alderman Hamilton maintained that the city, when asked to pass a by-law asking the qualified electors for $300,000, the money to be raised by means of debentures, that the people's representatives in the council should have some say on the hospital board. "There is also talk of taking the provincial laboratory up there. I don't think this should be passed until these questions are settled," declared Alderman Hamilton.

Alderman Greene could not see why the Board would object to the city having a representative.

The Mayor explained that this was a matter to be settled and that legislation would probably have to be sought before the city could be represented.

Alderman Stocker: "I have heard that such legislation would not be looked upon very favorably."

Alderman Macdonald: "The people vote the money and the council should be represented. All the Protestant churches have members on the board.

On motion of Aldermen McIntyre and Greene, the committee report carried with Alderman Hamilton dissenting.

By-laws 2793 and 2794 were passed, authorizing the building of sidewalks and the paving of Park and Water streets.

Eating house licenses were granted to L.O.L. No. 80, George Dormer, C. Elliott, A. M. Ward, H. J. Wyatt, Mark Street Ladies' Aid, George Street Ladies' Aid, Norman Dunbarr, Norman Payne, H. J. Boyle, and F. Marino. Some of these will be only for the 12th of July celebrations. Alderman Phelan, the chairman, was granted authority to deal with any other special requests for licenses for that day.

Alderman Cotton asked if Park street from Charlotte south could not be paved this year, as he believed the drains had been laid. Most of the aldermen thought that the city had done enough paving this year and this street would be done next year. Alderman Cotton then asked that the street car tracks be removed on that street, and Alderman Macdonald wanted them removed from Monaghan road, but Alderman Stocker and City Engineer Parsons could not see where the money would be coming from.

Grappling hooks will be purchased for the fire and police departments, and several will be left at the bathing beaches.

Mayor Denne and City Engineer Parsons were given authority to act in regards to allowing Harris-Boddy to erect signs at Downer's Corners. Mayor Denne was not in favor of the erections of signs on the roads, especially at corners.

Alderman Ackerman announced that the contract had been let to redecorate the city buildings and the Legion's decoration days.

Mayor reminded the members of the Notice was received of a claim for $18,000 against the city from the B. F. Ackerman, Son and Company for damage done this spring by the water in their factory.

BIG CONTRACT AWARDED TO LOCAL FIRM

Morrow and Beatty Will Build Dam and Power House at Var Falls.

COST-PLUS BASIS.

Work is Awarded to Firm at Urgent Request of Dominion Government.

TORONTO, July 4—Consistent with the policy of developing the natural resources of the province to the fullest possible extent, Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, announced yesterday that the Government would proceed immediately with construction of a storage dam and power house at Var Falls on the Lac Suel-Winnipeg River system.

Legislation providing for carrying out the undertaking has been passed by the Legislature, and Dominion Government, which is paying three-fifths of the cost of construction. Ontario bears the entire cost of the power house, which is a provincial project as part of the dam, and is expected to provide for the future the Red, Woman and Narrow lakes development, as well as power for any pulp and paper manufacturing that might take place. Mr. Finlayson believes it also will provide a surplus of power which can be used in Kenora.

Haste is Essential

Contract for construction has been let to Morrow and Beatty, Limited, of Peterborough, on a cost plus basis. "This firm were given the work at the urgent request of the Dominion and Manitoba Governments as they were the only people who could handle it on short notice," said Mr. Finlayson. "Speed was essential, as Manitoba is anxious to have water storage by fall."

All the the engineer details will be in charge of the engineers of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Commenting upon the fact that Ontario pays only two-fifths of the costs, Mr. Finlayson states that this is in proportion to the amount of power to be alloted to Ontario. The Dominion Government pays all the interest charges until the plant is producing power.

NEW COMMISSIONER.

Report Says Chancellor Will Represent Britain in Palestine.

LONDON, July 4 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Manchester Guardian says to-day that it is reported Col. Sir John Robert Chancellor, Governor of Southern Rhodesia since 1923, will be appointed High Commissioner for Br... in Palestine. The present High Commissioner, Lord Plumer, is retiring because of a dispute over whether the expenses of the trans-Jordania force should be borne by the Imperial Government or Palestine.

If this is correct, the Guardian continues, it means that the interesting plan for the appointment of General Jan Smuts, of South Africa, has failed. An offer was made to General Smuts by the Government some weeks ago, and it was understood the former South African Premier had accepted it.

THE WEATHER

The thunderstorm which passed over Peterborough yesterday was a tame affair compared with the deluge in Toronto and other places. The rain here amounted to .27. In Toronto it was .97, and the lightning did considerable damage and caused several fatalities. Highest temperature here yesterday, 83 degrees. Lowest last night, 62 degrees. Little change in the immediate future.—W.P.

Labor Claims Viscount Byng Is Too Old To Be Head of Metropolitan Police Force

LONDON, July 4 (Canadian Press Cable). — The impression is growing here that Viscount Byng will withdraw his acceptance of the Commissionership of the Metropolitan Police, if the present criticism of his appointment in the press and in political circles continues. Objections to his assumption of the post are that he is too advanced in years for the arduous position in which he has had no experience, and on these grounds members of the House of Commons, particularly the Labor members, and a number of newspapers are criticizing his appointment.

Havelock Man Is Injured in Electrical Storm

Lightning Bolt Kills Two Bridge Workmen Several Are Injured

RANDALL WOOD, AGED 18, OF HAVELOCK, IS AT PRESENT IN THE WESTERN HOSPITAL

Leo McAuliffe, of Peterborough, and Harry Johnston, of Havelock, Are Among Those Momentarily Paralyzed—Latter Has Been Taken to Hospital.

TORONTO, July 4.—Lightning dealt death to two men in a group of 33 workmen huddled in a small shack at the Canadian Pacific Railway Bridge just east of Donlands Station yesterday afternoon. Most of the others were thrown to the ground or tossed against the walls of the shanty, but only one received injuries which necessitated his removal to a hospital.

The dead in the Leaside tragedy are: Fred L. Campbell of Trenton, married, and Dale Newton Scott of Ardendale, married. Randall Wood of Havelock, unconscious from the shock, was taken to the Western Hospital, where he recovered later.

The victim in the Greenwood tragedy was Noel Howe, aged 17, of 212 Coleridge Avenue, East York. The injured man is John Murray, aged 52, Howe's employer, 1266 Danforth Avenue.

Murray has had five previous narrow escapes from death. Howe had a brother in the hospital and another a cripple as a result of recent accidents.

Dash For Shelter

When the storm broke, shortly before 4 o'clock, the workmen rebuilding the bridge on the C.P.R., a few hundred yards from the Fleming farm on the Don Mills Road, dashed for shelter. Thirty-three of them crowded into the little shanty used for storing tools, and in which there had been installed a hand telephone.

The wires leading to the instrument, which, according to one man, had not been connected, had been brought in over the doorway and ran down the wall on one side. The wires were hooked up with the telegraph wires outside. All the men were seated along planks, with the exception of Dale Scott, who was standing just inside the door. A few minutes after four there was a blinding flash, and most of the men were sprawling on the floor, two of them never to rise again. It is thought that the lightning followed the telephone wire. A splintered but unscarred scantling at one side of the doorway was the only mark the bolt from the skies had left on the shanty.

Many Are Stunned

Practically all the men were stunned and and many of them had arms and legs momentarily paralyzed. Dale Scott fell out the doorway and Fred Campbell collapsed in a heap, both instantly killed. It was thought at first that Harold A. Day of Toronto, the brakeman on the work train, was also dead, but he came around after his companions had worked over him for a few minutes.

Day, Randall, Wood and several others who suffered the greatest shock along with the two who were killed were all on the side of the shack near the doorway, and beneath the telephone wire. Michael Leddy of 3083A Dundas street West, the conductor on the work train; Leo McAuliffe of Peterborough, and Harry Johnson of Hovelock, were all momentarily paralyzed. Johnson continued to complain of numbness in his arm some hours afterward, and he too was taken the the Western Hospital for examination.

The assistant engineer in charge of construction, S. E. M. Firth of 26 Monteith street, Toronto, and two foremen, C. Weymark, and Robert McMillan, both of Havelock, were in the shanty with the men when the lightning struck.

Emigration Is Topic of Discussion At Commonwealth Labor Conference

LONDON, July 4 (Canadian Press Cable). — Emigration was the principal topic of a discussion at the Commonwealth Labor Conference yesterday, when Tom Moore, of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, and Mr. Walker, of the Australian labor organizations, put forth the viewpoints of their supporters. The Dominion Laborites wanted to protect their own members as well as the immigrants themselves, they said.

It was recommended that contract labor be prohibited in cases where it was not obtained through the Government employment services in Canada in collaboration with employment exchanges in Britain. All bonuses to private labor agencies should be abolished, it was further urged, and an advisory board of emigration should be established on which labor would be fully represented.

Several British delegates expressed pleasure in a system permitting free movement about the countries of the Empire in the same way that freedom of trade within the Empire was demanded.

Tom Moore supported the proposal for reciprocity in social insurance schemes, and asked the Labor Party to assist the Canadian Laborites to obtain an agreement with the British Government to extend reciprocity benefits under the Canadian Workmen's Compensation Act to workers of both nations.

Ex-Bank Employee Wanted For Theft

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Local police, in conjunction with United States officials, are putting forth every effort to locate W. D. Bennett, cashier of the Standard Bank of Canada, Ottawa, who, with William Loukes, held in custody here, is wanted for the alleged theft of $37,000 from the bank.

During the past few days a theory that Bennett may have been the victim of foul play has been held by the authorities.

Bennett was traced to Medicine Hat where he is believed to have met Loukes, whose trail from that point until he reached Vancouver was esay to follow, while that of Bennett was completely lost.

On the person of Loukes and in a grip said to have been checked through to this city from Calgary by him, currency to the extent of $3,000 was found, the arrested man claiming that Bennett gave him the money.

MADOC W. I. HAS MEETING

PROGRAM GIVEN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, July 4.—The June meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. C. N. Whytock on Thursday afternoon, June 28th, with an excellent attendance of 35, Mrs. E. M. Tumulty presiding.

The usual opening exercises were followed by the report of the finances of the convention dinner. Receipts were $49.75, donation of $1.00, and expenses of $30.44, leaving a balance of $20.11. On motion of Mrs. E. West and Mrs. W. Whytock, ten dollars of this balance was forwarded to the district.

A report of the class for the girls' judging competition was given and showed a good class in attendance. Miss Edith Elliott as instructor.

Miss Ruby Nicol gave a humorous reading, entitled "The Back Seat Wedding Guest," after which Miss A. Sinclair gave a very interesting and instructive address on child welfare, describing the child welfare exhibit she had visited in New York, and going on to deal with Canada's work in the same line, and the work that still remains to be done in that line. She also dealt briefly with dental inspection and pre-natal care, stressing the work that can be done in simple lines to prevent maternal mortality.

Mrs. Harrison spoke briefly regarding the excellent work in these lines being done by the Coe Hill and Bancroft outpost hospitals, and the need for all institutes to support these northern hospitals.

Excellent music was furnished by the girls for this meeting. Piano solos by Miss M. Robertson and Miss L. West; also a piano duet by Misses Marion Robertson and Gwen Scrutton.

Miss E. Elliott, coach of the Girls' Class, was then introduced and told briefly of the work attempted by the girls' judging competitions, and reported a splendid class for Madoc of 24 girls.

Mrs. Caskey moved, seconded by Mrs. E. West, a very hearty vote of thanks to all who took part in the day's program and made this one of our most interesting meetings. This was heartily accorded.

School Picnic.

The senior class of Madoc Public School enjoyed a well-deserved outing and picnic at Crowe Lake, Marmora, on July 2, under the auspices of Mr. J. B. Hough, principal, and some of the parents of the pupils.

Swimming, baseball, and again swimming provided an enjoyable program, and the picnic dinner and supper with all the usual picnic refreshments supplied all that could be desired. Ideal weather gave an excellent opportunity for enjoying the day at Marmora's noted summer resort.

MILLBROOK, July 4. — The western section of Cobourg Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, met for its third annual meeting in the Roseneath United Church on Wednesday, June 28. with morning and afternoon sessions.

Welcome — 4 present, membership 33, will reach allocation.

Wicklow — 4 present: through a mistake wrong report was brought to the meeting. The other Auxiliaries were not represented at the time of the roll-call.

Circles — Trinity, Cobourg, 1 present, membership 70, raised $230.97, not including money for local expenses and material for supply work. This was the only Circle reporting at the convention.

Centreton Band, 25 members, live interest, good financial outlook. Cobourg, Trinity 27 members, expects to exceed allocation. "Sunbeams," Grafton, 12 members, with boys, and interested and active as girls. "Victor" Band, Plainville, 20 members, half of allocation raised. Port Hope lacks a leader for its Band, but expects to have work going well with good report by end of the year. Gore's Landing, no report presented, but encouraging outlook mentioned. MECHANIC IS INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—Because a one-ton truck suddenly ran riot in the Meyers' Garage, Front street, about two-thirty yesterday afternoon, Gordon Bertrand, twenty-five year old garage man is suffering from complicated injuries to his head the extent of which has not yet been determined.

The truck which had been in for repairs was standing facing a doorway. Bertrand, it appears, was about to crank it. Suddenly the truck leaped ahead, upsetting Bertrand and in such a manner that the rear wheel went over his head. The event happened so quickly that a second mechanic who was standing near by could not stop the truck till Bertrand had been injured. He immediately bent over the stricken man and thought him dead. Two doctors were on the scene in record time and were able to bring Bertrand back to consciousness, and later to remove him to his home. At the present time, the doctors are unable to make a definite statement as to the extent of the injuries, but are keeping the injured man under close observation.

The other employees of the garage are unable to say exactly how the accident happened. Bertrand went around apparently to crank the truck. They believe that it slipped into gear and as soon as it was cranked, leaped forward, upsetting Bertrand who would not be expecting such an occurrence. They express no small amount of relief that the accident was not immediately fatal as they had at first feared.

passed, by any rural school in Ontario.

This of itself will prove more than any mere words could do, that we have appreciated your service, as teacher, and other community work very much. Further words are unnecessary but as a slight token of our appreciation we ask you to accept this parasol. We would not have you accept this gift, as a matter of dollars and cents, but that it may ever be a remembrance of the many happy years we have been together. In closing we wish you every success and hope that your years may be as maple leaves, more beautiful as they fade.

Signed on behalf of S.S. No. 4, Dummer: Mrs. David Payne, Mrs. Henry Little, Mrs. George Parsons.

Miss Sage, although completely taken by surprise, thanked them for their beautiful gift and then all sang, "For she's a jolly good fellow." Lunch was served to all.

SCHOOL PUPILS HONOR TEACHER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 4.— On Friday afternoon, June 29th, the parents and friends of the pupils and teacher, Miss Helen Sanderson, were entertained in the school.

Owing to the inclement condition of the weather a number of the pupils and parents were unable to attend the picnic, which the teacher had planned to give them the best ever in the way of a "bumper" picnic had to be postponed to some future date owing to the continued rain.

However, a very pleasant afternoon was spent indoors, during the early part of the afternoon and the children entered heartily into indoor amusements, while the older folk enjoyed a social chat.

Dainty refreshments were served by the teacher, assisted by her sister, Miss Mary Sanderson and some of the older pupils, consisting of sandwiches and lemonade, cake and ice cream, after which an important event of special interest to the children took place, when the pupils called on Miss Sanderson and presented her with a Pyrex pie plate, set in a silver case.

The presentation was made by Emma Fee, while Grace Best read the following address:

Miss Helen Sanderson,

Dear Teacher—We, the pupils of S. S. No. 2, Cavan, feel that we could not allow you to depart from our midst without at least briefly expressing our appreciation of your splendid work as our teacher for the past two years. During that time we have often caused you much annoyance but your patience and kind ways have helped us over all our difficulties and troubles. We hope you will try to remember us as the "dear little, good little kiddies" we all want to be and we ask you to accept this gift as a very slight token of the great esteem in which we regard you. Signed on behalf of the school,

Emma Fee,
Verna Gardiner.
Dorothy Morden,

Miss Sanderson, although taken by complete surprise, thanked the pupils feelingly, in a neat speech, in which she said she would ever remember the pupils of Mount Pleasant and at the conclusion stated that on some future date, probably in July, the picnic would be held at her home near Fairmount.

Miss Sanderson then distributed prizes to the pupils who came first in the different contests held for the past year.

For attendance, Dorothy Morden received first prize for attending school every day throughout the year, while Grace Best, missing only two days, received second prize, and Stanley Downer was awarded third prize, he having missed three days during the year.

For hygiene—1st prize Verna Gardiner and Grace Best.

For diligence in staying by the seven rules set by the teacher, for which marks were given: 1st, cleaning their teeth every morning; 2nd, eating of raw fruit every day; 3rd, drink four glasses of water every day; 4th, drink at least one glass of milk a day; 5th, eating of some one kind of vegetable every day; 6th, playing outdoors; 7th, sleeping with open windows.

PASTOR HOLDS INITIAL SERVICES

Rev. W. W. Jones Occupies Pulpit of United Church on Millbrook Charge.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 4.— The pastoral relationship of Rev. Wesley W. Jones, B.A., B.D., so far as public worship is concerned, was initiated on Sunday, July 1, when he occupied the pulpit of the United church on the Millbrook charge morning and evening, and at the Fallis Line appointment in the afternoon. There were good congregation at all three services.

Addressing his people for the first time, at morning worship, the pastor referred to the fact that he is a 'Millbrook boy,' and through the years of his ministry, while he has served on a number of circuits, 'yet my permanent address has always been Millbrook.' My earnest expectation and prayer is that, under the blessing of God, mutual helpfulness and growth in grace may be the outcome of this new arrangement."

Expressing his delight at finding a Young Worshippers' League as a flourishing organization in the church, Mr. Jones devoted a brief time to telling a story to its members, emphasizing especially the thought: "Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against Thee."

The text was from John 3:31, 'He that cometh from above is above all," the main thought of the discourse the exaltation of Christ. "A full understanding of Christ is beyond finite intellects, but beginning reverently at his feet we may know enough to satisfy our heart's longings, and to assure our present future salvation."

"If you want to find out about a man, ask about his work; judged by this standard, what of Jesus Christ? In comparison with Him all other great men of history dwarf into insignificance. From the human standpoint Jesus has no equal. He burst through the barriers of lowly birth; how poor would art be were all the pictures of which He has been the subject withdrawn; He was not an author, yet more pages have been written about Him ,and He has been translated into more lives, and has had more transforming influence upon these than any other."

"From the character point of view, Jesus is above all; truth, purity, honesty, knowledge, righteousness, justice, generosity, mercy, love, sympathy ,and sacrifice—these form a perfect role, seamless throughout, surrounding Him."

Referring to the fact that the coming of Christ was to reveal the Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, and knowledge of the Kingdom of God, the speaker asked: 'Why did the Father give up so high a standard?', adding the word: "To reveal in us our inadequacy without His grace, and to show us, through Christ strengthening us, we may grow up into Him ,our living head in all things."

NEW PASTOR IS INDUCTED AT WARKWORTH

LARGE CONGREGATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Will German Injured When Thrown From Buggy.

WARKWORTH, July 4 — A large congregation attended the induction service in St. Paul's Church on Thursday evening when Rev. F. H. Howard was inducted to the pastoral charge of Dartford and Warkworth United Churches. The service was in charge of Rev. J. S. I. SERVING OUR READERS.

While self-praise is seldom justifiable, The Examiner cannot help feeling elated over the feat accomplished yesterday in being able to publish the complete results of the examinations in Peterborough's Public Schools, although the list did not reach this office until noon.

Ordinarily in the congestion of copy that necessarily develops as the result of a Monday holiday the handling of such a mass of names in time for publication Tuesday would have been regarded as an impossible operation.

Realizing, however, that the pupils of the city schools and their friends and parents were eager to have this information at the earliest possible moment, The Examiner made special efforts to print the entire list yesterday, and succeeded, thanks to excellent co-operation by the mechanical department.

We are glad to have been able to provide this service for our readers, in spite of the fact that it added appreciably to the usual after-holiday rush.

ENFORCING THE CONTROL ACT.

According to press reports, it is the intention of the Ontario Government to organize a second "flying squad" of provincial officers to enforce the Liquor Control Act.

Undoubtedly the Government has a responsibility in regard to this measure that cannot be shaken off.

In districts where there are abuses of the Control Act and where the municipal police are unable or unwilling to take action, the Government, which is responsible for putting this measure on the statute books, must be ready to take steps to enforce the law.

The onus cannot altogether be placed upon the municipalities, and certainly whenever the conditions are such as to plainly indicate that sections of the Act are being flouted the provincial administration has a plain duty before it that should be promptly met and efficiently discharged.

Whether this is to be done by flying squads of provincial police or in some other way is merely a matter of detail that the authorities may decide for themselves.

The main thing is that the law must be enforced effectively and impartially.

FRENCH IN SCHOOLS.

In his annual report, Premier Ferguson, as Minister of Education, refers to the language question, as regards French and English instruction in the schools of the Province, says the Hamilton Spectator. He states the policy of the department to be one "of sympathetic and helpful advice and supervision and efficient teaching," rather than the rigid enforcement of inflexible rules. The action of the Premier in respect of the education of French-Canadian resident of this Province has done more to cement the good feeling between Quebec and Ontario than any other development in recent years. A policy of "sympathetic and helpful advice" is bound to succeed, under any circumstances, and its success, so far, is not surprising. There is a different sentiment in both Provinces regarding the language question. French-Canadians are showing a real desire to learn English, and there is a much keener interest on the part of English-speaking Canadians in learning French. Not only school teachers but many other classes of citizens enroll themselves for the summer courses in the Quebec schools, where French is taught in the only satisfactory way it can be taught—by natives who know the difficulties of grammar and pronunciation likely to be experienced by English-speaking people, and who are therefore in a position to impart a practical knowledge of their mother tongue. It would be all to the benefit of Canadians and to the Dominion if a full realization and appreciation of the advantages of bilingualism should become general.

THE POWER REPORT.

The analysis of some features of the annual report of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission made by R. R. Hall, K.C., in last evening's Examiner has given the people of Peterborough something over which to think.

The charge of $28,036.85 made against Peterborough as this city's share of the loss of revenue sustained by furnishing power at much lower rates to "private customers and companies" in other cities needs to be explained.

It is one of many features in connection with Hydro activities that the people know too little about, and upon which the Hydro shows little inclination to throw light.

There is no reason why power-users and the public generally should not be furnished with more concrete information in regard to items of this kind, which are a jolt to citizens who are learning of them for the first time through Mr. Hall's summary of some portions of the report.

That summary has created much interest, as doubtless, too, has Mr. Hall's declaration that a private syndicate is willing to engage in developing and selling power to the people of Peterborough on such terms as to effect an annual saving to local citizens sufficient to pay the interest on over a million dollars every year.

ROTARY'S NEW LEADER.

The election of W. R. Morris as president of the local Rotary Club is a matter upon which both the Rotarians themselves and the new chairman are to be congratulated.

Mr. Morris has excellent qualifications for the important office to which he has been elected, and under his guidance the local Rotary Club should continue its excellent record of service set up under a chain of splendid presidents.

The description "important office" is used advisedly.

The Rotary organization is something more than a luncheon club; it contributes a great deal of community service, and is therefore a semi-public body in whose activities citizens generally are interested.

That this community service should be continued and expanded was a feature of the keynote speech made by President Morris yesterday, in which he urged Rotarians to get behind and support the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce in every movement for civic betterment.

There is a very real work to be done in that direction by a body of sixty business and professional men, such as make up the membership of the local Rotary Club, and because of that fact and in view of other Rotary efforts to make Peterborough a happier city, the election of a new president is a matter of much public interest.

CONVENTION SPEECHES.

The tradition that writing men do not make good talkers received a bad black eye at the Houston Democratic Convention. Looking about for somebody to lift up their hearts and strengthen their arms to smite the enemy, the Democrats went into the sanctum of the New York World and drafted Claude G. Bowers, editorial writer, and mighty man with the typewriter. Reading Mr. Bowers' keynote response, sent over the radio to tens of millions Tuesday night, and read by more tens of millions yesterday, we judge that the Democracy made no mistake. For Mr. Bowers' oration was of the ringing, slashing, type of speech that reaches down into the earth and up into high heaven and that leaves the enemy in degraded gore before the eyes of his delighted antagonists.

We know right well what Mr. Bowers did. Joseph Pulitzer, who founded the World, used to say that no editorial writer was worth his salt who didn't see something in the paper each morning that "made him damned mad." They've been writing that way on the World ever since; and that is the way Bowers wrote his speech. He just sat down at his typewriter, summoned up all the real and fancied iniquities of the Republicans, Fall, Daugherty, the oil scandals and all, worked himself into a passion, and just wrote, a long, slashing editorial of the sort that George Brown used to write in the Toronto Globe years and years ago. And, taking it all in all, it was a real, thundering editorial, the kind, we fancy, that would please Richard Cartwright, or better still, Arthur Meighen.

There were no such things as good Republicans in Mr. Bowers' dictionary. "Mythical prosperity, mythical measures, mythical men," he declaimed—or wrote—; and he went on to denounce "privilege and pillage," the "aristocracy of money" and the "tragedy of the farms." And who among us could—even Mr. W. T. R. Preston in his heyday—better this:

"From the moment of the election of 1920 there was a mobilization of the Black Horse Cavalry of privilege and pillage and it cantered down Pennsylvania avenue, up and down from one end to the other. Strange creatures, new to the capital, put in an appearance. Desk room was found for one of these in the Department of Justice. The Best Minds established a temple of the new patriotism in the Little Green House on K. street.

"Men who were the very symbols of privilege, whose fortunes had been made on the favors of the Government, were put in possession of the instrumentalities of the State. Acting on the Hamiltonian theory that Governments are strong in proportion as they are made profitable to the powerful, the foremost of these was placed in a strategic public station that he might personally supervise the delivery of the goods. The representatives of special interest hastened to the capital with their receipts for campaign contributions, to be given a key to the Treasury and a guest card at the patriotic club on K. street, where 'there was a sound of revelry by night.' Within five months the conditions in Washington had become a scandal and a stench. The reign of privilege and pillage had begun."

When Mr. Bowers finished this passage, the "Unterrified Democracy," we are told, rose up as one man and cheered themselves hoarse. Think what must have happened when Mr. Bowers gave them this:

"We have seen the money appropriated for the care of the sick and wounded soldiers squandered on the pleasures of a drunken libertine. We have seen the nation's oil reserves, set aside by the prescience of Roosevelt and sacredly guarded by the honesty and wisdom of Wilson and Daniels, bartered away by a member of the Cabinet for a bribe in a little black bag."

And to think that a few weeks hence no one in the United States will know or remember what Mr. Bowers said! For that is the common fate of the convention oration. We have had many of them in Canada, but is there a Canadian alive who can remember a single thought ever phrased by anybody at a party convention? Mr. Mackenzie King probably owes his leadership of the Liberal party to his oration at the Liberal Convention of 1919. Listening to it, with its rounded periods, its sonorous eloquence, and its impassioned peroration, it was a moving thing; but who to-day knows what it was all about, or would bother to go back and read it? And so with the speeches at Winnipeg last year. What, after all, did Mr. Bennett say there? What did anybody else say—that matters now?

But party conventions have always wanted their keynote speeches—and always will. They are the highlights of such gatherings. Mostly they are humbug, or what Americans call the bunk; but the old warriors, who love to make themselves believe for an hour or so that the other party is made up of rogues and rascals, just dote upon hearing them. Democracy, in some respects, is both an amusing and fearful thing.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Now that Canada's former Governor-General is to head Scotland Yard, the famous force will doubtless be known as the Byng Boys.

Up to the present no striking originality in the form of fish stories has been detected.

Thousands of United States visitors are celebrating Independence Day in Canada to-day, and apparently many of them appreciate the Canadian brand of liberty.

Viscount Byng will control 20,000 men at Scotland Yard. But that should not worry a soldier who has controlled a whole army corps in war time.

The accident record over the holiday week-end indicates that sane and safe driving must have been the general rule. The traffic was the heaviest on record, but, fortunately, the fatalities did not keep pace with the increase in the number of cars moving.

On your trips into the country don't waste your time trying to figure out how much of a snake is body and how much tail.—Sault Daily Star.

(Address inquiries to The Question Box.)

All-Night Parking.

B.B—Q. Can anyone stop me from parking my car on the street in front of my house all night if I wish to do so?

A.—Certainly. A city by-law says this must not be done, and the police can enforce the by-law. The street is common property, and may not be claimed by any one person.

A Snaffle Bit.

A.H—Q. What is a snaffle bit?

A.—A bit joined in the centre and usually provided with cheek pieces to prevent the reins going into the horse's mouth.

Atavism.

W.C.—Q. What does "atavism" mean?

A.—From atavus, father of a great-great-grandfather. It is a term used in biology. It expresses the occurrence in an organism of some feature or structure not usually present in the existing generation of that species, but suggesting reversion to a type presenting some former generations. The occurrence, for instance, of an extra premola tooth in a horse is of this nature.

University Teachers.

F.R.—Q. How many teachers are there in Toronto an Montreal Universities?

A.—University of Toronto, 532 men, 51 women; University of Montreal, 681 men, 196 women.

La Boisselle.

A.—Yes, but not a Canadian battle. Only detached Canadian troops participated (July 1-13, 1916).

THE NEXT ELECTION

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir—If religious communities only knew half as much about this world as they say they do about the next what a power for good they would be. Meanwhile the struggle between private ownership and government ownership (ownership by the people through their government) is nearing a trial of strength. The next general election for Canada will be fought for a huge stake, viz all the money (capital) in the country. Private enterprise got the capital together. Whether in large sums or small, in individual loans or company loans the capital of this country was amassed by private enterprise and put into undertakings of various kinds. Socialism (ownership and operation of everything of the state which would be political partisanship and crookedness at its worst) is the issue. Who is going to own the savings of the people?—the people who save them or the people who did not? That is the question at the the next election.

OBSERVER

A Thought

REAL SUCCESS

Life is not so complex as we sometimes think it to be. True, the activities of man are interwoven and tangled enough, but the fundamental principles which govern, or which ought to govern these activities are not so many nor so difficult to learn. One knows that one should be honest. That isn't difficult either to know or to do so.

One knows that one should work faithfully whether for himself or others. That isn't hard to comprehend or practice. One should be kind and generous. Nothing very recondite or laborious about that. One should not be miserly yet he should be frugal. Surely understanding this requires no mighty brain nor does practicing it demand superhuman power.

One should be ambitious, both in spirit and activity. Most of us can comprehend that and all of us can work at it. None of these things are difficult to know and practice, yet they are the fundamentals upon which all genuine greatness, all genuine worth, all definite and real success are built.

Show me a man who is honest, industrious, kind and generous, frugal and ambitious and I will show you one who will make a real success out of his life. He may not pile up great wealth but he will be well loved and his life will be counted a blessing.

THE MARKETS

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 3 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday was slow and little business was transacted.

A feature of the domestic grain trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for oats, and prices were reduced two to three cents per bushel. The demand was of a limited character. On the other hand the market for corn was stronger and prices were two cents per bushel higher. American No. 2 commercial yellow corn sold at $1.15, and Argentine corn at $1.12 per bushel, ex-store.

Extreme dullness marked the trade in Spring and Winter grades of flour, but prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in all lines of millfeed with local buyers and values were steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats continued limited and prices were unchanged.

A feature of the butter trade was the strong undertone and the prices scored another advance of ¼c per lb. which was attributed to the smaller offerings. There was a steady demand, but the volume of business was not large, the bulk of the sales being in broken lots to fill immediate requirements. The receipts were 716 packages.

On the local curb market producers offered 2,500 packages of creamery butter of which No. 1 pasteurized was settled for at 36½c per lb. delivered here.

In sympathy with the higher prices paid at the country boards at the close of last week a stronger feeling prevailed in the local market, and prices were advanced ½c per lb. There was a fairly good demand from English importers at an advance in prices of 15 to 25 per cwt and a very fair volume of business was accomplished, the sales being estimated at between 10,000 to 12,000 boxes for two days. In addition to the above there was trading on spot. The receipts were 6,380 boxes.

The offerings of cheese from producers on the curb market amounted to 3,000 boxes of Eastern grades, of which No. 1 white and colored were settled for at 21½c per lb delivered here.

There was no further change in the condition of the local situation, prices being steady at the advance noted, but owing to the very warm weather that has prevailed buyers have not been disposed to operate freely, and in consequence the demand was principally for small lots to meet immediate wants, with the result that the volume of business was somewhat limited. The receipts were 1,372 cases.

A steady trade was done in potatoes and as supplies available on spot were quite ample to meet all requirements prices showed no change. The demand was for odd cars to meet immediate wants and sales of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at 85c to 90c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 80c per bag of 90 lbs in bulk, ex-track. The volume of business in new crop American potatoes was fully up to the average and prices were unchanged at $4 per barrel for No. 1 grade and at $2.75 per barrel for No. 2 grade, ex-store.

The market for imported beans was quiet, but as the offerings were small prices were maintained with car lots of choice white hand-picked selling at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

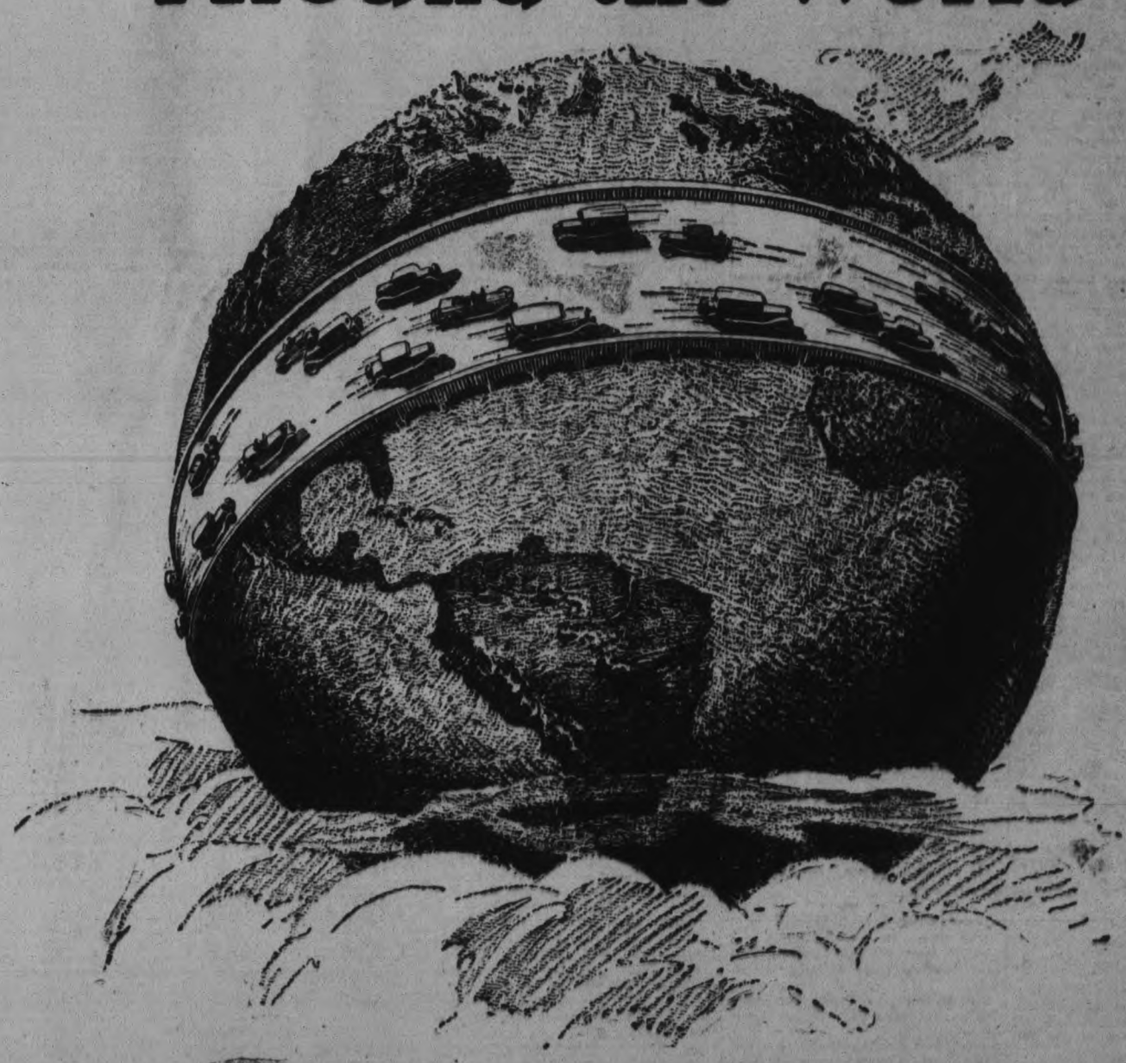
125 Times Around the World



IN pursuing its policy of consistent progress—in its continual search for new ideas . . . in its constant development of better cars . . . General Motors not only maintains its great International Research Laboratories and hundreds of skilled engineers, but also operates the first, largest and most completely equipped automobile proving ground in the world.

Here, on the vast fourteen-hundred-acre tract of the General Motors International Proving Ground, every type of road is duplicated, every condition of driving is reproduced. Here all makes of General Motors cars are constantly being subjected to the most searching tests. Here every principle developed by General Motors engineers is put to proof . . . every detail of each test car's performance carefully and closely checked. Here years of normal use are crowded into a few months of continuous, gruelling operation. A typical example is offered by Chevrolet. Since the opening of the General Motors Proving Ground, Chevrolet cars alone have piled up over three million miles of testing . . . a distance equal to 125 times around the world.

In the countless millions of miles that General Motors cars have covered on the General Motors Proving Ground, there has been one great purpose kept in view . . . to improve, by constant testing, the quality and worth of every General Motors product.

Every Canadian buyer of a General Motors car gets a car built in Canada by Canadians to meet Canadian conditions of road and climate . . . a better car and a greater value because General Motors uses so freely and unsparingly its unequalled facilities for testing and research . . .

With better General Motors cars at the end of the journey, millions of miles is not too far to go.

TELLS KIWANIS CLUB ABOUT ECONOMIC ASPECTS OF SCHEME

MANY FACTORS.

Following up the report in Friday's issue, wherein Professor Goforth of McGill University had related to Peterborough Kiwanians the relation of the Trent Waterways to the proposed St. Lawrence development project, this second division of his address, here published, deals with the national and economic aspects of the St. Lawrence development as investigated and unanimously voted upon by various Federal commissions.

During his address before the local Kiwanians, Professor Goforth said:

The progress of Canada has not been marked by the patient philosophy of Aesop's frog which waited for the fly to enter its mouth, but by a vigorous series of great forward steps. Ambition has combined with intelligent optimism to bridge her physical barriers, and to transform such natural obstacles as her waterfalls and rapids into the motive energy of her industrial life. It can hardly be questioned that the St. Lawrence deep-waterway project is such a potential forward step. Not even the Pacific Railroad in embryo received such exhaustive study and expert scrutiny as has been lavished upon this greatest of current national problems. The dream of providing a great interior civilization of 45,000,000 people, covering half a continent, with a more efficient artery of communication to the markets of the world, has begun to assume tangible form. Its engineering feasibility is definitely established. Substantial agreement already exists between the two governments concerned on all major issues involved. The enormous electrical by-product of the waterway is nearly four-fifths Canadian. Our share, amounting to nearly 4,000,000 h.p., is fully conceded by the United States, as shown clearly in the recently tabled correspondence between our Prime Minister and Secretary Kellogg. It now remains for the people of Canada to examine closely the various factors of national interest involved in this project, and to express an intelligent opinion thereon. Inordinate haste and immature decisions based upon a brief and superficial study are certainly to be avoided. At the same time public apathy and indifference, or unreasoning opposition and indefinite procrastination may be equally harmful. It is for this reason that the following factors in the problem are set forth, in the light of recent study and investigation, in the hope that they may prove useful in the formation of sound and constructive conclusions.

(1) The Navigation Factor. It is not generally realized that, but for the important section between Prescott and Montreal, the St. Lawrence deep waterway is already almost an established fact. Other restricted navigable sections such as the St. Mary's River (U.S., "Soo" Canal), the channels between Lake Huron and Lakie Erie and the Lower St. Lawrence below Montreal already provide for from 20 feet navigation in the upper to 30 feet in the lower section. The new Welland Canal of 25 feet depth is nearing completion. There remains then only one important physical barrier to through navigation, in which at present canals and locks of only 14 feet depth are provided. This situation has already re-acted most unfavorably on the all-Canadian outlet to world markets, for the "break" in Lake Erie to through navigation has had the natural effect of annually diverting 140,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat alone through United States Atlantic ports, the bulk of which, under the proposed plan, would follow its natural and cheaper outlet through Canada. The early completion of the new Welland Canal will not eliminate but merely transfer this leakage. Oswego will replace Buffalo with prospects of an even greater diversion when this new route to Albany and the Hudson River has become fully established. The real danger lies not in building an improved St. Lawrence Waterway but in failing to build it. The economic loss of the present ill-balanced St. Lawrence route is amply demonstrated by the fact that a bushel of wheat moves from Fort William to Port Colborne for 3 cents, while the rate from this Lake Erie port to Montreal, only half the distance of the former, is approximately 6.6 cents. This results inevitably from the higher cost of operating 2,000-ton lower lake steamers as against the much larger boats of the upper lakes. What this gain of approximately 5 cents per bushel will mean to the Canadian farmer and to all those dependent on him is considered in a later paragraph. There is another phase of the navigation factor, however, which arises at this point which has largely escaped recognition, but which still further augments the advantages of the interior Canadian shipper whether industrial or agricultural. It also enhances the competitive position of Canada's metropolis and ocean port, Montreal. It is now generally agreed that the great ocean liner and the larger lake steamer will each retain its field of operations. Specialized adaptation to their respective functions and environment will still retain for Montreal and Quebec their natural positions as intermediate ports of transhipment. The "tramp" steamer presents a different problem. It is tied to no route. It seeks a cargo above all where there is the best prospect of two-way traffic. It exercises a salutary check on the rate tendencies of liners, especially with respect to bulk commodities such as grain. New York's ability to quote much more favorable rates to Liverpool than Montreal is only partly a question of marine insurance charges. It is largely because New York is peculiarly fitted to be the tramp centre or charter market for the American Atlantic coast. Standing at the apex of a wide angle of coast line, the arms of which are studded with dependent ports, it offers the best prospects of a diversified two-way traffic, which is the special object of the tramp steamer. Montreal on the other hand stands isolated at the end of a narrow angle of river and gulf, with no "dependent" ports, except Quebec. This isolation will be quite reversed with the completion of the deep waterway. The tramp steamer unencumbered with the high operating costs of the liner will be enabled to draw upon a new group of lake ports whose collective traffic is even greater than that of the dependencies of New York. Not only will the advent of the tramp introduce a new and useful factor in the transportation organism of the St. Lawrence, but it will undoubtedly do much towards adjusting lower rates on grain and other commodities and help to restore the balance between Montreal and its great American rival as trans-Atlantic terminals. This factor affords a possible explanation for the hostility of the established liner interests in Montreal towards the deep waterway.

2. The Agricultural Factor. It is clear that the value of agricultural land is based not upon the gross but upon the net value of its product. Over a period of years the net return of the Western Canadian farmer has not averaged more than 15 per cent. of his gross production. An increment of 5 cents per bushel or at least a substantial portion of this amount would, therefore, from the equivalent experience of other regions when provided with improved facilities of transport, result in from 15 per cent. to 30 per cent. increase in farm land values, in the Prairie Provinces, varying according to location and the availability of competitive outlets. The invariable law of the producer is to encourage greater diversity as well as greater efficiency of competitive outlets for his commodity. This fact is occasionally lost sight of. The prairie farmer's chief interest in the transportation of grain, as also of his other products, is to press for the improvement and maximum efficiency not only of the Hudson Bay and Pacific Coast routes and terminal facilities, but also of the traditional St. Lawrence outlet. The increased efficiency of one is a more effective check upon possible monopolistic tendencies of the other. There is a further point for the farmer to consider. The maintenance of his present favorable position in the grain markets of the world is very largely dependent upon forestalling any improvements in the transport facilities of rival countries by previous improvements of his own. It is the part of necessity as well as of wisdom to provide such facilities in advance of requirements, for it is an axiom of international trade that markets are much easier lost than won. Such a step as that herein proposed would undoubtedly delay and hamper the prospective return of Russia to her former dominant position in the grain markets of Europe.

(3) The Power Factor. The wealth in Hydro-Electric power which may be developed coincidently with the proposed navigation works on the St. Lawrence are, as already noted, of much greater interest to Canada than to the United States. Three million horsepower out of a total potential development of five millions are located wholly within Canadian territory, and may be developed without reference to our neighbor. The remainder is located on the international frontier between the Province of Ontario and the State of New York, and is to be divided equally between the two countries if and when the negotiations take definite form in a treaty. The vital importance of this great untapped store of electricity is illustrated by the fact that it is almost exactly equal to the total developed Hydro power in the Central Provinces at the present time. Naturally the question arises—can we ever use this extra power?—if so, when and how? In the past six years our development of power has doubled itself and our consumption of electricity has more than doubled. While it is hardly reasonable to expect a maintenance of this meteoric pace, yet it is a conservative prediction that we shall at least maintain the addition of a similar increment in a similar time in future. In other words, the share of Canada's power development which the Central Provinces may be expected to absorb should approximate two million horse-power every six years during the next few decades. Making full allowance for other Hydro developments under construction or projected, we may assume from the above, that with a succession of stages each of half a million h.p., timed to coincide with the expanding requirements of industry and population, the whole of Canada's equity in St. Lawrence power may be effectively absorbed, indeed acutely needed, by 1945. Electricity possesses the most elastic of all markets. This results automatically from the ever-widening diversity of its use, and the growing intensity of its application in the industrial and domestic spheres where it is already established. Not only in theory is overproduction in the electrical field relatively impossible, but from our experience in the major developments of the past two decades—on the St. Maurice, the Niagara, the Gatineau and the Saguenay we have found that supply invariably induces a proportionate demand. No longer then is it a choice between indefinite postponement of the project and irrevocable export to the United States. Central Canada not only can absorb but will urgently require in the near future all of her enormous share of Hydro-Electric power to be derived from the St. Lawrence waterway. Quite apart from the deductions of previous trends, there are practical reasons which confirm this.

4. The Industrial Factor. This naturally arises out of the power factor which precedes it. Again from the experience of similar developments in the past we may estimate with reasonable limits the anticipated industrial growth within a radius of 300 miles of the St. Lawrence Hydro sites. Two and a half to four billion dollars of new factories will utilize the power so provided, with a proportionate stimulus to commercial activity both within and outside this area. It is not claimed, of course, that this industrial growth will take place immediately after the power is developed, but the cumulative process of manufacturing expansion will be started even before the power is available. The enormous requirements of structural steel, of concrete, of machinery, and a multitude of other related products, which the navigation and power works will require in their construction stage, total nearly $400,000,000. This will provide a powerful stimulus not only to the industries directly affected, but indirectly to all producers. Nor will the end of this seven to twelve-year period of construction mean a slump backwards to depressed conditions. Normal growth in population and in domestic and other requirements, plus the new industrial growth dependent upon the developed power will sustain the abnormal demand of the period of building even after it is over. One of the chief problems of Canada's economic life consists of the great seasonal fluctuations in employment. For this reason industrial development must take place coincidentally with that of agriculture because it provides the best opportunity for the regular employment of labor. Among the many large power-using industries which this development will attract, the metallurgical and electro-chemical groups offer the brightest prospects. The Lower St. Lawrence Valley enjoys exceptional advantages in this field, partly due to its central position with respect to large scale mining developments in Ontario and Quebec, and partly from its unequalled strategic position with regard to railways and other forms of transport. The flour-milling industry of Canada which has languished since the Great War will regain its natural functions and re-establish its position with the retention of Canadian wheat-traffic by the all-Canadian route. It is now generally realized that industrial precedence is to the countries with cheap and abundant power. The rapid electrical developments which Canada has witnessed during the post-war period has undoubtedly played a leading part in restoring prosperity and re-establishing our competitive advantages in foreign markets.

5. The Population Factor. A reliable correlation of population and electrical development demonstrates that the ultimate mass of workers and dependents which the proposed St. Lawrence power works and their accompanying industries will support, reaches a staggering total of from four to seven million people. This population growth will, of course, not be confined to a single locality such as the Lower St. Lawrence Valley, but like the ripples on the calm surface of a pool will extend into every habitable part of the Dominion. What more effective means could be utilized for retaining the nation's native sons, and of securing the substantial tide of immigration which is so much desired but which has so consistently eluded the grasp of successive governments. The construction of the St. Lawrence deep waterway has thus distinct advantages over other great transportation projects of Canadian history. The vast armies of immigrant laborers which constructed our transcontinental railways were not very much attracted by the prospects of farming which resulted from their building of roadbeds and laying of rails. A large proportion drifted back to Europe or crossed our southern border, for lack of sufficient industrial employment in Canada. The St. Lawrence deep waterway, however, induces an industrial expansion from its power by-product which will give to the immigrant laborer from Europe a field of employment more adapted to his ability and preference. With the joint impetus, which the St. Lawrence will provide, for agriculture on the one hand by an increased margin of return, and for industry on the other, by supplying the basic mechanical energy required at reasonable cost—the population of Canada should not only grow in numbers, but attain a truer balance between farm and factory—between rural and urban life.

6. The Railway Factor—It has been claimed by its critics that the St. Lawrence Waterway will strike at the solvency of the Canadian National Railways by robbing this great public utility of its traffic. The exact opposite is the truth. In the first place, grain, which forms the bulk of the lakes to Montreal traffic is only an incidental item in rail receipts East of Fort William. The net return of this eastern grain traffic to the Canadian National does not exceed $200,000 in the average year. Furthermore, this traffic does not reach any substantial proportions until Great Lakes-St. Lawrence navigation is closed, a condition which will not be materially changed, if at all, by the building of the Deep Waterway. The great bulk of railway grain haul is west of Fort William, and this should be considerably increased by lowering the cost of transporting it to world markets, a factor which the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway provides. But grain is not the only item which the railway will gain. During the construction period which will last from seven to twelve years, as mentioned above, hundreds of millions of dollars worth of goods will have to be transported to the St. Lawrence Valley to build the necessary works, and temporary blockages of the St. Lawrence canals while in process of improvement will divert considerable tonnage to the railways. This is not all by any means. It has been demonstrated that for every head of population in Canada, ten tons of railway traffic are originated every year. It is also shown that this ratio is practically the same in every part of the Dominion. This means that with the rapid stiumulus population growth which the electric power developments of the St. Lawrence will provide, the Railways will enjoy a progressive addition of new traffic reaching at least 40,000,000 tons per year within a reasonable time after the completion of the whole project. The best proof of the above is the following statement by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways—"The St. Lawrence Deep Waterway will build up traffic and assist in the industrial development of the Dominion, and in the last analysis we will find that we have gained very much more than we have lost. It is inconceivable that a barrier shall be permitted to exist between the area of this great inland sea and the ocean." It is distinctly probable that as soon as the Deep Waterway project be fairly embarked upon, the Canadian National Railways will become a revenue-producing asset of the public instead of adding to its burdens, as it has hitherto.

7. The financial factor—As recommended to the Canadian Government by the National Advisory Committee the Dominion should pay a share involving a little more than half of the cost of all improvements on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence route, past, present, and as in future necessitated by the completion of the Deep Waterway. Of this Canadian share, stated as $400,830.00, we havve already expended $173.00.00. Deducting the cost of works already provided for in completing the New Welland Canal, we hae a reminder of $200,008.00. Yet this seemingly large expenditure must be balanced against a $400,000,000 asset arising from the four million horse-power fully developed which Canada will receive automatically as part of her share. This locks too good to be true. Possibly it is, for it is merely the basis of future bargaining with the United States. Yet with certain reservations it has already been accepted by the American Government as a suitable basis for negotiation. The net result is that Canada will not suffer a single cent of extra debt as a result of the St. Lawrence Deep aterway, even if our neighbors drive the hardest bargain. On the other hand, the prospects are that we will be $200,000,000 to the good, in addition to all the secondary advantages described in previous paragraphs.

The International Factor—Among other objections raised the bogey of American aggression is probably the most widely discussed. It may be divided as follows: (a) The possible loss of our electric power by export to the United States (b) The possible insincerity of the United States in desiring to build and maintain an improved highway of transportation via the St Lawrence, to tide water, i.e. that the American government would deliberately sabotage the navigation works which they will partially control at the International section of the St. Lawrence, or irreparably injure navigation in thel ower reaches of the River, (c) That they will be tempted to take full control of the whole St. Lawrence Deep Waterway, even if or otherwise, as they did in the case of the Panama Canal Zone, (d) That the United States cannot be trusted to keep a treaty, the Boundary Waters Treaty of 1909 being cited as an example.

The first objection regarding the export of power is disposed of once and for all by the declaration of the National Advisory Committee on the one hand, which states that they "are in complete accord with the feeling throughout Canada that export of power should not be permitted" and on the other by the official endorsement of this principle by the United States Secretary of State. These are his words: "The United States fully recognises the right of the Dominion of Canada to the ownership and use of the Canadian share of the power which may be developed in the national section, and it recognises also that the disposition of the power is purely a domestic question. It recognises further that this share is an inherent attribute of Canadian sovereignty, irrespective of the agency by which the power may be developed."

The doubts expressed concerning the sincerity of the United States in pressing for navigation as the paramount issue naturally disappear with the disposition of the power question, for is it conceivable that the twenty-two states of the Union with a collective population of 40,000,000, that are clamouring for this more efficient route to tide-water, are to be sacrificed for a mere five million or so that lie within transmission range of the power? This objection even pre-supposes that power interests are contrary to those of navigation which is absolutely false. The third so-called "danger" loses its force when we find that by the treaty of 1871 the United States already has inalienable rights of navigation on the St. Lawrence River which become no greater or less if we choose to improve it. We are doubly protected if, as the Advisory Committee suggest, we pay something more than our share. This "something more" becomes a "quid pro quo" value given for value received, and should be stipulated in the treaty as an extra consideration granted to United States in return for an absolute and perpetual guarantee of non-interferance with Canadian territorial rights and sovreignty.

The last mentioned objection, namely that the United States cannot be trusted to keep a treaty is as false as it is misleading. There is no case in history of the United States deliberately breaking a specific solemn treaty obligation once ratified by Congress. It is true that glaring ambiguities in boundary treaties, made before we had attained our serious disadvantage, but this did not entail any lack of honesty on the part of the United States. It was simply shrewd business sense. We have learned our lesson to be more specific in future. Furthermore we can hardly blame anybody but ourselves that the 1909 Treaty specifically excluded from its application all then existing diversions of Great Lakes Water, including nearly 8,000 cubic feet per second by Chicago. We certainly have a legal claim to redress for this piracy of common wealth by the Illinois city, but this is not a question of a violation of treaty by the United States.

It is now high time that the intelligent citizens of Canada should study, without prejudice, this great project of National development, and if it appears to them sound, to press for its completion. Already the St. Lawrence canals have reached 60% of their capacity according to the Montreal Harbour Commission, and at the present rate of traffic growth will have reached a "choked" state by 1935. This would mean very serious results. Not only would much traffic be forcibly diverted through the United States, but it would no longer be subject to competitive conditions. It would be charged all that the traffic would bear, with corresponding losses to the Canadian farmer and trader. On the other hand a far-sighted provision of the Deep Waterway even before its necessity becomes acute, would do much to strengthen our East and West bond of Nationhood. The depressed coal-fields of Nova Scotia would find an extended market Weswards from Montreal, as would the lumber of New Brunswick and Quebec. The Prairie provinces cannot but gain a cheaper route to world markets, and British Columbia from stimulated inter-coastal trade. Ontario and Quebec, and especially that part of them which encircles the St. Lawrence Valley, should become, as a result of the power development and its accompanying manufacturing expansion, the industrial and commercial focus point of the continent.

Picture this! About the size and shape of a patty shell—and as light! Made of whole wheat, cooked, drawn to a filmy-thin ribbon of fine-spun wheaten threads, wound layer upon layer. Baked. Toasted butternut brown. Crunchy! Crumbles in the mouth like oven-crisped crackers!

Being whole wheat, it gives you vitamins, calories, bran. Cooked, baked, toasted, it gives you easy digestibility. And, with cream and sugar, or fruit added—just downright good eating!

Why wait for others to tell you about Muffets? Be first to try them—make it tomorrow at breakfast!—and you can do the telling!

MEN BETTER OFF THAN THEIR WIVES

Debaters at Warsaw Decide That They Have Better Time.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, July 4.—The United Church Ladies' Aid had a full hall for the open meeting on Thursday evening, with the president and the vice-president in charge, when the new piano was in place. The room was prettily decorated with flowers, and the program consisted of several selections by the orchestra, a solo, "Danny Boy," by Henry Batten; a piano selection by Mrs. Roland Payne, a ukelele selection by Velma Payne and Eileen Hamblin; a song by Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne; quartette, "Come to the Church in the Wildwood," by Henry Batten, Clarence Watts, Rufus Payne and David Miller; piano selection, "Meditation," by Mrs. George Taylor; readings by Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Herrington.

The event of the evening was a debate, "Resolved that men have a better time than women," in which the judges, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Arthur Edwards, J. Hawthorne and W. Anderson, decided the affirmative presented the better argument. The affirmative was taken by Miss Alma McCracken and Miss Florence Tedford, while Ivan Drain and Fred Crowe upheld the negative.

The young ladies expressed the opinion that men have a better social time than women, since even at their threshing and corn-cutting they could enjoy converse with other men; the women had to stay home and look after the chores alone. Men could stop at any time for half-an-hour's chat; women had to keep everlastingly at work. Men go to lodges in the evening; women stay home and mend. Men buy bits of chewing gum and tobacco; if a woman buys an ice-cream cone, it is a luxury—and a lot more.

"If the men have evening meetings, women have afternoon ones," the defenders of the male cause declared. Men bear the burden of providing; women use cigarettes, powder, cream and rouge. Men use the telephone for work; women use it for pleasure.

In retaliation, Miss McCracken pointed out that men work in the outdoors, where they have the benefit of sunshine, while it is because women work in the stuffy indoors that they must use rouge.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

COBOURG W.M.S. HOLDS MEETING

system is just as important in God's work as in our own, and has just as apparent results. The amount kept for ourselves reveals our attitude to God and His work, rather than the amount we give.

The literature department was convincingly presented by Miss Alice Henwood, of Port Hope, who said ignorance leads to failure, but information leads to interest, inspiration and success. Hence the importance of the work of the literary secretary in the individual society. First hand information from missionaries on furlough is most effective, and letters from an "adopted" missionary prove inspiring; reading circles, study groups, the use of lantern slides, and the passing on of leaflets used in the meetings to associate helpers are all important means of information and inspiration.

The "Quiet Half Hour," led by Mrs. J. W. Roberts, and Mrs. (Rev.) A. McLaughlin, brought to a fitting close the morning session.

Afternoon Session.

The members of the Canton Auxiliary had charge of the devotional service which opened the afternoon session, and Mrs. McKinnon, of Cobourg, led in an interesting discussion on supply work. Mrs. J. H George, Millbrook, presented the claims and possibilities of the associate helpers' department in an enlightening manner, urging this as a good way to enlist the interest and prayers of the women not yet enrolled in the missionary organizations. Prayer and study will soon lead to whole-hearted service and support.

Mrs. Johnston of Grafton spoke for the strangers' department, convincing her hearers that this presents a many-sided opportunity of service. Welcome and assistance to new-comers from other lands, friendliness to those making a change in place of residence, cheer and comfort to the sick at home and those in hospitals, writing to the minister in the home land of the new-comers, thus linking up the Church in Canada with the Church of Christ in all lands, were some of the activities impressively stressed.

Mrs. Garland, of Cobourg, presented the mission band work, pointing out that only six Auxiliaries in this section are without a Band. Roseneath Band last year headed the list, leading over even the Bands in the larger centres, and this training in life service for the boys and girls is of far greater importance than making money — they will be an untold strength to the Church in the future.

The address by Mrs. (Rev.) C. C. Washington at the recent branch meeting, with a suggestion that a committee be appointed to arrange for leadership training was referred to, and Mrs. (Rev.) McKee, of Baltimore, reported that such committee had met on June 23 at Trinity parsonage, Cobourg, with the result that an entire afternoon will be devoted to this important task when the Leadership and Training School meets in Cobourg next October. Miss Semmons, a children's work secretary, of Toronto, will conduct the class on mission band leadership.

A presentation of "Modern Mother Goose Children as Little Light Bearers," by the children of Roseneath Band then delighted the audience and Mrs. (Rev.) Redvers Brown followed with an appropriate solo.

The subject of "Temperance," and the responsibilnty of the women in carrying on for the total prohibition of the sale and manufacture of intoxicating beverages, was earnestly set forth by Mrs. Immell, of Grafton; co-operation with the church in its campaign for this cause to be started in the fall was particularly urged.

Mrs. McIntyre, secretary of the Non-Anglo-Saxon section of the Strangers' work in Toronto gave the address of the day, which was replete with information and inspiration.

Mrs. McIntyre meets the foreigners on arrival in Toronto, and puts them in touch with the pastor of their particular nationality; she made over 1,200 calls in the past nine months, and related many touching incidents revealing the great good this department of the church's work is accomplishing.

"Folks are folks the wide world over," was Mrs. McIntyre's closing remark as she made a strong appeal for personal service, 'since a church that has a spiritual surplus will never have a financial deficit."

Mrs. (Rev.) J. T. Daley, president of the Conference Branch, brought some 'echoes' from the Dominion Board meeting, mentioning especially the spirit of comradeship and unity which prevailed, and making a strong appeal for just this attitude throughout our church in each local society.

Prayer and appreciation for our newly - commissioned missionaries about to leave for their fields was urged, the address closing with an account of the memorial service held for Misses Lackner and Harper, whose deaths proved such a loss to the missionary force in Japan.

Mrs. Walker, of Port Hope, presented the report of the Courtesy committee, which was unanimously adopted, Rev. Mr. Brown, of Roseneath, bringing a successful gathering to a close with the benediction.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

VI—ALONE

Then from the bedroom she heard her mother calling fretfully, and with a great effort, as if she were wrenching herself from the grasp of a giant's hands, she dropped the paper to the floor and went on preparing breakfast.

All day long she moved and worked like one in a dream. She was like a drowning soul clinging to the hope that the dream would pass and that she would awake and find it had never been a reality; but the storm of wounded love beat about her on every side and her heart felt like a live thing dying slowly in her breast.

He had never loved her, it had all been a lie. He had just been amusing himself. True, he had never said that he cared, but there is a language of the eyes and of the touch, and she had been sure! Sure!

Now all doubts were at an end, and he was to be married. To an earl's daughter—to his cousin! No doubt she was very beautiful, no doubt she loved Nicholas devotedly.

During the next few weeks Jennifer watched the papers closely for any news of the wedding, and then at last, when daffodils were being sold in the streets and the wonderful breath of spring was in the air, she saw the announcement that the wedding would take place in a week's time in a fashionable West End church.

Jennifer went to the wedding.

She felt that unless she saw with her own eyes she could not believe, and she wanted to believe. She wanted to be able to put the memory of Nicholas Gaunt away from her forever, or else only to remember him with hatred and bitterness. She stood outside the church amongst the crowd of inquisitive sightseers, and saw the bride go into church on her father's arm.

A fair bride in her white gown and flowing veil, truly a fitting daughter for an earl, and a bride of whom any man might be proud. No home-made clothes here; nothing bought at suburban sales after laborious saving of shillings. She heard the organ pealing out, then the long silence that followed, and at last the triumphant strains of the "Wedding March."

Jennifer closed her eyes and felt as if she were choking. Someone cried out excitedly, "Here they come," and she looked up into Gaunt's face, changed, and yet unchanged. She had always known him as a happy-looking man, but now his was hardly the face of a proud or happy bridegroom. He was pale, and his mouth was set in hard lines, and he kept his eyes steadily fixed ahead of him as if he were looking into a future which was none too bright, or back into a past which he alone could see. Jennifer shrank back into the crowd pressing around her, but she need not have feared, Gaunt did not once glance her way, and in a moment he had passed into the waiting car and was gone.

Jennifer turned and began to walk away. She knew the worst now—had seen it with her own eyes, and there was no longer anything to hope for. Gaunt was married. He had never loved her.

She went back to the dreary rooms near Willesden with a strange feeling of unreality. Was there ever to be anything better for her?

Her heart felt as heavy as lead as she climbed the narrow stairs and paused for a moment outside her mother's door. There would be more tears to face now, she supposed, and more reproaches. She felt she could not bear it much longer. She must get work to do or she would go mad. Work was the only rock to which one might cling with safety when hope and love had both failed.

She pushed open the door and went in.

"I hope your head is better, mummie, dear," she said, trying to speak cheerfully.

The room was in semi-darkness, the faded blind doing its best to shut out the spring sunshine. Jennifer crossed the room and stood beside the bed.

"Mummie dear, are you awake?"

There was no reply, and she put out her hand.

"Mother!"

They were so cold, so cold! The thin hand and limp fingers. Jennifer gave a broken cry.

"Mother! Oh, mummie, I did love you. I did! Oh, mummie, speak to me, speak to me, dear."

But Mrs. Fry had spoken her last words, and had gone away in search of her Edward, and to see whether there was a better outlook from the windows of Paradise.

The next five years passed almost happily for Jennifer. She took a course of training for secretarial work, and through the indirect influence of Alfred Heaton, with whom she still kept up an intermittent friendship, she obtained a post in the city office of a solicitor.

Her employer, a man named Gurney, with a heart as big and stout as his body, which was of considerable dimensions, took a quiet liking to her from the first, and did his best to make her happy and comfortable. He was a bachelor and took good care to tell her that he intended to remain a bachelor.

"I'm not a marrying man, you know, Miss Fry," he said bluntly one afternoon, and apropos of nothing more serious than a cup of tea which she had brought across the room to his writing table, Jennifer permitted herself a quite smile.

"Did you think I had designs on you, then, Mr. Gurney?" she asked gravely.

Mr. Gurney blushed and looked like a confused schoolboy.

"I beg your pardon, I'm sure," he stammered.

Jennifer went back to her seat on the other side of the room.

"Well, then, that's settled," she said pleasantly.

From the first she had felt quite happy and at home with Mr. Gurney, and by

From the first she had felt quite happy and at home with Mr. Gurney, and by the time she had been with him five years she had made herself indispensable. A happy, if uneventful five years they were, mile-stoned by only two incidents of importance, the first being a proposal of marriage from Alfred Heaton, and the second a meeting with Nicholas Gaunt.

Heaton's proposal Jennifer quietly but firmly refused, in spite of the fact that he had just been made manager of a West End branch.

"I don't love you," she said as kindly as she could. "And I never mean to marry."

"Some day you'll change your mind," he urged.

Jennifer shook her head. "No, I shall never change my mind."

"I shall go on hoping," he insisted, breathing heavily and looking very hot. "And if there is no other man——" he paused for her to reply.

"There is no other man," Jennifer said.

But when Heaton had gone she looked into her heart and knew that she had lied to him. There was another man! There was still Nicholas Gaunt, and although he was married and had treated he was married and had treated her so badly, he still barred the way to her heart as surely as he had done five years ago. She had not seen him since his wedding day, though sometimes she came across his name in the paper, in little social paragraphs.

"Mr. and Lady Edith Gaunt have left London for the South of France."

"Mr. and Lady Edith Gaunt dined with the Duke and Duchess of Chateau Liege last night"—and sometimes the name of his wife alone.

"Lady Edith Gaunt was present at the dance at the Embassy Club on Tuesday. She wore a frock of——" so and so and so and so.

Jennifer forced herself to read all about them both, and always her heart contracted with the same intolerable jealousy.

"I'm one of the silly, faithful sort, I suppose," she told herself contemptuously. "Why can't I forget him? Why can't I?"

She was thirty then, and there were a few little lines around her eyes which added to instead of subtracting from her appearance, although, as the other flapper typists in the office declared amongst themselves, "She's a real old maid, and always will be."

Only one of them differed, and she was pretty enough to afford generosity to Jennifer.

"If she dressed decently, and got someone to show her how to do her hair, she'd be almost handsome," she said carelessly. "Her eyes are lovely!" No, not the color, but something in the shape and expression. I wish my lashes were as long as hers."

But if Jennifer was conscious of their criticism she ignored it. She went to and fro to the office quietly happy, and always keenly interested in her work.

Hers was a lonely life, but she was used to it.

"I've got no relations at all," she once told Mr. Gurney when he questioned her. "Or, at least, I believe there is an uncle, my father's brother, somewhere in the world, but he doesn't want to know me, and I don't want to know him."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 4 (Canadian Press).—Damaged by a pause in European demand, together with reports of harvest progress in Nebraska as well as Kansas, wheat values here averaged lower yesterday. Russia appeared to have stopped buying, for at least the time being.

Closing prices on wheat were irregular, ¾ cent net lower to ⅜ cent advance. Corn finished ⅛ cent to 2⅛ cents up; oats at ¼ cent off to ⅜ cent gain, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 20 cents.

Liverpool quotations much lower than looked for drew particular notice to the fact that export business yesterday in wheat from North America amounted to only about 250,000 bushels; on the other hand, one foreign estimate placed Russian wheat purchases in Europe so far at 70,400,000 bushels and cables were received expressing belief that Russian buying of wheat would shortly be resumed. Meanwhile, advices were current telling of favorable weather for the domestic harvest of Winter wheat and also for promoting the growth of the Spring crop.

Cutting of wheat in Nebraska was reported as already in full blast south and west of Lincoln, with promise of becoming general within a few days. Further north, the Spring crop in South Dakota from Uankton to Mitchell was described by a leading expert as giving indications of a fair yield and apparently would soon be out of danger. Latest figures, too, on expected wheat production this season in the Canadian Prairie Provinces were 455,000,000 bushels against 413,000,000 bushels last year. Under such circumstances, the market lacked rallying power except late buying of July for speculative sellers.

Scarcity of corn offerings, July deliveries in particular gave much strength at times yesterday to the corn market. December corn, however, was responsive to excellent weather and crop reports. Oats trade was quiet, and the range of prices narrow.

For the most part, provisions were slightly easier. Hog values yesterday were the highest of the year, but this circumstance was offset by the bearish aspect of the monthly report on Chicago warehouse stocks of provisions.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., July 4 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:
Demand $4.88 3-16 to ¼.
Cables $4.88 11-16 to ⅝.

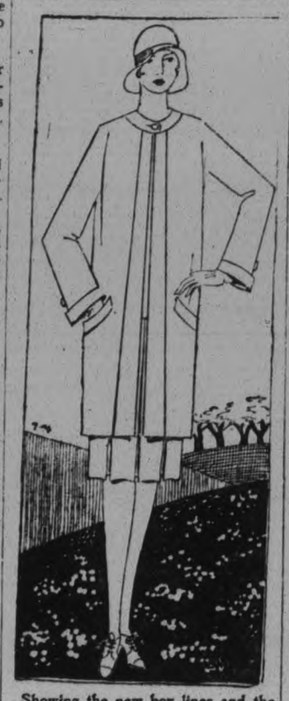
THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.



Showing the new box lines and the crew neckline developed in a three-quarters length beige velveteen sports coat.

A change in coat fashions is, I think, bound to come, and be prepared when you go to take your last winter's coats out of the cedar closet next autumn or when your fur coat is sent back from furrier's cold storage to find that they do not look quite so up-to-date as you thought they did when you saw them last. When you put them away you probably did so with the feeling that they might be worn without alteration next season. But don't be too sure!

Sometimes it is changes that come in summer that make the big difference in autumn fashions and women are wearing all sorts of new types of coats and wraps this summer that they might not have thought of choosing for more expensive winter garments. And having worn them they have got used to a silhouette that is not like unto the pencil's.

A good many of the new sport coats show a slightly box silhouette—a slight fullness from the shoulder. And most of these coats are shorter than the frock. Perhaps you wouldn't have considered that silhouette for a more substantial winter garment, but you accepted it for the less formal sports coat.

Many experiments have been made with flaring silhouettes in coats. Side flares in coats are of course an old story. The newest type of flared coat, however, flares at the back and has the downward dip so necessary if it is to be worn over a frock with a downward dip.

Coats are important this summer and instead of laying them aside as days grow warmer we wear them over sleeveless feather-weight frocks and have them made of very thin material. Unlined georgette coats sometimes made with little shoulder capes are at present extremely smart and useful.

Hats as well as coats are developing all sorts of new contours—so that last winter's hats, if you have kept them, will probably look decidedly passee by the time you bring them to the light again. From Reboux comes a new type of hat with downward side drapes appropriately called elephant's ears. It shades the ears and side of the cheeks, yet does not interfere with earrings.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

IN THE news last week we read of the ovation given a girl who was carried over the Atlantic by expert fliers. She did nothing, she admits, but stay in the cabin—but a king and a president rush to do her homage. Why? Lady Heath and Lady Bailley each flew from England to South Africa, all alone, passing over the wildest of the world's jungles, where a forced landing would have meant a terrible death—but the world made no fuss about their achievements. They were English—just as were John Alcock and A. W. Brown, first to cross the Atlantic—and the English do not make much fuss for themselves. When a woman is carried under the protection of men she has not added much to the emancipation of her sex—but when she does alone what men have hitherto boasted of as men's jobs, then she is not only daring but achieving.

"I like girls to be pretty and sensible too. But not too sensible, because the more sensible they are, the less likely they are to get married." It was the youth speaking, in "A Letter of Introduction," the one-act play produced by St. Paul's Y.P.S. at the strawberry festival last week.

When a girl has a man absolutely in love with her in that stage where sanity is temporarily in obeyance, she can get by with murder for a time. But the other day I was onlooker at a little scene where the girl hadn't made sure—and I think I saw the end of a romance. She had taken him shopping with her (a sure sign of his devotion!) and he had to stand uncomfortably by while she lost her temper and called down the sales girl in acid manner. On the way out he remonstrated with her, but her head was high and her manner freezing.

That girl would have been mortified if the man had seen her with her hair trussed to the ceiling in the throes of permanent waving; or if he had blundered on her when, dressed in wrapper and face pack, she was endeavouring, mainly for his benefit, to retain a certain youthful complexion. But it did not mean a thing to her to bare her mental weaknesses, displaying anger, spite, and arrogance, worse enemies of love than curling papers, wrappers and facial mud ever were. Foolish girl!

Peterborough women who are planning to "do" the continent this year should be careful in their shopping there to see that they get value. Many "treasures" are brought from Paris that could be purchased for less on George street.

"I never did that when I was a little girl." I heard a woman tell her erring child. At a certain party last week I heard several men boasting their escapades of boyhood. I wonder which is right? Aren't parents likely to present themselves to their children as having been impeccable models of virtue, who loved to go to school and improved each shining hour? And do the children strive to emulate them, or do they decide their parents were terrible little Fauntelroys—or do they decide that nowadays their parents are so far forgetting their spotless youth as to prevaricate? I ask you.

Nothing is more delicious for evening wear than fluttering, subtle chiffon. In an up-town store is shown a delightful model, with the modish back skirt, tissue sash, and slim bodice. Plain flowers trail over the shoulder, and the sash is held in front by a brooch.

A woman protested the other day, against the placing of budget articles on this page. "They should go on the financial page," she declared. That would toady to another of man's vanities, my dear. He thinks he is the heaven-sent financier—but I believe that if women were allowed to have a sound understanding of family finances they would be the stabilizers and even supporters of the families of to-day. No man should be allowed to lead a married life and pretend he's single in regard to financial matters.

The time has not yet come when we can turn on a cooling system in July as we do a heating system in December, but much can be done by the efficient housewife toward lessening the heat's burden. In Peterborough we are doubly blessed by the abundance of shade trees, and every home as a verandah or shaded garden where a cold-meat supper tastes wonderfully well. Try serving meals in the open air, and find how much more pleasant July can be.

At the closing meeting of a local women's organization a visiting speaker advised the development of personality. It is good advice for leisurely July. Don't do things just because everyone else is doing them. If there were no individualists, what a dull world it would be! Every woman's chief business should be to be herself.

A lovely, lasting perfume can be made from your rose petals, and from other flower petals. Send a stamped addressed envelope to Marion, at The Examiner office.

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

I think you are altogether wrong in what you say about that "sophisticated lover." I think what he says about woman's love is perfectly right and simply lovely. I don't agree that girls under 25 can't love, but I do think that just as soon as we girls start trying to make men believe there's nothing mysterious in love, then we'll lose something hard to replace. I don't know when I've seen anything I liked so well as that description of women's love: "A strain of music filtered through midnight jade." I think it's simply wonderful, and I, for one, would like to know his name. Please tell me. And don't poke fun at things [illegible].

All right, Norma, [illegible]. But really, you know, you [illegible] prove my point when I remarked that if Adophe Menjou's name (there you have it now!) were known, some Peterborough damsels would put this city on his consciousness by dropping letters on his breakfast table. He himself says his "mash" letters are "some silly, many remarkable, a few wonderful ones." In which class will yours be? And don't forget that Menjou is 40 years of age, or thereabouts. It will encourage you to know that this "sophisticated lover" appreciates the fact that women see in him "the delicate quality of sympathy, understanding, which they value as a rare and precious thing." In one way, at any rate, you two are en rapport!

"Dear Marion:

What does your sophisticated lover know about love and loving and whether a girl is capable of loving before she reaches her 25th or 30th or 35th birthday? What have birthdays to do with love, anyhow, and if there is a starting age is there also an age beyond which a woman is incapable of love?

I think, as you do, that this screen favourite's ideas are warped. It seems to me that most girls nowadays are married before they reach 25, and a woman of 35 is in danger of being set down as an old maid.

And, by the way, how do you take precautions to see that none knows who writes these letters to you?

Yours sincerely,
X. Y. Z."

In the first place, X.Y.Z., he is not my sophisticated lover. I absolutely, irrevocably and painlessly hand over whatever rights of prior discovery I may have had to "Norma," whose letter appears before yours.

In the second place, I agree with everything you write. Marriages of to-day, in Peterborough anyhow, seem to be just as happy as those of yesteryear, and girls don't all wait until they are past 25. I think the term "old maid" should be wiped out of existence, because there are very fine women who prefer a business career to a career of housekeeping.

As for the secrecy of your mail, you'd be surprised! One of the things I determined upon when taking over this page a few weeks ago was that no one would ever have the opportunity to criticize me for making public any secrets entrusted to me, or the name of any correspondent without express permission. To prevent the possibility of a leak, I rewrite every letter which appears here, so that no person can tell by the handwriting the identity of the correspondent, and I destroy the original. Is that safe? Thanks for the part of your letter which is not printed—it is very cheering.

Ritzy Twenty: If you really want my candid opinion (for which you ask) you are about as conceited as they make them. If you haven't the "gift of the gab" or the "line of the Dancing Psychologist" as I believe it is more modernly called, it surely isn't for lack of trying.

I venture the opinion that you and your so-called ritzy type are not as popular as you insinuate. In your own interests, keep to the highways.

"Dear Marion:

I enjoy your columns so much, and have learned many valuable things from daily reading. May I tell you something that has been of help to me in introducing new foods into the baby's diet, such as orange juice, vegetables, and so on? I offer her a small amount every day for about a week, and if the seeming distaste or reluctance to accept them has not vanished I stop that certain food for about a week. Then I start again. The taste seems to be vaguely familiar to her and I seldom have trouble in making it a steady item of her diet from then on."

Mother Myrtle."

Splendid. This is exactly the right thing to do, and a valuable hint to her mothers.

ELIMINATE CAUSE INFANT BLINDNESS

Society for Prevention of Blindness Reports 64 P.C. Decrease Since 1908.

New York City, July 7—(By the Canadian Press).—Remarkable progress in 20 years' organized efforts to reduce the frequency of blindness, pointing to possible elimination of the principal disease causing blindness and the reduction of eye injuries to a minimum, is shown in the report of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, which works not only in the United States, but in Canada and Britain.

The greatest single achievement has been in the field of ophthalmia neonatorum, commonly known as "babies' sore eyes," the society reports. As a result of partial adoption of laws requiring doctors, nurses, or others in attendance to put prophylactic drops in the eyes of babies at birth and the constant educational activities the report says, the frequency of opthalmia neonatorum as a cause of blindness among those admitted to schools for the blind has diminished each year until now it is 64 per cent less than in 1908.

The society is helping to safeguard the eyes of the next generation, the report points out, by following up work for prevention of blindness at birth with demonstrations of pre-school eye tests, pre-school clinics, and co-operation in establishment of sight-saving classes for the education of children with seriously defective vision. Using a recently perfected technique it is now possible to test, with some accuracy, the vision of children too young to read the letters on the charts used for adults. The sight of children as young as three and four years has been successfully tested in this way and in many cases conditions requiring immediate attention have been discovered and remedied.

Special "sight-saving classes" in public schools, first advocated in 1911, have been established in 80 cities in the United States. There are now 292 such classes in which, through the use of special large type books, movable desks, ideal lighting, and special teaching methods, children with little vision are not only given the same sort of education that children with full vision receive, but they are taught how to conserve their remaining sight.

Hope is expressed in the report that at last the struggle of medical men with the scourge of trachoma, one of the great international sources of blindness, is being rewarded by some definite understanding of the causative factors of this disease of the eyes. Credit is given to Dr. Hideyo Noguchi of the Rockefeller Institute who died May 21 and whose research during the last year of his life helped toward solving the mystery of trachoma which has baffled medical men of the world for centuries.

MAMMY-ROLE — By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Humoresque", "A President Is Born"

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

IT was a case of family extinction, as it sometimes can happen in a single generation.

At fifty-five, Mrs. Gray was the sole survivor of a group that had consisted of her husband and four children. One of those lightning swoops of destiny had suddenly descended on the Grays, eliminating them as if in fury.

First, Edmund Gray, who had been a good husband and an indulgent father and who was headed for pension when his years as mail-carrier were finished, died on the ninth day of an attack of typhoid fever. That same winter, when Mrs. Gray was first beginning to learn the literal meaning of the "widow's mite", her eldest son James, aged seventeen, while applying for a position in the Post Office Department, was hit by a package of flying newspapers which was being hurled to a truck and was killed.

On the fifteen hundred dollars awarded to her by the government in lieu of a damage claim, Mrs. Gray and her three children lived for practically two years.

It was a struggle; it meant the kind of self-denial that many an evening sent Mrs. Gray hungry to bed that her three children might not know those cruel pangs; it was a day-by-day fight against time until Robert, aged thirteen, should be old enough for his working-papers, and the two little girls, aged nine and eleven, should also come into that drab inheritance.

And yet, in the tiny two rooms of the cottage they shared with a laborer and his wife, there were sunshine and merriment even in those lean, threatening years. Mrs. Gray had what might be called a talent for motherhood. She was as young as her children and that meant that their lives were curiously a part of hers. They laughed together and they cried together. She understood them and was understood by them in turn.

IT took five years more for a diversity of circumstance, ill fortune, accident and illness to snuff out the three precious lives of Mrs. Gray's remaining children. A street accident, a mastoiditis operation and a case of galloping consumption plunged the life of Mrs. Gray into a static and motionless kind of silence that was almost unbearable to her.

The laborer and his wife used to whisper rather fearfully about her as they beheld her walking up the street.

But it was not possible for Mrs. Gray to continue to share the cottage with the laborers. With the loss of her last child, much of her capacity for the struggle for existence seemed to desert her. Her fingers which had once been spry enough with the needle, were lax now and without even the vitality for the simplest kind of handiwork. Lean times descended upon Mrs. Gray, even leaner than when she had to share the fruits of her labor with her children.

MEANWHILE, growing up in the city that was adjacent to the town where her husband had been mail-carrier, was one of the newest and greatest world-industries. Time and time again, among the charwomen with whom Mrs. Gray was sometimes obliged to cast her destiny, she heard references to the opportunities the motion picture companies had to offer to older men and women in character roles. Mrs. Gray took to looking among the pages of cast-off motion picture magazines.

Slowly there grew in her withered old breast, the desire to act mother-roles. The spark of life came back to her tired old eyes. The desire to live. The will to live.

It was a long, slow struggle toward that day when she felt decently enough attired to take the trolley to the city and present herself as one of the army known as "extras". In due time, and after weary days of fruitless waiting, when again she was the know the gnawing pangs of hunger, Mrs. Gray was assigned a role; but not the role of mother. She was cast for the part of one of five witches in a fantastic production of an adventure story in which a new and brilliant young star was featured.

It was the most thrilling and exciting circumstance imaginable. The five old witches in straggling gray wigs, pointed caps and carrying the proverbial broom sticks, proved so effective that they were given a dance of their own in the picture.

Mrs. Gray had what might be called a talent for motherhood. The thought of playing a mother role filled her tired old eyes with softness, filled her tired old heart with the desire, the will to live.

THAT was the beginning of what was fairly steady work for Mrs. Gray, whenever there was anything that seemed to fit her in the studio where the handsome young star made his pictures.

Ironically enough, however, never in the tiny bits assigned to her did the part of mother fall to Mrs. Gray. Her withered cheek, her flattened bosom, her tired arms and thin, gnarled hands seemed to suggest to the eye of the casting-director lean, cadaverous character-parts, such as witches, spinsters, drudges, derelicts.

One day, Mrs. Gray fell ill and was obliged to be away from the studios over a period of several weeks. When she returned, the entire personnel of this ever ever-shifting industry had changed in the offices of the Harold Neal Incorporated Pictures, and Mrs. Gray no longer had entree there.

Strange, then, with what persistence the doors of the industry remained closed against her.

To such extremity was Mrs. Gray driven, that finally she was forced to go back among the charwomen.

Then one day, she obtained a job in the kitchen regions of the beautiful Beverly Hills home of the brilliantly successful young male star, Harold Neal. There were three children in the Neal family, all under eleven. The mother, who looked like a bisque doll, played opposite her husband in roles that were fast endearing her to a public as vast as his.

By stages that were almost imperceptible to herself, Mrs. Gray gradually worked herself into the combination role of nurse and housekeeper in the Neal household.

IT is a perpetual garden in which she dwells—rich in the sunshine of California climate and her own contented heart.

She has a room of her own, adjoining the nursery, that is all fitted up in cretonne and bright, sun-colored wall-paper.

Young Neal frankly swears by her—and even, as he affectionately puts it, swears at her.

The lovely Mrs. Neal is as deferential as if she, too, were one of Mrs. Gray's charges, instead of her mistress.

Best of all, the three children who call Mrs. Neal "mother" now call Mrs. Gray "mammy".

Mrs. Gray has her mammy-role.

Peterborough's two wins on Monday and Oshawa's double victory over Kingston turned the Central Ontario League race completely around. The Petes jumped from the cellar up in third place, where they are only a game behind the leading Oshawa club who scrambled from third position to the top of the heap and a half game behind Belleville, the second placers. The League standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Oshawa	6	4	.600
Belleville	6	5	.545
Peterborough	5	5	.500
Kingston	5	6	.455
Deloro	3	5	.375

It is a grand old race with only two games separating the leaders and the tail-enders.

The games scheduled for to-day were the Petes against the Ponies at Kingston and Deloro against Belleville in the railway town. Saturday the Oshawa leaders will be here for a game against the Petes while the Ponies invade Belleville.

Oshawa is leading the Central Ontario League in home runs, a natural result of the fact that any ball hit between the fielders in the Motorists' ball lot is a sure-fire circuit clout. As the Oshawa crew play twelve games there as against three each by the other clubs they naturally have a 4 to 1 percentage in the matter of homers.

French Tennis Stars Are Defeated At Wimbledon

PAIR BEATEN IN DOUBLES

Patterson and Hawkes Down Youthful Ex-Champions in Grimly Fought Duel.

NUTHALL ELIMINATED.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (Canadian Press Cable).—The feature of "doubles day" at Wimbledon yesterday was the victory of the mature Australians, Patterson and Hawkes, over the more youthful French exchampions, Borotra and Lacoste, in a grimly fought duel that was followed with keen interest by the large crowd. The aggressiveness of Patterson and the severity of his service and drives, combined with the sound defensive play of Hawkes decided the day and stemmed the tide of French successes.

The Australians were full of guile plays delightful to watch. Full smashing services, beautifully judged lobs and crisp work at the net, particularly in the second set when the French formed an impenetrable barrier at the net, cutting off everything, were shown by the winners. Patterson dominated the third set and bore the brunt of the attack in the fourth, in which the French led 5—3 and 7—6 before they lost the set and the match.

The elimination of Betty Nuthall, English girl star and Fraulein Aussem of Germany by Mrs. Strawson and Miss Hemmant was greatly regretted, but Betty's services were too weak, while her partner was too venturesome.

Results:

First round mixed doubles—Croleres and Mrs. Watson defeated Michell and Peggy Saunders 6—2, 6—4; Eames and Mrs. Beamish won by default over Lacoste and Mlle. Bourgeois. Second round — Robson and Miss Canters defeated Hodges and Joan Fry, 3—6, 6—3, 6—2; Cochet and Eileen Bennett defeated Campbell and Mrs. Campbell 6—2, 6—4.

Women's doubles, second round.—Mrs. Strawson and Miss Hemmant defeated Betty Nuthall and Fraulein Aussem, 4—6, 6—4, 8—6. Third round—Misses Boyd and Akhurst (Australia) defeated Misses Shaw and Watson 7—5, 6—4; Mrs. Clara Wood and Miss Bickerton (Australia) defeated Mrs. Edwards and Miss Stokes 6—2, 6—3.

YANKS HOLD SENATORS 7-6

Score in Eleventh Inning To Even Series With Washington.

BOSTON DEFEATED 4-3.

NEW YORK, July 4 (Canadian Press). — The Yankees evened their series with the Senators by squeezing home ahead, 7 to 6, yesterday in the eleventh inning of the second clash at Washington. The Senators got to Herb. Pennock for eleven hits, five of which were bunched in the fifth for four runs, but he held out until his mates rescued the game for him.

The Yanks tied the score at 6 to 6 with two out in the ninth on singles by Koenig and Paschal grouped around a pass to Gehrig, they won with two gone in the eleventh on the same combination, Paschal drawing the pass in between singles by Gehrig and Lazzeri.

Hadley gave the Hugmen seventeen hits, but scattered them well enough to prevent his game from slipping until the eleventh. Bob Meusel was put out of the game in the seventh for disputing a strike called by Umpire Hildebrand, and Charlie O'Leary was removed from the coaching lines for pointed comment on the affair.

The Athletics defeated Boston 4 to 3 at Philadelphia in a game that marked the first victory of the season for "Bullet Joe" Bush, a hero of other years for the Mackmen. Though touched for eight hits, Bush kept them well scattered in all but two innings. Al Simmons' single to right in the eighth inning drove in the two runs which gave the Athletics victory. Jack Russell was chased from the box during this rally, Pat Simmons relieving him.

The White Sox made it three straight from the St. Louis Browns at Chicago, winning 8 to 7 after overcoming a four-run rally by the Browns in the ninth inning.

Trailing six to three, the Browns made four hits good for four runs and a 7 to 6 margin in their half of the final, but the Sox came back and scored two runs on a walk to Kamm, Metzler's triple and Cissell's single.

Manush got three hits, making him the first American League player to reach the 100 mark this year with a total of 102.

Joe Sewell's triple and Summa's single in the twelfth inning gave Cleveland the second game of the series at Detroit 6 to 5 yesterday. Cleveland won the game after coming from behind to tie the score in the ninth. Kenneth Holloway went the full distance for the Tigers, but Grant who started for the Indians, was removed for a pinch hitter in the ninth inning. Hudlin finished the game and was credited with winning it.

Rivermis and Royals play again to-night in a Junior League fixture at James Stevenson Park.

Bethany and Crescents meet at Exhibition Park this evening in the first game of the second half of the East Peterborough League schedule, and as the two teams have had three interesting battles, in which Bethany won two games, to-night's contest should produce some exciting baseball. Crescents have been breaking in several new players, and will be strong contenders.

The C.G.E. and De Laval are due for a battle to-morrow night in a City League fixture in what promises to be a hot argument. The Electrics are out for the group honors, and aim to add another victory to their belt to-morrow.

LOCAL CRICKETERS BEAT BIRCHCLIFFE

Peterborough Club Piles Up Its Largest Score of the Season.

In defeating the strong Birchcliffe C.C. at the Oval on Monday by 28 runs, the Peterborough C.C. gave their best display of the season. The batting of the local club was more consistant than usual. The Birchcliffe captain won the toss and decided to bat first on a wicket that proved to be in favor of the batsmen. Robertson and Field faced the bowling of Dyer and Wade. Runs came steadily until 24 was reached, when Wade clean bowled Field with a full pitched ball. Bland was next man in, and with Robertson playing very careful cricket, the score slowly mounted. The Peterboro captain changed the bowling, Thorpe coming on for Dyer and Dunkerly for Wade. The batsmen, however, were not separated until the score board showed 79 runs. Smith, who had come on to bowl at the north end, got Bland smartly stumped by R. Dyer. The same bowler soon met with further success, getting two more wickets very cheaply, Hamilton catching Wakefield brilliantly in the outfield, the fielder running about 30 yards to reach the ball. It was one of the finest catches made this season. Robertson was finally bowled by a beautiful ball from Jack Wade, the retiring batsman having played a careful, patient game, having taken about 2 hours to score 46 runs. He was warmly applauded on leaving the wickets. The score finally reached 133 runs. Wade bowled brilliantly, capturing six wickets for 38 runs, and Smith was very successful in taking three wickets for 8 runs. Dyer and Thorpe also bowled well, but luck was not theirs. R. Dyer kept wicket in brilliant style.

Peterboro commenced their innings with Dunkerley and Stuart against the bowling of Robertson and Bland. With only 2 runs scored, Stuart was caught at long leg by Perkins. Wade was apparently getting set when he was beaten by a good ball from Bland. Two good wickets for 15 runs did not look very promising. Thorpe was the next man in and soon settled down with his team-mate, Dunkerly, who was playing confidently. The score soon rose at a rapid rate, both batsmen punishing any loose balls, but taking no chances with the good ones. Several changes of bowling was tried, but it was not until the score had been taken to 74 that the partnership was broken, Thorpe being caught in the outfield, the retiring batsman having made 35 runs. F. Dyer soon scored half a dozen before being bowled. The game at this period was in a very interesting stage, Peterboro requiring 44 runs to win with six wickets to fall. Doug. Hammond joined Dunkerly and started scoring rapidly. He lost Dunkerly, however, who was caught. The Peterboro captain had made 40 runs by brilliant cricket. R. Dyer and Hammond, however, carried on in fine style, scoring all around the wicket before the former was bowled. Hammond left a few runs later, having made 15 runs in an enterprising manner. It was left to Smith and Hamilton to take the score past the Birchcliffe total. These two batsmen played steady cricket at a critical time, and were well applauded when the winning hit was made. Imming and Massey-Cooke both helped the score to mount scoring readily off the tired Birchcliffe attack. The score finally reached 161. Peterboro's highest score of the season. The Peterboro team deserve a lot of credit for their splendid win, as they were without four of their regular players, who were unable to play.

Lunch and supper were served to the visitors at the Paragon Tea-Rooms. Alderman Walter Stocker represented the Mayor at the luncheon, and gave an interested talk on cricket in the past. He also assisted in umpiring the game in a very satisfactory manner. A. Wakefield, one of the Birchcliffe players, commented on the beautiful ground at the Oval, stating that he only knew of one other ground in Canada that was any better. This, surely, is a boost for the Oval and for Peterboro.

Ontario Cricketers Defeat Quebec Team

OTTAWA, Ont., July 4. — (Canadian Press). — Ontario cricket players defeated Quebec yesterday in the annual inter-provincial cricket match which started Monday at the Rideau Hall grounds.

Needing 99 runs to win after Ontario had compiled 102 in their second innings for a match total of 171, the Ontario men seemed to be fairly confident, but a deadly attack by the home province bowlers, coupled with brilliant fielding, put the whole side out for 35 runs, giving them a total of 107 for their two innings.

Beautiful weather again prevailed. Immediately after the match an exhibition game started to fill in the afternoon but stumps were drawn for the day when rain began to fall shortly after five o'clock.

SOFTBALL GAMES ARE FEATURE OF ZION SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

Tuxis Boys Lose to Team of Girs By 10-8 Score.

SENIOR FIXTURE.

(Examiner Correspondence)

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 4. The annual social of the Zion Sabbath School held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnam on Monday evening was easily the most successful and enjoyable ever staged. A splendid crowd and ideal weather combined to make the annual event memorable. Over $30.00 was received at the gate while all the booths were sold out. Sentinel Band provided music for the evening, but the major attractions were the softball games. A team of girls defeated the Tuxis boys by a score of 10 to 8. However, in fairness to the boys it may be said that they played only with one hand.

But for one bad inning, the local senior team would have been away with a win in their first game of the season, but after securing a 2 to 1 lead over they visiting Hoards' team, a bad series of breaks in the sixth, coupled with some lusty clouting on the part of the boys from the south gave them 13 runs and enough to win 15 to 5. The locals hope to do better in the future as they lack practice and could not do their best in the first encounter. H. Petherick, Gibson, and Kerr looked best in the field for the home team with the latter showing stellar work in the box, holding Hoards' to the zero mark in six innings of the nine played. He pitched his way out of many holes which errors had placed in his path. M. Rannie, Hume and Oddie looked good for Hoards which the battery were just as steady as usual, Hoard making the locals bat them out just where his fielders were. Thompson was outstanding in the last half of the game with some startling catches. The local team meet Mount Pleasant at the Hoards' lawn social on Thursday evening.

Preaches First Sermon

The Rev. F. McTavvish, late of Northport and now pastor of the Seymour charge, preached his first sermon to a splendid gathering at Zion church on Sunday morning. Mr. McTavish spoke in glowing term of the work of his predecessor, Rev. C. Daniel who was a very great friend of his. They served together in the army at the time of the war.

Mr. McTavish' text was from Titus 1:15 "unto the pure are all things pure, but unto them that are delighted and unbelieving is nothing pure.

ST. ANDREWS BEAT OUTLAWS

SCORE 16-13.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4. — St. Andrew's and the Outlaws met last night in spite of the heavy rain that soaked the diamond in the afternoon. As late as four o'clock, there was every indication that there would be no game, but the grounds were fairly dry and the Churchmen were able to nose out a win of 16-13 in a full game of nine innings. The game appeared fairly even throughout, and although the Outlaws were never in the lead, they were at no time very far behind. St. Andrew's victory has brought them up to a half interest in the second place in the league, with the other half claimed by their opponents. The Clerks nosed into the lead as a direct result of last night's game with five wins and only one loss. To-night the Electrics meet the Legionaires, with Massie and Montgomery in charge of the game.

The line-up:

PONTYPOOL TAKES FIRST GAME 7-2

Defeat Yelverton in the Initial Game of North Durham League.

PONTYPOOL, July 4.—Pontypool won the first game in the schedule of the North Durham Baseball League from Yelverton by a 7-2 score on Thursday evening. Although the Pontypool battery were not as strong as usual, the other team was handicapped owing to two of their regular players were off their line-up, and in the last of the first, while at bat, C. McGill, catcher, was seriously injured and Dr. McNeil gave him attention. The hurler had strong support from the infield, but a few errors and tricky flies in outfield gave more runs to Pontypool.

With Pontypool the runs were bunched in the second and seventh. Payne, Mitchell and Taylor each made two base hits. Newton Wright played his first game in left field. Every player except two had a run to their credit.

The League cup is donated by C. Hickley, of Pontypool, and becomes the property of the club winning it the most times in five years.

BISONS WIN FROM LEAFS

Score 7-6 Count Against the Leaders in 12-Inning Pitchers' Duel.

NEWARK LOSE OUT 3-2.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 4 (Canadian Press).—The Buffalo Bisons toppled the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs by a score of 7 to 6 in a rousing 12-inning duel opening the series yesterday. Wertz and Collins, both former major leaguers, hooked up in a great pitching battle with the former Boston Brave hurler getting a clean edge. The winning tally counted in the twelfth with one out when Archdeacon singled, Burke muffed Cooney's attempted sacrifice and Barret, who hit a homer, lashed a single to left. Easterling kept the Leafs in running by smacking two terrific homers, one over the centre field fence.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 4 (Canadian Press).—With the bases full and one out in the tenth inning of yesterday's game between the Black Cats and the Newark Bears, Al Lesko, recruit catcher from Penn. State, who had previously driven out a triple and a single, came across with another slashing one-base drive and the Cats scored a 3 to 2 decision over their rivals. Thormahlen pitched fine ball for the winners.

GIANTS TAKE 8TH STRAIGHT

PLAYERS INJURED.

NEW YORK, July 4.— (Canadian Press).—The Giants nosed out the Robins, 8to 7, in the eleventh inning of a see-saw game here to-day to run the New York winning streak to eight straight. The home team took a lead of five in the first inning when Lindstrom and Jackson hit homers but the Robins pecked away at Aldridge until they were in a position to gain an edge of 7 to 6 on a three-run rally in the ninth.

Hogan drove in the tieing run in the Giant half of the same round and Jess Petty, who had followed Jim Elliott and Rube Ehrhardt into the box, forged home the winning marker with none out in the eleventh when he passed Cohen with the bases filled. Petty just previously had passed Hogan intentionally to fill all the sacks.

Jackson's home run cost Brooklyn the services of Al Tyson for the rest of the season and perhaps for all time, according to physicians. Just as Tyson was about to catch the Giant star's long liner, Rube Bressler crashed into him, and both players tumbled in a heap as the ball sailed safely to the fence for a homer. It was found that Tyson had suffered a compound fracture of the left leg just above the ankle.

Phillies Win Double

The tail-end Phillies won two games from the Braves at Boston, hammering out a 15 to 0 victory in the second game after winning a close engagement in the first, 6 to 5, in ten innings.

In the ninth inning of the second game, George Sisler, Braves' first baseman, took the mound. He walked one man, but held the Phillies scoreless when a double play closed the inning. The Phillies pounded Clarkson, Greefield and Smith for sixteen hits. They won the first game in the tenth inning when Schulte sacrificed after Sand and Lerian had singled.

Chicago outslugged the league leading Cardinals at St. Louis and won 13 to 5. Hack Wilson of the Cubs broke his tie with Bottomley for the home run leadership of the National League, getting his seventeenth off Sherdel in the fourth inning.

Dresden's double in the ninth following a single by Cris and a double by Kelly gave Cincinnati two runs, shattered a deadlock and brought victory to the Reds at Pittsburg, 9 to 7 yesterday.

The contest brought out six pitchers, the Pirates using four. Hill and Luque started but both ran into trouble in the fourth when each team scored five runs. Picinich hit a home run for the visitors.

DRIVER GETS SEVEN DAYS

COUNTY CASE.

A minimum of seven days imprisonment was imposed upon John Murney when he appeared in police court this morning charged with being intoxicated while in care of or in control of a motor vehicle. Murney, through his counsel, had pleaded not guilty but on the evidence of Provincial constable Thompson and county constables Smith and Pratt was not off-set, in the opinion of the bench, but the defense counsel's submission that no direct evidence could be found to prove Murney had been intoxicated while in charge of the car, the imprisonment was imposed. The defense counsel also pointed out that the officers, in obtaining certain admissions from Murney, had not duly warned him that it would be held against him in court. Basing his defense mostly on these two points, the defending lawyer apparently unintentionally gave the bench to understand that the hearing of witnesses would not be necessary and the bench feeling that the crown case had been proved, voiced the sentence, dating from last Saturday.

Result of Accident

The case against Murney was the outgrowth of an accident on Monaghan Road, in the county of Peterborough, last Saturday night in which a motor car, owned by Kenneth Hoage, of 299 Louis street was badly wrecked and left in the ditch.

Provincial Constable H. E. Thompson in his evidence, told of going, accompanied by County constables Smith and Pratt, to the scene of the accident, in answer to a phone call which had come in at 8.40 p.m. on Saturday evening last. The driver of the car was not at the scene and witness had absented himself for some twenty or twenty-five minutes. On returning, he had encountered Murney, under the influence of an intoxicant and, placing him under arrest, had brought him to the police station. The defendant had admitted driving the car and being alone when the accident occurred. The other two officers had been present when this admission was made. Witness had asked Murney about his driving permit and who the car had belonged to and Murney had replied that he had no permit and that Kenneth Hoage was the owner of the car. He also stated that Walter Gillespie of 311 Louis street had obtained the liquor on his, (Gillespie's permit and that he, (Murney) had given him the money to buy same. Murney told the constable that the beer he had been drinking had been bought with his own money.

Constable Pratt

Constable Pratt was a witness called by the crown. He stated that while he and Constable Smith were awaiting the return of provincial constable Thompson, Murney had driven up in another car, in company with some others, who on seeing witness and the other officer, had whispered something to Murney. Murney had got out of the car, however, and appeared quite intoxicated. Witness had asked Murney if he had been the river of the car and had received a negative reply. Constable Smith also stated that while coming to the station in the Provincial officer's car, Murney had wanted to know from Thompson if they couldn't fix things up as he had promised the owner that he would settle for all repairs. The provincial constable had said that he didn't do things that way.

Constable F. C. Smith

County Constable Pratt said he had been at the scene of the accident. He had noticed that Murney was under the influence of liquor. He could corroborate the evidence of Constable Thompson.

Acting Chief Reid

The evidence of Acting Chief of Police Reid pertained to what had taken place after the prisoner had arrived at the police station. Murney had told him that the accident had happened through the wheel running off into the ditch, that he, (Murney) had been in charge of the car, belonging to Hoage who had consented to his having it and that he had no operator's permit.

Inspector Reid stated that the accused, when brought to the station, was in an intoxicated condition, Murney had said: "If you will let me out, I can see Mr. Hoage and fix it up." He had been told that that couldn't be done.

This concluded the case for the crown. Before calling any witnesses Counsel for the accused pointed out that there was no clear evidence that Murney had been intoxicated while driving the car and that the evidence of the witnesses thus far should not be accepted as proof as "Murney, a boy of twenty-two, so badly intoxicated that he could not stand steadily, had only given the information against himself on being questioned without having first been warned hat tthe rpliees might be used against him later."

In reply to question from the Bench, the defense counsel had stated that surely these two points would warrant a dismissal of the case. Through some manner, this statement was constructed to mean that witnesses would not be called and therefore, the court's decision was given—namely, the seven days imprisonment.

Another charge

Following this case, Acting Chief Reid brought another charge against Murney, that of having liquor in his possession while not being the holder of a liquor permit. To this charge accused pleaded not guilty and was remanded for trial on Tuesday, July 10.

In the absence of Magistrate O. A. Langley, Frank Adams, Justice of the Peace, and Vincent Eastwood, also a Justice of the Peace, presided.

TRAFFIC VIOLATORS TO BE PROSECUTED

Attitude of Police of Warning Drivers Has About Reached Its Limit.

Though the city police have, so far attempted to educate the motoring public to govern themselves according to traffic rules, particularly around the corner of George and Charlotte streets, where the stop and go lights are in operation, many drivers have driven, heeedless of the regulations. As a result, many of them are about due for a rude awakening in the form of police court proceedings.

"For instance," said acting chief of police Reid, "there are some who, in taking a right hand turn at the Charlotte-George street corner, fail to come to a stop first. A stop before taking a right hand turn is absolutely necessary. The ruling against any left hand turn at this corner, is occasionally disregarded also."

A fine of $1.00 and costs of $2.75 was imposed in police court this morning upon Arthur Vannest who was not only charged with driving east on Charlotte street without lights, but also with driving contrary to the stop and go lights.

FIRE UNDERWRITERS

further discussion, it was the opinion of the council that some one ought to be in charge of the dump, and on motion of Deputy-Reeve Davidson and Councillor Abernethy, Parcels was re-engaged for another year at the same salary, his time to start from the date when his former contract expired.

Cecil McConnel asked to have his name removed from the Front street paving petition. He explained that he had not been home when the name was put on and that he had yet to be able to see the petition. McConnell was assured that the petition would not be dealt with last night and that he would be able to have his name removed.

Councillor O'Sullivan said that he had received complaints about refuse of various kinds being dumped on the market square and along the old C.N.R. right of way. The matter was left in the hands of the police.

The first communication to be read was a letter from the secretary of the Minister of Railways and Canals, acknowledging receipt of the resolution passed by the council, asking that the minister visit this section of the canal and be the guest of the municipality. The minister, the letter stated, was at present in the West, but the resolution would be placed before him immediately after his return.

Fire Department Inefficient

The letter accompanying the report of the Inspector of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association pointed out that the local department was not as efficient in some respects as it had previously been. This was a matter of some surprise to the councillors who asked that paragraphs twelve to twenty-five of the report as mentioned in the letter, be read. The report is the result of the visit of the inspector on March 29th last. The paragraphs in question claimed in part that while the brigade had formerly been considered insufficient, it had been reduced. It was recommended that it be increased and the association so advised. The recommendation was for a brigade of twenty men instead of the present thirteen, four of these, including the chief to be permanently quartered at the firehall and to hold no other position.

The pumping system under the single system had been rated as thirty per cent short and now under the standard duplicate system, it was twenty-eight percent. short. The pump attendant should have no other duties and should be always in the building, whereas he now has other duties. Changes in some of the water mains were also recommended and in the down town section it was advised that hydrants be not further apart than 250 feet. Most of them were within this distance now, but some were as far apart as 400 feet. As to the fire truck, its engine was pronounced not strong enough according to its horsepower rating. Some of the ladders were too short. The brigade should not consist of entirely volunteers but should have four men and the chief resident at the fire hall. The report was received and filed.

In the discussion which followed the reading of the report, it was pointed out that the requirements were practically those of a city department. The fire losses during the past several years had been exceptionally small and the work of the brigade considered by the majority of citizens as satisfactory. It was also suggested that the town might find it possible to carry its own fire risk. When the inspector visited the town, he seemed well pleased with the showing of the brigade and left the impression that his report would be very favourable. His criticisms came as a decided shock last night.

The appointment of a court of Revision was the next item of business. The Mayor, Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors Wilkinson and Abernethy will sit as a court in the clerk's office at 7.00 p.m. July 9th for the purpose of dealing with the case of McKelvie and McCook.

His worship advised the council that he had received a communication from the Globe Indemnity Company advising him that they had paid to J. J. L. Hay, the sum of $250.00 for injuries received when he fell into a hole in or near the sidewalk along a street then under paving contruction. A petition for the construction of a sewer and water main on Front street from lot 4 Block C. to the intersection of River and Front Streets was received. Councillor W. S. Wiggins gave notice of motion that he would bring in a by-law to amend by-law 890 referring to the building permits etc., in the corporation. Reeve Bygott presented a by-law authorising the mayor and treasurer to negotiate the necessary loan not exceeding $25,000 for the completion of the pavement on the connecting links inside the corporation. W. S. Wiggins presented a by-law authorising the construction of the sewer on front street north with certain clauses relating to property owners who already had sewer connections into the sewer in the core wall. Both by-laws were given the three readings, passed, signed and sealed. The town solicitor was instructed to prepare the necessary by-laws for the sewer on centre street and for the sewer and water main on Front street South. A new petition will be circulated on Centre street for the construction of a water main since it is the opinion of the council that the property owners involved wish a water main laid and the ommission of this clause in the original petition was an oversight.

The barn which Wm. Hall has erected on his property on Ranney street near Second Street, allegedly contrary to the by-laws governing buildings within the corporation was once more the topic for discussion. Practically every councillor present was of the opinion that the erection of the building was in direct defiance to the council and over-riding the by-laws of the town. It was decided to ask Mr. Mitchell, lately appointed building inspector, to inspect the building and report to the council. The council believe that this may prove a good test for the by-law concerned.

After passing the accounts and payaheets the council adjourned at ten-thirty.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

KEN MAYNARD IN "THE UPLAND RIDER" AND STAN LAUREL AND SAM HARDY IN "SOUP TO NUTS" A SCREAM OF A COMEDY, AT THE CAPITOL THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

"From Soup to Nuts," with that great team of comedians, Stan Laurel and Sam Hardy, which is the two-reel comedy on the Capitol program the last half of the week, is said to be one of the best two reelers that this great team has ever made—so it is going to be very funny.

Maintaining the standard of previous pictures, especially those which have won him such a tremendous following in the short time of two years, Ken Maynard has made another winner, "The Upland Rider", his latest which is the feature attraction at the Capitol.

The rise from a star circus rider to that of a world famous motion picture star, all in the short space of two years, is indeed a feat, and this has been brought about by a combination of excellent stories, acting and direction. "The Upland Rider" is another example of that type of thrill that will have the with action, daredevil stunts, and spectacular horsemanship and the typ e of thrill that will have the audience gasping and applauding.

This is an original story by Marion Jackson written especially for Ken. It tells of two rival ranches in the southwest which raise horses for the world market. One of the ranches raises and sells reliable and tough ponies, known through the country for their sureness and stamina. The other endeavors to replace these with an Arabian strain of ponies, whose beauty surpasses the cow-pony but not in intelligence and stamina. The question is finally settled by a cross-country race that is by far the most daring and spectacular stunt that has ever been shown on the screen.

AT THE REGENT.

WONDER HORSE, TONY, SUPPORTS TOM MIX IN FOX FILM'S COLORFUL WESTERN PICTURE, "THE CIRCUS ACE"

Tony, the wonder horse of the Tom Mix organization, is given opportunity to perform some of the most marvellous stunts of his equinine career in "The Circus Ace," a Fox Films offering, which will have a showing at the Regent Theatre tomorrow.

Mix, who has long desired to do an out-and-out circus picture, gave much thought to the stunts Tony was called upon to do in this photoplay. One of the most dangerous, that of a daring leap from the top of the tent to Tony's back, was characterized by Tom's cow-hands as the most ticklish bit of "stunting" this intrepid star has yet essayed.

Tom, whose insistence upon doing his own stunts has long been the cause of serious worry upon the part of the Fox officials, took these long chances with the laughter of a boy.

"My reason is quite simple," he explains to the General Manager. "The boys and girls of the world believe in me. They pay their money to see me do the things they think I should do. I think, and I'll always think, it's unfair to cheat them in any manner whatsoever. Boys and girls are the square-shooters of civilization. Give them half a chance and they'll always be on the level. Therefore, I'm just a boy when I do my stuff for the clicking cameras. The kids out in front have a right to demand the best I can give. When I can't do my own stuff and give my big following a run for its money, I'll pack my big hat and quietly retire."

Natalie Joyce, a beautiful Southern girl, is seen opposite Mix. Ben Stoloff directed the production from a scenario by Jack Jungmeyer.

THE FAMOUS TOUR OF CONTRASTS "ACROSS CANADA AND BACK"

A striking feature of this year's "Across Canada and Back Tour", which leaves North Toronto station 1.00 p.m., on July 23 under the auspices of Dean Laird, is the fact that many tourists are coming over from Great Britain to take part in the journey. The special all steel million dollar train which will carry the party across the Dominion is the equal in all respects to the famous "Trans-Canada Ltd." There are no difficulties to confront the traveller as Sinclair Laird, the director, who has already piloted seven similar trips, has made the way smooth beforehand. Bookings for the tour are already exceptionally heavy and all previous records are expected to go by the board. The itinerary includes stops at all the important cities and towns en route and the beauty spots in the Rocky Mountains, Banff and Lake Louise, bungalow camps and industrial centres. A sail across Kootenay Lake, a steamship trip from Vancouver to Victoria and return and another cruise down the Great Lakes add variety to a holiday both delightful and educational. There is not a moment in the twenty-one days wasted and everywhere throughout the western lines a most hearty welcome awaits the visitors. Everything is included from Toronto and return in the sum of $330.00.

AT MARMORA.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, July 3. — Dominion Day was marked in the churches by the holding of appropriate services. At St. Paul's Church in the morning Rev. A. B. Caldwell chose "True Patriotism" as his subject, preaching an impressive sermon from I. John 4. 20.

"Is it not time," he asked, "that we have a new definition of patriotism? Patriotism should mean not so much love of country as love of countrymen. Many stress love of country, missing the objective of countrymen. Love of country is an abstract thing. Love can also be expressed for the church without any action or interest in the church and humanity. What is your country or flag without your countrymen? They have no meaning whatever. The true patriot is he who loves his countrymen and seeks their welfare in every way, being just as anxious for them as for himself, yea, even more so. Let us carry our moral judgment straight to the heart of the question."

At the morning Sunday School the rector addressed the teachers and the scholars on the subject of "Loyalty," which was supplemented by a five-minute talk by W. J. Cottrell.

United Church.

At the United church in the evening, a goodly sized congregation listened for the first time to Rev. H. E. Eburne, of Oka, Quebec. This gentleman is taking the duties of Rev. C. J. Beckley, while the latter is on two months' leave in England. A most earnest and instructive discourse was delivered by Rev. E. Burne, who used three texts. "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity. Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God and keep His commandments for this is the whole duty of man." (Ecclesiastes). "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." After mentioning that the Book of Ecclesiastes was to many a closed book, the preacher proceeded to show how intensely human are the statements of the old philosopher thus recorded and compared them with the expressions of the captive Paul, who though stripped of the opportunity to take another preaching tour, could see beyond the veil and hope to meet his Saviour face to face. Allusions to Dominion Day, and Canada's greatness, with the remark that there can be no national greatness without the Lord Jesus having a part in it, concluded a helpful sermon.

ADVICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

During the many years that I have been writing for publication, it has always been my object to make my newspaper service as valuable as possible to my readers, and I am always willing to answer questions by mail, so that I may give information in the individual cases that are troubling my readers. As a result, my correspondence reaches an average of 20,000 to 30,000 letters each month. You can see that the letters written to me should be as short as possible in fairness to on eanother.

To-day I received three letters which required about forty minutes each for reading, and these letters could probably have been condensed into four or five lines, which would have saved my time materially.

Those of you who correspond with me may wonder how I can answer so many thousands of letters. The simple fact is that I have systematized the work so that no time is lost. I have a staff of several licensed doctors, five secretaries, together with stenographers, mail clerks, and file clerks employed constantly under my personal supervision. All of these people have been especially trained for their work.

Because the different problems that confront most health seekers require much more information than can be given in a short letter, I have prepared thousands of special articles upon subjects relating to the cause and cure of different diseases, so when you write to me, in addition to my necessarily short reply, I enclose thousands of words of advice on the subject upon which you are vitally interested. These special articles have been written in advance so that you may receive an answer to your letter in a very few days. You can help me a great deal and also yourself and the cause of health education in which I am interested, if you will make your letters short and to the point, trying to keep them to one or two hundred words.

My greatest problem is that many of the correspondents insist upon asking me to diagnose their disorders, which of course cannot be done by correspondence. This work is in the field of your family physician. If you have been properly diagnosed, and know the name of the disorder from which you are suffering, I am always willing to send you my opinion about the method of treatment that I believe would be best, but I will not criticize the opinions of other doctors nor attack any method of treatment which I am not advocating. I am too busy giving you useful advice to use space in this column or in my correspondence for criticism of other methods.

On some days the mails to my office are very crowded and letters must necessarily await their turn, so that it may take a little longer for you to receive your reply than I would like. It is not necessary for you to send two or three letters to follow the first if you do not receive an answer as soon as you expect. I cannot answer every letter in this column, and if you desire a reply you must send your name and a large stamped envelope with your return address.

I am attempting to give practical information in a simple manner so that it will be understood by any one, and I am happy in the knowledge that these messages are read daily by several million people on the North American continent. My newspaper service has grown rapidly within the last few years, and I believe that to-day it is the largest of its kind in the world. This column is written with the one object in view, of giving people a better understanding of how to preserve their health and to have health more abundantly.

Questions and Answers.

Question—Mary W. writes: "I have black lines running before my eyes, especially upon going out into the light. It is making me very nervous, since there is no let-up to them. Would an average of three cups of coffee a day cause this?"

Answer: The black lines are probably caused by some form of liver trouble, which, of course, might be made worse by drinking so much coffee. Have a good diagnosis made by a physician and also by an optometrist. When you are sure of the cause of your trouble, the cure lies in simply removing that cause, whatever it may be.

Question—Mrs. O. H. G. asks: "Why do I have such a time trying to make raspberry jelly jell, when I have no trouble with apples or quinces?"

Answer: Your trouble comes from the fact that raspberries contain practically no pectin which is necessary before cooked fruits will thicken or jellify. There is a generous supply of this substance in such fruits as apples, quinces, currants, gooseberries and guavas, hence their jellifying qualities.

Question—Miss W. G. writes: "I wonder if you would give in your health column your opinion of cigarette smoking."

Answer: Moderate cigarette smoking is not necessarily harmful, provided you do not inhale the smoke. It is now not believed that nicotine is taken into the system through smoking, but is burned and destroyed by the fire. However, if you inhale any tarry-like substance it is deposited in the lungs, and this is decidedly harmful.

PASTOR INDUCTED AT OMEMEE CHURCH

The Rev. J. T. Blanchard, of Almonte Takes Over Charge.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, July 4.—A very impressive service was held in Trinity United Church, Omemee, on Friday evening when the Rev. J. T. Blanchard of Almonte, who had been invited to become pastor of the Omemee charge, was inducted into service. Rev. T. E. Holling, D.D., of Lindsay, the chairman of the Lindsay Presbytery, was in charge of the proceedings and conducted the service and induction ceremony. The Rev. R. M. Patterson of Janetville read the scriptural lesson and addressed the congregation, taking his text from 1st Peter 17 and 18. Rev. J. J. David of Queen street church, Lindsay, secretary of the Lindsay Presbytery, gave the exhortations to the minister.

After the service a social hour was held in the Sunday School room, when a large representation of the congregation remained. Following the lunch served by the ladies, Dr. Hoñng presided and short addresses of welcome to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard were given by Messrs. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., H. Lamb, T. C. Ivory on behalf of the congregation, each of the speakers assuring the new minister of the hearty co-operation of his people and expressing the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard would have much joy and blessing in their new home and charge.

Mr. R. W. Leighton of Lindsay, who was present, assured the people of Omemee that in the new minister they would find a man of sterling worth and character, he having been a member of a former congregation under Mr. Blanchard's pastorate.

Rev. A. T. Weir of the Anglican church extended greetings and best wishes, expressing the hope that good will and christian fellowship would always exist between the congregation of Omemee.

ALSIKE FIELD DAY AT McFARLANE FARM

Farm of County Will Study Alsike Crop Tomorrow.

A field day will be held at the McFarlane's farm at Mather's Corners at 1 p.m. on Thursday, July 5th, at 1 p.m. This is in the interest of better alsike production and is to be held in the alsike field of this farm.

Most of the farmers in the district are interested in alsike growing to a greater or less extent. The quality of Peterborough County alsike is good but there is one factor that always limits the profits obtained—that factor is the presence of weeds.

The growers practically all do some rogueing of weeds, but the scarcity of labor makes thorough rogueing very difficult. A knowledge of the weeds and weed seeds in your crop makes it possible for you to use what time and labor you have to pay particular attention to the weeds whose seeds cannot be cleaned out by machinery —catchfly is one of the most important of these.

Mr. H. W. Pearson, the seed inspector for this district, will be present to discuss the seed situation with you.

This will be an afternoon devoted entirely to alsike and the problems effecting its profitable production. The various weeds in the field and the effect their seeds have on alsike will be discussed.

Miss Jennie Cathcart's Pupils Render Interesting Program in Paragon Tea Rooms.

BOUQUETS PRESENTED.

An interesting recital by piano pupils of Miss Jennie Cathcart was held in the Paragon Tea Rooms on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance. The program was well received, as were the banjo selections by Frank Clarke, who contributed several very pleasing selections in his usual inimitable style. Miss Daisy Adlam, pupil of Miss Daisy Murray, gave a vocal solo. A pretty bouquet of roses and carnations was presented to Miss Cathcart by Helen Delahaye and Marguerite Darling, presented her with a box of chocolates.

The program was as follows: "The Shepherd Boys," played by Winifred Norton; 'Invitation a la Danse," by Helen Delehaye; "Midnight Hour Waltze," by Dollie Smith; "Il Trovatore," by Billie Davies; "Toujours le Toi," by Billie Hepburn; "Evening Prayer Reverie," by Frances Clarke; "Leola Waltz" by Marguerite Darling; "Miniature Waltz," by Frankie Cunningham; "The Boy Scout March," by Earl Ross; "Buttercups Waltz," by Sidney Smith; banjo selection by Frank Clarke; "Narcissus," by Betty Detcher! "Le Joyeux Noel," by Jean McCauley; duet, "Little Festival March," by Earl Ross and Sidney Smith; "A Morning Song," by Kenneth Sanderson; "Intermezzo Caprices," by Jean Young; "The Merry Peasant," by Kathleen Prout; "An English Dance," by Bertha Mahood; "Daisy Chains," by Lillian McGregor; "Doll's Dream," by Marion Blewett; "Whispers of Spring," by Billie Coleman; "Sonatina in F," by Russell Brand; "O Sole Mio," by Muriel Ward; duet, "Over Hill and Dale," by Loretta McDougall and Winifred Norton; "Consolation" (Mendelssohn) by Connie Legon; "Gems of Erin," by Loretta McDougall; banjo selection by Mr. Clarke; "Sunrise Echoes," by Evelyn Darling; vocal solo by Miss Daisy Adlam; "In a Monastery Garden," by Nellie Butler; "On a Persian Market," by Beatrice Wallace; "Country Gardens," by Muriel Davies, and duet, "At the Club." by Beatrice Wallace and Connie Legon.

Joe Wright Vanquishes London Sculler

Canadian Boy Wins From David Collett In Diamond Sculls

Joe Wright and Jack Guest, of Toronto, Will Meet To-morrow in the Semi-Finals and Winners Will Meet On Saturday.

WRIGHT BEATS COLLETT BY TWO AND ONE-HALF LENGTHS ON HENLEY COURSE

Saunders, of Eton, is Beaten By Guest, Who Makes Record Time, Rowing the Course in Nine Minutes Forty-eight Seconds.

HENLEY, England, July 5 (Canadian Press Cable). — Joe Wright, Canadian sculler, won his heat in the Diamond Sculls this afternoon, defeating David Collett, well-known London oarsman, by two and one-half lengths. His time was ten minutes six seconds. Jack Guest, Toronto sculler, won his first heat in the Diamond Sculls this afternoon, defeating T. Sanders, Eton.

D. Guye, London, defeated H. Dekek, South Africa, in another preliminary.

Either Wright or Jack Guest will be eliminated tomorrow, for they meet in semi final. The final will be rowed on Saturday.

Guest's time today was better than Wright's He made the distance in nine minutes 58 seconds.

The opening of the famous regatta provided an animated scene, the river banks being masses of flowers in the brilliant sunshine. The fashionable crowd was a large one. River craft of every description lined the side-booms at the start and finish marks, while more flags, colored lamps and bands were in sight than ever before. People still sleep occasionally in punts, with tarpaulin covers, and in other small craft, but the motor which whisks parties to the riverside in no time has killed the usefulness of the famous big houseboats. Seven were stationed at the course last year, but three were destroyed in the winter floods. G. Tomlin, regatta official, said at one time a dozen houseboats were kept fully occupied. This type of craft is not construted any more, being considered old-fashioned. In a year or two the picturesque houseboat will have vanished from Henley entirely.

In the preliminary yesterday, R. T. Lee, holder, easily defeated J. McCann. Lee, however, is in the other half of the draw, and will not meet the Canadian unless both progress to the final on Saturday.

Jack Guest, Joe Wright's clubmate, tomorrow sculls against T. Sanders of Eton. Neither Guest nor Sanders sculled today.

Collett, an old Cambridge Blue, and holder of the Wingfield Sculls Trophy, won comfortably over Hewens to qualify to meet Joe Wright. Hewens did well at the start, and was less than a length behind at the half-way mark, but at this point his scull hit some piles at the edge of the narrow course, and thereafter he fell behind Collett.

Is Beaten

H. Edwards, Old Westminsters, easily defeated J. Pitman of New College, Oxford, in the third of the preliminary heats in the Diamond Sculls.

Edward's time was 9 minutes 45 seconds for the 1 mile and 550 yard compared with times of 9.49 for R. T. Lee, holder, and 9.07 for T. Collett, the other two preliminary heat winners today.

Lee defeated J. McCann, London, easily in 9 minutes 49 seconds.

Collett defeated J. Ewens, Maidenhead, by 1¾ length in 9 minutes 7 seconds. The stiff breeze down the course did not appear strong enough to materially slow up the scullers. Lee had his race in hand from start to finish, being seven lengths ahead at the half-way mark. He finished almost in a paddle, sculling only twenty-four strokes to the minute. His opponent sideswiped the booms at one point along the course.

Wright, finalist last year, will engage Collett tomorrow. Last year Wright defeated Collett in the preliminaries only after a terrific struggle.

GREAT BELGIAN FINANCIER DROPS INTO ENGLISH CHANNEL

Multi-Millionaire Believed To Have Opened Wrong Door of Airplane.

TRAGEDY UNOBSERVED.

Machine Was Crossing Croydon To Brussels When Victim Disappears.

LONDON, July 5 (Associated Press).—Captain Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, whose fame was world-wide, was drowned early yesterday in one of the strangest fatalities in the history of commercial aviation.

The plane in which he was a passenger was crossing from Croydon, near London, to Brussels, when the financier disappeared.

His valet and two stenographers, as well as the pilot and mechanic of the plane, were present, but did not notice the incident, and it was not until arrival at Brussels that it was learned that Captain Loewenstein was gone.

The British Air Ministry announced he had been drowned.

It was assumed that Captain Loewenstein had opened the wrong door from his compartment and fallen into the sea.

The plane landed on the beach west of Dunkirk, France, at 8 p.m. The pilot informed the authorities that while the plane was crossing the sea Captain Loewenstein opened the wrong door and fell out.

Richest Man in Europe.

Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, who was drowned when he fell from his airplane over the North Sea yesterday, was reputed to be the richest man in Europe, his wealth being estimated at only less than that of Henry Ford or Rockefellers. He controlled steamship lines, was one of the chief shareholders in the Belgian railway system, owned the Manganese iron mines in Silesia, steel furnaces in the north of Spain, coal properties in the Saar Basin and in the Ruhr, and immense rubber plantations in the Congo.

Jewish Descent.

He was born in 1877, his father being a small Jewish banker in Brussels. His immense fortune was built up by clever speculation. As a young man he staked everything on the future importance of artificial silk, Hydro-Electric power and methods of mass production. He always spent prodigiously and carried a large retinue of servants.

The mystery whether Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, noted Belgian financier, jumped or fell by accident from his private aairplane while over the English channel last night, had not been definitely cleared up by the preliminary investigation in Boulogne Sur

West Peterborough Liberal Association Hold Annual Picnic

Men and Women Members of Association Hold Outing in the Form of a Sail Down the River to Wallace's Point, Where Luncheon, Sports and Speeches Were Much Enjoyed.

J. J. HARTLEY RECEIVES PRESENTATION IN ESTEEM FOR WORK DONE IN PAST

Hon. Duncan Marshall Gives Interesting Address On Trade and Tariff—Tells of Changes Made in Politics During the Past Twenty Years.

The Liberals of West Peterborough held their annual picnic this year in the form of a delightful sail down the river yesterday on the steamer Stoney Lake, returning to Wallace's Point for lunch, games, and speeches. An ideal day, ideal crowd, and ideal trip, with no accidents to spoil the day, made it one of the most delightful trips that have ever been held. The number of women on board seemed to indicate that women have a real live interest in politics, and that the Liberal women have a live organization.

The refreshment booth did a thriving business under the successful management of the Refreshment Committee of the Women's Liberal Association. The Examiner representative heard one kiddie complaining because he could not have more after having two ice-cream cones, a banana, a chocolate bar, and peanuts. Three gallons of ice-cream disappeared on the trip down, not to say of the amount sold on the return trip. The boat travelled a little below Campbelltown on the river, then returned to Wallace's Point. The keen air and sail had put everyone's appetite on edge, and it was decided that all preliminaries be dispensed with and games forgotten until the inner calling had been satisfied. A long table covered with white and trimmed with red, white and blue runners, made a perfect setting. It fairly groaned under the weight of the tasty viands placed thereon. One woman said that she had been up since five o'clock baking for the picnic, and the table that was set surely bore mute testimony of the work the ladies must have undertaken.

Some preferred to eat on the grass and were seen scattered around on the lawn, in family groups, all silently enjoying the repast before them. A trio of pretty girls were busily engaged in setting their lunch, and had just commenced to eat when a collie dog strolled in uninvited and took a place at their picnic, making a perfect picture. Afterwards this dog was seen strolling from group to group, and was treated with true liberalism on the part of all. He probably enjoyed the first taste of home-made cake and sandwiches in his life. After his feast he had to roll for many minutes to comfort himself.

After all were satisfied, Dr. J. J. Craig, the president of the Liberal Association, in a few words extended a hearty welcome to all present, and expressed his appreciation to all who came to the picnic. "The more you put into this picnic, the more you will get out of it."

The party went then to the athletic grounds, where the men had many a close-fought horseshoe contest and the children and grown-ups ran races and played softball. The entries were numerous and the finishes were often very close.

Girls' race, under 12 — 1, Isabel Duffus; 2, Beatrice O'Grady and Marie Fontaine; 3, Ruth Ellis.

Boys and girls, under 16 — 1, Ruth Ellis; 2, Gerard LeBarr; 3, Albert Porter.

Softball Game.

The softball game was weird and wonderful. W. Perks captained the boys' team, The Neverwins, while R. Flemming looked after the girls, The Anythings. The latter team played anywhere from ten to twelve to the side, and Mr. Flemming complained because they all wanted to play in the same place. The game was cooked before they started to play, and the umpires were bought so the girls finally won even if they were on the short end of the score. Dr. Craig went in as pinch hitter for the girls and socked a double to his credit. Doris Rogers made a nice catcher and Olive Northey at third base made two

ITALIAN AIRMEN REACH SOUTH AMERICAN COAST

4,635 MILES

Reports Them Five Hours Out From Their Destination, Rio Janeiro.

BUENOS AIRES, July 5.—(Canadian Press.)— Heavy rain and thick weather are reported from Pernambuco and it is possible that the Italian airmen, Capt. Ferrarin and Major Delprete, flying from Rome and now due at some point in Brazil, have passed along the coast unseen.

ROME, July 5. — The newspaper Giornal D'Italia without citing its source, says that the Italian trans-Atlantitc plane of Capt. Farrarin and Major Delprete, reached the Brazil-Atlantic plane of Capt. Ferrarin and Rio De Janeiro.

The newspaper says that at 2.30 p.m., Rome time, the flyers were between Pernambuco and Bahia and were five hours away from Rio Janeiro, with about 1,000 litres of gasoline still remaining.

The newspaper, La Tribuna, carries the Italian radio report from Rio Janeiro saying that the aviators were "near the Brazilian coast."

Reaction to the despatches that the Savoia 64 had reaced Brazil was expressed in banner headlines reading, "Another World's Record Conquered By Italians," and "Ferrarin and Delprete Assure Another first place to Italy."

The newsapeprs take for granted that the Chamberlin-Levine disance record of 3,909 miles has gone by the board. The Italian estimates of distance from Rome to Brazil are 4,635 miles, which would be increased if the plane should go on to Rio Janeiro.

PREPARING FOR BARNYARD GOLF

New Kiwanis Activity in Charge of Sports Committee Chairman.

COMMUNITY CLUB.

Responding to Art Moffatt's call for assistance in the matter, a small number of Kiwanians turned out last night at King Edward Park to assist him in placing the framework or boxes which, along with the horse-shoes, comprise the entire equipment necessary to the game of horse-shoe or "barnyard golf," being sponsored by the sports committee of the club. Two of the miniature "landing fields" were installed during the evening and more will be prepared in the near future. The section of the park to be devoted to this increasingly popular pastime is in the north-east part—the grass has been mowed, and the courts or pitches have been marked off.

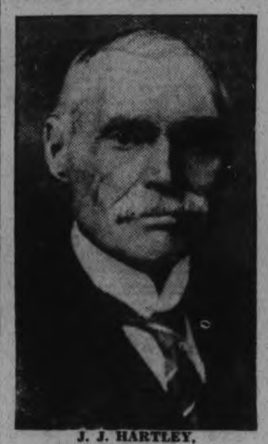
This new activity which the Kiwanis Club will attempt to put over, will get away to a good start with a public meeting which is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce Council room some evening after the work at the park has been completed—which means that more Kiwanians must turn out to help on the labor end of it. It is proposed to form a horse-shoe club, the membership of which will be open to all at a small fee. Game Schedules will be drawn up and as near as can be determined at the present time it will be possible to accommodate between thirty-five and forty players at once.

The main essential just now is more spades and elbow grease, and its up to Kiwanians to act accordingly. The chairman will make known the nights when the work will be carried on.

ORANGEMEN GOING TO ATTEND ST. PAUL'S

L.O.L. No. 457 at Nassau held their regular meeting on Tuesday night, July 2nd. Arrangements were made for the 12th of July which will be celebrated this year in Peterborough. Lodges are expected from as far west as Toronto. Among other business carried out was the arranging of a church service, to be held on July 8th, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. A special service is being arranged by the Reverend William Allan.

RECEIVES PRESENTATION.



J. J. HARTLEY,
Past president of the West Peterborough Liberal Association, who was presented with a gold watch by fellow Liberals at annual outing.

Increase In Cost Of Power Is Handicap To Factories Here And Attraction Of Others

Some of our large manufacturers are now beginning to realize that there is a great difference between the wholesale cost of power to our local commission at $17.50 per h.p. in 1921 and a charge of $32.00 per h.p. in 1927. It simply means that the wholesale cost of power in 1921 has increased for the same quantity of power from $92,614.50 in 1921 to that of $166,914.61 in 1927. This means a handicap against the manufacturers and citizens of Peterborough of at least $74,000.00 a year.

Increased Power Cost No Joke

To attract new manufacturers to Peterborough in the face of these increasing power rates is an extremely difficult task, because it is quite apparent that we have not yet reached the limit at which our power rates are going to increase. Heretofore the increase in power rates has been treated more or less as a joke. Many of our citizens have placed their unqualified faith in the Hydro Commission. They have found the newspapers in Toronto falling down, and continuing to fall down and worship the Hydro Commission god, and have industriously refused to even consider facts and figures which clearly show that so far as this City is concerned it has been "humbugged" to the extreme limit.

Hydro Intoxicated With Power

Dishonest motives are not imputed to the Hydro Electric Power Commission. The mistakes, that it has made, are due to the fact that those at the head of the Commission have continuously been intoxicated with autocratic powers, with the result that our manufacturers and light consumers are in the hands of a monopoly that will from year to year become more oppressive and expensive.

Cost of Power Increasing

It must be remembered that the Hydro Commission is not paying for its mistakes, nor is the Ontario Government, but the power and light consumers of this City are now paying dearly for the Hydro Commission's blunders. The regrettable part is that an increase from $17.50 per h.p. to $32.00 per h.p. has only begun. It will still increase.

Not One 5 Cent Piece in Sight

No provision whatever has been made for a sinking fund to provide one 5c piece so that this City will own any interest whatever in the Central Ontario Power system, although it was definately promised by the High Commission in 1913 that in 30 years Peterborough would own, free of cost, her share in the Central Ontario Power System. Now we find at the end of 15 years that our City's liability to the Hydro Commission is steadily increasing by hundreds of thousands of dollars, each and every year.

Street Railway Under Ground—Now We Pay

The fact is that this City has received from the Hydro Commission a raw deal. It ran the Peterborough Street Railway from a profitable business in the hands of private owners to a losing business in its own hands and finally it abandoned it, but the worst part of this City's experience in the street railway deal is that our increased power rates clearly show that this City is going to pay the entire loss of the Hydro Commission's blunders.

The Remedy and Save Interest on $1,000,000

The sooner the tax payers of this City investigate the facts and determine what should be done, the better it will be for all concerned. The question is: 'What is the remedy?' Here is a suggestion well worthy of consideration. I represent a syndicate that is prepared to undertake to develop electric power and sell it to our local commission for a period of 21 years that will net this City a saving of 5% interest on over $1,000,000.00 in each and every year, and the right will be given to renew the contract for another period of 21 years that will net this City a saving of 5% interest on over $1,000,000.00 in each and every year on the existing price that we are now paying to the Hydro Commission on the wholesale cost of power to this City.

The Remedy Costs Moral Support

To effectuate this saving the tax payers of Peterborough must give their moral support and in addition to that, all they have to do is to say to the Ontario Government: "You may keep your expensive electric power and sell it to others along the lake 'front'." It is also important that the syndicate I represent shall have its claims upon the Dominion Government supported, to the extent that the works at Dams Nos. 4 and 5 and at Burleigh Falls will be satisfactorily completed.

BODY MANGLED.

Inquest Is Called and Burial Will Probably Be Stopped.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 5 (Canadian Press).—Provincial and county police are investigating the death of Osmond Gunn, 25-year-old farmer, who was found in his barnyard on Wednesday. Cattle men visiting Gunn's farm, a mile east of Sparta, found the body with the head crushed and mangled. Horses were standing near, hitched to a manure spreader.

Coroner Dr. Coll Sinclair, of Aylmer, after a conference with Crown Attorney McCrimmon, decided an inquest was necessary, and that it might be necessary to stop the burial.

Gunn expected to be married shortly. He lived with his widowed mother and three sisters.

BOOM OF LOGS HINDERS BOATS

Conditions Are Only Temporary—Companies Are Bringing Down Logs.

CANAL OPEN.

That conditions are no different than they have been at corresponding periods during the past twenty-four years, and that a little patience is all that is required, was the statement made this morning by A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal in discussing a phone call that had come from Lakefield regarding logs in the Trent Canal. The call mentioned a boat that had come from Georgian Bay, the owner desiring to pass through to Peterborough.

Speaking of the logs in the canal near Lakefield Mr. Killaly said: "There is no more reason for complaint than there has ever been during those years. It simply means that for the next week or ten days the lumber companies are running down their logs and that a boom is across the canal to guide the logs. There is a man stationed there who will open those bounds and let a boat through and for three or four miles, a boat must proceed slowly to avoid damage against the logs—but a passage in this manner can be made. It is a matter of patience."

Hope Is Revived For the Quick Rescue Of Stranded Members of Italia's Crew

KING'S BAY, July 5 (Associated Press). — Hope last night for the quick rescue of the five stranded members of the Italia's crew and their fellow-castaway, Lieutenant Lundborg, flamed anew with reports of consistent progress by the powerful Russian ice-breaker Krassin.

The Krassin was last reported in the vicinity of Cape Platen, about 55 miles west of the camp on Foyn Island, and making about three knots an hour in its progress toward the ice-marooned men. Ice conditions were reported trying for such a ship as the Krassin, but there was hope that another day would see it comparatively within reach of those they are seeking to aid.

Flying conditions continue adverse, with fog holding up trips to those on the ice.

In the meantime, the search for Amundsen and those with him is proceeding with the Norwegian aviators, Leutzow Holm and Riiser-Larsen, awaiting an opportunity to join the sealer Hobby, which has been donated by its American owner for the search.

On board the Citta di Milano it was said General Nobile's condition continued bad, with worry over his comrades and the failure of his expedition preventing as rapid recuperation as his doctors had hoped would be the case.

ORANGE ORDER ATTEND SERVICE

L. H. Fowler, B.A., Addresses Members of Lodge at Warkworth.

IMPRESSIVE SERMON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, July 5 (Examiner Correspondence). — At the Sunday morning service in the Presbyterian Church, L. H. Fowler, B.A., preached to the members of the local Orange lodge. The Scripture for the day was taken from Micah 5: 1 to 5 for the Old Testament lesson, Luke 7: 1 to 7, and 1 Peter 2: 9 to 20, for the New Testament lessons.

Mrs. William Grant sang, "Crossing the Bar," which was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Fowler welcomed the Orangemen on behalf of the congregation after which the choir sang the anthem for the occasion. The address was based on Luke 5: 7, "For He loveth our nation, and He hath built us a synagog." This was a fitting text, for Orangemen should be lovers of the nation and builders of the church. The man of whom these words were written was the Roman centurion in command of the garrison in Capernaum, and upon three observations of this man's life and actions Mr. Fowler gave his sermon. The centurion believed that empires are carved out with the sword; that they are built by a fine spirit of comradeship and that they achieve a

BARN RAISING.

Bert Morrissey Erects New Barn on Farm Outside Downeyville.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOWNEYVILLE, July 5. — Bert Morrissey, who lives on the old Scully farm west of the village, raised a very fine barn Monday. It is a very large barn, on a stone foundation, and when completed will be the finest frame barn in the township. The whole frame is made of oak, which he got on the farm, and which is very scarce. It was a very heavy raising, as the timber was so heavy and there were about 80 men present. After the frame was up supper was served on the lawn by the ladies.

John C. O'Leary, an old gentleman residing near the village, took the team and waggon and drew gravel all day from the gravel pit to put on the roads. He is a wonderful old man and he is is 88 years of age.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 4. —Attendance at Zion League meetings continues strong and seventy were present on Thursday evening when the Juniors took the program with Miss Gladys Petherick as convener and Margaret Petherick as leader. The scripture lesson was read by George Brunton with prayer by Thomas Fry. The devotional talk was given by Rev. Mr. McTavish new minister on the Seymour charge. It was decided to hold league on Friday evenings, until the Thursday evening lawn socials were over.

PRESENT PLAY AT NORHAM

"Go Slow, Mary" Staged Under Auspices of Young People's League.

LADIES' AID MEETS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, July 5.— The Norham Young People's League once more presented their play, "Go Slow Mary," in Bethany church on the Norham circuit. Much time and thought had been spent by the Bethany ladies in furnishing a suitable stage and in preparing the delicious lunch which was served to the young people after the play, last Friday night. The church was well filled in spite of the inclement weather.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid meet at the home of Mrs. Clem Palmateer. About twenty ladies were present.

Last week John Diamond took a 900 mile business motor trip in which he saw many of the beauties of our north country, which is not visited by many people except tourists. Their course took them to Tweed, then north through the beauties of Ontario's eastern highlands, through Flinton, Bon Echo, Denbeigh and across to the Ottawa river at Renfrew. Returning their course was through Ottawa and east, then south to Morrisburg and west on the Montreal-Toronto highway.

Strawberry Festival.

On Monday night approximately five hundred people were fed and entertained by Norham Ladies' Aid at their church. Also starting at six o'clock the ladies served supper in the church sheds. Evergreen boughs and flags were arranged prettily around the sheds. On each of the two long tables extending almost the length of the shed were many beautiful bouquets of white, yellow and pink roses, peonies and other colorful flowers. The supper fully bore up the reputation of Norham ladies for their satisfying and bountiful hospitality.

Mr. Cook, noted Indian entertainer of Ottawa, certainly fulfilled the highest expectations of his listeners. During the first part of the evening he talked of Indian melodies, illustrating the talk by songs in the Indian language of the "Soo" tribe. Miss Hardy of Castleton accompanied Mr. Cooke very ably. Then the speaker discoursed on a few of the Indian customs, some of them laughable and yet beautiful in spirit. He said that, unlike white people, the Indians began their courtship with marriage, and kept it up, while some white people began while young, and ended it at their marriage.

During the intermission which followed, members of the Mission Band sold home-made candy, the Young People's League sold lemonade, and ice cream cones also disappeared quickly. The latter part of Mr. Cooke's program consisted of humorous recitations and songs. This part of the program was much applauded by the audience. The ticket receipts alone for the evening amounted to over one hundred and eighty dollars.

MISSION HELD AT LAKEFIELD

Redemptorist Priest Has Charge of Services in St. Paul's Church.

IMPRESSIVE SERMONS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 5.—A successful mission was held in St. Paul's Church last week, with Father Barry of the Redemptorist Order the missioner. The mission began on Sunday, June 24, and ended on the evening of July 1. Every week-day there was Mass at 5.30 a.m. and again at 8 o'clock, and each evening there was a service with sermon at 7.30. All these were well attended and the results gratifying to Rev. Father Garvey and his parishoners.

On Wednesday evening Father Barry delivered a powerful and appealing sermon on the day of judgment, when the Lord will come for the second time, not in humility as a babe in a manger, but as a judge to call men and women to an accounting of their own works. On that great day man will receive justice but not mercy; this is the day of mercy and now is the time given to us to prepare for the day when we will be called to answer before God for our sins.

The second coming will be a vastly different one from the first; the saddest words in Scripture are: "He came unto His own and His own received Him not."

The day of judgment comes to us all and none can avoid it, so that it behooves us all to live so that we may not dread that day, but meet it as Christian people who have lived up to the teaching of Our Lord and His Church.

On Thursday evening Father Barry spoke on eternal punishment, when those who have done evil will be cast into hell fire. The pagan, the atheist, and the Turks all believe in the doctrine which is given by Our Lord the existence of God unite in this doctrine which is given by Oud Lord Himself when He says: "And the wicked shall go into everlasting punishment but the righteous into life eternal."

Our Lord does not give us reason to believe that the fires of hell are not eternal, for He very plainly states many times that while the righteous and repentant enjoy the

UNITED CHURCH.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, July 5.—At the induction service held in the United church, Castleton, Friday evening, Rev. D. R. Clare of Norham and Rev. Glover of Smithfield, occupied the pulpit. At the opening of service Rev. Clare led in prayer, after which all joined in singing "O Master let me walk with Thee."

Rev. Snowdon, Anglican minister of Grafton, led in prayer. The choir rendered a chorus, "Christ Needs Me." The honor of preaching the induction sermon was conferred upon Rev. Glover. The text of his discourse was taken from the eighteenth verse of the twenty-ninth chapter of Proverbs, "Where there is no vision the people perish being written in revised version where there is no vision the people cast off restraint, where there is no vision the people are as sheep without a shepherd."

The first word that arrests our attention is vision. What does it mean? To the ordinary mind it means physical clear sightedness. As we consider it we get a far deeper meaning, its word synonym being insight. The prophetic vision embodies three great powers of man. The power to control the ordeal of life, the power to penetrate man's heart and the power that gives us ability to discern the will of God. To sum up vision means seeing in the sense of getting to the heart of things. As we speak of the vision of man we mean man has ability to interpret the will of God. For illustration, millions saw the bubbles of steam but only James Watt had the sight to interpret them. Millions saw the apples drop to the ground but only Newton discovered the law of gravitation.

In the field of personal relationship men owe their success to the power of vision. In all departments of human activity it has been men of vision that have made progress. Vision refers to something religious. Man has the power to discern God. The Bible shows that some men had power to discern His will in a way other people had not. What do we understand a seer as the Hebrew people thought him. A prophet was not a foreteller as much as an interpreter. He uttered those principles which had taken hold of him. The gift of prophecy was not the monopoly of the prophet alone. It was

TEACHER HONORED BY CAVAN PUPILS

Miss Helen Staples Receives Presentation at Closing Exercises.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, July 5.—Cavan Centre school No. 7, held their closing exercises on Friday afternoon. The teacher, Miss H. Staples, treated the children to a weiner roast, and had a pleasant time with the children, giving them a space for games, and a social time.

During the afternoon Miss Helen Smith read an address to Miss Staples, expressing the regret felt at her resignation as teacher, and appreciation of her work during the two years that she had taught the school and David Staples presented her with a piece of chinaware, from the pupils.

The parents, as well as the pupils, are very sorry to lose Miss Staples as teacher.

Teacher Honored

Gerald Staples returned from his school at Lifford on Friday. He has taught that school for the past three years but resigned at the close of this year's term.

On the Friday afternoon, previous to the closing of school for the term, and before his entrance class went to try their exams., the pupils planned a pleasant surprise for their teacher. At three-thirty the school room was nicely filled with the parents and friends. His last year's entrance class, Norman Neal and Lawrence Staples, who have been attending Janetville Continuation School, were also present. Vera Strachan read an address expressing regret at his departure and appreciation for the work which he had done; the other girls came forward in a body to present the gifts.

Mr. Staples in his brief reply stated his deep regret in severing a relationship which had become so cordial between his pupils, the community and himself. He also took the opportunity of thanking the parents for their help and hearty cooperation during his residence in their midst.

The usual "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," was sung, after which a pleasant half hour's conversation was enjoyed before the group dispersed.

WARSAW, July 5.—The rain on Friday evening did not keep a large crowd from gathering to "shower" and spend a jolly evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hamblin. The house was filled but there was music dancing, and contests.

The members of the Bible Class presented them with a filled fernery, as they had done another member of their class on Tuesday evening. Many other beautiful and useful gifts were received. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hamblin are well known as they have spent their lifetime in Dummer. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Teacher Honored.

On the closing afternoon of school in Warsaw, Mr. Currie's pupils presented him with a fountain pen and an address. The presentation was made by John Dewart, while the address was read by Ivan Clements.

Mr. Curris thanked the pupils and hoped they would succeed in their undertakings.

MARMORA LIBRARY WELL PATRONIZED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, July 5 (Examiner Correspondence). — Accommodated at present in the council chamber in Marmora Town Hall until later taking up its appointed quarters in the proposed new Memorial Building, the village library is after eight years of splendid service, well patronized. For the half year ending June 30th, an increased circulation is recorded of its fiction, non-fiction, and juvenile books over that of last year in the case of each month, making up the period. The average for each month in 1928 has been fiction, 280; non-fiction, 10, and juvenile, 300.

The 1927 report showed the following circulation: Adult fiction, 3,370; adult non-fiction, 145; juvenile, 3,057. These figures include nine cases of books sent to rural schools of Hastings County. Regarding magazines placed on the table, the National Georgraphic, Literary Digest and others are donated by members. Forest and Outdoor and Popular Mechanics are among those purchased by the board. More papers and magazines will in all probability be purchased upon removal to the new building, since there is the certainty of the new reading room being more used.

It is expected then that the library will be open on three afternoons of the week. At present it opens on Tuesdays and Saturdays. On the former day, the hours are from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. On Saturdays, the hours are from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The membership last year was 97. Thus far this year it is 78. The very able handling of the library caused an additional grant of $25 to be given by the government this year. The chairman of the board is Councillor D. E. Bell. The duties of librarian are being efficiently carried out for a third term by Miss Jennie Connor.

LIBERALS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

lovely catches, and was the outstanding player for the girls, while Walter Perks made numerous errors for the boys. He just couldn't seem to hold the ball long enough. After the games all returned to the lawn in front of the hotel, where speeches were held. Dr. Craig, the president introduced G. N. Gordon, who had a pleasant duty to perform.

Presentation Made.

Mr. Gordon expressed appreciation for the presence of so many, and was grateful at seeing so many from Lakefield present.

At our recent elections we had very good officers elected, and Dr. Craig, who was elected president, and who is in charge to-day should sit in the next Legislature, and he should get it, if he wishes.

He then came to the most pleasant surprise of the afternoon. "Mr. Hartley," he continued, "was president for a quarter of a century, and has held many high offices in the city, and for half a century has served in public life of the City Council and School Boards. He has now reached a ripe old age, and has always maintained perfect respect. As president of the Trades and Labor Council he has had a hard task, but has always maintained the respect of all. For the great services he has performed for the Liberal Party, the members felt it was their duty to present him with some memento of the respect in which they held him.

Itake much pleasure in presenting you with this beautiful gold watch. When the golden hours are struck off the Liberal men and women will remember you. I take much pleasure in presenting you this token in behalf of the organization."

J. J. Hartley replied with a few well-chosen words. "I am at a loss to find words to express my appreciation to thank you. I shall treasure it during the rest of my life among you. But I appreciate more the kindness and spirit that prompted the givers more than money can buy.

When I realize that I have your best wishes it is a great thing to think of. They say the world is full of surprises; nearly a quarter of a century ago I was elected president of The Liberal Organization and it was a great surprise. There were no nominations but all by ballott and to my great surprise J. J. Hartley was elected by a large majority. I could hardly speak I was so surprised and told them they had made a mistake but they were willing to take the chance. At that time Mr. Gordon was elected secretary and J. J. Duffus treasurer and it is nice to say that the three officers are present at this picnic assisted by the ladies who did not belong to the organization at that time. I cannot express my appreciation. I am drawing to the end of my journey and hope God may spare me a longer time—if so I will always be a liberal on the general policy of sympathy and kindness. I have no words adequate to express my appreciation for this noncrable and beautiful gift. I hope that we all so live that when we cross the river Jordan we can hear the Master say "Well done My Servant."

Dr. Craig said that it made him realize his weakness but he hoped for the support and sympathy of the members so he could carry on the good work. He stated that he had no intentions of a higher office but his idea was to be of more use to the liberal party and to build an organization that would be the means of a better showing in the federal and provincial houses. Then he introduced the Honorable Duncan Marshall who has been an agriculturist for some years and journalist for an agricultural paper. He made a name for himself in the west and was elected to the Alberta legislature for a number of years and was Minister of Agriculture for ten sessions. He is still an interested farmer with a farm near Cooksville and above all is the Liberal Organizer.

Hon. Duncan Marshall

Mr. Marshall gave a breezy and serious address that was just the right type for such a party.

"It is prosaic to introduce a political speaker into such a party. I am satisfied so far with the day and I do not intend to talk politics. As a matter of fact in the last fifteen or twenty years politics have changed, men's politics are not so fixed. The women's sufferage has been a good thing and I am pleased to have been a member of the legislature where women voted first in the west. Giving the vote to women has changed the whole complexion, they do not take their politics as hereditary as the men. Thirty or forty years ago it was very serious and politics were derived from the same source we got the color of our hair. Many years ago in Halderman when Blake was Liberal leader and McDonald was Conservatice leader the government changed alternately for five years and a meeting was called where everyone had a chance to display their views, here the bred party traits were shown. Those were the good old days. But now elections swing differently at different times, it is a good thing and the liberal idea of freedom of thought and trade.

The conservatives had a meeting and drew up a wonderful platform, but who can remember a plank in it, I cannot. Mr. Bennett is in the eastern townships on a proposition of his own in another part of the country. He can make more platforms than any one else. His politics are of the past. He is suggesting an embargo on pulp wood—real tory in essence a specious that has largely gone out of existence. He is going to deny the farmer who cuts pulpwood a market. He has attoned the market because of his paper interests. Then there would be no American competition but this is good, where would the farmer be without this competition?

Should Develop Trade

A good government should develop trade. The tory papers are crying about that but now their policy is to limit the market. I do not believe that the people of Canada will pay any attention to such a short sighted policy.

The Tories in Great Britain could not pay the national debt, but W. E. Gladstone arose and conceived a plan to lower the debt and made it so others had to follow in his footsteps. It resulted in that before the war the debt was lifted and Great Britain was able to get more credit to carry on with.

The Hon. J. A. Robb, finance minister, got this idea to lower Canada's debt and has lowered the country's debt greatly and with tax reductions. During the war you remember the income taxes, property taxes and the prosperity of the people and the huge amounts paid in by business concerns to the treasury but when the war was over they still had not only the national burden but the war debt. If we had had a minister like Robb one half of our war debt would have been paid.

Protection was never mentioned by the Conservatives at Winnipeg. They are now crying protection for the farmers and quote the U.S. plan but for every $10 protection they get it costs them many times more to have the privilege. They say we must have a high tariff. Sheep for example. But the kind of wool raised here is only suitable for the felt paper mills in the U.S. and they will pay for this. The industry is small and located in a few neighboring towns, we have our market in the U.S., why cut it off. People will buy where they like and pay the price for it. The U.S duty on wool failed, it drove people out of the sheep business and there are now 10,000,000 less since they have the duty at 31c the pound. People go in and out of the industry as they think.

Dairymen do not like sheep and the increase in dairying means few sheep and more cows. Leave it in the hands of the farmers and they will go where it pleases them. Our surplus market is outside of Canada. We export in large quantities.

There is less butter made now not because of the New Zealand tariff but because of the greater demand in the U.S. for milk and cream. The great thing in Canada is trade and business, a place to sell and the only thing is to build this up by easy and inexpensive transportation and any restrictions on this will give any British subject the right to question it.

Will Spell Doom

Restriction in trade will spell the doom of Canada. The present government is not a free trade government but it does not allow taxes on the necessities of life a policy of the liberals. The next election will be free trade vs. restriction and the restrictionists will get theirs as they did in 1896.

Three hearty cheers were given and Mrs. M. McNeily of the Ladies' Association also was given three cheers as a result of the success of the picnic which was largely in the ladies' hands.

The return home was the next item and the steamer pulled away from the wharf into the sunset with its crew of happy picknickers. The trip was spent in round and square dancing, the latter seeming to be the most popular. The tunes of "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here," echoed across the water with also many of the old favorites when all joined in a sing song on the lower deck. Just as the moon was rising the boat landed, the voyagers cheered till their lungs were sore in appreciation of the good time that they had enjoyed.

COUNCIL ASKED FOR GRAVEL TAX

Seymour Township Council Holds Regular Monthly Meeting.

(Special Correspondent).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 5. — All members of the Seymour Council were present at the regaular monthly meeting held in their chambers in the Ferris Block Tuesday at one o'clock. After dealing with the minutes and considering some of the accounts the communications were read. The first was from the collector of national revenue re sales tax on gravel taken from the pits for the roads. The letter did not name any set amount but explained that a tax of two dollars was chargeable to the persons removing the gravel.

Repairs were asked for on the Asphodel boundary and Councillor Locke was appointed to look over the situation. Jos Gibson asked for repairs on the thirteenth concession east of Allan's Mills, but his request was rejected for the present. Repairs to the Rawdon boundary were left in abeyance. Inquiries were made regarding the placing of persons in the House of Refuge, Cobourg. George Anderson presented the school attendance report, which was received and placed on file.

Several accounts other than the routine bills were ordered paid: Wm. Hall, $57.69; Sam. Bibby, $28.00; Stanwood Cheese Co., $20.00; Campbellford Town Council, $3.35. The clerk was also instructed to write to the Sawyer Massey Company for certain parts for the power grader. After some discussion the Reeve and Clerk were appointed to wait on the Town Council to try to make some arrangement regarding the error in the rate for School Section No. Eight. The Clerk was also instructed to charge two accounts, one for six dollars and one for eight dollars, to the Townships of Belmont and Rawdon respectively, for work done within their territory.

There being no further matter for discussion, the accounts totalling $2,274.38 were presented and, on motion, ordered paid.

The Council adjourned till 1.30 p.m. Tuesday, August 7th.

BRING ON THE EATS

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., July 5.—It's a long time between meals for Albert Brown, but when he gets his feet under the table and somebody else is willing to pay for the food, his capacity is something marvelous. Brown walked into a local restaurant and announced that he had no money albeit an overwhelming appetite. Two patrons agreed to pay for all he could eat. Albert needed no second invitation and here is what he ate: Seventeen hamburger sandwiches, nine cups of coffee, seven slices of bacon, two pints of milk, three oyster stews, six jelly rolls, two cans of pork and beans and six glasses of water.

NEW PASTOR IS INDUCTED

only as the thought and conviction of God had been long felt and had been waiting. The test of every true leader is that power to interpret men to themselves and thus interpret God to them. If Israel and Judah had listened to prophets how different the history of the Hebrew people would have been. In the Hebrew history the leaders lacked ideals. Whenever men of vision are lacking national life decays. The world not only needs the vision of few but the illuminated vision of many. The mind of God is not discovered by accident, but by those who study and lift their hearts to God for inspiration.

Let us find time to practice the presence of God, of putting ourselves in the way of God. As we start off on the great crusade for righteousness let our prayer be: Lord that I may receive my sight. Rev. Clare again took charge and all united in singing "Where cross the crowded ways of life." Rev. Andrew McLaughlin of Grafton, was then called upon to address the congregation as to their duty. The minister is our servant. It is his duty to reprove, feed the flock of life and teach sound doctrine. We as a congregation must unite in loyalty to God, unite in fellowship with each other and unite with him to reproduce this Jesus life.

Pastor Inducted.

Rev. Clare then inducted Rev. Gordon W. Gardiner into the pastoral charge of Castleton, Oak Heights and Morganston churches and extended to him the hand of fellowship. The service was closed by singing "I do not ask O Lord that life may be a pleasant road.

perfect whole only by bonds of religion.

Although the first fact is an unwelcome one, to deny it is treason to the flag and to the fine young lives who have given all for us. But the sword is only on expression of defence, and there are others of which we may avail ourselves.

Mr. Fowler exhorted the Orangemen not to sacrifice principle because of a false ideal of nationhood or a false ideal of the Kingdom of God. The danger in being too broadminded is that we may become shallow. The Empire and the Church must be preserved by cherishing our principles. And then that Empire and Church is built by a spirit of fine comradesnip. In Capernaum the foreigner made friends with the Jews. Brotherhood is something that may have differences. Not the brotherhood of Cain and Abel but that of David and Jonathan was ideal. Men are remembered by what they do more than by what they say, and the best of brotherhood in the Orange lodge should be this: "Are you serving your nation and your church?" Many illustrations were given of true brotherhood that bound the Empire even when men differed radically. Lastly, the Empire and Church are built to perfection through the teachings of the church. "Democracy is more than idle liberty; it is responsibility to your fellow-man. The greatest single factor in making our Empire has been the Bible. This is our duty, to further that building.

"The lives of some are forgotten; others remain historical figures, and a third class is composed of those whose lives continue to mould the moral fibre of the community and commonwealth. The greatest of these is Jesus Christ our Lord. If we would build our own souls, and then the Empire and the church we must believe His Gospel and follow Him to the end of life. There's not a thing we know, but that the Spirit of God can touch and make better for us. The "altar and the throne" demand that Jesus Christ be followed if we wish to serve them most effectively. The singing of Kipling's "God of Our Fathers, Known of Old" (recessional), preceded the sermon and the service was closed with "Lord of the Lands," and the Benediction.

DOURO, July 5.—St. Joseph's Church, Douro, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when the pastor, the Rev. Father M. J. McGuire united in the holy bonds of matrimony Ellen Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick G. Towns to Francis Heffernan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffernan, of Douro.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a maize georgette frock with hat to match, white kid shoes and white hose. She carried a bouquet of pink roses with maiden hair fern.

The bride was attended by her sister, Isabella, who wore an orchid georgette gown, white hat with black patent shoes and white hose. She carried pink carnations and maiden hair fern.

Mr. Robert Heffernan, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where about three hundred guests were served. The dining-room was decorated with pink and white streamers, and white bells, while carnations and roses adorned the table.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts which showed the high esteem in which they are held.

The groom's gift to the bride was a rope of pearls, to the bridesmaid, a gold bar pin and to the best man a tie pin. The young couple will reside in Douro.

RAMSAY—HIGGS

MILLBROOK, July 5.—A wedding of local interest took place at 1858, Bloor street west, Toronto, on Saturday, June 30, when Eileen, second daughter of Rev. William Higgs, became the bride of Harry Spence Ramsay, son of Mrs. C. M. Ramsay, and the late Mr. Ramsay, Rev. H. B. Kenny officiating, assisted by the bride's father, Rev. Mr. Higgs.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Alfred Higgs, and looked charming in a period gown of ivory georgette, her veil being in cap style, arranged with seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley.

The bride's sister, Miss Dorothy Higgs, attended her, wearing a becoming French dress of Nile green georgette, and carrying a bouquet of Sunset roses. The groomsman was Mr. Alan Fenwick, of Toronto.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the drawing-room, the groom's mother receiving with the bridal couple; Mr. Ramsay was becomingly gowned in grey georgette, trimmed with silver lace, and carried a bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay left on an extended motor trip, going first to Montreal, and from there through the Adirondacks to Atlantic City, returning by way of New York. They will reside in Toronto.

The bride's father, Rev. William Higgs, now of Beachburg, served as pastor of the former Methodist church here for a term of four years, preceding Rev. S. T. Tucker, now of Dorchester.

OBITUARY

JOHN E. WRIGLEY.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 5. — The funeral of the late John E. Wrigley was held from his late residence, Lot Eleven, in the Sixth Concession of Seymour, at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. Interment at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. A large number of friends attended the service as a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased. Floral tributes marked the esteem in which he was held. The service at the house and at the grave was conducted by the Rev. Ernest Harston and the Rev. Tait, at present under call to St. John's Church here. The pall-bearers were: Fred. Todd, Stirling Chappelle, Thos. Dunk, Alex. Donald, Arthur Stephens and Edward Duff.

The late Mr. Wrigley was in his forty-seventh year, born in England, the son of the late John Edward Wrigley and Mrs. Wrigley, now Mrs. William Potts. At the age of eleven he came to Canada with his mother and brothers and has resided in the district ever since. During his boyhood and youth he was employed by T. L. Diamond, at that time a farmer in Seymour East, but now resident in town. His academical education was obtained at the English Line Public School. Later Mr. Wrigley operated a farm of his own, and until his sudden death was considered one of the successful farmers of the district. Death followed an operation in a Peterborough hospital.

Deceased was a member of the United Church and attended St. John's Church, Campbellford. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. William Potts, his widow and one brother, William of Oshawa. There are no children. A second brother predeceased him several years ago as the result of wounds overseas.

"THE FIRST LADY OF AVIATION."

The St. Thomas Times-Journal takes the Providence News to task for declaring that Amelia Earhart becomes the first lady of aviation"—a statement the St. Thomas paper characterizes as rubbish.

Miss Earhart, of course, was the first woman to make the trans-Atlantic flight and is entitled to general congratulations upon that fact, but after all it must be remembered that she went as a passenger, and the success of the flight was mainly due to the skill and nerve of the two men who accompanied her.

The performance scarcely entitles her to the title "the first lady of aviation" when the remarkable flying exploits of other women are taken into consideration.

Miss Earhart's flight as a passenger over the Atlantic surely must take second place to the wonderful feat of Lady Heath, who flew alone from England to Cape Town over seas, deserts and jungles; or of Lady Bailey, who made a lone flight from Cape Town to England.

Both these flyers faced death a score of times on their journeys, and their success is due entirely to their own courage and flying skill.

Possibly, however, the Providence News has forgotten of Lady Heath and Lady Bailey, just as many other newspapers seem to have forgotten Brown and Alcock.

WATER HAZARDS.

The tragedy in Little Lake on Tuesday and the narrow escape of two inexperienced boatsmen bring sharply into public consciousness the fact that the season of water hazards is here.

Ontario, a land of rivers and lakes, claims many lives each summer, the drowning fatalities closely approximating the death toll on the highways.

The necessity of being careful at all times, of learning to swim in places where the novice runs no great risk, of being cautious in boats, and of keeping children away from danger spots, should be impressed upon all our citizens.

A knowledge of the art of swimming is the easiest and most effective safeguard—and that knowledge should be gained under safe conditions, not, as is so often the case, in places where there is great danger to the beginner.

It is true that many youngsters have learned to swim in such places, but it is, unfortunately, equally true that lives have been claimed in this way, and the percentage of risk is too great to be ignored.

The Examiner would once more urge upon parents the desirability of children being warned against swimming in unprotected waters, and upon the public of the need of being careful in boats all around the water generally.

LUNCHEON INCIDENT.

As refreshing as a cool breeze at eventide after a sweltering day was the sweet breath of Christian brotherhood and tolerance that permeated an incident of the Rotary Club's luncheon on Tuesday.

Rev. James Gordon, former pastor of St. Andrew's Church and about to take charge of a St. Catharines church, was a guest, and Rev. Father Paul Costello, a member of Rotary, asked permission to place himself on record as deeply regretting the departure from Peterborough of Rev. Mr. Gordon, whom he described as a splendid citizen and a fine personality.

And Mr. Gordon in return paid testimony to the pleasure he had obtained from his associations with Rev. Father Costello and his regret at parting from such a splendid friend.

The spectacle of a Roman Catholic priest and a pastor of the United Church publicly proclaiming their mutual regret over the fact that henceforth they are to live in different communities is, The Examiner feels sure, typical of a growing desire among Canadians generally that intolerance should be banned from this happy land.

We have less of it each year, thank God, and it is a grand thing that such should be the case.

Blessed are the people of a country where religious liberty and tolerance prevail.

SPEED LAWS NOT FOR CANADIANS ONLY.

While The Examiner believes that our American visitors should be treated with every consideration and should not be harassed by officials over trifling and technical violations of traffic rules, the line has to be drawn somewhere, and it must be admitted that there is a percentage of tourists deserving of attention from traffic officers.

The reference is to the drivers of high-powered automobiles who not only treat the speed limit as a matter beneath consideration, but who have a tendency to monopolize more than their fair share of the road and to drive as if nobody else had any right to be on the highways.

Most of our visitors drive as well and as courteously as the best of our own automobilists, but there is a sufficient number of the other type to cause a demand for action by highway officials.

Our regard for our good friends and neighbors from below the international line and our pleasure at welcoming them each summer should not cause us to shut our eyes to the fact that there is an element of danger on the highways because of the reckless driving of a few of these summer guests of Canada.

We cannot afford to let the impression gain ground that traffic rules and speed laws are only applicable to Canadians.

A DECADE OF COMMUNISM.

Much has happened both in and from Russia during the past decade. It is just ten years ago since the official reports began to confirm the murder of Czar Nicholas Romanoff and his family at their prison home in Ekaterinburg. When Red guards stormed into the royal quarters and killed the national head, they placed the seal of approval on the Russian revolution and the country was definitely committed to its era of communism. The Republic of Russia had been proclaimed on September 15, 1917. On November 7, 1917, the Bolshevists under Lenin had seized supreme power in the country. Then in June or July of 1918, the exact date is still a matter of argument, the whole family of the czar, with the possible exception of Princess Anastasia, were shot by followers of Lenin.

Where Nicholas ruled and later Lenin controlled, Stalin is in command. He has risen to his post because he is more astute and crafty than were his competitors for the Lenin mantle. Trotsky, Zinoviev, Rakovsky, Kamenev and the others have fallen by the wayside. It has been a contest in which the crown of victory has gone to the man who proved the fittest. Stalin has shown the brains of a genius in creating the atmosphere that Russia welcomed other nations and sought their aid in developing the country. While extending the hand of friendship, Stalin has mentally been figuring up what could come to the communistic party through dealings with these outsiders.

Stalin is true to accepted Russian communistic principles. He wants to keep everything under the direct control of the party and he looks upon all foreigners as fair game. His speeches to the comrades indicate he is waiting for the day when another war will break out in Europe. When that happens, it is the Stalin contention that the ground will be cultivated for the intensive sowing of Bolshevist doctrine. Along with his followers he awaits the next European war with keen anticipation as being the final act in changing the world to communism.

The open avowals of Leader Stalin show the way the wind blows. Reports from India, China and Egypt reveal activity on the party of the communist missionaries. Their penetration of Great Britain, France and Germany is a matter of common knowledge. The attitude of Russia is one of watchful waiting—waiting patiently to pounce on an unprotected and disorganized world.

On the other hand, all is not perfect within the country. Though nominally ruled by only one million recognized communists, there are some one hundred and fifty million people living in the nation. Under the Soviet, times are none too good. It was oppression and mis-rule that brought on the revolution in 1917. The same causes in 1928 and following years will have exactly the same effect in the country.—Border Cities Star.

CAN SMITH BEAT HOOVER?

Now that the Republicans have selected Herbert Hoover, super-efficient apostle of blue-prints and statistics, as their presidential candidate, and the Democrats have selected Governor Alfred Smith, a gentleman from the sidewalks of New York, with a brown derby on his head, what are their prospects for election?

Taking a map of the United States, studying the electoral college, and noting what happened in 1924, when the Republican Coolidge was opposed by the Democrat John W. Davis, one might well conclude that Smith hasn't the ghost of a chance. His task, in fact, judging from the statistics, seems impossible.

In 1924 there were three candidates for the presidency—Coolidge, Republican; John W. Davis, Democrat, and Robert Lafollette, Progressive. The result was 15,725,000 votes for Coolidge, 8,386,000 for Davis, and 4,822,000 for Lafollette. In the electoral college, Coolidge had 382 votes, Davis 136 votes and Lafollette 13 votes. The Democrats carried only 12 States out of 48.

These figures give some measure of what Smith must do to win. It is quite true that in 1924 the Democrats were torn by schism, that Davis, able and brilliant man that he was and is, was a poor vote getter, and that the Coolidge legend was at its height. It is true also that in 1924 the United States was on the crest of prosperity, that the oil and other scandals had not fastened themselves upon the public mind, that the Democrats were not favored by their existing cry of hard times. Still, allowing for all of these factors, Smith's task would appear to be a herculean one. It would still, indeed, seem impossible.

Smith, it is argued, will carry New York, a task held impossible for any other Democrat. It is also said that he will carry Massachusetts, New Jersey and Connecticut. But, supposing that he does (and it should not be forgotten that in 1924 New York gave the Republicans 1,820,000 votes, and only 950,000 to the Democrats) what does it mean? It means that Smith, carrying all of these States, and holding in addition everything that Davis won in 1924 (twelve States) would only have 220 votes in the electoral college, or 46 short of achieving the presidency.

Smith's task, in brief, is this: He must hold all the States that Davis carried in 1924; must win such pivotal States as New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Connecticut; and, in addition, must carry West Virginia, Indiana, Arizona, Delaware, Maryland and Missouri.

It is true that in all of these States Smith has a fighting chance. But, on the other hand, it is equally true that Hoover has good fighting ground in New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Connecticut—States claimed by Smith. Thus, in 1924, the Republican vote in New York was just double that of the Democratic, more than double the Democratic vote in Massachusetts, and more than twice as great in New Jersey and Connecticut.

In an election, of course, statistics of past contests are not the only things that count. There are personal factors, local issues, unaccountable undercurrents, prejudices, passions, foolish fears and cries—all sorts and manner of influences that make elections the most uncertain things on earth. Smith, certainly, will be different from Davis. He is the magic vote-getter, the Catholic and Democratic candidate who, time and again, has swept all before him in the Republican and Protestant State of New York in the face of Republican landslides.

Without question he will appeal to a nation of hero-worshippers. Up from the bottom rung, with something of the Lincoln tradition, he is also the symbol of that newer Americanism, the first man of the new immigration who by his record as legislator and executive has shown himself worthy of the presidency. To these, a mighty factor in United States life, to twenty million Catholics, to a great roll of Irish and German and Italian voters, to the wets who see in him a hater of Volsteadism, and to the older Americans who like and respect him, Smith will make a tremendous appeal.

Nevertheless, all these things considered, and remembering the history of the two parties in the United States, a history which shows that the Republic is fundamentally Republican, we should, if we had to bet on the outcome, put our money on Hoover.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The philosophical motorist fortunately sees beyond the detour to the permanent roadway that he knows is coming.

Despite the practice pedestrians obtain on the street every day in dodging motor cars, the Canadian Olympic team contains few jumpers.

We can't understand why there is so much unemployment when we see so many road gangs at work opening detours.—New York Herald-Tribune.

The Question Box

A. P. Q.—Is it true that $1 at compound interest will double itself in a few years?

A.—At 3%, $1 will amount to $2.032 in 24 years; at 4%, $1 will amount to $2.025 in 18 years; at 5%, $1 will amount to $2.078 in 15 years; and at 6%, $1 will amount to $2.01 in 12 years.

B. O. Q.—A few days ago you reported a minister as quoting the three kingdoms: "animal, vegetable and man." Is this right?

A.—No. Someone blundered. The three kingdoms are: "animal, vegetable and mineral."

W. G. Q.—What are the average speeds of men, horses and steamers compared with electricity?

A.—A man walks 3 m.p.h.; a horse trots 7 m.p.h.; a steamboat sails 18 m.p.h., and electricity moves 288,000 miles per second.

C. E. Q.—I have a steer 6 ft. 6 ins. in girth and 4 ft. 6 ins. long. What should it weigh?

A.—About 638 pounds.

V. O. Q.—What is the size of St. Peter's Cathedral?

A.—We presume that you mean St. Peter's, Rome, the grandest in the world. It is 613 ft. long, 450 ft. in breadth, and 438 ft. high.

T.K.: Q.—Please tell me the names of the actresses between 1880 and 1905. Was there an actress named Nellie Clare, who married a man named S. Kingdom? I would be very grateful to know.

A.—We have had the best records in Canada searched in Toronto without success in finding this name. There were more than 500 actresses named in some of the records, but this name was not among them. Neither did the name Kingdom appear. Our effort to find an answer explains the delay in answering your query.

S.B.K.: Q.—Will you kindly let me know through your "Question" column in your evening paper when Coloney Cody (Buffalo Bill) died?

A.—January 10, 1917, at Denver, U. S. A.

E.H.: Q.—To settle an argument, please inform me as to whether the end of the last century was at the hour of midnight on December 31, 1899, or at midnight on December 21, 1900?

A.—The latter. An authority says: "A division of the Christian era, consisting of a period of one hundred years, ending with the hundredth year, from which it is named, as the first century (A.D. 1-100, inclusive); the nineteenth century (A.D. 1801-1900, inclusive)."

A Thought

THE NEVER-ENDING JOB

Men and women may go to work at railroading, bookkeeping, stenography or salesmanship, and some time quit the job entirely. But no right-minded persons that becomes a parent evr stops being a parent.

From the time of the primal waif of a baby the parents are on the job until the end of time; I am pretty sure eternity itself is saturated and sweetened and intensified with parental feeling.

When parents are with their children, there is constant services to the offspring or constant effort to avoid helping them to their detriment. For the parent who goes on waiting on a child after it is able to help itself is giving lessons in helplessness, and oh, how rapidly they learn it!

First, there is the constant strain to take care of them; then the constant self-restraint to keep from going on and feeding them soft victuals with a spoon after they should be pursuing, capturing, and rending their own meat, for the sake of the development of their legs, wings, claws and teeth.

When we are with them, we are unconsciously watch them—our children. When we are away from them, our minds and hearts are prayerfully with them, hoping no harm may come to them and that good may come instead, and constantly. We keep ourselves as good as we can, not for our own poor souls' sakes, but because we fear the hurt that may accrue to them from any defection of ours from the straight and narrow way. And day and night, sleeping or walking, busy or idle, we love them, love them, love them. Whether or not we audibly mention their names before the throne of grace, every breath we parents breathe is impregnated with an agonizing prayer for them.

Other occupations may be taken up and laid down at will; the task of being a parent, once begun, is never ended; parents do not even take a vacation from fathering and mothering.—Strickland Gillilan.

GOD'S MINUTE

I praise and extol the King of Heaven.—Dan. 4:37.

O God, our Father, we turn to Thee with the light of the morning, thankful for Thy mercies and trusting in Thy care. We thank Thee for the rest of the night, and for the fresh gift of daily bread from Thy bounty. We thank Thee for the renewal of strength, and for the opportunities of service that await us. We thank Thee for the dear bonds of family affection and for the counsel and comfort of Thy word. Help us, O Lord, this day to bear each other's burdens, and to serve Thee by serving our fellow men. Grant us grace for the duties of the day. May the spirit of our toil bear witness to our faith. Especially we commend to Thee all our dear absent ones, wherever they may be. Though we see them not, we rejoice that Thine eye is upon them, and Thy care enfolds them. May our church be a true Household of the Faith. Bless our nation. May it uphold the banner of righteousness. Bless all who labor for the poor and the suffering. Be with those who, in distant lands proclaim Thy love, and hasten the day when all shall know and serve Thee.

Keep us, O Father, through the day, and bring us to its close in peace. We ask it all in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Men of My Heart

They were strong men—and she needed both of them for her happiness—but they were deadly enemies! What could she do?

MARY was born on a barren Canadian Farm and had known what privation meant. But her Dad, ever believing in himself, eventually reached a position of affluence and became an intolerable snob. Nothing was good enough for him or his.

At University, Mary fell in love with a dreamer . . . a shabby, penniless young student with absolutely no "background" whatever. Their romance was a beautiful, primitive affair — redolent of babbling brooks, wind-blown daisy-fields and wholesome, care-free youth! What cared Mary for money, or that gorgeous Museum on the hill with its priceless works of art, which she called her home, so long as Nicky loved her?

Came the summer vacation . . . and the longed for visit home, with Nicky, for the parental blessing. But Dad had other plans for Mary's happiness. Will parents never realize that they cannot plan their children's love-life? Nicky made as graceful an exit as he could under the distressing circumstances.

Of course, they were wed without the parental blessing; and began life together in a cheap, drab boarding-house. And the inevitable disillusionment might have been speedy had not news of battle resounded throughout the world . . . the call to arms for every red-blooded man . . . the ceaseless tramp, tramp, tramp of marching feet . . . eager eyes scanning the daily casualty lists . . . for, perchance, the dreaded telegram: "Deeply regret, etc." —— stirring times, those, days of heroism, suffering, tragedy, sacrifice——war!

But Mary faced the issue bravely. As the troop-train was lost in the distant perspective — carrying her soldier-husband — there formulated in her weary brain a resolve——she would go to her Father! Surely he would not now refuse her a home . . . for the sake of her unborn child? But Dad did refuse——and sent his only child . . . where?

Brazilian Tractions was the leader in point of activity and dropped 1½ to 59¼. International Nickel, up 1½, at 97½, was also active. Bell Telephone at 164 was up a point and Massey Harris at 42¾ was up ¼. Winnipeg Electric made the best gain of the morning, advancing 2¾ to 114⅝, Cockshutt dropped ½ to 27½, Brompton 1½ to 46 and F. N. Burt ½ to 69½. British American Oil was fractionally lower at 38, as were McColl at 30½ and International Petroleum at 39. Imperial Oil was unchanged at 68½. Seagrams dropped ½ to 19½, and Walkers was up a point at 60.

Noranda and Hollinger Market's Bright Spots

TORONTO, July 5 (Canadian Press).—Prices turned lower on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, though Noranda continued its spectacular advance, setting another new high level in selling up to $53.95 and closing at $5.00, for a gain of 75c; Hollinger was also a strong spot with a gain of 25c to $13.25. The rest of the list failed to respond, and losses predominated over gains. Hudson Bay, yesterday's leader, suffered a reaction and dropped twenty to close at $21.00 after selling at $22.00 during the morning. Pend Oreille was also down, losing 25c to $15.50. Other Western issues were also lower. Sudbury Basin at $9.40 was down ten and Teck Hughes was down fifteen at $10.85.

Good Harvest Weather Lowers Wheat Prices

CHICAGO, July 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Owing largely to the excellent weather for the harvest in Kansas, and Nebraska, wheat prices underwent an early setback to-day. At Wichita, Kansas, alone, arrivals of wheat to-day totalled 760 cars. Opening at a one cent decline to ¼ cent advance, the wheat values soon showed a general sag. Corn developed in strength, started unchanged to 1 cent higher and subsequently scoring sharp upturns all around. Oats were firm.

Financier's Death Not Felt In Markets

NEW YORK, July 5 (Canadian Press). — The lowering of the call money rate from 6 to 5½ per cent. to-day stimulated the recovery in stock prices which set in early this week. Extreme gains of two to nearly eleven points were distributed over a broad list, with nearly a score of issues moving into a new high ground. Trading showed a marked expansion in the volume of sales, in the first three hours running just short of 1,400,000 shares, as contrasted with less than 1,000,000 in the corresponding period on Tuesday.

Private advices from Washington that the Treasury Department looked for an easing of money rates after the quarterly settlement had been completed, went a long way in restoring bullish confidence.

The banks called $5,000,000 in loans but plenty of new money poured into the market. Except for reports of a further improvement in the oil and copper industries, there was little in the day's trade news to influence the price movement. The sudden death of Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, which is reported to have unsettled the European finance markets, was without visible effect on the stock exchange prices.

NORTHERN HOSPITAL UP-TO-DATE

NORTHERN HOSPITAL

Electric lights and shower baths for the men were some of the surprising discoveries mad by three Red Cross nurses when they flew into the Northern Canada hinterland of Woman Lake to establish the first outpost hospital in the famous mining camp. The scene is even north of the Red Lake area, scene of the wild gold rush two winters ago. The nurses who went in by plane to Woman Lake were Misses M. E. Wilkinson, A. Gamble and Henderson. They served overseas during the war. No. 1 shows their quarters at Woman Lake and No. 2 the hospital, such as it is at present. No 3 shows Miss Gamble, left, Pilot Harvey and Miss Wilkinson on their journey in.

9 CENT GASOLINE FOR PETERBOROUGH

A startling announcement that will be welcomed by the readers of this paper is the perfection of an invention that practically cuts gasoline cost in half. In actual test one gallon of gas has been made to run a car 59 miles. Thousands of cars have been equipped and the owners report amazing gasoline savings, more power, instant starting, quicker pick-up and disappearance of carbon. So that this invention can be installed on every car, E. Oliver 999 2396 S. Third St., Milwaukee, Wisc., is seeking men in different localities to handle exclusive territory for him. To those interested he will explain his $5,000 a year offer. Write him for his proposition and free sample offer at once.—Advt.

GREAT BELGIAN FINANCIER DIES

Mer, France, to-day. Aviation experts here are inclined to think that the theory of accident in that he opened the wrong door of the plane in going to the wash room was improbable.

The plane was held here and the staff of six persons in it was detained at Calais for judicial investigation.

Stocks Decline

Death of Captain Loewenstein shocked city circles in London today and at the opening of stock exchange stocks in which he was interested were marked down considerably. International holdings were quoted at 140 against last night's 215 and dropped later to 130. Hydro Electrics, another Lowenstein stock, was quoted at thirty-two against yesterday's figure of 51. Brazilian Traction and Barcelona Traction, in both of which he was interested were weak.

BRUSSELS, Belgium—The stock market here reacted violently on the news of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein's death, despite notifice that financier's personal weath amounted to £10,000,000 and that the entire situation is being taken over by those associated with him without any shares on the market. Shares in which Lowenstein was interested dropped from twenty to forty percent. Rumors that Captain Lowenstein was a possible suicide were energetically denied at the financier's offices here.

Ill Health Lately.

LONDON, July 5.—Lowenstein had been showing signs of ill health lately because of his unceasing activity. It was believed that the rejection of his offer to the French and Belgian governments to loan them a vast sum to stabilize their currency was a great disappointment to him.

The door out of which the financier fell is secured by bolts on the inside and patent handle lock.

The newspaper L'Independence Belge, of Brussels, says that Captain Alfred Lowenstein, killed last night in the fall from his private airplane, had important liabilities in Brussels and had tried unsuccessfully to obtain £1,000,000 loan in London.

BERLIN, July 5. — Lowenstein's death caused considerable sensation on the Berlin Bourse, quotations reacted promptly, but not to such extent as had been generally feared. Favorite foreign stocks lost up to ten points and artificial silk from 30 to 40 points.

INJURED WORKMAN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Bramberg Citizen Never Regained Consciousness—Found On Highway.

KITCHENER, July 5.—Without regaining consciousness, William Hieronimus, of Bamberg, who was picked up on the highway near Bamberg early Monday morning by Clayton Reitzel of Waterloo, passed away yesterday afternoon in the Kitchener and Waterloo Hospital.

As a result of his inability to talk, the police have not been able to gather much as to how the accident occurred. They are inclined to discard the first theory, that he was struck by a motor car, and are pursuing their investigations to see if there was a fight and an ensuing fall. It has been alleged that Hieronimus had been talkative that day and had been asked to leave a couple of places. An inquest will be held, but the date has as yet not been set.

The gun club will hold their regular shoot this week at The Gun Club on Friday, July 6th, to-morrow evening at 6.15. All the members are requested to be present for there are to be important matches.

KNOX CHOIR HOLDS PICNIC

About Sixty Members and Friends Spend Afternoon at Clear Lake.

MANY EVENTS.

About sixty members and friends of Knox church choir spent yesterday afternoon and evening in adding another enjoyable picnic to their already long list. Motors conveyed the party to the south shore of Clear Lake, kindly lent by Mrs. Mervin, Miss Chambers, Rev. Wm. McDonald, Mr. Atchison, Mr. McCannan, Mr. Hughes, Mr. White, Mr. H. J. Devey and Mr. H. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Curvin very kindly lent their beautiful summer home, with use of the grounds, boats and bathing and fishing facilities, which the visitors made full use of. A softball game between teams captained by Mrs. Curvin and Mrs. Wood was hotly contested during the afternoon, the game being adjourned as a draw owing to losing count of the score.

After supper the game was continued and ran to about fifteen innings, more or less, when Outfielder Gerard slammed out a home run, hitting the ball so hard that it could not be found. Many home runs were scored, May Pollack heading the list with five

The veterans' 100 yard sprint was easily won by Mr. Crocker, the honours in horseshoe throwing being divided between Messrs. McDonald, McCannan, Devey and Curvin.

The social committee, directed by Mrs. H. Wood, had arranged for a bountiful repast, and the company backed up remarks of appreciation expressed by H. J. McCannon with hearty cheers. Mr. A. Pitchford and Mr. R. J. Devey spoke of the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Curvin in making the party so welcome to their home, and the visitors cheered and sang, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." The party then proceeded to the South Beach Hotel, where Mr. George Coleman with three other members of his orchestra played a very fine selection of dance music, thus concluding a memorable afternoon and evening's pleasure.

FRENCH WANT NO REVISIONS

France Will Oppose Further Revisions in German Reparations Plan.

STANDS PAT.

PARIS, July 5.—(A.P.)— French opinion still holds that there can be no further revision of German reparation payments without an equivalent revision of war debts.

This was evident as one of the reactions of French circles to the declaration of Dr. Hermann Mueller, German Chancellor, when, in presenting his Cabinet to the Reichstag, he called for a new fixation of the total amount Germany must pay to the Allies.

The Chancellor's position was just about what had been expected here, and the claim for reparations revising had been long anticipated. The Chancellor's other point, evacuation of the Rhineland, caused no emotion but the feeling in the best-informed quarters was that in future settlements there must be give and take by both sides.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 5 (Canadian Press).—With the exception of the sale of a few loads of wheat, the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was extremely dull. There was no further change in prices for cash grain in the domestic market and the demand from all sources was quiet.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the Spring wheat flour market, but values showed no change. The local and United Kingdom demand was quiet.

A moderate amount of business was worked in all lines of millfeed and prices were firmly maintained. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and the undertone to the market was firm.

A feature of the egg trade continues to be the good demand from dealers for fresh extras to meet their daily requirements and as the offerings of such were somewhat limited the tone of the market was stronger with sales of Ontario extras at 36c to 36½c per dozen, cases returned, f.o.b. shipping points, while Western extras were quoted at 34c per dozen f.o.b. and British Columbia extras at 35c per dozen, f.o.b. Vancouver. There was no change in jobbing prices, but the feeling was firm with a moderate amount of business passing. The receipts were 2,505 cases.

An easier feeling developed in the potato market and prices scored a decline of 5c per bag which was attributed to the increased offerings for the season of the year and somewhat limited demand. The volume of business was small with sales of odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains at 80c to 85c per bag of 90 lbs in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 75c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track. Owing to the more liberal arrivals of new crop American potatoes of late the market also being weak and prices have declined, but at the reduction the demand has been good and sales of No. 1 grade were made at $3.10 per barrel, ex-store.

There was no change in the condition of the market for imported beans, prices being steady under a fair demand for small lots to meet immediate wants and sales of choice white hand-picked were made at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were offered at $3.50 per bushel, ex-track.

The strength which has characterized the local butter situation for some days was again the main feature of the trade and another advance of ¼c per lb was established. There was a good demand and considerable business was done. The receipts were 570 packages.

Owing to the continued good demand from English importers for Eastern No. 1 white and colored cheese and all undergrades, the tone of the market for the latter was stronger, and prices ruled higher with a fairly active business passing. The receipts were 17,767 boxes.

CHAPTER VII

NICHOLAS RETURNS

She lived in a tiny flat in a quiet backwater off Notting Hill Gate, and she went to and from the office by 'bus, sometimes going out of town for the day on Sunday, sometimes spending it in the park with a book. With her mother's small income and her own salary she was quite comfortably off, though sometimes the future raised its head and looked at her with a sharp question in its pert eyes—"What will you do when you are too old to work?"

Her answer to that question was to save all she could, and although once she had allowed Mr. Gurney to make a little investment for her which turned out very satisfactorily, as a general rule she felt happier with her money in a post office savings account, and it was one day when she was on her way to pay in five pounds that she met Nicholas Gaunt face to face.

He had drawn up to the curb outside the post office in a long, low, racing car, and they met together at the swing door, their hands touching as they both made a movement to open it.

And Gaunt said mechanically, "I beg your pardon." But he glanced at her as he spoke, and their recognition was mutual.

Then Gaunt said:

"My God, it's Jennifer."

And there was a sob in Jennifer's voice as she answered brokenly and ungrammatically:

"Yes, it's me."

And then they stood and looked at one another silently till an irate third person asked with sarcasm if they had bought the post office, and Gaunt took Jennifer gently by the arm and drew her to one side. "Come and have some tea with me. I must talk to you. Where can we go?"

Jennifer shook her head.

"It's too late for tea, it's past six."

His eyes grew impatient. "But I want to talk to you. I haven't seen you for—how many years?"

"Five," cried Jennifer. "But that is your own fault," she added quietly. She tried gently to free herself from him. "I have to pay some money in. The office will be closing soon."

He let her go. "I will wait for you," he said.

He went out and stood by the car, and presently she joined him. She was very pale and she despised herself because she was wishing she had worn her best hat.

"Let me drive you home," Nicholas said. He spoke with agitation. "Where do you live? Not Kilburn now? Let me drive you home."

"I can get a bus at the corner."

He frowned. "You mean you do not wish to tell me where you live. Very well, let me take you round the park."

She hesitated, looking at him wistfully. He had changed very little, she thought with a pang, and wondered if he could truthfully say as much for her. He was bigger and broader, and under his soft felt hat she could see grey in the hair above his temples, and she remembered that he was five years older than she, and that her thirtieth birthday was past.

A policeman came towards them.

"You can't leave that car here, sir."

Gaunt touched Jennifer's arm. "Please come," he said, and this time she silently obeyed.

When they entered Hyde Park he turned sharply to the right and drove down to the barrier by the Serpentine, where he stopped in the shade of some trees. It was early June, and there was a wonderful youthfulness and freshness over the world. Something of its glory was reflected in Jennifer's eyes too as she turned and looked at him.

And Gaunt said, as he had said that afternoon in Rumpelmeyer's five years before. "Well, you're even prettier than I had remembered."

There was a little silence before Jennifer answered.

"I am surprised you have remembered at all."

She wanted to hate him, but she could not. She wanted to be angry, but she could not be that either. So many times in imagination she had pictured just such a meeting as this and what would happen, and now it had come to pass the years were wiped away in a single flash, and her only emotion was a deep contentment to be with him again. She had considered five years a great time—and it was but a day.

And Nicholas Gaunt said with rough emotion.

"I have thought of you every day since we last met." Then he laughed and asked bitterly, "But you do not believe that?"

"I do if you say so."

"It's the truth," he said somberly.

He sat with both hands tightly grasping the wheel, staring ahead of him very much as he had done the day he came out of church with his bride on his arm; then he broke out abruptly:

"Are you married, Jennifer?"

"No."

"I am."

"I know. I was at the church."

The crimson blood rushed to his face.

"You were there?"

"Yes." She could not trust herself to look at him. "I stood outside in the crowd."

"And what did you think?"

She shook her head silently, and he asked again hoarsely:

"Have you been hating me very much all these years?"

She made the effort twice before any words came.

"I've tried to."

And he answered: "I've been punished more than even you could wish."

"I'm sorry," she whispered, with pale lips. Yes, she was sorry. She knew now that she had never wanted him to be unhappy, badly as he had wounded her.

The sun was rapidly setting and the breeze blew chilly across the water.

"I must go home," Jennifer said.

Gaunt turned the car about. "I suppose you will not trust me sufficiently to tell me where you are living?" he asked bitterly.

"I will tell you if you wish to know," she said, and she gave him the name and number of the tiny flat in the Notting Hill backwater.

"I will drive you part of the way home," he said, and as on that other occasion five years before when they had driven together in a taxicab, he stopped at the end of the road.

Jennifer got out and stood for a moment looking at him. The sunshine had quite gone, and now they saw one another through a pearly grey light.

"There is so much I want to say to you and I cannot," Nicholas Gaunt said, and she answered with a faint smile, "It's all right, I've forgiven you long ago." It was the truth, but she had never known it until now.

She waited a moment, but he did not speak and she turned and walked slowly away.

It was a month before she saw him again, a month during which her heart and senses seemed always straining for the sound of his voice and his step.

Then one Sunday evening, when she was sitting at the open window, with the lifeless London air beating upon her and her thoughts away in the country, where fields and trees were fresh and green, she heard a sharp ringing at the bell.

The Notting Hill backwater was in a very quiet street where few people came on Sunday, and for a moment sudden nervousness seized her, and she rose to her feet, her hand on her beating heart.

Then she pulled herself together.

Absurd to be afraid. Who would wish to hurt her? She went out into the tiny hall and turned on the light (for it was nearly dark now) before she opened the door.

A man stood there, his tall figure silhouetted against the grey sky.

He began to ask a formal question.

"Is Miss Fry——" Then he broke off, catching his breath with sharp relief.

"It's you, Jennifer. Let me come in."

It was Nicholas Gaunt.

blessing of life everlasting so, too, as the evil doers spend eternity in the fire that burns both the body and soul.

Gives Warning

The speaker gave a powerful warning against people neglecting their duty to God and deliberately committing sin after sin with no thought of repentance and no thought of the hereafter. He especially mentioned the sins of blasphemy, lust and neglect of the services of God.

On Saturday evening the service was especially in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and in her honor a shrine was decorated with beautiful flowers and the statue was surrounded with candles which were provided in honor of the Virgin.

Father Barry, who is a very powerful and convincing preacher, spoke on the place occupied by Mary in the church and in its history. God knew even before the fall of Adam and Eve that the world was to be redeemed by the blood of His Son and He knew also that the Saviour of the world was to be born in the flesh, so for centuries He prepared the way and of course the woman who was selected to be the Mother of God was the best and purest woman of all time. The church venerates and honors Mary, but does not adore her; adoration is reserved for God alone. Critics say that the church honors Mary too much, but there is more danger of that. When Our Lord was dying on the cross, there was His mother at the foot of the cross and to St. John He said, "Son—behold thy mother," and to Mary He said, "Mother, behold thy son. He then gave His mother as mother to all the world.

If our young Prince came here accompanied by his mother, would we honor him by honoring his mother; not so, and even so it is with Our Lord; in honoring His mother, we honor Him.

And we pray to Him, through her, as she who as our loving mother pleads our cause with her Divine Son. It was by her request that the water was turned into wine at the marriage feast in Cana of Galilee.

Hundreds of years ago a Bishop in Europe preached against the doctrine that Mary was mother of God and a great storm arose in the church of that time, which resulted in a council of many bishops and priests and outside that council hall waited a dense crowd of people to hear the verdict and when it was given out late in the night that the great council had decided that indeed Mary was the mother of God, the huge throng burst out with one mighty voice, "Holy Mary, mother of God, pray for us," and ever since these words have been used in the Rosary.

The Mission closed on Sunday evening and there can be no doubt that it will have been the means of great good to the parish. Beginning, as it did, on St. John the Baptist's Day, it seemed like the warning of that intrepid man again sounding in the ears of men and women, urging them to turn to God, and cast away the works of sin and prepare for the day which comes alike to saint and sinner, the day of God's judgment when those who have done well will go into everlasting life, and those who have done evil to everylasting damnation.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

On Arms and Legs Six Years. Cuticura Heals.

"When I was a small boy eczema broke out on my arms and legs in small pimples. As I grew older the eczema became wet and turned very red, and my clothing aggravated it. It itched and burned so that many a night I could not sleep. The trouble continued for six years.

"A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. I found great relief after using it so purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment which healed me." (Signed) Louis W. Pluns, 7128 Jasper Ave., Edmonton, Alta.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

In Paris they are wearing sparkling capelets of rhinestone like the one shown above. Below is shown Chantal's transparent evening cape of pervenche blue chiffon held with rhinestone buckle.

All is not gold that glistens these dayt and certainly all is not diamond th a sparkles like diamonds. If you are p os sessed with a desire to wear sparkling ornaments and cannot afford many diamonds or don't like to worry yourself wearing your diamonds and feeling responsible for them in your summer travels—wear rhinestones or strass or crystal.

The effect is very much the same and it really doesn't make much difference. Women have too much else to think about now to spend time wondering whether the sparkling stones that other women wear are real and otherwise.

Every woman I suppose draws some lines in this matter of wearing imitation stones. Probably you wouldn't wear a rhinestone ring, yet you would doubtless wear a rhinestone shoe buckle. Perhaps you wouldn't wear a white crystal pendant, yet perhaps you would wear a white crystal ornament in your hat. Some women wouldn't wear rhinestone earrings small enough to look as though they might be diamonds, yet they will gladly wear the sets of necklaces and pendant earrings of enormous white crystals that are still so fashionable. I suppose the idea is that one does not want to wear anything of an imitation sort when others might imagine that one wore them to mislead.

Some of the foremost of the French dressmakers now have taken up jewelry as a side line. Brilliant ornaments are as necessary adjuncts to the dressmaker as they ever have been to the milliner. Some dressmakers feel that a brilliant ornament of some sort is necessary to every evening gown to give it a touch of life and fire. In Paris they are wearing sparkling evening capelets of chiffon strewn with rhinestone.

One reason that dark blue has become so important for evening I am told is because it forms such an excellent background for diamonds and rhinestones. It is likewise a very good foundation for emeralds, which never seem so brilliantly green as when placed against a deep blue setting.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

A FEW days ago I broke into a conversational group where several women were discussing, in the abstract, the way to a man's heart. "Men are always wanting the moon," said one, "and they will not appreciate or take a victory that is too easy. Women shouldn't throw themselves at men's heads." Another, whose smart sport frock was not all for show, declared in her opinion men want women who will be playmates and companions. Another gave as her opinion that men must be won through their imagination, while still another believed that interest in a man's work, and understanding of it, will go a long way toward winning his appreciation. Men like romance—and, after all, if a woman has not the bright and quenchless flame of romance in her heart, she will never find her way through labyrinthine paths to the romantic heart of man.

Conspicuous by its absence from the conversation, be it noted, was the old idea that the way to a man's heart is through the larder and the cooking oven. I know a wife who can't cook for sour apples, and yet the couple is more happily wedded than scores of other families I know where the cooking is super excellent. She makes up in other, and more appealing, ways.

Here we are in the first week of July, and I am deeply appreciative of the grate fire—yet they tell us weather conditions are not changing. It seems I remember other years when the regularity of warm nights in July was unbroken. Pity those in flimsy summer cottages on a night like this!

Probably cheapness is a factor in the building of most summer cottages around Peterborough, but certainly they are not built scientifically to resist the heat of noonday or conserve the artificial heat of evening. Just a little more money spent in building, to give the air space between layers of wall, would return big dividends in comfort every year.

Have you ever tried to follow directions on a package of food, only to become mired in the mass of verbiage? I'm going to make a tour of the tins and boxes on the pantry shelves and write a skit for Saturday's page. Some of the directions are so absurd.

"He listened real well that time," said the five-year old tot returning from a picnic at the lakes the other day, when climbing into bed with a contented sigh after a day filled with fun and good eats. He was referring to the Almighty, Who had answered many childish prayers for a fair day by sending a real likable bit of outdoor picnic weather.

A Charlotte street lady, noted for the profusion of beautiful flowers always seen in her home, gives this valuable hint. When cutting stalks, do so under water, so that water is immediately drawn up into the stalk. If the cutting is done in the open air, a stalk draws in air instead of water, and becomes hard. "I never cut stalks with scissors," she adds. "I use a sharp knife, which doesn't squeeze the stalk in cutting."

From a New York car there stepped into a George street store yesterday an exceedingly practical-looking holiday maker. She wore a suit of showerproof tweed, with knickers that did not bag at the knees, and a simple but chic jacket with two pockets, two buttons, and long rolled lapels. The middy was in flowered material with a mannish attached collar.

"They shouldn't allow it" I heard a matron say in a store where she had been protesting that a certain soft drink was not what it was represented to be. But, dear madam, though rules may be made by governments for your protection, nothing can substitute for intelligence. FAVORITE RECIPE.

CHERRY DUMPLINGS.

(Sent by Mrs. G. L., Aylmer street.)

Make a rich pie crust, roll thin and cut in four-inch squares. Fill the squares with stoned cherries, a tablespoon of sugar, a little lump of butter, a saltspoon of mixed spice, and pinch the crust together. Set in a buttered pan with a little water in the bottom and bake a delicate brown. Serve with a good pudding sauce.

A Tip or Two

So often we have mashed potatoes left over and cannot think of any way to utilize them except in potato pats. Try this way: Two cups mashed potatoes, two tablespoonfuls flour, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper. Knead this together and roll out on a floured board. Bake in the oven in a pie plate until brown. Serve spread generously with butter and sprinkled with minced parsley.

ESCALLOPED HAM.

Another way of ending the end of ham. Two cups finely ground ham, one cup chopped hard-boiled eggs, one teaspoonful mustard. Mix with two cups white sauce. Pour into a buttered casserole, sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake for a half hour in a moderate oven.

BOILED EGGS.

To please the eater of boiled eggs one must time them so they will be palatable. Three minutes will boil the eggs with the white not entirely set. Four minutes will set the white and heat the yolk. Five minutes makes the white firm and sets the yolk. Ten minutes will boil eggs hard, though the longer they cook, the more fine and mealy the yolks will become.

THE BRIGHT THOUGHT.

By Jane Osborn.

It was not quite as a last resource that Hortense Fay had gone to work at York's department store. She had had one year in college and she had taught herself how to use the typewriter. She might have got some sort of office job, or managed to find employment as a governess. But somewhere she had heard that there were golden opportunities waiting for clever girls in department stores. They became buyers, drew enormous salaries, wore lovely clothes and went to Europe.

But after a week at the ribbon counter at York's her aspirations toward a buyer's career were becoming a trifle dimmed. Clever though the ribbon buyer undoubtedly was she was more than clever—and Hortense felt that the other traits that had had more to do with her success than cleverness.

Still, Hortense was not entirely discouraged. She kept her bright blue eyes open—did her best to make a good sales record and racked her brain for bright ideas which being communicated to her chief might lead to promotion.

"I've had a bright thought," said she one morning to another girl behind the counter. "I think I'll tell Miss Gray."

The other girl looked at her with mingled contempt and amazement. "Don't spill any of your bright thoughts to that hyena," she advised. "If it's any good she'll swipe it, and the chances are it's no good anyhow. New girls always have bright thoughts for a few weeks. You'd die if you could hear some of them. But I always tell 'em that if there were any new ideas about selling goods or showing 'em or running the store the fellows up on the seventh floor would have thought of them long ago."

"Well, this really is an awfully good idea," Hortense defended herself. "But I won't tell Miss Gray if you think she'd swipe it. I'll go right to the seventh floor with it."

Such a notion was manifestly too absurd to bother to protest, so Miss O'Brien went on arranging the rolls of ribbon on display on the counter. No mere salesgirl had ever gone directly to any of the executives on the seventh floor. But at half-past eleven when Hortense had time off for luncheon she serenely went to the executive offices on the seventh floor. And being extremely green she made her way, past various outposts, directly to the door marked Mr. Oliver York, Private. Mr. Oliver York, son of the founder of the store, was a person whose name was usually not even mentioned above a whisper by mere salesgirls during business hours.

Hortense stood in the broad passageway outside the door, and five minutes later when it opened and a genial-looking, tall young man emerged she went up to him without embarrassment and said:

"Is this Mr. Oliver York? Well, I'm a salesgirl in the ribbon department. And I've had a bright thought I want to tell you about."

For a fraction of a minute Mr. Oliver York looked dumbfounded—possibly annoyed. But a glance into the clear blue eyes of the unembarrassed young woman before him altered his feelings. He glanced quickly up and down the passageway, saw no one, and with a courtly bow opened his office door and asked the girl to enter.

"So you are working in the ribbon department," he said—and then thinking of a problem that had been discussed in conference that morning he forgot all about the bright idea the girl had had and asked her why it was that the personnel of the sales force changed so often.

And so it began. Hortense did not say that the personality of department heads and buyers possibly had something to do with the matter. In fact, she offered no solution to the problem. But it wouldn't have mattered if she had—because Oliver York was gazing into the sky-blue depths of Hortense's eyes and somewhere out of his past reading flashed the line: "None ever loved, but at first sight they loved."

"I came up to see you to tell you about a bright idea I had—for selling ribbons," said Hortense.

But Oliver, remembering that he had a twelve o'clock engagement downtown, had no time to waste. It was important not to lose an opportunity to see those clear blue eyes again. "You keep your eyes open," he said, "and meet me to-morrow say at four. We can talk things over—might meet at Stanley's for tea. I'll have you excused. Now I must hurry off——"

"Well, did you tell 'em your bright thought?" asked Miss O'Brien, when Hortense returned to her post after her very brief luncheon.

"No," said Hortense with a twinkle in her eyes. "Mr. York had an important business engagement. But he asked me to have tea with him at Stanley's to-morrow afternoon."

Miss O'Brien laughed approvingly. This new girl had a sense of humor after all. But later in the afternoon when the buyer, bearing an office communication in her hand, snapped out to Hortense that she would be excused at half-past three the next afternoon, Miss O'Brien did feel a little puzzled.

Two days later Miss O'Brien greeted Hortense with a grin.

"Well, did you tell Mistah York your bright idea?" she asked.

"I didn't have a chance," said Hortense. "We discovered that my mother and his were second cousins and—then he asked me to marry him."

"That was real sweet of him, I'm sure," grinned Miss O'Brien. "Don't forget to invite me to the wedding."

"I certainly will," said Hortense—and as a matter of fact she did.

How a simple daily health habit banished a persistent ailment

She was a victim of modern life, modern foods! Nearly always tired, depressed, headachey — never just sick, never entirely well. Sluggish internal conditions allowed poisons to form in her system—kept her vitality at a low ebb.

Laxatives were drastic, sickening and lost their power quickly.

Then a friend—a bright-eyed, clear-skinned, young-looking woman brimming with good health—told her own health secret. Simply a dash of Eno in a glass of water every morning.

To-day—this lady will tell you she has just begun to enjoy life.

Eno's "Fruit Salt" is universally used as a pleasant, gentle and effective means of maintaining inner cleanliness . . . vigorous health. Eno acts safely and naturally—a wonderful, non-habit forming regulator.

GAS STATION IS IMPROVED

Conger Lehigh Coal Company Redecorates Its Service Station On Charlotte Street.

CAPACITY INCREASED.

Many improvements have been made in the Conger-Lehigh Service station on Charlotte streets. Since the new firm took the station over from Robert Hicks it has undergone many changes.

It is now one of the most popular and outstanding stations on Charlotte street. New paint and new signs and bright illumination make it an attractive stopping place for tourists.

The whole station has been repainted in the standard colors of the company, orange and green The body of the place is in orange while the trimmings are green. On the door is the trade mark of the company. A boy who is happy at having a scuttle full of Conger coal is seen smiling while bending under the full pail. The inscription accompanying this happy fellow is "Conger Coal, The very Best, Full Weight." This appears on all the company's property. There are frosted lights all around the canopy over the tanks and lights all around the edge of the front of the building which gives it an illumination that is very attractive at night. A huge illuminated sign on the top of the coal elevator displaying the words Conger's Lehigh Coal Company limited adds to the brightness of the place.

The man who buys gas is well looked after and is given a very high class service. There are pumps fed by 1,000 gallon and 500 gallon tanks while there is an 8,000 gallon storage tank in the rear and there will soon be installed an additional storage tank with capacity of 10,000 gallons. This will insure gas at all times. The gas here is very reasonable in price as it is brought direct to the station by train eliminating trucking and handling charges.

For the convenience of the tourist there is installed a special telephone for their use at all times. The call number is 430. T. O. Donaldson the manager, told The Examiner that the staff is ready to give the best of service at all times and to be of any help to tourists that they possibly can.

They handle Conger's coal which the little lad with the pail declares is full weight. This company carries fifteen yards all over Ontario and as such a large organization is equipped to give the customer many benefits.

Being a high class service station they naturally handle all grades of oil and give free air and water service to whoever desires such accommodation.

the latest copy of The Daily Examiner in hand and repeat the slogan to him smilingly to win the prize. Those who go to the car only sacrifice their opportunity, as Mr. Free may call at their homes when they are not there.

Don't forget that to-day is the last opportunity for Peterborough readers of The Examiner to "get in on" the gold pieces and the special award of $150.00. Mr. Free also wishes you to bear in mind that a new special is being offered by Stocks Bakery.

Special Prize from Stocks Bakery

If Mr. Free is caught twice on the last day of his visit here, a special prize is offered by Mr. Free of $5.00 in trade at Stocks' Bakery.

Many Calls Yesterday

Mr. Free made many calls in Peterborough yesterday, but no one qualified for the prize. To-day he will call at Peterborough homes and many more people will have their chance to the five dollars. Mr. Free, during his stay in Peterborough, has made many wonderful friends and assures them that it will be a pleasure for him to return at some future date to give all those who phoned in numbers and have not been called on a chance to win a prize.

Last Day for $150.00 Prize

Remember the special prize offer. If Mr. Free is caught eleven times during his visit here, one of the lucky eleven persons will receive beside the five dollar prize, an award of one hundred and fifty dollars in cash.. This amount will be deposited in the Royal Bank, "the friendly bank," which Mr. Free chose himself.

Thank You

Mr. Free takes this opportunity of using this issue of The Daily Examiner to thank the management, editor and staff for their close co-operation in making his visit the success it has been. He also wishes to thank the Brewer Motor Sales for the Hudson Super-Six Seven Passenger Sedan that he has been driving during the contest, and if anyone is contemplating purchasing a new car, he urges them to make the acquaintance of Mr. Charles Brewer and his efficient and courteous staf fof sales representatives, clerks and mechanics.

Mr. Free expresses his appreciation of the splendid service he received at the Royal Bank during his visit here. All his transactions were through this bank, and Mr. Free found a very able staff ready to assist him.

He would like to thank the local manager of the British American Oil Company, where he was given wonderful service, and the following business place with which he carried out his plans:—

Elite Cafe.—Peterborough's Up-to-date Cafe, Splendid Service and delicious food, featuring Sunday Chicken Dinner and catering to the elite ladies of Peterborough, who claim no evening or after-theatre party is complete without visiting the Elite Cafe.

On his travels yesterday Mr. Free had several strange experiences. At one home, the lady of the house appeared at the door, in response to his knock, repeated the slogan correctly and was about to be awarded the order on the Royal Bank of Canada for Five Dollars in Gold, but when Mr. Free asked for the copy of The Daily Examiner he found the slogan had been clipped. When he looked into the eyes of the fair lady, she cast a downward glance toward her left sleeve and Mr. Free noticed the slogan, neatly pinned there to serve her memory in case she forgot.

At another home, at which Mr. Free called, in response to a telephone message to The Daily Examiner the lady of the house said she knew the slogan correctly for three days and when Mr. Free did not come decided to request him to call. She had memorized the slogan each day from a neighbor's copy of The Examiner and her friend's copy in hand when Mr. Free called.

BURGLAR ON VACATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 4.—Police here have come to the conclusion that a member of the burglars' fraternity has gone south on a vacation. Ellick W. Ford aroused official interest when he found a strange auto, parked in his garage, which contained a revolver and burglar supplies. Presence of the tools, police believe, indicates the owner has gone out of business—temporarily, at least.

SENIORS LOSE 5-4 DECISION TO PONIES

DEFENSIVE SLIPS OFFSET FINE PITCHING BY MACDONALD AND PETES LOSE TO KINGSTON PONIES

Youthful Southpaw Holds Daley's Crew to One Earned Run, But Loses.

MISPLAYS COSTLY

Toss Away Game After They Had Come From Behind to Take Lead.

(By F. D. C.)

Angus Macdonald, making his first start as a Central Ontario League pitcher against the Ponies at Kingston last evening, held Joe Daley's men to seven hits, half of them scratchy and one earned run and yet lost his game 5 to 4 because of costly misplays by his teammates.

The youthful left-hander would have won the argument by a city block had his defence not wobbled.

Two infield errors were responsible for the Ponies first run, and in the seventh after the Petes had come from behind to take the lead it required an error by Holyman and a very badly played fly with Jake Hall as the offender to give the winners a trio of counters that were simply handed to them.

Macdonald, working steadily and with nice speed and control stopped the Kingston wrecking crew in their tracks, Buck, Bubs Britton and Ada the latter the leading batter in the Central loop, went hitless and Cherry should have done so had it not been for Hall's failure. The youngster struck out eight men and his work should have earned him a victory.

Opposed to him was Fournier, also a southpaw who was in trouble most of the journey and was lucky to pull through. The Petes got him for eleven hits including four doubles, and he walked four batters and hit another but the invaders got none of the breaks on the attack while their own erorrs were all costly.

The Ponies led by 2 to 0 until the seventh when the Petes staged a rally that netted them three runs, a double by Hap Harrison with two on being followed with an opportune single by Swanston.

But having fought themselves back into the lead they insisted on handing it right over to Kingston again. It was a tough break for a young pitcher as the side should have been retired before Cherry came to bat in that frame and even then no damage would have resulted had not the usually reliable Jake Hall played a long fly so badly that three runs came in.

Macdonald in addition to his fine pitching came through with three hits in four times up, two of them doubles while Harrison and Ash continued their timely hitting, the first named driving in three runs.

The fielding features were contributed by the two centre fielders, Bert Hall making a diving catch of a low drive from Arniel in the first inning, while Del Cherry duplicated the circus grab at the expense of Ash in the fifth. In both cases the fly-catcher turned a somersault and came up with the ball.

A Chance Lost.

The Petes lost a great chance in the first. After Turner had fanned, J. Hall and Ash walked and Harrison was hit, but Swanston and Batten fanned.

The Ponies went out in order, Arniel on a sensational catch by Bert Hall, Buck by the strikeout route and Britton on a roller to Holyman.

Another opportunity shot in the second. Holyman singled to left but was out stealing. B. Hall fanned. Macdonald doubled over third. Turner rolled out to Elliott.

Kingston got the first of their cheap runs. Cherry was safe on Batten's miss. Ada forced him at second on a tap to Holyman but Harrison threw past first trying for a double and Ada reached second to score on Elliott's single through short. Tetro struck out and Batten tossed out Stone.

J. Hall opened the Petes' third with a single to right and Ash singled to centre. This promising opening was lost when Harrison drove one on a line to right which Ada clutched and Hall was doubled off second. Swanston forced Ash to retire the side.

Kingston also led off with two hits but failed to score. Fournier beat out a tap to Macdonald and Arniel bunted safely. Buck struck out, Britton forced Arniel, Holyman to Harrison and Cherry filed to Jake Hall.

In the fourth Batten rolled to Fournier. Arniel made a great stop of Holyman's smash and then threw high to first, the batter going to second. B. Hall filed to Ada. Macdonald singled down the first base line but Turner filed to Buck.

The Ponies made it 2 to 0. Ada was an infield out but Elliott singled and went to second on Tetro's roller to Ash. Stone drew a pass. Elliott stole third. When Holyman went over to cover second Fournier got a lucky hit on a slow roller to short, Elliott scoring. Arniel filed to J. Hall.

For the only time in the game the Petes went out in order in the fifth. J. Hall grounded to Stone. Cherry made a circus catch of Ash's hard smash to centre and Harrison grounded to Britton.

For the Ponies Buck rolled to Harrison, Britton was thrown out by Batten and Cherry struck out.

Swanston was robbed of a hit to start the sixth when he crashed one through the box only to have the ball strike second base and stop there, giving Britton a chance to throw him out. Batten filed to Elliott, Holyman walked but Bert Hall drove a fly into Stone's hands.

Macdonald struck out three men in the Ponies' half. He started with Ada and after Elliott had singled over second he fanned Tetro and Stone.

In the Lead—For a Moment.

The Petes came from behind to take the lead in the seventh. Macdonald doubled to centre. Turner walked. J. Hall forced Macdonald at third on a roller to Arniel. Ash filed to Cherry, but Harrison came through with a long double which Turner and Hall breezed home. Swanston put the Petes in front by a single over second scoring Harrison. Batten was safe on Stone's fumble but Holyman fouled to Tetro.

Joe Daley's men snatched the lead back in their half, but they had to have a lot of help from Dame Fortune. Fournier walked to start the inning, but Arniel fanned. Holyman lost Buck's grounder with a chance for a double killing in sight. Britton hoisted one to Ash and there should have been three out when Cherry drove a long one to left. Jake Hall however misjudged the fly and presented Cherry with a triple Fournier and Buck scored and on Hall's poor throw in Cherry completed the circuit. Ada rolled to Ash.

In the eighth Bert Hall rolled to Arniel. Macdonald was called out on strikes. Turner singled to left but J. Hall rolled to Fournier.

For Kingston Elliott filed to J. Hall, Tetro's hoist to short right was nicely taken by Harrison and Macdonald tossed out Stone.

The Petes made a fighting effort to pull the game out of the fire in the ninth. Ash doubled to left and scored on Harrison's long single to the same field. The attack petered out there, however. Swanston forced Harrison, Britton to Elliott and Batten in turn forced Swanston, going to second himself on Britton's wide throw to complete a double. Holyman filed to Ada and the game was over.

Crescents Defeat Bethany In E. P. L. Fixture

VIEWS ON SPORT

C.G.E. and De Laval will play in a City League softball fixture to-night at Confederation Park.

When Freddy and Joe Jones crowded third base in last night's game, the latter did not force F. Jones off the bag. A runner may leave second base on the supposition that a runner on third will score, and the runner from second may go to third base and touch it. That does not prevent him from returning to second base if the runner on third returns to that base because he is unable to reach home.

* * * * * *

With McDonough at short, Ranger in middle, and Brioux in right field, the Crescents' line-up is undergoing repairs owing to injuries and the departure of players from the city. The team has lost Kane and Cameron from the infield and Outfielder Jack LeBarr.

* * * * * *

Raybestos and Cogs shoulyd provide an interesting game to-morrow evening. The Cogs will likely be at full strength, with Rooke back on duty at first base, and a win will put the team on an even footing with the Rays.

* * * * * *

Aided by a bad throw on the part of the Bethany first baseman, which brought in the winning run in the final frame, the Crescents defeated the Durhamites by a 5-4 score in an E.P.L. fixture played last night. The visitors played snappy ball throughout the whole game, giving Russell the best of support, while Mein's team mates played poorly behind him until the seventh inning, when they staged a rally to bring home the bacon.

* * * * * *

The Kiwanis Juniors put up one of their strongest battles of the season last night, but were nosed out by the Royals by a 4-2 score. Crary and Holmes pitched good ball, the Kiwanis hurler having nine strike-outs, while the Royal moundsman allowed only one hit in the game.

* * * * * *

Protests were registered several times by the Kiwanis manager against some of the umpire's decisions, and on two different occasions he appeared to be well within his rights.

LEGION LOSES TO ELECTRICS

Winners Have Taken Their Seventh Straight Game of Season.

SCORE 21-13.

(Special Correspondent)

Last night's softball game resulted in a win for the Electrics and the seventh straight loss for the Legionnaires. When the time to take the field arrived and passed the Legionnaires had only six men on their lineup. This has been the case in at least three of their seven games and is directly responsible for three of their losses. Last night the Electrics allowed the Legionnaires to use three players that were not on their line-up and the game was made much more interesting. Nevertheless their generosity was repaid in good measure by their victory of 1-13 thus keeping the Legionnaires at the bottom of the list while the Electrics mount one more rung of the ladder into fourth place. To-night the Clerks meet the Mill with Tinney and Farrell in charge of the game.

The game by innings:—
Electrics .... 216 104 205—21
Legionnaires ... ... 503 100 004—13

YANKS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Lose First Game to Senators 5-2, Taking the Second 5-4.

CHICAGO LOSE ONE

NEW YORK, July 5 (Canadian Press).—The Washington Senators and the New York Yankees divided a holiday double-header at Washington yesterday, the Senators winning the first game, 5 to 2, and the Yankees the second, 5 to 4.

Barnes, Washington centre fielder, hit a home run in the first inning of the first game, driving in two of his team-mates ahead of him.

A combination of extra base hits by Combs, Lazzeri and Paschal netted five runs for the Yankees in the sixth inning of the second game.

After young Ed. Walsh lost the first game of his big league career in the first game of the double-header at Chicago, won by the Browns, 11 to 8, the White Sox came back in the second game and took a 1 to 0 pitchers' battle to even the day's effort and take four out of five of the series.

Thomas and Ogden pitched great ball in the second game, Ogden allowing four hits and Thomas five.

Young Big Ed. Walsh lasted four innings of the first game, and was taken out after the Browns scored four in the fourth.

The Philadelphia Athletics took both games from the Boston Red Sox yesterday, winning the morning game, 5 to 4, and the afternoon game, 11 to 3, at Philadelphia. Doug. Tait's error on Jimmy Fox's pinch single in the eighth inning of the first game allowed Joe Boley to score the winning run from first base.

The Athletics knocked Ed. Morris, Boston's right-hander, out of the box in five innings in the afternoon. Joe Hauser hit a home run in each game to bring his season's total to 12. Bing Miller also hit for the circuit in the afternoon. The second game was called on account of darkness in the eighth.

Tigers Break Even.

At Detroit the Tigers and Cleveland broke even in a Fourth of July double-header. The Tigers took the first game, 10 to 5, and lost the second, 4 to 3. Detroit batsmen hammered two Indian hurlers freely to take the first game, featured by a home run by Gehringer in the first inning with two runners on base. In the second game Cleveland rallied in the eighth and ninth innings after Billings had pitched shutout ball in the first seven frames, scoring the tieing and winning runs in the ninth.

PETES TO MEET OSHAWA HERE IN NEXT GAME

Motorists Will Be Opposition in Saturday Battle.

ARE IN THE LEAD

But Petes Are Determined to Knock Them Off in This Battle.

The defeat sustained by the Petes at Kingston last night was disappointing in spite of the fact that it was the hottest argument they have given the Ponies on their own diamond for many a moon, but the local gang are still right in the running and determined to regain the lost ground by beating Oshawa here on Saturday.

Last week the Petes knocked Belleville out of first place and they are confident of performing the same feat for Oshawa, who are at present leading the race by a few points.

The Motorists picked off a lucky win here a few weeks ago but they will find the going a lot tougher on Saturday for the Petes are fighting hard and notwithstanding the temporary setback in Kingston are resolved to battle through to the top of the heap.

Saturday's game should be a red hot argument all the way and in view of the good ball the Petes have been playing will attract a real crowd.

Either Matthews or Dainty will do the heaving for Oshawa while the local selection has not been announced.

GIANTS HAVE EVEN BREAK WITH CARDS

Philadelphia Wins From Boston—Pound Cooney and Cantwell Hard.

REDS WIN TWO.

Hack Wilson Gets Two Homers in Double-header at St. Louis.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Giants gained an even break with Brooklyn in the holiday double-header by winning the second game, 5 to 2, after Dazzy Vance had pitched the Robins to an 8 to 3 victory in the opener. The second game was called with two out in the Giant fifth when dark storm clouds swept up the Harlem and made it impossible to see the ball.

In the second clash, Larry Benton got credit for his seventeenth complete game and his fourteenth victory against three defeats, although he was called upon to work only five rounds. Benton ran his season's record to 150 2-3 innings without relief.

The Phillies pounded Cooney and Cantwell hard in the early innings of what was to have been the first game of a double header at Boston and won by the score of 10 to 6. The second game was postponed when a heavy shower made the field too wet for playing.

Cantwell, who relieved Cooney in the first inning, was touched for six runs, but settled down after the fifth and held the Quakers runless. Walsh pitched the first seven innings for the Phillies, retiring in favor of Alex. Ferguson, although he had been holding on to a lead his mates had piled up for him.

The Cincinnati Reds made it a clean sweep at Pittsburgh by annexing the afternoon contest in an easy manner, 11 to 3 after blanking the Buccaneers in the morning, 6 to 0.

Burleigh Grimes pitched out of turn in the second fray, but he was unable to stave off the attack of the visitors. He was relieved by Tauscher in the eighth. Kolp started and finished the contest for the Reds.

Rixey was complete master of the Pirates in the morning. Dawson started for the home club, but gave way to Miljus in the fifth and Tauscher finished.

Dressen scored five runs and made three hits in the afternoon. Walker hit a homer in the morning.

Roettger, Cardinal right-fielder, was disabled when he dislocated his right leg in a slide to third base. He will be out of the game for some time to come.

Hack Wilson kept the National League home-run leadership by batting out two homers in the double-header at St. Louis, bringing his total to 19, while Bottomley of the Cardinals kept at his heels with a total of 18. The teams broke even, the Cards winning the morning game by 11 to 9, and the Cubs winning in the afternoon by 16 to 9.

Ted Morgan Will Defend Title To-Day

NEW YORK, July 5.—(Canadian Press).—In a bout postponed from yesterday because of Promoter Humbert Fugazy's objections to staging a show on a holiday, Ted Morgan, of Seattle, will defend his junior lightweight championship against Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, of New York, to-day in a fifteen-round encounter at Ebbet's Field.

The 130-pound titleholder recently won a decision over Martin at Madison Square Garden, but only after he had been forced to the limit to retain his championship.

LEAFS LOSE FINAL GAME

Defeated by Bisons 7-4 in Afternoon Encounter of Twin Bill.

ROYALS BREAK EVEN

BUFFALO, July 5. — (Canadian Press).—The league leading Toronto Maple Leafs and Buffalo Bisons struggled to a stand-off in morning and afternoon duels here yesterday, the invaders copping the early affair, 7 to 4, and the Bisons winning the afternoon encounter by the same score. The Leafs went on a hitting spree against Curley Ogden to score all their tallies in the second inning of the morning game. Twelve men took their swings and five swatted the ball safely, seven runners making the round trip. Doyle, Sheedy and Phillips each drove in a pair of markers with singles. Jess Doyle had one bad inning for the Leafs also, but allowed only four runs. Homers by Barrett and Moore featured the Bison win, an even split. Alexander hit another long homer for the Leafs.

Break Even.

ROCHESTER, July 5.—(Canadian Press). — Rochester and Montreal broke even in morning and afternoon Independence Day games here yesterday, the Royals taking the morning fray, 7 to 3, behind Falk, while Art Decatur shut out the visitors yesterday afternoon, 5 to 0, allowing but five safe singles. Charlie Gelbert smashed out his fifteenth home run of the season in the first game.

DURHAMITES PLAY WELL

Mein for Crescents Given Poor Support by His Teammates.

Crescents tuned in on one of their old-time rallies to beat Bethany at Exhibition Park last evening, the score being 5 to 4. Two runs down, when their seventh opened, Crescents had a likely-looking batting order, and J. Jones led off with a double. Bob Ross dropped one into left, and Lew LeBarr crashed a double to right to score the runners ahead and tie the count. Jack McDonough laid down a sacrifice to the pitcher, who threw the runner out at first, but Ryley, in an attempt to double LeBarr at third, threw the ball over Philp's head, allowing the winning run to go in.

Up to the seventh, Crescents had failed miserably behind Mein's fine pitching, while Bethany were playing snappy baseball to support Russell. The visitors got a pair of runs in the first, and added two more in the fourth, and were headed to victory until the seventh, when Crescents came to life and nosed out a win.

Lancashire contributed a nice piece of fielding in the fourth, when he made a sweet running catch of Frost's fly and doubled the runner at second. Reynolds did some very fine work at the plate, where he handled a couple of throws and got the runners. Bob Ross also had a pair of killings at the plate.

Two infield flies got players and fans rattled. The first appeared in the second when, with runners on first and second and one gone, Reynolds popped one just back of second, which J. Jones dropped. The runners missed the play, the batter being out, and Jones picked up the ball and tossed to McDonough on the bag for the third put-out. The second one, in the third, broke up a real threat by the Crescents. Two were on and nobody out, when J. Jones popped back to short, McGill, who came in for the ball, got it over to third to catch Brioux.

RUB DEVELOPS MUSCLES OF BODY

Is a Good Adjunct Toward Attaining Physical Perfection.

One of the greatest adjunct to attaining physical perfection is the massage, or what is commonly called the "rub", among fighters of to-day. The rubber can aid a man greatly in attaining fine condition, or he can hurt his condition, says Jimmy De Forest, trainer of champions, in the July "Fight Stories" magazine.

A good rubber, a man who knows his business, really exercises all the muscles of the body without causing the exhaustion that usually follows physical exertion. In rubbing, the masseur should begin at the far extremities, and rub toward the heart. This really helps ease the heart's job, inasmuch as it helps the blood to flow through the veins back to the heart. It prevents the heart from "reaching" for a supply of blood to pump.

Why, I have seen a good masseur send a man into the ring in pretty good condition who didn't do a lick of hard training. This happened once in the case of Charley Weinert, the Newark Adonis, who never did like the drudgery of hard training. In two weeks the masseur or rubber had rubbed a big "bay window" off Charley and had reduced his weight by twelve pounds. You see, a good rubbing, as I said before, is really exercise.

Getting back to the most striking difference between training of the past and the present, it arises from the fact that in those days all training aimed at endurance, but the fighter to-day has to face no such prolonged drag on his powers and stamina and when the fights were scheduled to go from twenty-five rounds to a finish.

State laws everywhere in the United States, and the laws of France and England as well now frown on long battles. Fights nowadays are limited to from ten to fifteen rounds. Why, the old boys in the early days were hardly getting warmed up in such a short time.

This has brought about a condition where extraordinary speed rather than extraordinary endurance is sought to be developed. Naturally, you want to send your man in at the top of his stamina, but nevertheless you do not want to set him at those old jobs of loose training which while they hardened his body and strengthened his wind for long encounters, were only too likely to turn him into a muscle-bound and slow-moving athlete.

Now, mind you, when I say loose training, I do not mean that you are not to train for loose muscles. That's just what you do want nowadays, whether you're training for a fight or a frolic. In training we must remember that the fellow who can let his muscles relax completely when he is not using them is the best conditioned athlete.

'NOTHER NEW MODEL

CHICAGO, July 5.—"Oh, Marjorie, come on over! We've the darlingest iceman. And he plays bridge; he uses the sweetest perfume and has the nicest hair." Just a suggested line of chatter over the back fence this summer, when the 1928 model iceman appears, as heralded by Leslie C. Smith, secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries. "We are going to insist that our men be as neat and handsome as possible," says Smith. "They will be dressed in appropriate uniforms. While brawn will be essential; beauty will be paramount. They have got to have it."

KIWANIS LOSE TO ROYALS

Play Good Game, But Are Defeated by a 4-2 Score.

HURLERS GOOD

The All Saints' Royals beat the Kiwanis four runs to two in a junior city league baseball game in James Stevenson park last night. The Kiwanis playing their best game of the season put up a strenuous opposition which might have won the game. The Royals played their usual good brand of baseball and outhit their opponents seven to one.

Crary for the Kiwanis turned in a wonderful exhibition striking out nine men and only issuing two passes which was in the first frame. In two innings onl three batters faced him and in two others there were only four came to the plate.

Holmes for the Royals although not registering the strikeouts that Crary did only allowed one hit in the game and that was when Jimmy Gillespie picked off a fast one for a two bagger. The Kiwanis connected often but the fine support disposed of the hittings.

Hope the first man up for the Royals connected for a slow one which crary muffled allowing the runner to get to first. Hollingsworth was walked but in the meantime Hope in attempting to steal second collided with Rishea when he put the ball on him and was knocked out. Hope was called safe and manager Deannard entered strenuous objections to the decision as Hope was off the base and the game was not called when Rishea planted the old spalding on him. Bevis connected but Hope was caught at third, Hatton singled, scoring Hollingsworth, L. Hollingsworth walked, Jones lifted one to LeBarr, Hartley singled over second scoring Bevis and Hatton and Gordon struck out. In the first Holmes retired the Kiwanis in order, and Crary did likewise in the second.

The Kiwanis threatened to score in the second when after Cotton the first up had struckout. Howden walked, Gillespie doubled, Rishea connected but Howden was caught trying to steal home, Starr lined one down to Hartley.

In the third L. Hollingsworth was the only man to get on the bases for the Royals and Kiwanis went out in order.

In the fourth only three batters faced each pitcher and in the fifth H. Hollingsworth picked off a hit for the Royals, while Holmes walked Gillespie and Rishea and the first two up for the Kiwanis, Starr sacrificed scoring Gillespie, Crary lifted one to Bevis in middle field and Rishea scored on the throw. Dormer rolled one to second to retire the side.

In the sixth the Royals scored one when Hatton, L. Hollingsworth and Hartley singled in succession. For the Kiwanis Graham made first on Jones' error but was caught making second when LeBarr connected. Cotton got a lifer when H. Hollingsworth missed the ball and Howden walked to fill the bases. Jimmy Gillespie the next man up swung at the third strike, Hatton dropped the ball but caught him at first. Howden was off first but no play was made and he was called out for the third man. In the seventh Rishea was given a pass but the rest were easy outs.

Ray Schalk Gives Up Position As Head Of Chicago Entry In American League

CHICAGO, July 5 (Associated Press). — Ray Schalk yesterday joined the procession of those who have managed the Chicago White Sox.

Before yesterday's double-header with the St. Louis Browns, "Cracker" advised Charles Comiskey, the club president that he was through. Schalk explained that the team was being built around young men, and for the good of the organization he believed another manager should be named.

Lena Blackburne, veteran infielder, and an assistant coach under Schalk, temporarily was named manager.

Schalk succeeded Eddie Collins as manager of the Chicago Americans last year. His team finished the season in fifth place. When the Sox went south to train last winter the South Side fans were optimistic that the team would be in the race this year. Until a few days ago it was in the cellar. Now it is seventh.

After returning to the ranks Schalk went out to catch young Ed. Walsh, son of the veteran White Sox pitcher, in his major league debut. Schalk was for years a battery mate of the youth's father. Young Ed. was graduated from Notre Dame last month.

Schalk, the oldest American League catcher in point of service, has been with the Sox since 1912. He came to Chicago from Milwaukee of the American Association. Allhis major league experience has been with the South Side team. Schalk first played baseball around Litchfield, his home, in the Central Illinois coal field.

DELORO LOSES TO BELLEVILLE

"Hoot" Gibson Is Too Much For Smelters, Allowing Only Three Hits.

SCORE 6-4.

BELLEVILLE, July 5.—"Hoot" Gibson, the locals' ace, hurled a three-hit game yesterday, and, with his team clouting lustily behind him, disposed of Deloro 6 to 4. The win puts Belleville back with the leader, Oshawa, and tightens up the C.O.B.L. race, which is the closet in years. Gibson did not allow a hit until the seventh frame, when a scratch infield single, a triple and an error allowed two runs to tally. Deloro also tallied a run in the second frame on two bad throws without a hit. Their last run came in the ninth on a hit, a stolen base, a fielder's choice and an error. Gibson struck out 8 and walked 1. Belleville contributed five doubles, scoring two runs in the fifth and four counters in the sixth. Bob Elliott used three pitchers, Shea, Jack and Woods, in an effort to stem the tide, but all were hit hard. Harry Blakely made the fielding play of the day when he grabbed a hot shot behind third and threw Boudreau out, who batted for Ragen in the ninth with a man on.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

CIRCUS AND RODEO COMBINED WITH ALL THE ENTERTAINMENT OF BOTH IN MIX'S 'CIRCUS ACE'

For those who may have missed the announcement we want to tell them now that there is a circus in town. The best, jolliest circus seen in this vicinity in many years, now playing at the Regent for a three-day showing. It was produced by Fox Films with Tom Mix in the stellar role and is a combination of a wild west show and circus with all the thrills and excitement of both.

We refer to "The Circus Ace," the best Tom Mix we have yet seen, containing as it does every element which has made the Ace of Westerner's picture a world wide attraction. For here we have not only a fascinating story of romance and adventure, taken against a background of the beautiful California hills, but a whole menagerie of wild animals, tent shows, the thrills and excitement of the big top, including trapeze performers, balloon ascensions and parachute drops.

To say there is not a dull moment in it is to understate by a wide margin. There is barely a moment when yesterday's audience was not gripping its seats or shouting with laughter.

The story is about a little circus performer and parachute jumper, played by Natalie Joyce, and a ranchman played by Tom Mix. Tom first sees her come sailing over his head hanging to the cross bar of a parachute and when the parachute drifts toward a creek Tom races across the field and saves her. She invites him to visit the circus. But Tom is refused permission to enter because of a practical joke he plays on one of the circus bullies. But he finds his way in by way of the big top.

Then the fun commences. Tom to win the girl has to perform some of the most daring stunts of his career but in the end he wins out after a series of episodes ending in one smashing, breath-taking climax.

There is laughter, thrills, a very fine love story and some very beautiful scenic shots in this delightful picture that will please every member of the family. A cast of screen favorites supports Miss Joyce and Mix.

AT THE CAPITOL.

TO-NIGHT THE CAPITOL OFFERS KEN MAYNARD IN "THE UPLAND RIDER" A COMBINATION OF RACING AND WESTERN—STAN LAUREL AND SAM HARDY WILL BE SEEN IN THEIR LATEST SCREAM, "FROM SOUP TO NUTS"

If you want to have a good laugh drop into the Capitol to-night and see that funny team of gloom chasers, Sam Hardy and Stan Laurel, keep the house rocking in their newest side splitter "From Soup to Nuts".

"The Upland Rider", the story of a horse, with all the ingredients of a fast moving and hard riding melodrama, packed with more thrills than are usually found in five pictures, is the advance advisement of Ken Maynard's latest western feature.

This picture is an original story by Marion Jackson, and feature Tarzan, the wonder horse, of Ken's who has been seen with Ken in all of his previous westerns. Tarzan is possibly one of the best known equine players on the screen and is actually receiving fan mail of his own, to such a degree that Charles B. Rogers, the producer of the Ken Maynard features for First National, and Ken, decided that the public would be given a picture in which Tarzan had more than his usual share of film footage.

The story is principally modern in scope and deals with two rival horse ranches in the west. One of these ranches breeds and raises the well known cow-pony of the west called "Palominos" and the efforts of an Easterner to introduce a higher type of horse of Arabian strain to supplant the cow-pony.

MOTORISTS READ OF THE TRENT

Article in Canadian Motorist Written By F. G. Stinson and W. Basil.

The Kawartha Lakes and, in fact, the entire Trent Waterway receives much valuable publicity through an article appearing in the June edition of Canadian Motorist. It has been written by Frank G. Stinson of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and W. Basil, and has been particularly well illustrated by "cut-outs" from the "Kelly's Cruise", the Trent Waterway film which aroused so much favorable comment some time ago.

In the story, Messrs. Stinson and W. Basil have done full justice to a formidable subject, formidable because the now famous waterway has a beauty that challenges description.

TOURIST CAMPS ARE INSPECTED

Dr. N. H. Sutton, D.O.H., Inspects Refreshment Booths and Water Supply.

FEW NEW ONES.

That the number of tourist camps in this part of the province is not increasing and that some of the smaller private camps have gone out of existence, was the statement made to The Examiner recently by Dr. N. H. Sutton, District Officer of Health, on his return from an extensive tour of inspection. At the same time, the D.O.H. stated that conditions about the various camps now in operation, has been found by him to be fairly satisfactory.

Speaking of refreshment booths and water supplies, with which he is chiefly concerned, Dr. Sutton stated that there was not so apparent an increase in the number of the former, as had been the case in other years. The municipal camps, and some private ones are flourishing and are being taken advantage of by many but there are few new ones being opened. When asked why, in his opinion, this gradual slackening of enthusiasm had taken place, he expressed the belief that supply has caught up to demand.

Analysis of the water samples taken at every camp visited, has not yet been completed but Dr. Sutton revealed the fact that approval placards had not been placed on all the camps visited. Some of the municipal camps had been approved in this manner, the Peterboro camp at the local Exhibition Grounds being one of them. "Few are bad, quite a few are indifferent and some are good", said the doctor. He made mention of Belleville's fine camp. It is interesting to know that the camps boasting approval placards are listed at the border where American tourists may learn of them.

HOW TO USE MELONS

In the summer season it is a good plan to cut down on the heavy foods and use the more watery fruits and vegetables. These are best when used by themselves and not in combination with the hearty foods of high caloric value.

Melons may be used freely during their season, if this rule is observed. Although classed as a vegetable, they should be used as you would any of the acid fruits. All melons are of the gourd family and contain about ninety per cent of water, the rest being composed of sugar and the organic minerals and vitamins.

The casaba, which matures in the late summer, is the melon which keeps the longest without spoiling. It can be kept for as long as two months after gathering. This melon is the largest, outside of the watermelon, often measuring seven or eight inches in diameter, and weighing seven pounds or more.

The early melons, generally classed as muskmelons, are very perishable and should only be used when ripe. If not properly matured they are tasteless, and if over-ripe will cause severe digestive disturbances and poisoning. They must be handled very carefully to avoid bruising, and the housewife should use the greatest care in selecting those not already bruised, and with a good odor.

They are best chilled in a refrigerator, but if cracked ice is relied upon to cool them, it should not be placed inside of the open melon, but the melon should be packed inside the cracked ice and opened and cleaned when ready to serve. This method will preserve the naturally delicate flavor, and not dilute the juice with ice water. No seasoning should be used, with the possible exception of a little salt. If the melon is fit to eat, its flavor cannot be improved even by salt. If not properly matured and ripened, it should not be used under any circumstances.

The Rocky Ford melon is one of the best varieties and one which can be depended upon to be of a superior flavor. However, market styles are constantly changing, as the crossing of varieties is very easy, and has worked many transformations from the original types.

The watermelon is a native of Africa, so the craving of the colored people for this melon seems quite natural. The southern part of the United States raises by far the largest crop for commercial purposes.

All animals will eat the watermelon at every opportunity, and even the carnivorous animals, such as the lion and the dog, will devour it with great relish.

Any of these melons can be used freely during their season, if one is satisfied to make an entire meal of one variety. The thing to do is to use one kind of melon in place of breakfast or lunch, eating as much as desired. If any other food is used at the same time, the noticeable result will be excess quantities of stomach and intestinal gas. While this does not create a poisonous condition, yet the pressure of excess gas should be avoided. This is often the cause of serious congestion of the abdominal organs.

Get the good of this succulent vegetable and avoid any possible harm by using it by itself.

Questions and Answers.

Question: O. H. writes: "I can't digest my food and I feel nauseated all the time. The doctor said it was my gall-bladder and gave me some medicine. I do all right as long as I take a dose before eating but feel I can't take that the rest of my life. I always have been able to eat everything. Now when I have a bad spell I can't eat anything for a few days."

Answer: It is because you have eaten "everything" that you are now not able to eat anything. Just give nature a chance by taking a fast and allowing the gall-bladder and liver to empty out and catch up with their work. If medicines relieve you, it is a sure thing that a fast will cure you. After that regulate your diet scientifically, and stop eating "everything."

Question: Mrs. J. P. J. writes: "I have had a mastoid operation which for several months relieved the pain, and terrible fullness and dizziness, but I am beginning to suffer from these same symptoms. The doctor says this trouble I now have is probably due to my teeth. I don't think so, as it is exactly what I had before the operation. Can you suggest any relief?"

Answer: It is unwise for me to make a guess about your trouble which has been guessed about enough already. Have a good diagnosis made and thus ascertain the real cause of your symptoms. If you are then not helped, write me the result of the diagnosis and I will advise you again, either through this column or directly by mail if you will enclose a self-addressed, stamped, envelope.

MANY TOURISTS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Saturday the steamers going to the lakes were crowds to capacity with holiday seekers, and all day Saturday and Sunday a steady procession of motor cars carried their quota of tourists to the great playgrounds of the northern lakes. Those who are competent to judge state confidently that there were never as many tourists going through as this season.

The Ladies' Guild of Knox Church held an afternoon tea and ice cream social on Saturday afternoon and evening last in Hendren's store.

The ladies had a large crowd and soon cleared their stock of home cooking and candy. There was also a large crowd for tea and in the evening they did a good business till well after ten o'clock.

Among those assisting were Mrs. Bruce Garbutt, Mrs. Walter Preston, Mrs. Windsor, Miss M. Sanderson, and Miss Adams.

In a recent issue of The Globe was a picture of W. M. Sellens, who has recently been appointed manager of the new branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada, King and Bay streets, Toronto. Mr. Sellens joined the bank at Sault Ste. Marie in 1907 and during his career was manager at Rosthern, Moosejaw, Prince Albert, and assistant manager at Edmonton, subsequently in charge of the branch at Bay and Temperance streets, Toronto, since August, 1923.

Mr. Sellens was a Lakefield boy and is well known in the village where most of his early life was spent. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sellens of Hamilton, formerly of Lakefield and a grandson of Mrs. Peter Baptie of Lakefield.

The display of flags for the holiday while very fair was not in any way to be compared to last year, when practically every home bore at least one flag. The display of flags on national holidays is a nice custom and one which might well be general.

One of the heaviest downpours of the rainy period came on Friday night last, the long drouth of early June was broken by a series of heavy showers which have filled the empty cisterns, replenished the wells and saved the crops.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as a fairly favorable day in planetary government, although adverse aspects are strong.

It is a fortunate day for signing leases or contracts and should be lucky for new business ventures.

Newspapers and periodicals should benefit from this positing of the stars which foreshadows startling events of world interest.

This is a day more favorable to routine activities than to the planning of future projects.

Judgment may be unreliable while this configuration prevails and it should not be trusted where young or pretty women are involved.

It is well not to put any long-nursed ambition to the test under this sway, which is supposed to affect unfavorably persons of influence over careers.

Egotism and arrogance are supposed to be enhanced while this rule of the stars continues. Women as well as men are believed affected by the sinister planetary influence.

This is rather an unfavorable day for starting on an ocean trip. Storms and delays are probable.

Labrador now comes under a favorable rule which promises much progress during the summer.

Reform movements may multiply under this sway, which encourages the awakening of the public conscience.

India continues subject to planetary conditions that may cause great trouble for Great Britain.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of intrigue in the coming year which should be fairly prosperous.

Children born on this day probably will have extraordinary intelligence and many talents. They should be discouraged from too much dreaming and too little action.

Sleepless Nights, Bladder Weakness Relieved in 24 Hours

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Home Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles — Gas, Sourness, Pain, or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with three or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy tablet form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia tablets, which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent. of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia Tablets!

J. D. FANNING ON EXECUTIVE

Proprietor of Local Laundry Officer of Eastern Canadian Laundry Owners' Association.

CONVENTION HELD.

Over one hundred and fifty delegates, owners and operators of power laundries from all the larger towns and cities from Eastern Canada have just returned from the annual convention of the Eastern Canadian Laundryowners' Association, held this year at Bigwin Inn, Lake of Bays.

Representatives from the Fanning Steam Laundry were there to study various subjects in connection with their business and more particularly the latest and most scientific methods of washing fabrics entrusted to their car by the home managers throughout their respective districts.

It is of interest to note that the laundryowners of Canada and the United States maintain a research department at considerable expense where expert scientists give all their time to the study of the best washing methods and the correction of faulty processes.

As a result such progress has been made that laundryowners are now prepared to guarantee their work and they are able to boast that they can turn out a better washing than the home manager herself.

Mr. G. Ross Marshall of the Halifax Steam Laundry, Halifax, Nova Scotia, a well-known figure in the Maritimes, has been elected president of the association for the year 1928-1929. Other officers of the executive are: R. C. Holt, New System Laundry and Cleaners, Ltd., St. John, N.B., Vice-President; T. K. Battram, Batram's Wet Wash Laundry, Hamilton, immediate past president. Executive committee: John D. Fanning, Fanning Stream Laundry, Peterborough; G. R. McQueen, Ideal Laundry, Galt; W. G. Moore, Cottage Laundry, Toronto; J. H. Munn, Crown Laundry, Ottawa; L. MacKay Smith, Toilet Laundries, Ltd., Montreal.

LAPOINTE AT LIBERAL RALLY

Minister of Justice Denounces Those Who Make Attacks On Canada.

IN WEST LAMBTON.

SARNIA, July 5.—"We must not revile our country in the eyes of the world," declared Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, here yesterday, in criticizing the "holiday" which the Leader of the Conservative party spent recently in the Province of Quebec. Mr. Lapointe, along with Hon. John C. Elliott and Fred G. Sanderson, M.P., Liberal Whip, addressed a gathering of about 3,000 Liberals in Lake Huron Park, called in appreciation of the work of William T. Goodison, M.P. for Lambton.

Statistics Are Otherwise

"Constructive criticism is quite all right, but I have no sympathy for those who slander our country for cheap political gain," Mr. Lapointe proceeded. "Only last week I was disappointed to note that one of our leading public men spoke of unemployment in Canada. Is that the doctrine to preach, when statistics show that there never was such free employment in our country? The index number shows 112.4 per cent., or 3.4 per cent above the average of the last three years," the Minister said.

"Why," he asked, "should Canada be compared with the United States?" It was very strange that, while Mr. Bennett was deploring the plight of the Canadian farmer in comparison with the protected farmer, leading speakers at the political convention proceeding in the United States at the time declared that there was none so miserable as the poor United States agriculturist.

SHUE MOY CALLED TO GIVE EVIDENCE

Alleged King of Gamblers Says He Visited Suite of Vancouver's Mayor.

VANCOUVER, July 5.— Canadian Press.)—Admitting that he had visited Mayor Louis D. Taylor's suite in the Manville Mansions "once in a while," perhaps as often as once every two or three weeks, Shue Moy, alleged "king of gamblers," declared in the witness box at the police inquiry yesterday morning that he had never talked over the subject of gambling with the Mayor. Shue Moy, who was called to the witness stand on Tuesday afternoon, stated he resided at 87½ Pender street east, and that his nephew had a room at the Europe Hotel, where he went sometimes to take a bath.

Previous witnesses had testified that Shue Moy had a suite at the hotel where he discussed gambling.

In answer to questions by A. H. MacNeill, Commission counsel, the Chinese declared that he had never talked over 'business' with the Mayor. No one had been with him when he visited the Mayor's suite, he declared.

Gambling "joints" in Vancouver do not always make alluring profits, the witness declared. Sometimes they encounter serious losses and books he produced showed that the Chinese Club at 91 Pender street east had lost a total of $6,930 up to the date of the last entry. He gave details of losses suffered at various "joints."

Shue Moy Tuesday asserted that in 1924 when Mayor Taylor was out of office, he had given him $50 toward his election expenses. The Chinese said in 1925 also, when the Mayor was out of office, he had offered him $100 toward his camapign expenses.

FAMILY HOLDS BIG RE-UNION

Johnston Families Settled in Cavan, Hope and Belmont Townships.

CAME IN 1821.

About 1821 six brothers and one sister, (Johnstons) from the north of Ireland settled in the Townships of Cavan and Hope. About 1650 a father with seven sons and two daughters (Johnstons) settled in the Township of Belmont. The two families have a common history, being descended from a Scottish immigration from the North of Ireland about 1640. These families have become connected through intermarriage. A re-union was held of both families at Orono on July 2nd, 1928, there being nearly 400 present, coming from all parts of Ontario, Montreal and a number from the United States. A very pleasant time was spent. Dinner and tea was served, a fine program of games for the young and old, and speeches, and generally a very pleasant time, old acquaintances being renewed and new acquaintances being made. The total membership of these families to-day probably would run into the thousands.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL UNVEILS MEMORIAL

Town of Brampton Erects Memorial To Fifty-eight of Her Sons.

BRAMPTON, July 5. — More than 4,000 persons gathered here yesterday to take part in the impressive and solemn ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling of Brampton's war memorial to 58 young men of the town who made the supreme sacrifice in France and now rest in Flanders' Fields, and to eight others who have died since returning from overseas.

His Excellency Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General, unveiled the memorial, which is of light grey Canadian granite, the symbols expressive of service, sacrifice and victory. Raised above the passing throng, it holds aloft these symbols and names which recall to the mind the glorious achievements in Canadian history. Situated at the southern enrtance to Brampton's business section, and in close proximity to the beatuiful town park, it occupies a conspicuous position, a place where at some future time will stand the municipal buildings and offices of the town.

HERE IS SERVICE COMING AND GOING

Sanitary Ice Supply Opens Office Down Town—Cash and Carry.

A visitor who is holidaying in the district cannot help but take notice of the service he can get in this city.

It is supposed that a good many coming to the city these hot days call at the Government Control Warehouse on George street, where they can get their liquid refreshments and right next door the Sanitary Ice Supply has opened a Cash and Carry depot where they can secure all the ice they want to keep it cool. This co-operation on the part of the Sanitary Ice has already been appreciated.

Then after the visitor has caught his fish and is going home he takes his box to the Sanitary Ice and has his fish packed for shipment and the service is again appreciated. In fact local citizens are taking very kindly to the latest iceteria.

Italian Fliers Set New Long Distance Flight Record

SWEDISH FLYER RESCUED ITALIA CREW REMAINS ON ICE

Lieutenant Lundborg, Who Was Forced Down Near Foyn Island, Safe.

SKIIS SMASHED.

Attempt Is Being Made To Bring in Crew From Floe.

STOCKHOLM, July 5.—(Canadian Press).—Chief of the Swedish rescue mission telegraphed from Spitsbergen today that Lieut. Lundborg, the Swedish airman, had been rescued from the ice near Foyn Island. Lieut. Lundborg was marooned when his plane overturned in an attempt to take off survivors of the Italia disaster.

The rescue was effected by the Swedish flyer Shyberg. No mention was made of five members of the Italia crew, who were stranded on the ice with Lundborg.

After taking off General Umberto Nobile on June 23, Lundborg returned to pick up the other five men, who had been stranded since the Italia crashed on May 25. He intended to take off Natale Cecione, the motor chief, whose leg was broken. As he landed on the ice his plane overturned and the skiis were smashed.

Details of the rescue were lacking, but confirmation came to Stockholm directly from the Lieutenant, who sent the message to his wife that he had been saved.

It is believed probable here that the operations to rescue the other men on the ice floe have been resumed.

The five marooned members of the crew of the Italia to-day had enough provisions to withstand the rigors of the Arctic until rescued. The Swedish fliers succeeded in dropping them provisions, medical supplies, and new batteries for their radio.

MUST WAIT FOUR YEARS

According To Belgian Law Lowenstein Estate Can Not Be Liquidated.

NOT A COWARD.

BRUSSELS, July 6 (Canadian Press).—In the absence of eye-witnesses o fthe disappearance of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein and in event that his body should not be found, the liquidation of the Lowenstein Estate may be adjourned for four years under the Belgian laws regulating simjiar cases.

A stock exchange committee has interviewed representatives of Lowenstein family with a view to reaching an agreement in behalf of the stocks owned by the noted banker.

M. Caudelier, Lowenstein's secretary, stated to-day that the financier was not a man to commit suicide, which he considered cowardice.

He was not in the least downhearted owing to any recent setbacks," the secretary continued, "and three days ago developed before me a vast scheme for a fresh combine which he was contemplating.

Stocks Stronger

LONDON, July 6 (Canadian Press) —Reassuring statements which have been issued concerning Capt. Lowenstein's financial interests were followed to-day by a stronger note on the stock exchange. International holdings were quoted to-day at 150 against yesterday's 140, and Hydros were quoted at 38½ against 32.

Policies Taken Out

Newspapers to-day stated that several insurance policies had been placed in London recently to cover the event of Alfred Lowenstein's death.

Estimates of a total amount ran all the way from £40,000 to £500,000. It was stated that some of these policies specifically included suicide among risks covered. There was no information as to who placed the policies, but in some quarters it was believed that persons holding stock in companies with which the Belgian financier was identified had placed them to cover possible losses in event of his death.

The tug Lady Brassey, carrying the pilot, crew and mechanic of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein's private airplane left Dover harbor to-day to make a thorough search for Lowenstein's body in the vicinity where it is believed the tragedy took place.

Leviathan Robbery Story Was a Fake

NEW YORK, July 6.—(Canadian Press.) — The story about $500,000 having been stolen from the mails on the liner Leviathan or in transit to and from the boat, received a great trimming down yesterday, when post office inspectors told Captain Cunningham that only two letters were missing. British officials had informed the post office here that two letters had been cut open and their contents removed. The contents of the envelopes were not described.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS ABOUT CONVENTION

Only Club in East to Send Full Quota of Delegates

TO SEATTLE

Peterborough Organization Wins Second Place in Efficiency Contest.

Peterborough Kiwanis, the only club in this districtand indeed any other district so far distant, to send its quota of delegates to the Kiwanis International convention, held this year in Seattle, Washington, was repaid in full to-day when its members listened to two particularly comprehensive, and at the same time interesting reports brought back to them by Kiwanians Joe Wearing and Issac P. MacNabb who, with Mrs. Wearing as the third member of the party, made the Trans-continental trip as delegates of the Peterborough club.

This being Delegates' day President Joe John vacated the chair in favor of Mr. Wearing who, as chairman, among other things won "uninvited" applause for his generosity in allowing the late ones to go unfined—uninvited because he fined them for applauding his kindly attitude.

He extended a sincere welcome to the visitors, four of whom were Kiwanians from south of the border, namely W. C. Bierce of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; J. E. Burnham, of St. Petersburg, Florida, and Kiwanians W. H. Richardson and Fred L. Hall, the latter of Cleveland and the former of Cuyahoga Falls Ohio, who while camping in this district each year, make it a point to attend Peterborough Kiwanis. J. W. Watson and A. C. Darling of Peterborough were the other guests.

Bert Watson, radio dealer, of this city, was welcomed to the club as a new member by Jack Dewart who, in introducing him to the principles of Kiwanis, emphasized the fact that service, and the golden rule, rather than sociability, were the main principles of Kiwanis.

The report of Mr. Wearing, given verbally, and that of Mr. McNabb, a lengthier, written one, proved that they had taken duties, as delegates, seriously and both men seemed to have seized upon the many ideas to be derived from such a convention. These they presented, with suggestions for their application to the local club.

The comradeship which is Kiwanis in the truest sense of the term, the genuine welcome received at the convention city, Seattle, and the unusual emphasis laid upon music as indicated by an afternoon devoted to music, were among the phases of the convention which had impressed Mr. Wearing and upon the local club, he urged the desirability of a more whole-hearted entry into community singing.

The report given by Isaac McNabb, which is likely to appear in detail in a later issue, was a thought provoking and entirely pleasing communication, touching as it did upon the pre-convention tour by two

Polish Fliers Buy Rubber Lifeboat

PARIS, July 6—The Polish aviators, Captains Idzikowski and Kubala yesterday brought a collapsible rubber boat for use in case the plane in which they will attempt to fly the Atlantic should be forced down to the sea. Weather reports still were unfavorable last night and it was unlikely that the start for the East to West attempt would be made before to-day.

ESTABLISH FLYING RECORD.

Spurred on by their recent success in establishing a new aviation endurance record, Major Arturo Ferrarin (1) and Carlo Del Prete (3), Italian fliers, left Rome at 7.15 p.m. Tuesday, in the Marchetti, a Savoia monoplane (2) on a 7,000-mile nonstop flight to Natal, Brazil. They arrived last night at Natal at 7.30 after flying 4,600 miles. The aviators kept in constant touch with ships and vessels along the route shown in the map (4). They have made a new distance record for transoceanic flying on their present trip.

ALCOHOL IS NOW WITHDRAWN FROM SALE IN LIQUOR STORES IN INTERESTS OF THE PUBLIC

EXCEPT ON SCRIPT.

Physicians May Issue Prescriptions for Alcohol For Rubbing Purposes.

TORONTO, July 6.—The following statement was made to-day for the Liquor Control Board of Ontario by the Chief Commissioner:

Complaints have been received from time to time as to the extent to which the use of dangerous substitute for potable alcoholic drinks exists. Unfortunately, it appears that a number of people using these substitutes for years have now become addicts. Rubbing alcohol compounds, and even canned heat, are used. The Superintendent of the Union Mission for Men in Ottawa states that from his observation and personal knowledge, the majority of cases of drunkenness which come before the Ottawa Police Court are the result of them drinking rubbing alcohol. The Reverend Wellesley A. Hunnisett, in charge of the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, shows the use for drinking purposes, not only of rubbing alcohol, but also of canned heat.

Mr. Hopkins, of the Liquor Board staff, has been making a special study of the question. He reports in his belief, seventy-five per cent of the rubbing alcohol now sold is used for beverage purposes. Under further report, he states: "Its cheapness in comparison with ethyl alcohol, and ready purchase, puts it in the hands of the confirmed drunkard. It is strange, but true, that if a confirmed rubbing alcohol drinker is offere his choice of government liquor or rubbing alcohol, he will take the rubbing alcohol every time."

Information from London shows that a great many of the offenders appearing before the magistrates in London and Middlesex County, were intoxicated by drinking rubbing alcohol, and that in a large majority of the cases, the alcohol found on them at the time of the arrest is rubbing alcohol. Rubbing alcohol is, of course, not sold by the board, and those arrested for drunkenness resultant from its use, are either men who have no permits, or whose permits have been cancelled. Simliar information is received from many other points, as to the use of this very dangerous substitute.

Another fruitful cause of drunkenness is the use of grain alcohol as a beverage.

This alcohol is of itself pure, but by reason of its very great strength, is very dangerous in the hands of those that don't understand it. Whiskey that is 25 per cent under proof is regarded, and properly regarded, as strong drink, but this grain alcohol, being 65 per cent over proof, actually contains 90 per cent more alcohol. It is, in effect, simply raw alcohol, highly dangerous as a drink, and requiring a very small quantity to produce drunkenness. While formerly the sale of grain alcohol was

KIWANIS CLUB HELPS.

Members Take Sisters and Children On Motor Trip To Lakefield.

The transportation committee of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club, under the chairmanship of T. Mark, carried out the club principle of service when on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, some twenty children and several of the sisters from St. Vincent's Orphanage were taken on a motor drive to Lakefield by the west road and home again by the road along the east side of the river.

At the Lakefield Catholic church, all were welcomed by the parish priest, while ice-cream and sweets were served during the outing. It is such work as this that makes Kiwanis an asset to the city.

JOE WRIGHT ELIMINATES GUEST MEETS LEE IN SCULLING FINALS

Finalists of Last Year Will Meet Again To-morrow.

FOR TROPHY.

H. T. Lee Defeated Guye To-day in the Semi-finals.

HENLEY, July 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—Joe Wright, Jr., of the Argonaut Club, Toronto, defeated Jack Guest, his club mate, in the semi-final for the Diamond Sculls to-day.

H. T. Lee, Oxford, who defeated Wright in the final last year, won the other semi-final to-day from D. Guye, of London, so that the Englishman and the Canadian will repeat their battle for the most coveted of amateur single sculling trophies to-morrow.

A year ago Wright led Lee comfortably in the final until his scull tangled in the punt rope near the finish, permitting Lee to pass him.

Wright to-day won by half a length in the fast time of nine minutes and and five seconds.

Lee was fully extended to beat Guye, and at the end of the race was in distress. The time was excellent considering wind conditions. He won by a length and a half in nine minutes and nineteen seconds.

The Thames Rowing Club defeated London R. C. by a length in the semi-final for the Grand Challenge Cup of great eight-paired crew event to-day.

Rene Lacoste Wins Wimbledon Tennis Title By Defeating Cochet, a Fellow Frenchman

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6 (Canadian Press). — Rene Lacoste won the Wimbledon tennis championship to-day by defeating his countryman of France Henri Cochet, defending champion, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Lacoste took Cochet's Wimbledon title after four sets of steady, artistic tennis. For a moment in the final set, Cochet threatened to stage one of his characteristic comebacks, but Lacoste's steadiness speedily ruined any such hopes.

The element of Lacoste's aggressiveness gave him the victory. Cochet was on the defensive throughout most of the match, and never injected a great deal of fire into his strokes.

New Potatoes On July Fifth

New potatoes on July 5 was the record established this year by F. E. Armstrong, of 173 Prince Street. Yesterday Mr. Armstrong dug enough potatoes from his garden for his dinner and to-day the dinner table was again supplied with spuds from his garden. Mr. Armstrong said the potatoes were larger than hen eggs and there was a goodly number in a hill.

KING FAMILY HOLD RE-UNION

Over One Hundred and Thirty-five Descendants Gather at Little Britain.

GREAT OUTING.

An event as interesting as it was unusual was the King Family reunion, held on Wednesday at the village of Little Britain, west of Lindsay. Over one hundred and twenty-five descendants of three brothers, George, Reuben and David King, who settled in the Township of Mariposa about hundred years ago, were present at this, an annual gathering and among that number were: Mr. and Mrs. David King and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson King of Peterborough, along with Mr. and Mrs. Ansel D. King of Toronto. There were descendants present well over four score years and there were infants-in-arms.

The 1928 gathering took the form of a large picnic, held in the Little Britain park. Dinner was served on long tables, at noon and again at six o'clock and as ideal weather conditions prevailed, a splendid program of brief addresses and sports for the younger generations completed one of the best outings in the history of the King family.

COMPLETE 4,600 MILE HOP FROM MONTECELIO FIELD, ITALY

It Was Only a Dog

He was a little dog, but he caused a lot of trouble. He was one of those faithful beasts that believes in keeping guard over his master's property, but the difficulty was that he mistook another man's car for the automobile of his owner, and proceeded to guard it with such vigilance that the real proprietor couldn't get into the machine. The owner, a prominent citizen, found the little Boston bull terrier arranged comfortably in the rear seat, on his return from a brief business visit last night. The dog refused to budge and gave every appearance of being there for the night. He also showed considerable crankiness when the owner tried to get into the machine. A crowd of sympathizers congregated, all gazing helplessly at the small animal, in possession of the automobile. A bright inspiration struck a youth and he departed to a Chinese restaurant in search of a bone. The dog consumed it cheerfully, still keeping possession of the rear seat of the car, which is of the two-door model. Even the whistle of a friendly policeman and the polite invitation to depart which was extended by the Mayor, who happened on the scene, were powerless to move the dog.

Finally, a brave young man ventured into the front seat and took the dog to the neighborhood which was thought to be its home. The owner was located and after much coaxing, the little animal consented to get out and retire for the night. It appeared to think it was being duped, however, reluctantly relinquishing its cherished place as the guardian of the car.

MISS EARHART ARRIVES HOME

New Yorkers Give a Great Welcome to Lady Flyer and Companions.

RETURNS BY BOAT.

NEW YORK, July 6 (Canadian Press). — Miss Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, stepped back on American soil soon after ten o'clock to-day, after a return journey from Europe by boat, to receive a noisy welcome from admiring crowds and official congratulations of the city at the City Hall. With her were Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, pilot and mechanic on her Atlantic hop.

Behind the police escort the procession moved quickly up Broadway between towering buildings which have witnessed half a dozen celebrations for heroic fliers in the past year. Windows along the route were crowded with office workers anxious to catch even a fleeting glimpse of the woman flier and her companions.

Moors Hold Mail Flier For Ransom

Airmen Land On Beach Ten Miles North of Natal, Brazil.

ESTABLISH SECOND RECORD.

Brave Storms With Heavy Clouds in Latter Part of Flight.

RIO DE JANIERO, July 6—(Canadian Press).—A new distance record for sustained flight was completed last evening when Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo P. Del Prete landed on a little beach ten miles north of Natal, Brazil, some 4,600 miles from their take-off at Montecello Field, Italy.

They brought their big seaplane, the Savio-64, in which they had previously established a world's record for duration flight, to the land after a flight that took them across the Mediterranean, through the Straits of Gibraltar and then Southwest over the Atlantic via the Cape Verde Islands.

Stormy weather with heavy couls put the fliers in peril in the last hours of their effort and radio reports received here indicated that they had difficulty in maintaining their bearings after they reached the coast of Brazil. They were sighted over Port Natal at 4.05 p.m and were then believed to be heading for Pernambuco. But three hours and 45 minutes later they came down ten miles north of Natal at Point Genipabu.

THREE KILLED TWO MISSING

Two More May Die As Result of Automobile Smash.

ARE DROWNED.

DETROIT, July 6.—Three persons are dead, two are missing, two more probably will die and another is slightly injured as the result of an automobile hitting a bridge abutment yesterday, near the village of Ontonagon, in the upper part of the state.

The dead are: Mrs. Eric Sunlin, aged 34, wife of the driver of the car; her small baby, and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, 33 year sold.

The four adults with seven children were out enjoying the holiday. They were returning to the Johnson home when they approached a crooked bridge over the Little Canberry River.

Sunlin failed to make the turn and the car crashed against the cement abutment, throwing the two women and the baby into the river, where they were drowned. Two of the children have not yet been found and they also may have perished in the water.

Exhibition Prize List Has Been Printed and is Ready for Distribution.

The Peterborough Exhibition to be held this year from September 12 to 15 inclusive has again taken definite steps forward. The prize list has been issued with a premium total of $12,000.00.

The committee have a right this year to call for affidavits and the exhibitors may be required to make a statutory declaration that the articles exhibited by them are exhibited in accordance with and in all respects comply with the Rules and Regulations of the Association. Failure of this will be the forfeiture of all premiums and such articles removed if so ordered by the directors.

Ribbons will be used in all live-stock classes to recognize their standing. The colors of the cards and ribbons in the winning classes this year are to be first, red; second, blue; third, yellow; fourth, white and the tricolor will indicate sweepstakes.

There are five hundred dollar purses offered for each class in the racing for the first three days. A thousand dollars a day is the line-up. For instance on Thursday, September 13th, 2.30 trot or pace is for a purse of $500.00 and the 2.18 trot or pace the same. The purses will be divided 50 per cent., 25 per cent. 15 percent and 10 percent—no horse is to win more than one money in any race.

The livestock judging competition, light horses, heavy horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, swine, domestic science judging competition, poultry and water fowl, dairy products, agricultural products, horticultural exhibits, fine arts, ladies' work, domestic science and home cooking, are a few of the openings for prize seekers to show their skill and science in competition with others. The prizes are all very attractive and should insure real numerous entries.

These exhibits naturally are all subdivided into various classes and the prizes given according to these classes. Frank P. O'Connor in collaboration with other Toronto horse owners has kindly arranged for the jumping horses to appear and to take part in the Peterborough Exhibition program which also should attract many horse lovers to this bigger and better show.

There has been no trouble spared in compiling the prize lists and in arranging the program for this year's exhibition and everything is already pointing to a bigger and better show than ever before.

A copy of the list can be had by writing to the president or F. J. A. Hall, secretary.

NEW SCHOOL CONTEMPLATED

Warsaw Public School Trustees Decide to Erect New Building.

COST $8,000.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 6.—At a recent well-attended meeting of Warsaw School trustees, it was moved that the trustees be authorized to raise money, not exceeding $8,000, to build a new school.

Richard Lees, public school inspector was present, also a number of ladies. Dr. Munro was appointed chairman and James Hawthorne, secretary.

Exact figures regarding the various grants received by the section were given, also the amount that it would cost to pay off the debentures in twenty years. The grants now received would pay the debentures in the twenty years, and leave a little over. Authorizing the trustees to raise the money and have a new school built within a reasonable time, would mean the new building paid for at the end of twenty years, with no more money to raise than the section would have to raise if they choose to defy the department and carry on without the grant.

Mr. Lees explained that a site would be chosen by the trustees with an attempt to come as near possible to the known wishes of the people. A ratepayers' meeting would be called, if the chosen site is rejected. The new school will be approved by the department before the building is erected. Mr. Lees expressed his appreciation of the vote and hoped to see the new school opened two years from this September.

Affairs Of Scotland Yard Are Again Discussed In the London Commons

LONDON, July 6.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The affairs of Scotland Yard again engaged the house of commons yesterday afternoon, but the discussion was nothing if not entertaining. It started when the home secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, informed the house that Metropolitan policemen had been prohibited from chewing gum because the practice invited unfavorable comment, and tendered to impar an officer's capacity to deal promptly and efficiently with situations arising in the course of his duty.

J. H. Hayes, labor member who was formerly a policeman, asked if a similar order had been made regarding consumption of chocolates by the commissioner of police. Lady Astor then called attention to the difficulties met by policemen chewing gum when attempting to answer questions. That was exactly one of the reasons for the prohibition, the minister said.

"Moreover, in blowing his whistle the policemen's gum might get into the whistle," the home secretary added.

In answer to a question, Sir William stated that five pensioned military officers were at present holding posts with the Metropolitan police. They were drawing an aggregate in salaries of $31,500 and $12,500 in military pensions.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

DETOUR SIGN IS IN WRONG PLACE

(Examiner Correspondence)

INDIAN RIVER, July 6. — There is much inconvenience being caused to motorists who are travelling east on the Norwood road. East of Pallen's corners a new culvert has recently been constructed with a detour around it at the side of the road.

The first detour sign is erected at the corners and motorists when they see this naturally turn south on the fourth line of Otonabee. This road takes them four miles out of their way and there is at least one bad hill to climb, which is unnecessary.

There should be more care taken in erecting detour signs so that the travelling public is not necessarily inconvenienced.

The Romeo and Juliet Tradition Is Destroyed

ROME, July 6.—(United Press.)—The Corriere Della Sera says a blow has been dealt at an age-old lovers' custom, and a slight cast on the memory of Romeo and Juliet by a recent decree of the podesta of the Valle Aurina district forbidding young men from courting or serenading girls at windows or balconies. The order, which sets out to "safeguard the public safety, hygiene and morality," forbids all loitering with amorous intent, the use of guitars or other musical instruments under windows for the purpose of awakening tender feelings—in short, the whole Romeo and Juliet procedure.

OMEMEE PEOPLE HEAR BOY SOPRANO

(Examiner Correspondence.

OMEMEE, July 6. — On Sunday, July 1st, the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church had the pleasure of hearing Master Fred Whitehouse, gold medalist boy soprano, of Toroito, sing two fine solos, Handel's "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" and "Open the Gataes of the Temple." Many were the expressions of delight and one lady remarked that the singing reminded her of Westminster Abbey, where all the sopranos are boys. Fred Whitehouse sings with an exceedingly clear and sweet tone. Every note is carefully taken and every word clearly formed.

Master Fred is a member of St. Clement's Anglican choir, Toronto, and has been for five years a member of the Duke of Connaught School Boys' Choir, under the leadership of C H. Williamson. In May, 1926, Mr. Williamson etnered Fred in a solo competition at the Empire Day concert, at which he won the gold medal.

The young musician is holidaying at Balsam Lake and motored to Omemee with his teacher, Mr. Williamson, on Sunday morning in time for the service.

CHRIST CHURCH GARDEN PARTY

Variety of Entertainment Provided to Several Hundred People.

MANY BOOTHS.

(Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6.—Christ Church presented a variety of entertainment at their garden party on the Parish Hall grounds, Rear Street, last night. There were several hundred paid admissions and all during the evening the grounds were well filled with merrymakers, who spent money freely at the various booths and places of amusements.

To a casual spectator it would appear that no one enjoyed themselves any more than the members of the Northumberland Regimental Band, who furnished excellent music during the evening. The efficiency of the band was added to by the presence of George Salter, a member of the Regimental Band here for many years but who has been absent from the town for several years past.

The candy, home-cooking, fancy work and refreshment booths did a capacity business throughout the evening and by the time the crowds began to leave the grounds, there was little left to offer for sale.

The main attraction, a side show staged inside the Parish Hall, was a very popular attraction. Fortunes were also in great demand. If wishes had been horses, many of those in the grounds would have left mounted on prancing steeds, since this attraction found a steady run of favor during the entire evening.

Warsaw

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 6.—Weddings and showers have been the order of the day recently in Warsaw, and Tuesday evening's shower for Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sloan (nee Jean Bowen) was very largely attended. Mrs. Sloan has a very large family connection in Dummer. Mr. Sloan, having had tact and ability to remain in one school section for four years, and to be retained for the fifth year won him friends there. It was not long before the house failed to accommodate the crowd, the bake-shop was used, that too failing, the town hall was secured and thither the crowd repaired. About midnight supper was served and there was more dancing until about two o'clock a.m.

The gifts were all useful and beautiful. There was a pretty China tea set, a bed-room set in white and gold, cake, sandwich and bread trays and all the little extras required besides the regular sets. There were aluminum cooking utensils and granite ones, blankets, pillows, and household linen of every kind.

The deceased lady was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gordon, and was born in the province of Quebec. During her life she lived for years in the United States but returned to Canada some years ago and made her home with her sister, Miss Jane Gordon and her niece, Miss Mary Shields, in Lakefield.

Nearly seven years ago, she met with a serious accident from which she never entirely recovered. She was a member of the Baptist church and was held in the highest regard in the entire community. She is survived by her sister, Miss Jane Shields.

The funeral will be held this afternoon, at 2.30, the Rev. J. E. McCormack officiating, from the family residence to the Lakefield Cemetery.

She wore a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. Miss Audrey McMillan, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a dress of jade green georgette and carried bouquet of orchids. Mr. Earl Pollock, brother of the groom, was the best man, and Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Miss Minnie Pollock, sister of the groom. THE MAN IN THE RUBBER BALL.

The feat of the French-Canadian who went over the Horseshoe Falls at Niagara encased in a rubber ball has been denounced as an achievement in folly, as, of course, it was.

The fool-hardy "hero" of this spectacular episode was successful, but the odds were very much against his chances, and the publicity that will be his chief reward is a very poor return for the risk he took.

After all, however, the feat was not much more foolish than some of the attempts that have been made in hopping over the ocean in aeroplanes.

The Niagara celebrity was probably as well prepared for his crazy performance as were some of the flyers who took off in single-engined planes and in uncertain weather, and gambled their lives away in an outside chance that they would be lucky enough to overcome the handicaps and win through to success.

Between such flyers and the man who trusted a rubber ball to carry him safely over Niagara Falls there is not a great deal of difference.

THE CHURCH PAGE.

The Examiner is sure that a very large number of our readers has enjoyed the Church Page published each Saturday, and written and edited up to the time of his departure upon a holiday by Allan Fairbairn.

It is our belief that church and religious news should have a prominent place in the columns of a newspaper like The Examiner and it has been most fortunate that the talent and literary skill of Mr. Fairbairn have been available for the benefit of our readers.

His articles have been bright, inspiring and thoughtful; their message has been appreciated, and the Church Page has been a source of comfort and enjoyment.

The many who have been reading that page with profit to themselves will unite with The Examiner in hoping that it will be possible for Mr. Fairbairn when he returns from his vacation to again take over the task he has so well performed.

He has a clientele of readers who would be very sorry indeed to think that no more of his articles were to appear.

TOO MANY LEGISLATORS.

Frank Yeigh, well-known compiler of facts about Canada, has included in a recent list of statistical paragraphs concerning this country the statement that Canada has 900 legislators.

There is nothing in that fact that should give us any cause to show pride.

The truth of the matter is, that we have far too many legislators, and that we are over-governed to a degree that will eventually demand attention.

There are too many members in the Dominion Parliament, there are too many members in the Legislature; perhaps we can get even closer to home and find that there are too many members in the Municipal Council.

Certainly no reason exists why it should be necessary to have 245 members of Parliament to look after our national business at Ottawa.

The transaction of public affairs would be expedited and not a single section of the country would be injured were the House of Commons composed of only half that number.

Similarly, it would improve the efficiency of the Legislature were the numerical strength of that body to be cut in two.

The fact that there are 900 legislators in this country should not have a place in a list that sets forth some of the advantages offered by this country.

VICTIMS OF CARELESSNESS.

The appalling toll of human lives snuffed out in the celebration of the national holiday of the United States during which 205 sudden deaths occurred should cause some thought.

The largest factors in this harvest of fatalities were drowning accidents and the motor car.

No fewer than 106 people were drowned, and 54 more were killed in automobile accidents.

The lack of detailed information prevents any close analysis of these figures, but it is safe to assume that in a very large percentage of these accidents carelessness or recklessness played a part, and that most of the fatalities could have been averted with ordinary care.

It is an amazing commentary upon our common sense that while medical science is devoting all its attention to conquering diseases that cut short our existence and is succeeding to a considerable extent, we throw away all the advantage thus gained by our criminal lack of care on the highways, or anywhere else where death may be the penalty for a failure to follow safety first rules.

The death total of the Fourth of July celebration over the border surely must impress even the most reckless among citizens of this country where we follow the example of our neighbors in many things, and, unfortunately, in this carelessness where human life is at stake.

HIS FRIEND, THE ENEMY.

Grim tragedy stalking through the silent fastnesses of the Polar regions is unfolding a drama such as has never been revealed in fiction nor on the stage. The disaster to General Umberto Nobile, Italian commander of the exploration dirigible "Italia," has resulted in a story of human nature which shows that in the breasts of great men there beat hearts of gold. In the particular hero's role is found none other than Captain Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer and companion of Nobile on the successful Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile flight over the North Pole on May 11 to 14, 1926.

During recent months General Nobile and Captain Amundsen have been engaged in a bitter quarrel as to just which of the two men was responsible for the success of the Polar flight of 1926. The Italian officer was particularly outspoken in his statements. He protested vehemently that all his Norwegian companion had done on the voyage was to sit in an arm-chair and wait moodily for the flight to end. The general took full credit to himself for scientific findings and for piloting the craft from Spitzbergen to Alaska. The charges of the one man were met by denials and counter-charges of a similar nature by the other.

The battle was still warm when General Nobile took off on his recent flight, which has still to end in its entirety. With the crew of the dirigible yet unrescued on the Polar ice floes the full extent of the disaster cannot now be computed. But with Nobile on the ice, the true spirit of Amundsen was shown. The Norwegian knew the ice fields. He understood the danger. He cared not that this man whose life was threatened with extinction had been his bitter enemy. As soon as he could Amundsen set out with five companions in a French seaplane to search for the Italian.

Amundsen is lost. Nobile is found, and rescued. The suggestion is extended that the exploring skill of the Norwegian will bring him out safely to civilization. But as silent days pass the hope becomes less. In the stillness of the Polar district life's great drama is enacting one of its most colorful chapters. Should Amundsen be lost, his life will have been given—not for a friend, but for an enemy.—Border Cities Star.

SEEING CANADA ON THE SCREEN.

A despatch from the Globe's staff correspondent in Ottawa published yesterday tells something of the remarkable work that is being done to advertise Canada abroad through the Moving Picture Department of the Canadian Government. In all the principal countries of the world films depicting life and conditions throughout the Dominion are being shown. In Great Britain alone some five hundred theatres are displaying Canadian pictures, while in the United States it is estimated that one million persons daily see films of this country. The subjects dealt with in the pictures are varied, but always of an educational nature.

There is a value in this film work of the Government that cannot immediately be estimated in dollars and cents. It is instrumental on frequent occasions in bringing business to the country. This was disclosed recently when an order for a piece of machinery costing $61,000 was received in Canada following the exhibition of a film in South Africa showing this particular machine in operation. But the great work that is being done by the showing of these moving pictures is to make the vast resources and boundless opportunities of the Dominion better known among the peoples of the earth, and to remove any ignorance and prejudice against Canada that may be found in other countries. The moving picture is a mighty agent for good or evil. Its use by the Canadian Government to educate and enlighten men, women and children regarding the Dominion of Canada and the conditions and opportunities that await all comers to this country should be encouraged and extended.—The Globe.

GOOD SUMMER READING.

The exact halfway mark of the calendar year is a good vantage point from which to survey the country's business conditions. Looking back at the present moment, there is visible not only the steady grade up which our trade has climbed during the first six months of 1928, but also there may be seen, far below, the business peaks and levels of former years. Looking forward, the path seems fairly well marked toward a still more favorable position. Statistics are sometimes tiresome, particularly if they present unwelcome facts, but the details of Canada's present commercial progress make good reading. Even the commercial summaries published by banks and financial institutions, which might be expected to be a little dull, are documents full of interest to all intelligent Canadians. Here are a few of the points noted by the Bank of Montreal in its June business summary:

Merchandise moving in larger volume.
Factories well employed.
Paper mills output keeps up.
Building surpasses all previous years.
Mines grow in volume and value.
Foreign trade larger.
Farm products have fair prices.
Railways being built.
Tourist traffic growing.
Ample credit; increased savings.

The bank suggests that car-loadings are a better barometer of conditions than bank clearings, and attaches much importance to the fact that car-loadings for the year up to June 22 were 70,600 in excess of the like period last year, and 159,000 in excess of the like period in 1926. The increase has occurred in the western division.

Agriculturally the outlook is reassuring. Crop prospects are good, and an incident of the month has been the resumption of cattle shipments to Great Britain. Last year no cattle went overseas.

Building contracts, as distinct from permits, are given for the first five months of 1928 as $196,331,000, or 41 per cent. more than in the corresponding period last year. This activity in construction has been reflected favorably in all allied industries and trades. Production of primary iron and steel has increased. Rolling mills and steel factories are busy. The newsprint output of Canadian mills continues on a large scale. It is only two years since Canadian output passed that of the United States, and in the month of May the United States production was only 126,000 tons, as compared with Canadian production of 203,800 tons. In the last five months Canadian mills produced 146,000 tons more than in the like period last year.

The bank notes that aggregate foreign trade rose in value by $27,000,000 in the month of May, and observes that the "continuous increase of imports has been a notable feature of recent years, indicating better business conditions."

Nobody can read such a summary without feeling that while it is intended to be a sober, conservative estimate of the condition of business, it is also a very excellent piece of summer literature. The average person, provided with such exhilarating material, and not bound by the restraints of a long-established financial institution, might easily be excused for metaphorically throwing his hat in the air and giving vent to a cheer or two for luck.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Political picnics are much more enjoyable affairs than political campaigns.

Canadians are looking to Joe Wright to win the diamond sculls for the Maple Leaf. The Toronto boy has made a very promising start.

The Canadian Bisley team is making a fine showing in the historic competitions, giving their home land some valuable publicity where it seems to be needed.

The accident statistics indicate that it was far from being a safe and sane Fourth across the border.

There is a decidedly French tinge to the tennis situation.

The Question Box

N.W. Q.—Where is the oldest bridge?

A.—The Sublician bridge, at Rome, built in the seventh century. Only the ruins remain.

M.T. Q.—In what country do people live longest?

A.—In France 12% of all the population is over 60 years of age; Ireland 11%, Belgium 10%, Scotland, Norway and Brazil 9%, while in United States only 5% of the population is over 60.

F. C. Q.—Where is the dryest place on earth?

A.—Egypt, between the two lower falls of the Nile. Rain has never been known to fall there.

* * *

N.E. Q.—Isn't it wrong for a man to read a paper over my shoulder when on the bus?

A.—It is not etiquette anywhere.

E.B. Q.—(1) Is cremation becoming more common? (2) I weigh 140 pounds. Wouldn't the weight be much less if I were cremated?

A.—(1) Yes. (2) A body your weight would produce about three pounds ashes.

D.G. Q.—You gave the amount of $1 at compound interest, 5%, in 15 years. What would it be in 500 years?

A.—Why not work it out in spare moments? To count the money you would get in 500 years would require 1½ billion people 500 years, each counting $21 every second, day and night, without intermission. It would be too much bother. The amount is: $496,984,196,731,226,689,629.

GOD'S MINUTE

"And as thy days so shall thy s rength be.—Deut. 33:25.

Our Gracious Heavenly Father, for the light of another day we thank Thee, for Thy watch care over us during the past night when, unconscious and helpless, we sought rest for our weary bodies. Thou hast granted to us another day wherein to honor and glorify Thy Holy name. May it be lived for Thee. May all the words spoken to one another and all the meditations of our hearts be acceptable in Thy sight. Strengthen us with might by Thy Spirit in our inmost being that we shall be fortified against every temptation. Reveal to us more and more the unspeakable privilege of continuous fellowship with Thee. Shed abroad in our hearts that love, so unnatural to us but of Thyself, which shall enable us to love the unlovely, and the unloved, those who may slight or insult us, and those who may despise and hate us. Fill our hearts with peace through the clear consciousness of sins forgiven, with joy unspeakable that our names are written in Heaven, and with hope not only for the resurrection which awaits us but for Thy speedy appearance. May our witness be so clear and unmistakable that some soul ere this day is over shall be led to acquaintance with Thee our adorable Lord and Saviour. Amen.

A Thought

"THE WORLD'S CURSE"

(By Vir. Campbellford)

There are two robbers in life who are destroying the peaceful by-ways. They are the unlicensed and the licensed. The first takes money or your life. The second devours both; money and your life. I can see the highway robber lurking in the shadows. Then on returning, my eyes meet the red wine in the dazzling glass as it is pushed across the bar. This is the world's curse. It is a deep and rapid torrent, bearing the wreck of nations in its course.

We cannot and must not let the Canadian flag be drawn through that torrent that slowly eats its way in spoiling our fair Canadian citizens' characters. The only direct and deadl blow that can be given th's monster is to prohibit instead of license its existence.

How can we do God's work properly and wisely if we drink that which brings disease into the body and destroys its vigor? A healthy nation is going to be a strong nation. A strong, temperate nation is going to progress in wealth and spiritual glory.

That stinging drink hauls adversity behind it and leaves the works of poverty at your door. It dulls that active brain that once worked with amazing power and trips the once active feet.

You all flee from a bottle labelled "poison" yet you can cling to a bottle labelled "liquor." I want to tell you friends they have just neglected to put the word "poison" on those bottles whose contents tease the body into the death path of eternal pain.

Our lives here on earth are short. Why not make each hour worth while and try to stop the curse that is swaying thousands to-day? Come out of the den where serpents coil and train yourselves to conquer temptatin's hour.

Lambs steady at $16.00 tops.

Calves steady to firm at 13c to 14c.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 6 (Canadian Press). — A feature of the local grain trade yesterday was the improved demand from exporters for wheat and sales of some fair sized lots of No. 2 Northern were made at ten cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 3 Northern at 2¾c over, c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the sharp rise in the July option price for oats yesterday, spot cash prices were marked up two cents per bushel.

The trade in spring wheat grades of flour continued of a limited character, but prices were unchanged.

On the other hand the market for winter wheat flour was stronger owing to the increasing scarcity of supplies on spot and the very light offerings from Ontario millers, and prices scored an advance of ten cents per barrel.

An easier feeling prevailed in the market for all lines of millfeed and prices scored a decline of $1.00 per ton. This was attributed to the falling off in the demand and the accumulation of supplies. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats continued quiet and values were steady.

A very firm feeling prevailed in the local market for top grade eggs owing to the somewhat limited offerings from most producing sections, which is attributed to the falling off in production and the much warmer weather that has prevailed of late. There was a steady demand, and further sales of fresh extras were made at 35c to 36½c per dozen, f.o.b. Ontario shipping points. The jobbing trade was rather quiet owing to the fact that buyers in most cases only purchased sufficient to meet their immediate requirements. The receipts were 2,157 cases.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for potatoes, prices being about steady at the decline noted, but the volume of business in old crop Canadian potatoes was of a limited character owing to the advanced season, with the result that the market was quiet. Sales of odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at 80c to 85c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 75c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track. On the other hand the demand for new crop American potatoes was good and as supplies were ample to meet all requirements, prices were unchanged at $3.10 per barrel for No. 1 grade, ex-store.

The trade in imported beans was rather quiet, but as the offerings showed no increase the undertone to the market remained steady and the prices were unchanged, with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track to arrive, and smaller quantities at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

A feature of the butter trade was the continued strong undertone to the market, and prices scored a further rise of ¼c per pound, and the prospects are that they will reach a still higher level in the near future owing to the steady upward tendency of values for cheese. The demand from local an d outside interests for supplies was steady and a fair volume of business was accomplished. The receipts were 2,872 packages.

The trade in cheese continued active and in consequence of which and the somewhat limited supplies of some grades available on spot the tone of the market again displayed strength and prices advanced ¼c to ¼c per pound. There was a good demand from English importers and spot buyers, which resulted in a large volume of business. The receipts were 10,213 boxes.

CHAPTER VIII

"ONLY FRIENDSHIP"

Looking back on that evening, it seemed to Jennifer that she had always known it must happen. It seemed as if the five years during which she had not heard from or seen Nicholas Gaunt had just been a marking of time while she waited for him to come back into her life.

And now that marking time was over, and he was here at her door.

For a moment something seemed to catch her by the throat, holding her breath, then she stood aside.

"Will you come in? I am all alone, but if you care to come in——"

Strange that she was not in the least afraid of him. Strange that after all the years of their separation she seemed to know and understand him better now than ever before. She shut the door against the darkening evening and Nicholas Gaunt followed her down the narrow passage to the little sitting-room where it stood wide open to the airless street, and a bowl of crimson roses, which Jennifer had bought cheap from a flower-girl at the corner of the road the night before, weighted the air with their fragrance.

It was a plainly furnished room. One or two articles remained which Jennifer had taken over with the flat from the last tenant, but the blue carpet was her own, and the one big arm-chair, and the small gate-legged table and a few odd bits of china and brass which she had picked up from time to time, all of which added charm and gave an atmosphere of taste and homeliness to the little room.

And Gaunt stood for a moment looking round him, a hard sadness in his eyes before he said abruptly:

"So this is your home, Jennifer?"

"Yes."

"I wish it were mine too!" he said.

It was as if something violent and electric had been flung down like a challenge between them, and Jennifer caught her breath with a little choking sound and closed her eyes.

Then suddenly Gaunt was beside her, his hands on her shoulders.

"God knows I've no right to ask it, but Jennifer, did you ever care anything for me at all?"

She tried to say "No," but her lips refused to form the lie; she looked up at him through the fading light, and the next moment she was in his arms, her face hidden on his shoulder.

In a tortured imagination she had so often pictured what she would say if he ever dared allude to the past, but now the past no longer existed. She was safe in the happiness of which for five years she had been cheated, and the clasp of his arms told her, without need of words, that he loved her. And presently Gaunt gently raised her head till her face was upturned to his, then he bent and kissed her lips.

"I've dreamed of this moment for five years," he said.

She answered him with trembling happiness. "Were you so sure of me? How did you know I loved you?"

She had forgotten her pride and devastating pain; it was all wiped out in a flash between the touch of his lips.

And Gaunt answered: "I know by my own love for you, which has never changed, in spite of all that has happened."

"But you went away. You left me without a word." There was a note of anguished remembrance in her voice.

He drew her down with him into the big chair where she had sat through so many lonely evenings, his arm still round her, her head on his shoulder.

"I think I was half mad at the time." He gave his explanation haltingly, as if, when looking back upon it now, it seemed he must have been mad indeed. "My mother died, and Edith—my wife—was there at the time."

"Your wife."

Jennifer remembered his marriage with a sense of shock, and she tried to draw away, but he held her fast.

"Let me tell you. Let me explain if I can. My mother had always wanted this marriage. Edith and I had known one another all our lives. She was never anything to me except just a friend, and then, when my mother died—it was the last thing she asked me to promise her—and I gave my word. It wasn't possible to refuse. If you'd been there with me I should have had to promise, just the same—you see, until I met you, my mother was all I cared for in the world. I suppose you can't understand how I felt! But if you'd loved her and had had to stand by and watch her die——"

He broke off, and Jennifer's thoughts flew back to the little house off the Kilburn High Road, and to the day of her father's death, and she knew that, plain, unromantic man as he had always been, he would never have exacted such a promise from her, never have expected it.

And Gaunt went on stumblingly:

"Then your letters came, and with them my hell began. A dozen times I wrote to you, and destroyed what I wrote. A dozen times after I came back to London I started out to go and see you, and, like a coward, I could not face you and tell you the truth. And in the end I tried to persuade myself that the best thing was to do nothing—I tried to persuade myself that you had not really cared for me, or that if you had, you would soon forget. Then in the spring after my mother died, Edith and I were married."

He laughed in unhappy reminiscence. "I had put it off as long as I could, but it had to come. I believe right up to the end I thought some miracle would happen and give you back to me." He drew a deep breath.

"Well, it did not, and so we were married. It's five years ago, Jennifer, and I have never had a happy moment since."

"She is very beautiful," Jennifer said with trembling lips.

"Beautiful!" He laughed and turned his lips against her hair. "I never looked at her without seeing your face and longing for you. She pretended to care for me at first, and because I thought she really did, I was sorry and ashamed and I did my best to make her happy. I might as well have spared myself the trouble. She is incapable of caring for anyone but herself. We go our separate ways now, except when appearances demand that we are seen together."

Jennifer asked a faint question.

"And you don't love her?"

"I love you!" Gaunt answered.

"You could have found me before, if you had wanted me," Jennifer said quietly and felt no shame in saying it. He belonged to her and she belonged to him. His wife was but a shadowy third hovering on the edge of their lives.

"I know." Gaunt took her hand and raised it to his lips. "Hundreds of times I've started out to look for you and then I've been afraid."

"Afraid?"

"Yes, of myself."

For some moments they were silent, till Jennifer raised her head from his shoulder and tried to see his face through the darkness.

"Then why have you come now?" she asked.

Gaunt did not answer at first, then suddenly he pulled her closer into his arms, holding her to him with a sort of desperation.

"Because I must have someone to care for and to care for me! It's the loneliness—I can't bear it any longer. It was bad enough before I met you a month ago, though I suppose I could have gone on somehow if I hadn't seen you again. Since then I've realized that I can't. You don't understand what it is, Jennifer! I've got nobody! I've got nothing! No one to care what becomes of me—nobody I can make a real friend of or talk to, and you're the only one I want. It's selfish of me perhaps, but I can't do without you any longer. Just let me come and see you sometimes—let me take you out as I used to. There's no harm in it. It's not as if we shall be hurting anyone. There's only Edith to consider, and she wouldn't care if she knew——"

Jennifer drew herself from his arms. "And what about me?" she asked in a stifled voice.

"You!" He was silent for a moment, then he slipped down to his knees beside her, encircling her with his arms. He was more like a boy at that moment than the man of the world she knew him to be, and the stark desolation of his life seemed to find utterance in the words with which he answered her.

"Don't send me away! You're the most precious thing in the world to me. I'll never hurt a hair of your head. I only want to see you sometimes and be with you. I'll do everything I can to make you happy. It's only friendship I'm asking for, Jennifer."

Toronto Prices Change Within a Narrow Range

TORONTO, July 6 (Canadian Press).—Trading was quiet on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, with prices holding firm or fluctuating in a very narrow range. International Nickel and Brazilian were leaders again. The former dropped a point to 96½ and the latter was up 1¼ at 60. Hayes Wheel was somewhat active, advancing ½ to 30. Page Hersey was unchanged at 99. Shredded Wheat at 65 was down two. Beverage stocks were firm. Seagrams was unchanged at 18, as was Canada Dry at 1.50 and Canada Dry Rights at 77. Walkers at 60⅛ was up ¼. British American Oil with a good turnover was unchanged at 39. Imperial and McColl were fractionally higher at 68¾ and 31 respectively. International Petroleum gained ¼ to 39½ and Super Petroleum was down a point at 34.

Noranda Features Mines By Striking a New High

TORONTO, July 6 (Canadian Press).—Noranda was again a feature of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, repeating its daily performance in striking another new high. This time it reached 64.50, closing at 63.00 for a net gain of 4.75. The issue opened quietly at 58.50 and dropped to 57.25, but later buying caused the price to mount rapidly. The rest of the list was irregular, with a strong tendency to firmness noticeable. Hudson Bay, which has shared the leadership with Noranda during the past few days, was unchanged at 21.10. Amulet dropped four to 4.45; Malartic five to 1.33 and Newbee three to 36. Sudbury Basin took a distinct slump, closing at 9.45 for a drop of 15 after selling up to 9.80; Hollinger was unchanged at 13.50, while Teck Hughes at 10.97 and Wright Hargreaves at 3.99 were up five and two respectively.

New York Stocks Show Big Reversal Of Form

NEW YORK, July 6.— (Canadian Press.)—The stock market displayed a complete reversal of form to-day, selling off at the opening on the unexpectedly large increase in brokers' loans and then rallying under the leadership of Aeroplane and Railway shares. Trading turned dull on the rally. Early declines of one to 7½ points were largely recovered and a number of issues bid up one to five points above yesterday's final quotations.

Call money was in plentiful supply at a renewal figure of 5½ per cent and the banks called only about $5,000,000 in loans.

Wright aeronautical dipped 8½ points to 157, in an outbreak of selling and then rallied to 164½. Collins and Aikman rallied from an early low of 55 1-8 to 61¼ and Radio from 184½ to 188½. Pittsburgh Coal, Brunswick Terminal and Indian Refining common all moved into new high ground for the year. Midland Steel Products preferred soared 14¼ points and Curtiss, American Zinc preferred, Union Tank Car sold three to four points higher.

Strong Counter Balance Registered On Wheat Market

CHICAGO, July 6 (Canadian Press).—Reports of rapid progress of the domestic harvest led to fresh early downturns in price here to-day for wheat. Relative firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool had apparently no effect as counter-balance. Opening ⅝c to 1¾c off, Chicago wheat soon underwent additional setback. Corn values averaged higher, starting at ⅜ to ½c decline to ⅝ cent advance and subsequently showing general upturn which however, was not well maintained. Oats were easier. Provisions displayed firmness.

Wheat, July 135¼, September 137½. Corn, July 107½, September 101⅛; oats, July 54⅝, September 44⅝.

ALCOHOL IS NOW WITHDRAWN

for medicinal purposes, and not as a beverage, its chief use to-day is for beverage purposes. It is sold by this Board. This sale was justified on the ground of public demand, and the fact that the Ontario Government Dispensaries, and other and older liquor commissions carried it. This is true. The dispensaries, in the 14 months' period from April 1, 1920, to May 31, 1921, sold 33,876 imperial gallons, and in the year ending May 31, 1927, the sale amounted to 20,419 imperial gallons. It is also true that it is carried by the Quebec Liquor Commission from their price list, reading:

"2B Alcohol 65 O.P., 10 oz., $1.60
"2A Alcohol 65 O.P., 20 ozs., $3.10
1C Alcohol 65 O.P., 40 oz., $6.00

It is carried on this Board's list as "1B Grain Alcohol 65 O.P., qt., $4.00."

I am advised that Ontario hospitals purchased in the six months' period ending April 30th last, 1,942 gallons. As the board has sold as much as 2,400 gallons in a month, it is quite obvious that by far the greater part is used for drink purposes. Unfortunately, much of it is used in mixing it with alcohol of another origin, producing a highly intoxicating compound. The Board formerly sold alcohol in 6 oz. bottle as well as by the quart. On May 6th, the sale of 6 oz. bottles was stopped, except when accompanied by a doctor's prescription.

The manner in which sales fell off is illustrative of the character of its use in April as the following statement showing results of a few stores shows:—

April Sales of 6 oz. Alcohol	May 1st-6th Sales	Sales during balance of May
1,033 bottles	187 bottles	2 bottles
174 bottles	4 bottles	None
287 bottles	81 bottles	1 bottle

It as been pointed out to me that the sale ought to continue, owing to the fact that the Quebec Liquor Comimssion sell it, as liquor can be brought in easily from Quebec to Ontario, and also that it is urgently required for the sick. I don't feel at all alarmed at the loss of profits that might consequent on Quebec bootlegging. The whole question is, what is the right thing for this Board to do, in the public interest of the province. Owing to the dangerous character of this strong spirit, I am not in any doubt at all. Its sale will be stopped. As to the use of alcohol for sponging the sick, people who are so dangerously ill as to require this, require a physician, and I am quite sure that the responsible physicians of this Province are not going to exact special fees for prescribing rubbing alcohol, any more than they would for prescribing medicine. In the future alcohol will only be sold on doctors' prescriptions.

Alcohol must not be confused with Whiskey Blanc. While Whiskey Blanc is absolutely the same character its strength is so different as to free it from obection. The moderate use of Whiskey Blanc connot be described as dangerous, and, as a matter of fact, it is comparatively mild whiskey. It is put up by the Quebec Liquer Commission, 49% under proof. It is actually milder, by 113 degrees in alcoholic content than grain alcohol. Those who understand the proper use of grain alcohol as a beverage always dilute it. The Whiskey Blanc itself is already diluted to a point which removes immediate danger from those drinking it, as in the case of undiluted grain alcohol. The Board will then list Whiskey Blanc, as now carried in Quebec. That is to say, the Board will sell Whiskey Blanc, 49% U.P. at $1.50 for a bottle of 26 ounces.

Rubbing alcohol is not a matter under the Board's immediate jurisdiction. It is a compound which is being authorised by the Department of Excise and Inland Revenue at Ottawa, but the question is being taken up with the Ottawa authorities.

PEACE RIVE R PIONEERS

Success magazines would snap up the story of the last nine years of H. C. Wheeler and his wife. Although complete city greenhorns, who scarcely knew the difference between wheat and oats, they suddenly took the notion they were "fed up" with city life and plunged into the Peace River district. To-day these two middle-aged people have carved out a kingdom of their own ten miles from Peace River village. They have 90 acres of land that grows huge potatoes and wheat nearly of record size. ABOVE are shown: No. 1, Mrs Wheeler, who formerly taught music; No. 2, the log cabin built by Mr and Mrs. Wheeler with their own hands, and No. 3, Mrs. Wheeler feeding her chickens.

KING GUSTAVE GOES FISHING

Royal Fisherman Spends Hours Trolling Along Reed Banks of Tullgarn.

GETS PIKE.

STOCKHOLM, July 7.—(Canadian Press).—King Gustav V. of Sweden has left for his beloved summer resort, the picturesque Chateau of Tullgarn near Stockholm. Here he finds relaxation from his duties in quiet fishing trips together with his trusty servant "the King's fisherman," C. Eriksson, who has been in the employ of the royal family for 47 years and who invariably accompanies the king on his fishing excursions in the bay of Tullgarn. The King devotes the mornin ghours to his mail and starts out on his fishing trip at noon, if the weather is fine.

The King is especially fond of troll-fishing with small fish as bait and will for hours glide along the reed-banks of the shore with two trolling-rods in action. He mostly gets pike and sometimes big ones. The catch of one afternoon may run up into more than 20 pike. After a few hours of fishing the big motor boat of Tullgarn comes along at high speed carrying the provisions for luncheon and a number of attendants. In a picturesque forest glade on the shore a tasty meal is spread on the grass, and on these occasions court etiquette is replaced by merriness and pleasant conversation.

When the meal is over the ladies and gentlemen-in-waiting return to the chateau, while the King and his faithful Eriksson resume their fishing which on fine days may last until seven or eight o'clock at night, interrupted only by a cup of tea from a flask. In order to relieve the strain on his arms in holding the trolling-rod the King invented a fork shaped contrivance for supporting the rod. Occasionally, if there is a strong headwind, the King may be seen to help his friend Eriksson to row the boat back to the shore.

The Chateau of Tullgarn has a fine situation, surrounded by a picturesque old park and glittering waters and also has an excellent garden, which yields a rich crop of flowers, fruit and vegetables for the numerous royal household. The King received Tullgarn when a Crown Prince 40 years ago, and it has ever since been his favorite summer residence, where he enjoys a simple and retiring mode of life with all the refreshing pastimes of a country gentleman.

COMPLETE RAILWAY TO HUDSON BAY

Work is Being Speedily Pushed Forward to Fort Churchill.

OTTAWA, July 6.—That the Hudson Bay Railway will be completed to Fort Churchill for the season of 1930 is the confident belief of the engineers, and the road will be operated for the service of the mining and other development enterprises which are engaged in the region. It is unlikely, however, that the harbor itself will be completed as early as the railway line, and a real test of the new northern route to the sea will not be possible for three or four years. Some 1,500,000 cubic yards of sand, gravel and boulders must be dredged from the bay before ocean-going vessels can dock at Fort Churchill and take on cargoes of grain and other products of Western Canada destined for the world's markets. Aids to navigation, direction finders, terminal elevators and docking accommodation for half a dozen vessels loading or unloading simultaneously must be established before the success or failure of the Bay route as a factor in Canadian foreign trade and transportation can be determined.

Additional 154 Miles.

When the terminal of the railway was changed from Port Nelson to Port Churchill an additional 154 miles of trackage was involved, the distance to Churchill being that much greater. The engineers anticipate that 40 miles of that will be graded and steel laid by December of this year.

ATTEMPT MADE TO AID CRUISER

BEING LIGHTENED.

HALIFAX, July 6.—Compressed air was being pumped into the sealed-up engine room compartment of the British light cruiser Dauntless last night in an effort to force out by the same aperture through which it entered the 1,500 tons of water estimated to have flooded the chamber since the cruiser crashed on Tribune Ledge, at the entrance of the harbor, last Monday afternoon while making port from Bermuda in a thick fog. The idea of hauling the cruiser off with tugs and ground tackle has been abandoned for the time.

While the powerful air-compression pumps on the wrecking tugs were engaged in the efforts to free the ship of water, other salvage craft were at the task of removing all portable weight from the cruiser in the way of guns, ammunition and supplies to lighten the wreck and facilitate floating. A berth has been prepared for the Dauntless in the local drydock, where repairs will be effected if the attempt to float her is successful.

Admiral's Statement

Vice-Admiral Cowan, who arrived on the Cruiser Despatch from Bermuda last night and took up a position alongside the wreck, in a wireless message today to The Halifax Chronicle replying to a request for a statement said the following:

"Dauntless grounded about 2 p.m. while making through fog into Halifax. The circumstances have yet to be investigated, but the one comfort of this great misfortune is to realize once more and to feel the warm friendliness and practical assistance at once shown and given by our brothers of the Canadian Navy and their countrymen on shore. The ship is being lightened in preparation for an effort to save her."

Divers Study Position

Admiral Cowan held a conference this morning with local naval and salvage officials when it was decided to try the compressed air method. Divers again studied the condition of the Dauntless under the waterline today and discovered that the fresh southwesterly breeze of yesterday and last night and the accompanying swell had caused little additional damage to the bottom.

Work will go forward throughout the night and is facilitated by the almost complete lack of wind and a normal sea.

BABY FOUND BURIED ALIVE

Lambton Police Arrest Mother, Who Allege Attempted Murder.

CHILD IDENTIFIED.

SARNIA, July 6. — (Canadian Press.)—One hour after an Indian youth had reported the discovery of the body of a child buried on the Indian reservation, four miles from here, last night, High County Constable Robert J. Whiting had arrested Mrs. Alberta Leboeuf, aged 40, and charged her with attempted murder. The child, its eyes and mouth filled with dirt and its clothing wet, was taken to the hospital and is reportad to be showing no ill effects from being buried alive. Hospital authorities reported the child to be ten days old.

Lawrence Williams, 17 year old Indian youth, working on the road near a bush on the reservation, had observed a car enter the bush yesterday. After it left last night he entered the bush and found a mound of new earth and investigated. He noticed it tremor slightly and then he heard a child cry. He ran all the way to the south end of the city and called the police. The High Constable called a doctor. On his arrival the child had been taken out of the earth and rushed to the hospital.

A woman's footprints were noticed near the mound, and the High Constable, accompanied by City Detective James Byrley, went to the hospital, where three nurses identified the baby as the child born to Mrs. Leboeuf on June 25. She was found at a local hotel and immediately taken into custody.

Police are of the opinion that an attempt was first made to drown the child, in view of the wet condition of its clothes. Mrs. Leboeuf had been employed in two local hotels.

TRAIN WRECK STOPS TRAFFIC

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 6 (Canadian Press).—Detrailment of eight cars of a westbound Canadian National freight train near Cardinal station late last night, blocking both tracks of the main line, and caused serious interruption of the main line traffic. It was found necessary to route through passenger trains via Coteau Junction, Ottawa and Napanee pending reopening of the line early this morning. After one freight car had broken in two several others piled up, effectively blocking all the main line traffic.

TRUCK LOAD OF PICNICERS IN AUTO CRASH

NEAR BRAMPTON.

Seventeen Girls and Boys and Six Adults Were in Crash.

TORONTO, July 6. — Returning from an outing in merry mood, 23 persons, mostly women and children, were tossed into a heap, two suffering injury, when a Hudson motor car crashed into the truck in which they were riding, at Britannia School, on the Centre Road, near Brampton, last evening at six o'clock.

In the truck were 17 boys and girls, ranging in age from 13 to 16 years, and six adults. Two of the older members of the party and the driver of the motor car were injured.

Coming From Niagara Falls.

The party was returning home to Kimberly Village after a three-day holiday to Niagara Falls. They were members of the Sunday School of the Kimberly United Church, of which Mrs. Burritt was teacher. They had spent their time camping and seeing the sights at the Falls.

Reaching Britannia School, which is four miles north of Kingsville, they decided to go into the grounds for tea. They had passed the school, backed down the road, and were making a turn over a culvert to go into the grounds when they were struck by the Hudson car, which was owned and driven by L. H. Morgan, of 368 Sunnyside Avenue, Toronto.

Passing motorists picked up the party, and took them to Brampton, where they were attended by physicians, and cared for during the night. The truck and the auto were both considerably wrecked and were towed into Brampton.

OSHAWA INFANT DIES FROM HEAT

Little Year Old Boy Dies as a Result of Intense Heat Wave.

OSHAWA, July 6.—The first heat wave to visit Oshawa this season took one young life Wednesday, when Donald Flintoff, year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Flintoff, 347 Arthur Street, succumbed after a few hours' illness. Donald had been in good health up until Wednesday afternoon, but became ill as the heat grew in intensity, until Wednesday night Mrs. Flintoff became alarmed and summoned a doctor. The little lad passed away before medical aid could arrive.

This is the first time for some years that loss of life due to the intense heat has been recorded in this city.

ANGLICAN CHURCH HOLDS BIG PICNIC

Many Sporting Events Held in the Afternoon at Owenbrook.

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, July 6.—A very pleasant picnic was held on Wednesday on the picnic grounds at Owenbrook under the auspices of St. Andrew's Anglican Church and favored by ideal weather and a more than sufficient supply of eatables provided by the ladies of the community was a decided success. A number from Coe Hill attended including the ball team who expected to play a team from Apsley. They, however, failed to put in an appearance, so a nine inning match was played captained respectively by Frank Graham and George Rosebush, the former winning by 16 runs to 6. A barrel tilting contest introduced by Rev. C. Spence, provided a great interest and fun, the tournament being won by Frank Graham after an exciting bout. The 100 yard race for men was won by George Rosebush with Art. Rolfe second. Miss King and Mrs. Elsie Winters were first and second respectively in the women's race, Howard Forbes and George Rosebush in the boys' race and Hettie Winter and Edna Post in the girl's.

At supper, Mr. Spence cordially thanked all those who worked so hard in preparing for the event, and for providing so lavishly in the catering line. Thanks were also due to Mrs. James Rosebush for providing ice-cream and strawberries.

Eden United Church, Haultain, will hold its annual picnic at Haultain on July 10.

Pastorate Changes.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor of Picton has succeeded the Rev. J. W. Ogden as pastor of the United Churh at Apsley, Haultain and Lasswade, and with Mrs. Taylor and little daughter, has arrived at the parsonage in Apsley. A large congregation greeted him at his first service on Sunday evening in Apsley.

Tourists Here.

A steady stream of American tourists has been passing through Apsley since Saturday last en route to Paudash, Loon Lake, Jacks Lake, and other points.

Wealth in America will continue to be poured out lavishly for the culture of all the people, astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthday it is may expect a prosperous year. Money will come unexpectedly to many.

"Try MOTORING," cheerily cried Plain Mr. York of York, Yorks., tossing aboard a package as he purred past. "You'll find it lightens the load wonderfully."

"Thanks," called back the rower, brightening up at once.

"It's a good plan always to take along a bar or two of Rowntree's MOTORING CHOCOLATE," continued Plain Mr. York. "The wonderful chocolate—Plain or Milk, whichever you like best—blends so deliciously with the crisp Valencia almonds and luscious raisins scattered through it. So sustaining, too, when energy flags and you feel the need of a refresher."

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 6 (Canadian Press). — Notwithstanding the announcement that 1,500,000 bushels of wheat from North America had been taken for export yesterday, wheat prices here went down grade from the start. Selling pressure resulted largely from a big increase of receipts of newly harvested wheat in the south-west, especially Kansas.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1¾ cents to 2⅛ cents net lower, with corn ¾ cent off to ⅞ cent up; oats at ⅝ cent decline to ⅝ cent advance, and provisions showing a rise of 2 to 27 cents.

Excellent harvest conditions were reported from Kansas, Nebraska, and Missouri, and there was word also that some new wheat has already been cut in Illinois. Meanwhile yesterday's arrivals of wheat at Kansas City, Wichita, Hutchinson and Salina aggregated as much as 1,632 cars. Houses here with south-west connections were steadily selling all day, and selling orders came also from the north-west, with field reports favorable from domestic spring wheat territory, and with Canadian advices indicating that the crop outlook forthe Canadian Prairie Provinces appear to be about the best ever known.

Under such circumstances, London reports that Russia had bought more than 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat overnight failed to have any noticeable influence on Chicago prices. Upturns in Liverpool and Winnipeg quotations were also virtually ignored, inasmuch as United States hard winter wheat is figured as being 5 cents to 6 cents a bushel higher than Canadian wheat available, with Canadian stocks larger.

Corn and oats were firmer early, but wheat weakness led to a reaction. Weather conditions were excellent for the new corn crop, with a good part of the Iowa crop reported as over knee high. On the other hand, stocks of corn east of Chicago are light, and indications were for a steady demand from that source.

Provisions were higher sympathising with hog values, which were at a new top for the year.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 6 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:
Demand—$4.87⅛ to $4 87⅛.
Cables—$4.83 1-16 to $4.88 3-16.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Tennis frocks as well as bathing suits are made with low-cut neckline at the back. This model is of white crepe de chine with striped belt.

From the thoroughly modern point of view the logical time to wear low neck and short sleeves is in the daytime —not the evening. At least there is no such hygienic excuse for exposing arms and shoulders and as much of your back as you dare in the evening as there certainly is when the sun shines.

As we come to look upon the exposure of bare skin not as a gesture of coquetry we shall lose any association of immodesty in connection with it. And I am sure the little girls of to-day who take their sub baths as much as a matter of hygiene as they wash their teeth and who are urged by their up-to-date mothers and scientific nursemaids to expose their little bodies to sun and air in the same tone that they are urged to eat the crusts and drink their milk—these youngsters will never get the same sort of thrill from wearing their first low-cut evening gown that women of other generations have done. Nor will the boys who see them; for that matter!

In some of the shops selling children's clothes there are little brightly colored knitted garments much less substantial than any bathing suit you ever saw—narrow shoulder straps to the waist and shorts no longer than those of a trapeze performer. Ask what they are and you will be told they are the new "health garments." Children wear them for play-time in the sun—if the hedge is high and the neighbors don't object! Especially for poorly developed, undernourished children, you know, it is important to have as much of the skin as possible exposed to the healing, tonic rays of the sun.

The sketch shows a new tennis frock made with a low-cut back. Certainly no one could say that it is at all improper. Convention dies harder in some sports than others. Low-cut bathing costumes are taken as a matter of course. Sleeveless tennis frocks are as well established. Women of another generation may dress like early American Indians when they ride.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

WHY NOT start a he-pulchritude racket? Why not turn the tables on the men who started the bathing beauty contests, the daintiest-foot contests, prettiest-eye contests, and most convincing false-teeth marathons? On the Pacific coast handsome males have been parading in competition with rival Tony Apollos and Mike O'Donsies, and I am sure that right here in Peterborough we have some who could carry the name of the city far in national and even international lists. It was men who started the beauty contest racket—my suggestion now is to let them finish it.

The whole thing started as an advertising stunt. Somebody's face powder, or clay pack, or eyebrow powder needed boosting, so he got up a nation-wide (or world-wide; why be picayune?) contest and grabbed off a lot of space from gullible newspapers—and inveigled a still greater number of gullible girls into the scheme. Prizes were given and flappers promenaded in bathing suits, and everyone was happy—except the losers.

Even Kiwanis Club was smitten, and a couple of years ago ran a bathing beauty contest at Chemong in which Mr. McKone and Mr. Reynolds came off second and third best to a Belleville visitor. Then there was heartburning and recrimination. It was ever thus when a golden apple was thrown into the midst of beauty.

The worst case of contest-itis was in Chicago, where they staged a handsome-iceman contest to boost the ice business. The handsomest iceman was enthroned on a cake of ice and hauled through the streets while flappers whispered excitedly and his blushes were so profuse they melted the ice. Now, we presume, he is back on the front seat of the icicle hack, keeping an alert lookout for visiting cards displayed in front-windows and on back doors.

All of which is merely preliminary to saying beauty contests are absolute rot, doncha-know. There are several pretty girls in this city of pretty girls who never entered one—and several people think they are prettier than any that ever did.

Figures just received from the Department of Labor show that the average cost of living has decreased seven cents a week from last month's figures. It is noteworthy that out of 58 staples in food, only 22 are higher in price in Peterborough than the Ontario average, while 36 are lower here.

Why not buy your shelled walnuts in a tin, especially at this time of year? It is so difficult to obtain and keep walnuts that are quite fresh, and it would add to vacation joy to know that you had nuts in perfect condition.

• • •

And here's another suggestion for your picnic menu: one cup grated cheese mixed with four tablespoons of chili sauce until right for spreading makes a fine sandwich filling.

Sufficient inquiries have come in for the series on reducing weight to warrant my squeezing it in on Saturdays, and the first article will appear tomorrow. In order to really try out the system I have asked John Stout to carry out the regimen and tell his daily reactions.

• • •

That's not really his name, of course. You couldn't expect a respectable citizen to tell about his weight reducing efforts over his own name. But just watch your fat friends—any one may be John.

A Tip or Two

SAFETY FIRST

If you notice a thin place or a small hole or "runner" in your stocking upon removal, darn it before putting it in the laundry. Then the hole will not increase to a hopeless size in the washing process.

SOMETIMES NEGLECTED

Sink strainers should be emptied frequently and washed after each meal after the pots and pans. Neglected strainers are attractive to both mice and roaches besides giving the kitchen an unpleasant odor and untidy appearance.

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Miss Marion:

If a mere man may break into your circle just to get something off his chest, he would appreciate it, although not one who usually performs well in feminine society. It's about that sophisticated lover. I missed the first article, but got the paper from a neighbor after reading the letters tonight.

Isn't it terrible? And do you know I think more of you and of The Examiner since reading your article. There have been greatest lovers and other kinds, but surely a "sophisticated lover" should be the last to attract a girl. Certainly a sophisticated girl lover would have a hard time picking up a good husband! And why should Norma and other girls tolerate in this regard the double standard against which the sex has been waging so successful war for years?

What kind of man is he to admire Josephine, who betrayed her great husband; Cleopatra, who seduced two world conquerors; Catherine de Medici, who murdered a king to place her son-in-law on the throne? If admiration of such women is a sign of sophistication, then pity save us from becoming sophisticated lovers!

I may be old-fashioned, but if the reckless-looking, villainous-looking, knavish-looking, but debonair Menjou, with his choice of sweethearts from whom to gain his sophistication is the beau ideal of Peterborough girls, then I'm afraid I'll have to go elsewhere to find me a wife.

Yours truly,
Unsophisticated."

My dear Mr. Unsophisticated, don't do anything rash. You know my views on Mr. Menjou, so if all the other girls in Peterborough fail you, you have always me to fall back on! But they won't, alack and alas! They are just as sensible here as anywhere. How about X.Y.Z?

Bridge Fiend: No; pre-empting bids are not limited to original bids. It is pre-empting when a player bids more than enough to overcall a bid made by his partner or an opponent or jumps a bid made by partner. By "jump" is meant raising the size of the partner's bid, the intervening adversary having passed.

"Dear Marion:

Please advise me about a sea trip. Where is the best place to go, and how much does it cost?
Nellie."

That is quite a question, Nellie. There are so many places to go, and so many prices, and you do not say how long you can spend, or whether your object is to get the sea air or see the world. However, here are a few sample tours, and if you send fuller particulars I will get full information for you. There is a 12-day trip to Newfoundland, at a cost of $120, including all expenses (ship-board). A round-the-world tour, touching at Japan, China, Manila, Malaya, Ceylon, India, Egypt, Italy, France and New York costs $1250, with fare to the port of embarkation extra. For $692 (plus fare to port) you may sail from Seattle to Yokohama, Kobe and Shanghai, returning by Honolulu to San Francisco or Los Angeles. There are tours of the Mediterranean (66 days); the West Indies (16 days); the world (136 days); South America (104 days)—an infinite choice bounded only by resources of time and money. A trip to Great Britain and the Continent is not expensive.

"Dear Marion:

A few days ago you named some dance records. Can you tell me a good piano roll? I am just learning to dance (interpretative).
C. H. B."

Try Romance (Rubenstein) or Trepac (Tchaikowsky), both of which contain directions for a dance routine. There is a series of lessons or rolls put out by Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, starting with bar exercises and leading up to complete routines set to famous masterpieces. Any Peterborough music store can obtain these for you.

"Dear Marion:

While on a visit out of town last year I bought the dearest little metal lamp, with three lamp sockets and a lovely brocade shade. The shade has faded badly already, and one of the sockets refuses to light up. I have written the store, but no notice has been taken of my complaint. What can I do?
Mrs. J.H.B."

Not much, I'm afraid, if the store ignores you. It is always safer to deal with a reputable Peterborough firm, which will feel in duty bound to give service on an article it sells.

DeLaval Take 11-8 Decision From C. G. E.

STAGE RALLY IN FINAL FRAME

Overcome Early Lead Obtained by Electrics in Third Inning.

PLAY OVERTIME

Softball has a peculiar habit this year of going into overtime. Ten innings were required to come to a decision at Confederation Square last night, when the De Laval won by a score of 11 to 8.

The Separators were ahead for a while until a wild innings, started by a bad throw to third by B. Miller and a mix-up in interference with Frick on first, caused them to give the Electrics five runs to give them a lead of two runs. But in the last frame, the ninth, a triple by Ward followed by Fowler's double and a single by Frick, brought in the two necessary runs. In the tenth, which was the next scoring frame, Hall knocked a triple, bringing in two runs, he scoring himself later to sew up the game, as the Generators did not have the final scoring punch and went out after four men had tried their best to tie the score.

The first frame was bad also for the C.G.E., as they took the field with the sun in their eyes and lost four runs as the result. The early stages of the frame were rather listless but good softball was played, and it was one of the best games of the season this year, but the last three innings were as exciting as any game and several fistic encounters nearly occurred, as the players became more excited in trying to break the tie.

J. Jones, Weese, McDonough, F. Jones and Barry were the outstanding men for the losers, but there were very few errors in the game, and it shows softball has shown a decided improvement since the first games this year. Miller, Fowler and Frick, Cooper and Carruthers were the best for the winners. Jake Hall of hardball fame coming through with the winning punch after playing his first softball game of the season.

Carruthers of the De Laval struck out three and Routley one. The first part of the game was not a hard hitting affair, but from the ninth to the end of the game the long ones appeared, but they were all on the side of the winners.

The teams lined up as follows:

De Laval.—Miller, c; Hall, 3b; Ward, ss; Fowler, 2b; Frick, 1b; K. Miller, lf; Cooper, cf; Simmons, rf; Carruthers, p. Kennedy batted for Simmons in the ninth.

C.G.E.—J. Jones, cf; Weese, ss; McDonough, 2b; Playford, rf; Routley, p; F. Jones, lf; Barry, 1b; Dyer, c; Callendine, 3b.

McDonough, at second base for C.G.E., was perhaps the most outstanding on the field, handling nearly one hundred per cent of his chances without an error.

Score by innings:

C. G. E. .. ..1020005000— 8
De Laval .. ..4000020023—11

L. LeBarr at the plate, and F. Scates at the bases.

Struck out—Carruthers, 3; Routley, 1.

Triples—Hall and Ward.

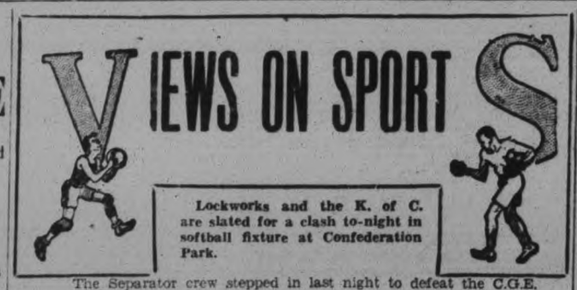
VIEWS ON SPORT



Lockworks and the K. of C. are slated for a clash to-night in softball fixture at Confederation Park.

The Separator crew stepped in last night to defeat the C.G.E. 11-8 in what was rather a close game during the final moments of the play. The Electrics scored five runs in the third inning during a weak moment caused by a mix-up between some of the players but the DeLaval came back in the ninth and tenth to overcome the margin and win the decision.

* * * * * *

Several fistic encounters were narrowly avoided in the game last night owing to the belief on the part of some of the players that rugby tactics may be used in a softball game.

* * * * * *

The Moose went down to another defeat when they were defeated by the Kiwanis 17-1 in a juvenile league fixture. Kay for the losers pitched a good game but he was given good support by his teammates who were inclined to throw the ball all over the lot.

* * * * * *

Cognawagas had a good batting workout at Hastings on Wednesday night when they defeated the homesters by 10 to 4, and the team will be in good shape for the game with Raybestos this evening. Vannest and Billingsley will likely divide the hurling, and Casey Masterson is the probable starter for the Rays.

* * * * * *

Curve Lake Indians play in Lakefield tonight, and tomorrow afternoon Lock Works go to Hastings.

* * * * * *

Another sport that has gained considerable favor in some circles locally is that of horseshoe pitching. It is an old sport and many of the old timers claim they can throw a mean shoe when their eye is on. Several people have taken rather an active interest in this form of outdoor amusement and Kiwanis are preparing courts for playing in the north-east corner of King Edward Park. It is proposed to form a horse-shoe club, the membership of which will be open to all at a small fee. Game schedules will be drawn up and it is considered likely that the pitches will accomodate from thirty-five to forty players at a time.

TWO ATHLETES ADDED TO TEAM

Kibblewhite, of Winnipeg, and Keay, of Toronto, Will Go to Amsterdam.

TORONTO, July 6.— Two more athletes have been added to the Canadian track and field team for the Olympic games.

They are W. Kibblewhite of Winnipeg and Art Keay of Toronto.

Kibblewhite won the 5,000-metre race at the Olympic trials, beating Walter ("Red") Hornby of Hamilton Olympics, the favorite, in commanding style. He ran the distance in 15.50, which is 35 seconds behind the Canadian Olympic standard and 1.28 4-5 below the Olympic record.

Keay won the 3,000 metres steeplechase in 10.34 4-5. Keay comes from the Toronto Monarch A.C. and has been a good consistent performer for a couple of years.

"Both these men showed enough to warrant us selecting them for the Olympic team, but because of the financial stringency we were unable to declare them members of the team until we received that grant of $5,000 from the Ontario government," said P. J. Mulqueen, president of the Canadian Olympic committee, to-day. Kibblewhite has started for Winnipeg, but the selection committee wired and had him leave the train and return to the Olympic camp. Keay was notified last night, and he, too, will take up his quarters at the Hamilton camp.

"Kibblewhite and Keay are two promising youngsters and I am delighted that we are able to take them along," said M. M. Robinson of Hamilton, manager of the team.

Robinson Is Peeved.

And then Robinson proceeded to get a peeve off his chest. He is very sore because of criticism levelled at the selection of so many Hamilton athletes and officials on the track and field team. The Toronto paper which criticized the team selected charged that politics had been used and that a certain athlete who had no business on the team had been pitchforked on the slate.

"I know who they are hitting at," said Robinson to-day. "They are taking a crack at Dave Griffin of Hamilton. Griffin has every right to go on the team but just because he is unfortunate enough to be a newspaper man and work on the same paper as I do he gets the knife and I am charged with jimmying him upon the slate. It is just a lot of petty cheap jealously. Griffin was the mile champion of Canada last year. He ran his mile in 4.25. The fifteen hundred metre standard is 4.08. Ralph Barnes made that in 1924. Twenty years ago Jack Tait of Toronto, who was regarded as a wonder, set up the Canadian record of 4.05. On Saturday the 1,500 metre trial was won in four minutes flat by the Walter brothers, who ran shoulder to shoulder. Griffin was third to them and was timed in 4.02. Doherty of Montreal was fourth in 4.02 1-5. He was selected for the team and nobody made any objections to him. Then why the kick about Griffin. It is just a piece of cheap jealously. Griffin right now is running faster than Jack Tait ever run and Jack Tait in his day was the best miler in Canada. He has improved greatly this spring and will continue to improve."

QUAKERS TROUNCED THISTLE 'SEVEN'

QUAKERS 7, THISTLE 1.

A fair attendance of spectators witnessed the Thistle go down to defeat by the score of seven goals to one in a league game last evening, when the Quaker Oats piled on this heavy count. The cause of the Thistle's loss was through the players not being able to get away from business, while the winners were at full strength.

First Half

The teams were late in setting the ball arolling. It was evident from the kick-off that the Quakers would triumph because they had a full eleven on the field of play and the Thistle had only eight players. After two minutes' play Tommy Wilson opened the scoring when Bolton misjudged the ball. From the centre kick the Thistle beat along to the other end to gain a successful corner kick that was converted by Tait, now placing the teams on an even basis. Exchanges continued even for a while until the Quakers assumed the superiority in tactics which finally brought them success within the next fifteen minutes. Time and again the losers tried to offset the pressure but had to admit defeat through the greater number of players. Half time Quakers, 3; Thistle, 1.

Second Half

On resuming the Jags endeavored to put up a battle, but it culminated in the Quakers putting up a strong barrier in the defensive area that held the Thistle to their own territory. During this period the Quakers added four more goals to their list and the game ended in a dilatory fashion. It would be a waste of space to try and enumerate the game when the winners took it in their mind to pile on the agony. Seven completed the total for the evening in favor of the Quaker Oats, while the Thistle had the lone tally. Final, Quakers, 7; Thistle, 1.

Thistle.—Bolton, goal; Bromley, back; Hallam, Armstrong and Houston, halves; Tait, Griffin and Ferguson, forwards.

Referee—Alex McKinley.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

TWO CANADIANS IN SEMI-FINALS

Meet English Oarsmen in Historic Diamond Sculls Event.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—For the second successive year an inter-empire duel between Canadian and English oarsmen is assured for the final race for the historic Diamond Sculls trophy at the Royal Henley regatta on Saturday.

In the four quarter-final heats rowed yesterday, Joe Wright, last year's finalist, and Jack Guest, both members of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto, were victorious and will meet to-day in the semi-finals. The other semi-final will be between two English oarsmen, R. T. Lee of Oxford, 1927 winner, and D. Guye of London.

There is therefore a strong possibility that Wright and Lee, who won the trophy last year after Wright's scull came to grief when he struck a side-boom near the finishing line, will again row for the single sculls classic which ended so unsatisfactorily a year ago. The disaster to the Canadian craft last year deprived Wright of victory as he was holding a comfortable lead when he fouled the obstruction.

Wright won his way into the semi-final by defeating David Collett, of the Leander Club, by two and a half lengths, while Guest easily defeated T. Sanders of Eton Vikings by five lengths. Guye eliminated the South African, H. Dakon, winning by a length, and Lee beat H. Edwards of the Old Westminsters by two and a half lengths.

Lee rowed the fastest heat of the day, covering the distance in 9 minutes and 28 seconds. Other winning times were:

Guest, 9 minutes 58 seconds.
Wright, 10 minutes 6 seconds.
Guye, 10 minutes 27 seconds.

SPORT CHATTER

(By F. D. C.)

As a result of Wednesday's games the Central Ontario League standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Oshawa	6	4	600
Belleville	7	5	583
Kingston	6	6	.500
Peterboro	5	6	.455
Deloro	3	6	.333

Games tomorrow:

Oshawa at Peterboro; Kingston at Belleville.

Hap Harrison's right to the clean-up position in the Petes' batting order has been amply sustained by the manner in which he has been driving in runs. He hit a triple with two on in Belleville, repeated the feat in Deloro and Wednesday in Kingston cracked out a long double to score two. In the last four games Harrison has supplied transportation for seven runs besides scoring three on his own account.

The Petes are getting the best pitching in the League. The local twirlers are allowing few hits, striking out a flock of men and giving very few passes.

De Laval Versus Quakers Holloway Soccer Cup

Game is Scheduled to Start at Three O'clock Prompt at King Edward Park.

A treat is in store for the soccer fans on Saturday when the DeLaval meet the Quakers Oats in the Holloway Cup at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. Kick off at three o'clock. Referee, J. C. Russell. The proceeds are on behalf of the injured players' benefit fund, which is kept for the purpose of meeting any heavy expenditure in medical attendance.

All players associated with both the teams are requested to be at the dressing pavilion no later than 2.45.

VICTORY FROM OSHAWA WILL HELP THE PETES

Leaders Are Here To-morrow For Important League Fixture.

A LOCAL SHAKE-UP.

Line-up Is Likely To Be Changed For Saturday Battle.

A win from Oshawa in tomorrow's Central Ontario League battle at James Stevenson Park will give the Petes a boost up the ladder, and will probably pull the Motorists out of first place, as Belleville should take their battle from the Kingston Ponies tomorrow.

The Petes have dropped two close games to Oshawa but are confident of registering their first win of the season on Saturday from the Schultz-Burgoyne outfit who for the moment are leading the League. It is probable that the local line up will be shaken up to some extent at least for this engagement and every effort will be made to field a line up that will be able to take a fall out of the leaders.

The Petes have three heavers who are ready to work and have not yet announced a selection while Oshawa will pin their hopes on either Dainty or Matthews.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock and after the first battle here on the holiday morning a real crowd will be out to see this tussle.

LEAFS DEFEAT CRIPPLED BEARS

Prudhomme Hurls a Four-Hit Game and Strikes Out Five.

SCORE 7 TO 1.

TORONTO, July 6. — Toronto took a firmer grip on first place here yesterday afternoon when they whipped the crippled Newark Bears by 7 to 1, and there is no real reason why the men led by Bill O'Hara should not make a clean sweep of this series. Crippled is right. The Bears are only a shdaow of the team that on pre-season dope were called to win the International League flag. They have fallen on evil days, and with Johnny Conlan, Bill Lamar, Jacques Fournier, Hughie McQuillan, and Wes. Kingdon out of the line-up and Walter Lutzke playing on his nerve alone, Walter Johnson's team is in a bad plight.

All the world loves a battler, and therefore it was only to be expecte that even the Leafs would applaud, perhaps silently, the grim struggle put up by the invaders yesterday, until they finally cracked with a vengeance in the seventh round. They had held the league leaders even at 1 to 1 until an error by the injured Lutzke paved the way for two Toronto markers. Again, in the eighth inning, Lutzke made a misplay, and Catcher Skiff also contributed a wild throw, and these helped the Leafs pile up a commanding lead.

Piling Them Up.

But even without the errors Toronto would have won. They couldn't make much headway against the good hurling of Don Brennan in the early rounds, but when Reese went into action in the eighth after Conlan had batted for Brennan, it was a different story. Base hits rang off Toronto bats with regularity, and the locals scored three runs and had the bases loaded before a man was retired. In all, the Leafs bunched five safe blows into this session, and these, plus two errors, a walk, and a wild pitch ended any chance the Bears had of staging a winning rally.

Walter Johnson, idol of major league fans, has apparently grown many grey hairs in the last three weeks' campaigning. It is whispered that there is internal trouble in the Newark camp, and it looks that way when stars like Bill Lamar and Hughey McQuillan have been suspended for failure to live up to the training rules. McQuillan has trod that path before oftener than any one remembers, but it is something new for Lamar to thrown down a manager like Johnson.

The Leafs made thirteen hits, eight of them in the first seven innings, when Brennan, who has been effective all season against them, was doing duty for the much-abused Bears. Brennan was therefore charged with the defeat, and nobody seemed to care what happened to the luckless Reese.

ATHLETICS WIN FROM RED SOX

George Earnshaw Wins First Game in Seven Starts.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Two big innings gave the Athletics a victory over the Red Sox, 5 to 0, in the final game of their series here yesterday and made it five out of six for the Mackmen.

George Earnshaw, former Baltimore star, won his first game in seven starts in the big leagues by letting the Red Sox down with three widely scattered hits.

Herb Bradley started for the Carrigan team and was touched for all five of the Athletics' runs, letting in three in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Pat Simmons, a rookie, held the Mackmen scoreless for the last three frames.

Sammy Hale, Philadelphia third baseman, led the attack with a pair of doubles and a triple. The first two baggers came in the fourth with the bases filled and accounted for two runs.

The Athletic-Red Sox contest was the only major league game played yesterday.

CLERKS BEAT MILL BOYS

The Losers Collect One Run in Only Two Frames.

SCORE 19-2.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6—Though they were short of men the Clerks were on the long end of the 19-2 score last night when they met the Mill team in a regular schedule game of the town league. The Mill collected one run in each of the first and fourth innings and failed to get into the allowances during the other seven. The Clerks started out to establish a lead from the first and collected four runs in the first time up. During the sixth, seventh and eighth they were held without a score and it looked for a while as though the Mill might stage a comeback with disastrous results to the victory which already loomed on the Clerk's horizon.

In the ninth there was every indication that the difference in the scores would be lessened when Booth came to bat with two men down and the bases full. Booth placed what looked like a safe hit into the left field. Base runners began their race for the home plate. Wager (Clerk's l.f.) managed to pull down a generally conceded impossible catch which put the third man out and saved the two runs already in. His snappy play was rewarded by applause from auto horns and hands from the sidelines.

KIWANIS HOLD MOOSE 17 TO 1

Victors Make Eleven Hits to Win Decision in Juvenile Fixture.

FIELDING POOR

The Moose Juveniles lost another game to Bill Carey's Kiwanis by a 17 to 1 score. The Moose boys were unable to hit Jones' offerings, while the Kiwanis touched Kay for eleven safeties.

Kay received poor support from his team-mates, who were inclined to throw the ball all over. The losers secured three hits, one which featured in the last innings when Marocco smashed a line drive over third for a double.

Jones, on the mound for Kiwanis, pitched great ball and backed up by the support of the fielders was able to blank the Moose for three out of the six innings. The Kiwanis lads also got four doubles and assisted by four walks at the bat.

The Moose were loose in their fielding plays throughout the game and several runs were scored against them for throwing the ball wild on the lot.

Line up:

Kiwanis.—Weir, 2b; Whatley, ss; Star, c; McCollough, 1b; Foley, m; Saunders, 3b; Dallin, lf; Huggins, rf; Jones, p.

Moose.—Collins, rf; Price, 1b; Perdue, ss; Rogers, 3b; Hall, 2b; Dinesen, m; Marocco, c; Kay, p; Guerin, lf.

WESTERN BOYS ARE IN FINALS

Winnipeg and Argonauts Will Each Send One Four to Olympics.

SENIOR TO-DAY.

ST. CATHARINES, July 6.—Western Canada again basks in the calcium glare, following its track and field triumphs of last week end at the Olympic athletic trials in Hamilton, by occupying the spotlight again yesterday at the opening of the Canadian Henley on the waters of the old Welland canal at Port Dalhousie, Winnipeg supplying two winning crews in the Olympic tests. The victory of the 'Peg" eight in the trial semi-finals was a display of real rowing and power while the four without coxswain from the most easterly of the Prairie Provinces won the right to represent Canada at Amsterdam by a spectacular exhibition which left Ottawa, its lone rival, four lengths behind.

The performances of the two Winnipeg crews added life to what might have been a dull opening day, delays and scratches in the program prolonging activities until late in the evening. The day also could not be considered ideal, with low threatening clouds from which the sun slipped through only at intervals, while a strong head wind roughened the waters and made the long journey for the frail shells all the harder. The starts of the races were sheltered but when the half way mark was reached, the wind swept the course and added double trouble.

While Argonauts gathered most of the first places, two in Olympic tests, their performances did not appear as promising as the big white crews from the mid-west. Argonauts' four, with the colorful Charlie Haney as coxswain, won the Olympic trial final by a half a length in a fighting finish from McGill, while the big eight from the double-blue downed Varsity's high hopes, but their style was as impressive as that of the "Peggers." The meeting of Winnipeg and Argonauts in the final fight for a chance to go to the Olympics to-day should produce the thrill of the forty-sixth annual regatta of the C.A.A.O.

U. T. S. LOSES.

The Argonaut-University of Toronto race was a much keener contest. Double blue drew into a slight lead immediately after the start and continued to gain slowly but steadily until within a quarter mile of the finish. There the big blue crew put in some terrific sprinting, but it was matched by the Argos, who maintained their advanatge to the end.

LAWN BOWLING

This evening at the local greens the usual Friday night tournament will be held. With warm nights now at hand no better sport can be had than lawn bowling and a large turnout is expected Draw will be at the usual time, 730, and prizes will be given the winners. Be on hand and enjoy yourself.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Ken Maynard in "The Upland Rider"

"The Upland Rider," feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this weekend, is one of the interesting Western productions that has a hard-riding hero and a fine horse as central figures. It is featured by a race around which the intrigue of two rival factions centres, with Tarzan and the Raven as the completing favorites of two stables.

Ken Maynard is Dan Dailey, owner of Tarzan, the superb example of horseflesh that occupies much of the attention of the audience during the outlining of the story. Marion Douglas is the heroine, Sally, and Lafe McKee is her father, owner of the Upland Ranch and stables. The ranch is stocked with horses of the pioneer bronco breed, noted for endurance, and a rival ranch is that of Ross Cheswick, who has invaded the wilderness with a string of thoroughbreds. Tarzan, the wonderful bronco horse, is matched in the race against the Raven, pride of the Cheswick stables.

On the day of the race Tarzan has been placed under arrest by the sheriff, on account of his part in a great fight between the rival stables. He is replaced by another bronco of the same type and takes part in the race, which is a thrilling and dramatic feature of the picture. In the home stretch, Cheskick's man, Bent, strikes Dan across the face with his whip, but the latter rallies and wins the race, with the usual romance and satisfying finale.

The comedy is a two-real farce affair that gives the onlookers plenty of laughs. It is enacted by Sam Hardy and Stan Laurel.

AT THE REGENT.

ALL THE THRILLS AND FUN OF A CIRCUS AND WESTERN IN TOM MIX' "CIRCUS ACE"

Again Tom Mix scores a triumph at the Regent, where his latest starring picture, "The Circus Ace," had its first showing yesterday afternoon. Here is a western that is not only novel in theme and treatment, with a fine story of romance and adventure taken against the beautiful backgrounds of California, but a vivid picture of circus life as well.

All the excitement, thrills, big and little business of the Big Tops, as well as a Western drama, is shown with fine realism and whimsical humor in "The Circus Ace." The lives of the circus troupers, their loves, their hates, their daily grips with death in the performance of their hazardous acts, as well as their fun and recreations, are pictured in a way that is highly instructive as well as entertaining.

And it all is part of a colorful story in which Tom Mix and his horse Tony play an active and fascinating part. From the moment Tom sees the girls, played by Natalie Joyce, come sailing down to him from the sky on a parachute, to the time he spells out his message of love to her with a stream of bullets from his six shooter on a board, there is action, thrills, fun and suspense.

Tony has his share of the glory in making this film a delight for old and young, and a boxing kangaroo helps him prove that animals can produce laughs and thrills as interesting as the human actors.

The story of "The Circus Ace" was written by Harold Shumate and the scenario by Jack Jungmyer expressly for Tom Mix and is ideally suited for the western star. The cast, too, is one of the best including such well known screen performers as Jack Baston, Duke Lee, James Bradbury, Stanley Blystone, Dudley Smith and Buster Gardner.

MISSION BAND PICNIC.

Mark Street Children Have an Enjoyable Outing in Spite of Thunder Storm.

The Mark Street Mission Band, under the direction of Mrs. (Rev.) Thornley, held a very enjoyable picnic to Jackson Park Tuesday. The children met at the church and were transported to the park in cars offered by friends.

The afternoon was spent in games and bathing. During the thunder storm the children were entertained in the pavilion. Supper was served by the mothers to about 30 children. The older people also had an enjoyable supper after the children, and the picnic ended with the drive back to the church.

COUNCIL PICTURE IS ON DISPLAY

Picture of 1928 City Council is Seen in Window of Roy Studio.

The latest photograph of the Peterborough City Council appears in F. L. Roy's show window on Hunter street. It is one of the nicest pictures that has been taken and each individual picture is clear and distinct and the photos are arranged in very good fashion.

The central picture larger than the rest is the picture of His Worship Mayor Roland Denne while arranged in a semi-circle above him are the pictures from left to right of H. C Huffman, R. S. Cotton, S. R. Armstrong city clerk, C. H. Ackerman and S. A. Lowe. On the left side of the central photograph of the Mayor are pictures of J. Hamilton and N. E. Phelan while on the right side are those of M. McIntyre and W. Stocker. In the left hand corner is that of G. A. Macdonald while on the opposite side is J. M. Green.

The work on the picture was completely finished only yesterday morning when it was put on exhibition in the show window.

SHARE HONORS.

Nine Centuries Made in Yesterday's Cricket Games in England.

LONDON, July 6. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— Batters and bowlers shared honors in yesterday's cricket. In nine county and other first class matches no less than nine centuries were made. On the other hand seven bowlers turned in averages worth nothing.

Of the centuries scored the finest were the 160 of Woolley, Kent, against Leicestershire; the 152, not out, of Shipman, Leicestershire; and the 156 of Head, Hampshire, against Essex. Others to break into three figures were: Robins and Killick of Cambridge University with 100 and 101 respectively; Ducat of Surrey with 121; Haig of Leveson-Gomer's with 111; Cook of Sussex with 100, not out, and Barratt of Nottinghamshire, with 110, not out.

Bowlers to show up well against the lusty wielding of the bat were Bowes, M. C. C., who took 4 wickets for 70 and performed the hat trick; Sculling and Astill of Leicestershire who took 5 for 74 and 5 for 57 respectively; Howell of Warwickshire, 5 for 76; O. Hallwood, Oxford, 5 for 127; Eastman of Essex, 5 for 122 and Boyes of Hampshire, 5 for 44.

No play was possible yesterday in the game between Lancashire and Worcestershire at Manchester, due to rain.

Industrial progress is a great factor in modern life. You find it exemplified in the advertisements from day to day. Read these advertisements and keep up with the history of your own times.

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Will you allow me to announce to the investing public that I have again been appointed special agent for the sale of bonds and preferred stocks. As I deal only in the best securities on the market they are sometimes taken up in huge blocks by companies or banks investing their reserves, with the result that the issue is suddenly sold out and applicants disappointed. The new Simpson loan of $4,000,000 is nearly all gone, but may be on the market for another week.

ONE WOMAN CLAIMS MONEY

Mr. Free Was Caught Only Once Yesterday By Mrs. McEwen.

CONTEST CLOSED.

Mrs. A. McEwen, 22 Manning Ave., was the only person to catch Mr. Free yesterday, and the last one to qualify to win the $5 gold piece. Mr. Free is to-day in Campbellford where The Examiner readers are given an opportunity to win. Mr. Free wants to remind all readers that their estimating tickets must be in by Saturday night.

Bond's popular Drug Store, featuring Rubber Goods of all kinds at lowest prices for first quality. On the handy corner, with a complete stock of drugs and patent medicines, its service never disappoints.

The Special Contests close on Saturdays. The readers of The Daily Examiner are getting so anxious to get a prize.

The travels of Mr. Free on Thursday offered many memorable incidents. The readers of The Daily Examiner are getting so anxious to have Mr. Free's gold, that they do not wait for him to come to the door, but meet him at the car. Some were so anxious they even visited him at the Empress Hotel, where they are served large portions of well-cooked food by uniformed and competent waitresses. Others accost him on the street while every place Mr. Free goes and stops his car, he is surrounded by school children, asking him to call on their mothers.

Special Prize from Stocks' Bakery

If Mr. Free is caught twice on the last day of his visit here, a special prize is offered by Mr. Free of $5.00 in trade at Stocks' Bakery.

Many Calls Yesterday

Mr. Free made many calls in Peterborough yesterday, but only one qualified for the prize. To-day he will call at Campbellford homes and many more people will have their chance to the five dollars. Mr. Free, during his stay in Peterborough, has made many wonderful friends and assures them that it will be a pleasure for him to return at some future date to give all those who phoned in numbers and have not been called on, a chance to win a prize.

Last Day for $150.00 Prize

Rember the special prize offer. If Mr. Free is caught eleven times during his visit here, one of the lucky eleven persons will receive beside the five dollar prize, an award of one hundred and fifty dollars in cash. This amount will be deposited in the Royal Bank, "the friendly bank," which Mr. Free chose himself.

Mr. J. Primeau, Peterboro's Most Popular Haberdasher, offers the readers of The Daily Examiner an opportunity to guess the mileage on Mr. Free's Hudson Super-Six speedometer. Mr. Primeau, like Mr. Free, believes that publicity, advertising and popularity is the road to success and therefore has grasped the opportunity Mr. Free offers to acquaint the readers of The Peterborough Examiner and his friends and customers the great opportunity that Peterborough has for a future.

So don't fail to fill in the coupon and win Mr. Primeau's $1,000.00 cash cheque reward and mail to Mr. Free, c/o Daily Examiner.

AUTHORITIES WILL DEPORT MILLER

Doctor is Given Ten Days to Leave Canada By Immigration Officials.

OTTAWA, July 6 (Canadian Press).—An order for the deportation of Dr. Orlando Miller, detained at Calgary, will be issued within the next two or three days, if he is still in the country, the Department of Immigration and Colonization stated yesterday afternoon. Recently the appeal of Dr. Miller from an order of a board at Calgary for his deportation was dismissed on review by the Department here; and Dr. Miller was given 10 days in which to leave Canada. Dr. Miller, who entered from the United States, has been held by the Department to be illegally in Canada.

Miller, who has been conducting lectures in several parts of Canada and who was ordered to leave the country by the immigration officials, has left Calgary en route for Banff and Vancouver. Immigration officials said that he would remain a day or two in Banff and that he would stay the rest of his 10 days of grace in Vancouver before going over the line into the United States.

BYNG'S POSITION CLEARLY DEFINED

Officers Are Not Allow to Chew Gum, Says Home Secretary.

LONDON, July 6 (Canadian Press).—Replying to questions in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, defined Viscount Byng's position as Commissioner of Metropolitan Police in connection with his seat in the House of Lords. He pointed out that Viscount Byng could take advantage of his seat to declare himself on police matters. The Minister further said that while membership in the Commons was denied to police officials, there was no corresponding provision regarding the House of Lords.

A questioner put a hypothetical case whether in the event of a dispute between the commissioner and his superior, the Minister, the political head would answer in the House of Commons and the commissioner in the House of Lords. Such was definitely not permitted, Sir William replied. He cited similar cases of civil servant peers, like Admiral Beatty when he was First Sea Lord, who never answered questions in the House of Lords when the First Lord of the Admiralty was available.

Gum-Chewing Banned.

The Home Secretary informed the House that metropolitan policemen had been prohibited from chewing gum because the practice invited unfavorable comment, and tended to impair an officer's capacity to deal promptly and efficiently with situations arising in the course of his duty.

Lady Astor called attention to the difficulties met by policemen chewing gum when attempting to answer questions. That was exactly one of the reasons for the prohibition, the Minister said.

"Moreover, in blowing his whistle the policeman's gum might get into the whistle," the Home Secretary added.

In answer to a question, Sir William stated that five pensioned military officers were at present holding posts with the metropolitan police. They were drawing an aggregate in salaries of $31,500 and $12,500 in military pensions.

LEARD—SIMPSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Chad's Anglican church on Saturday, June 23, when Helen Julia, daughter of Mrs. Julia Simpson, of Toronto, was united in marriage to Mr. Denton D. Leard, son of Mr. J. W. Leard of Truro, N.S., and of the late Mrs. Leard. The bride wore a suit of beige with matching gloves and hose. Her blouse and hat were of beige with touches of nigger brown and she wore nigger brown shoes of suede. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Webster, of Dundas, Ont. After the honeymoon they will reside in Toronto. Pre-nuptial events included the presentation of a beautiful mantel clock to the groom by his fellow employees and of a complete gift tray of silver to the bride by the office staff of the Canada Bread Co., Ltd.

BOLAM—FREEBURN.

An unusually pretty wedding took place in All Saints' Anglican Church yesterday at high noon, when Myrtle Irene Freeburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Freeburn was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to William Duncan Bolam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bolam. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Douglas Paterson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of ivory crepe de chine, trimmed with silk lace and pearls. It was made simply with long sleeves and a deep bertha collar edged with lace. Her veil of silk net was held in place with seed pearls and orange blossoms with a spray of orange blossoms falling from the left side. She wore white kid shoes and white silk hose. Her bouquet was of American beauty roses, and maiden-hair fern.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Arlette Freeburn, wore rose and white crepe, with a large rose mohair picture hat and white gold bar pin with ruby setting, the gift of the groom. She also wore blond shoes and hose.

Miss Elizabeth Bolam, the bridesmaid, was frocked in pink crepe de chine, with gold lace and a large picture hat of slightly darker shade, and wore the gift of the groom, a white gold bar pin set with sapphire, and blond shoes and stockings. Both attendants carried large bouquets of deep pink carnations.

Mr. Rodney Peace acted as best man. His gift was a gold tie pin, set with pearls.

Miss Dorothy Worboy played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register played "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal party received, assisted by Mrs. Freeburn, mother of the bride, wearing a white silk gown with silk mohair hat and corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses, and the groom's mother in a beige flat crepe gown trimmed with touches of old rose with hat to match and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

A buffet luncheon was served, where decorations were in pink and white streamers, white bells and bouquets of pink and white peonies. The bride's table was attractive with pink roses and was centred by a lovely wedding cake decorated in silver and white.

Rev. J. D. Paterson proposed a toast to the happy couple, which was responded to by the groom.

The happy couple took the 3.30 train amid showers of confetti for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, the bride travelling in a figured rayon dress with smart rose felt hat embroidered in deeper shades and fox fur neckpiece. She wore blonde kid shoes and hose to match and blonde kid gloves.

Many lovely gifts were received by the bride and groom, including a beautiful mantel clock from the Colonial Weaving Company and a bridge lamp from the C.G.E. employees. The groom's gift to the bride was a brown leather club-bag.

Peterborough Club Recognised

Recognition came to the Peterborough Club in more ways than one, the local organization being second in efficiency in its numerical classification. Resolutions of this club were also more than recognised by the convention and Peterborough had been one of the very few so far distant to send its full quota of delegates. Following the report, visiting Kiwanian Fred Hall and Harry Huffman, of the local club, expressed the appreciation of all for the unusually splendid reports submitted. A hearty clapping of hands assured Messrs. Wearing and McNabb that it was unanimous.

Opening Plane Door By Loewenstein Is Proved Impossible

Practical Experiments Made Over English Channel Reveal Fact That Great Belgian Financier Could Not Have Opened Door.

SUICIDE IS NOT BELIEVED—FUTILE EFFORTS MADE YESTERDAY TO FIND BODY

Tests Were Made in Plane of Same Type As That Used By the Financier — Rush of Wind Found Too Great.

LONDON, July 7 (Canadian Press).—Discussion of the mystery of Capt. Lowenstein's death by a fall from his aeroplane into the sea went on apace to-day.

Efforts to find his body at the point where the crew of his plane and its other occupants assert he fell into the English Channell through accidentally opening the exit door of his plane have been futile. The pilot and mechanic of the plane spent several hours cruising about the spot in a tug in a fruitless search.

Rumors that the whole affair was a gigantic hoax were circulated in brokers' offices and other concerns interested in dealings of stock exchanges of London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels. One suggestion was that Lowenstein never left Croydon and Dunkirk, where it was first seen to land and disappear, or that he vanished in a fast motor car after landing at Dunkirk.

All who knew Lowenstein insisted that he had no reason for committing suicide. In Paris it was thought that the banker had been thrown against the exit door when the plane was banking on the turn and the door opened permitting him to slip through to his death. When the plane was banking the wind pressure on the door would have been less.

Mysterious Case.

The case of Alfred Lowenstein which may rival the most mysterious of detective stories, became more bewildering to-day when tests carried out above the Channel proved it would be impossible to open the door into the outer air accidentally.

The tests were made in a plane of the same type as that from which the Belgian millionaire is supposed to have fallen to death Wednesday night, and were undertaken when it was asked how he could have mistaken the outer door for the lavatory door.

The tests also went to prove that either the door could not be opened at all by one man, or that if a powerful and determined man did force it open everyone else in the plane would have been aware of the fact. Lowenstein's employes on board deny hearing or feeling anything out of the way.

Parallel tests took place at the French airport of Lebourget with similar results.

The English test was made at a height of 4,000 feet, at a speed of 100 miles an hour over the channel, thus duplicating the conditions which Pilot Donald Drew, of Lowenstein's plane, says obtained when the financier disappeared.

With a safety rope around his waist, a large and athletic reporter tried to open the door, but, as he described the test, "found that the rush of wind was too great."

"I then tried to use force against the door," he said, "and succeeded in getting it to open an inch or two."

From Paris, it is reported that two men, using their full force, were barely able to force the door open a small distance. Thus the comments of experienced aviators, when the news was first published is confirmed. The door opens outwards and towards the engines, whose back draft is tremendous.

Theory Ruled Out.

The evidence thus seems to rule out the accident theory. It also casts doubt upon the suicide theory as it is doubtful whether Lowenstein could have opened the door and thrown himself out.

The tests indicate this is so difficult that some experts declare it to be impossible.

George Terrell, a flying officer of the Royal Air Force, says:

"Any person wishing to get out of the door which opens outwards towards the motors, would have to push open a plane of woodwork roughly ten feet in area against an air current of 120 miles an hour, assisted by the backwash or slip stream of two of the three 150-horsepower motors.

"The backwash alone, while the machine is standing on the ground, is sufficient to knock a man down. From personal experience, I can state it would require a super-strong man to accomplish this. Suppose he did open the door, it is doubtful if he could jump or fall through. As soon as the pressure on the inside of the door was released, the pressure of air outside would instantly slam it into place. Before a man's body could get clear it would be caught and held fast by the closing door.

J. AKEY LOSES LIQUOR APPEAL

Judge O'Connor Upholds Judgment of Magistrate Langley.

FINED $250.

Judge O'Connor of Cobourg to-day upheld the judgment of Magistrate Langley in the Stewart vs. James Akey case.

Akey was found guilty of having liquor in other than a residence some months ago by Magistrate Langley and fined 250.00 and costs. J. A. O'Brien defended the accused and Crown Attorney Hatton, K.C., prosecuted.

The Judgment

This is an appeal from a conviction under Section 90 (1) of the Liquor Control Act of Ontario, made by the Police Magistrate in and for the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough dated the 17th day of April, 1928, and whereby it was adjudged that the appellant James Akey pay the sum of $250.00 by way of penalty, and a further sum of $47.15 costs, and in default of payment that the said James Akey be imprisoned in the county gaol of the County of Peterborough for the period of one month.

The appeal was argued at the City of Peterborough on the 8th day of May, 1928, when judgment was reserved. Joseph A. O'Brien, esquire, appeared on behalf of the appellant, and G. W. Hatton, K.C., Crown Attorney, represented the informant.

I have read the evidence taken at the trial before the Police Magistrate and also the judgment and findings of the Police Magistrate, and after giving careful consideration to the authorities submitted I cannot bring myself to a conclusion different from that taken by the learned Magistrate. He has apparently given this matter much thought and in my opinion his conclusions, both of fact and of law are right. To find that the so-called room said to have been occupied by Milton Barnard is a residence, would in my view be giving a most liberal interpretation to that word.

At best the room in question could only be considered a make-shift. There was nothing about the room that gave it the appearance of privacy. There was no lock or other means of closing this room off from others who might feel inclined to use same, particularly on occasions when the said Barnard was not actually in the room, and it appears that in order to enter the hay loft it was necessary to pass through the room in question. Not only was the proprietor, James Akey, in and about the premises, and as such making use of a passageway through the room in question for the purpose of entering the hay loft, but another man, Edward Jones, an employee of Akey, was likewise privileged. The very large quantities of liquor which the man Barnard purchased and which he says he consumed on the premises in question should have been some warning to the proprietor Akey that things were not as they should have been.

The learned Magistrate had the opportunity of hearing the evidence of all parties concerned and of observing their demeanour, and as said above, I have no doubt that he has come to the right conclusion, and have no hesitation in confirming the conviction. The case of Rex vs. Hannah, referred to on behalf of the appellant, in my view is not of any assistance to him.

For the reasons above mentioned I therefore dismiss the appeal herein and affirm the conviction and direct that the appellant pay the costs of the appeal, which I hereby fix at twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

APARTMENT HOUSE JANITOR IS ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN STABBED BY AN OCCUPANT

Quarrel Supposed To Have Arisen Over Disposal of Garbage.

POLICE CALLED.

Alfred Charles Salter Found Stabbed in Heart By Bread Knife.

TORONTO, July 7 (Canadian Press). — Alfred Charles Salter, 33, janitor of an apartment house, is dead, and Douglas McArthur, 55, occupant of one of the apartments, is held on the charge of murder, following altercations this morning.

It is stated by the police that in the quarrel in McArthur's rooms he picked up a sharp-pointed bread knife and stabbed Salter near the heart. The janitor died a few minutes later.

The quarrel is alleged to have arisen over the dispsal of garbage. McArthur called the police and reported the affair.

He is stated to have given the officers the following statement:

"I called in Salter and told him to remove the garbage, which had started to decay, from my premises. Salter became enraged and went at me with a whisky bottle which he was carrying in his hand. I was still clad in my night attire, and seeing that he meant to attack, I seized a bread knife from the kitchen drawer and threatened him with it.

"He ran straight at me, and my knife entered his breast just below the heart."

After being stabbed, Salter ran out of the back door, where his body was found by a milkman.

Salter's wife, who is in poor health, has not yet been told of the tragedy.

Cemetery Closed To Automobiles

No parking of motor cars within the gates of Little Lake Cemetery will be a new regulation put into effect tomorrow previous to and during the Decoration service by Peterborough Oddfellows.

Youths Made Attempt To Steal Aeroplane

WINNIPEG, Man., July 7 (Canadian Press). — A new menace which failed to tax the resourcefulness of the Winnipeg police force, made its appearance in the form of an attempted airplane theft here yesterday.

As two German youths, recent arrivals in the country, attempted to take off in one of the planes resting on Stephenson flying field, a squad of policemen pounced upon the would-be modern thieves.

In police court yesterday the youths gave their names as Adolf Hummel and Wolfran Huffman, and confessed that they had intended to steal the machine and fly to Detroit, Mich. Both claimed they have learned to fly in Germany. They were remanded for sentence.

The men had been noticed loitering about the flying field and policemen were awaiting them in a nearby hangar when they made their bold attempt.

Helen Wills, American Tenn is Star, Retains Title Defeats Brilliant Spanish P layer in Hard Fought Game

WIMBLEDON, England, July 7 (Canadian Press).—Helen Wills, American tennis star, retained her championship in the women's singles at Wimbledon to-day, defeating Senorita Elia de Alvarez, the brilliant young Spanish player before a hugh crowd, which included the King and Queen. The score was 6-2, 6-3.

The champion's heavy artillery finally brought surrender. Miss Wills was not her usual accurate self in the first set and part of the second, many of her shots intended for the corner going out. Once she got the proper range, she pounded the weakening Spanish girl's defence unmercifully, until she got her victory.

NO PARKING FOR PARADE

Cars Not Allowed To Park On George Street During Orange Parade.

POLICE REGULATIONS.

Special regulations by the city Police Department will provide for the west side of George Street from Charlotte to Brock Streets being kept cleared on Sunday evening while the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. members are lining up for their annual church parade to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Special music, including 'cello selections by Martin B. Chenhall, Jr., "Where the Seas Meet," by Rev. of Toronto, and a sermon entitled William Allan, will be a part of the evening service.

On July 12th

The police are laying their plans for the handling of the large crowd and resultant traffic expected in Peterborough on July 12th this year, and among other things they are endeavoring to provide a clear line of march for the Orangemen.

From twelve o'clock noon on that day until after the parade, there will be no parking allowed on the west side of George Street from Perry Street at the south to McDonnel Street at the north. Motorists will be allowed to park their cars in King Edward Park as they did on the last observance of "the 12th" here.

The crossings are to be kept clear, and pedestrians are urged to avoid stepping off the curbs unless in the act of crossing. For those to whom it is absolutely necessary, it will be possible to cross George Street between the marching groups, but only at intersections.

DETOUR IS IMPROVED

Motorists May Now Proceed As Far As Rossmount On Port Hope Highway.

NEW PAVEMENT.

As a result of many inquiries, and through the instrumentality of the Resident Engineer at Port Hope, the lengthy detour on the Port Hope-Peterborough Highway has been considerably shortened by use of a stretch of the new pavement as far as Rossmount. This change has been effected within the past day or so, and as a result, the advice to motorists leaving Peterborough is to proceed south as far as Rossmount, then to turn east to the first side road and thence in a southerly direction. Once the pavement passes Davidson's Corners, the detour will continue south two and a half miles, thence westerly to Dale.

Small Boys Are Frightened By Cows

BAILIEBORO, July 7 (Examiner Correspondence).—Two small boys were noticed running along the highway close to Rice Lake at a great speed. A farmer walking after his cows which were coming down the road towards home, stopped one of the little lads and inquired the reason of his hurry. He pantingly replied that he and his companion were running from some bulls that were chasing them. On looking up the road the farmer noticed his cows ambling down the road toward home, and guessed at once that the lads had mistaken his cows for a herd of bulls.

The lads, who were with their parents at a camp at the lake shore, had gone for a stroll when they encountered the cows coming toward them. Both boys seemed greatly relieved and grateful when the situation was fully explained to them.

Many amusing instances are often noticed among the city young folks who camp at the lake and start out to investigate the country ways and habits.

HENLEY, July 9.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Joe Wright, of Argonaut Rowing Club, Toronto, won the Diamond Sculls, classic singles event of the Henley regatta to-day when he defeated R. T. Lee, of Oxford, who won the event last year after Wright's oar became tangled in the punt rope near the finish line.

The Toronto oarsman won by a length in the fast time of eight minutes, 24 seconds.

Among the large crowd of spectators was Premier George Howard Ferguson who brought along a large party to cheer the Canadian. Wright was the first to get into the lead and when the scullers reached the first signal the Canadian was out in front by half a length. He increased the margin to a length and at the half and three quarter mile marks, he was two lengths ahead and rowing in midstream. At the mile post the 1927 champion spurted and decreased the gap to one and a quarter lengths but was unable to catch the determined Toronto sculler who finished strongly.

Wins Challenge Cup

The Thames Rowing Club crew won the Challenge Cup, eight oared classic of the Henley Regatta to-day when they defeated Trinity College in the final race. Two lengths separated the crews at the finish. The time was six minutes, 56 seconds.

The race, which was witnessed by one of the largest Henley crowds in many years was rowed in fine weather. Among early spectators to arrive were, Premier Stanley and Mrs. Baldwin.

Second Time

For a second time in history the Diamond Sculls premier event for supremacy of amateur scullers in the world, was won by Canada today when Joe Wright of Argonaut Rowing Club, Toronto, defeated R. T. Lee, of Worchester College, Oxford, in the final heat by a full length.

The twenty-one year old Torontonian from whom victory was snatched by misfortune in last year's final against Lee, accomplished his revenge in the fast time of 8 minutes, 24 second, which was 42 seconds faster than Lee's time last year when the Oxonian passed Wright when the Canadian's craft met disaster ten feet from the finishing post.

Capt. Lou Scholes, of Toronto, was the only other Canadian to win the Henley singles classic, taking the event in 1904. Wright is the son of Joe Wright senior, who acted as his son's coach and who was the famous sculler in his younger days. Joe Wright senior, now an Alderman in Toronto, was formerly a rowing coach at several universities in the United States.

SOFTBALL GAMES FEATURE JUNIOR FARMERS' ANNUAL PICNIC AT PRESQUILE POINT

Strong Competition Between Different Teams Seen in Standard Events.

RESULTS GIVEN.

Peterborough, Prince Edward, Durham, Lennox and Victoria Represented.

The Junior Farmers of the Quinte district held their second annual field day this year at Presquile Point. The day was ideal for a picnic and everyone was on hand for a good time, with the supporters of the many teams turning out in full force. The counties represented were Peterborough, Prince Edward, Durham, Hastings, Lennox, Addington and Victoria. The park gave one the impression of a three ring circus, something happening somewhere all the time. At one stage there were five softball games, airplane trips, bathing parties, dancing in the pavilion, ice cream and hot dogs playing all their various roles.

The softball games were played in the morning and the standard events run off in the afternoon. Peterborough had no entry in the men's league, but were represented in the women's by a strong team that were only eloiminated in the finals. The sixth line of Otonabee, who were the victors of the Keen and Sixth Line game on Wednesday night were the players and had a smart ball team.

The Peterborough party all went by motor, in fact all the farmers travelled by car and not a single horse was seen within miles of the park. The first game was scheduled for 10 a.m. when the Sixth Line met the Warkworth team, representing Northumberland, the Petes coming through on the long end of a 20 to 10 score. They got the jump at the first and scored five runs in the opening frame and in the eghith all had a trip to the plate with six getting a second chance, which netted them eight runs. They scored in every frame but the second when a momentary slump stopped them. M. Hall, the pitcher, started with nice ball, and D. Chapman behind the plate did her stuff. In the 5th L. Bowie replaced M. Hall and M. Renwick D. Chapman. This was so as not to wear out the battery for the games to follow. The newcomers held the opposition to only two runs, and were receiving a world of support from their team.

Had Three Strike-outs.

M. Hall, before retiring, had the honor of striking out three of her opponents. D. Chapman made the longest hit when she gave the ball a ride for a triple. M. Renwick played a steady game, being very cool on the diamond. E. Donaldson caused quite a sensation when she made a dive at third base and fairly bounced on the bag, but she landed there safely and scored a run after her acrobatic feat. M. Hall, M. Renwick, D. Chapman and E. Donaldson were the outstanding players for Peterborough, while I. Bowen at second for the opposition, made some lovely catches and M. McDonald and I. Claire also starred. The line-ups:

Sixth Line—M. Hall, p.; V. Elliott, 1b.; L. Bowie, 2b.; J. Wood, s.s.; A. Reid, s.s.; M. Renwick, c.f.; I. Davies, 3b; H. Weir, c.f.; D. Chapman, c.; E. Donaldson, r.f.; J. Wood, r.f.

Warkworth—L. Lean, s.s.; L. Poole, c.; G. Smith, 1b.; N. Greenly, 3b.; E. Greenly, l.f.; G. Curtis, l.f.; M. Poole, p.; I Bowen, 2b.; M. McDonald, c.f.; I Claire, r.f.

Score by innings:

Peterborough .. ..5018222—20
Northumberland .. ..1043110—10

Umpires— Whitlock at the plate, Webster on bases.

Second game—Sixth Line vs. Cambray, representing Victoria County.

Victoria Given Bye.

Victoria, because of the distance the players had to travel, were given a bye in the semi-finals, but hard luck seemed to be on their trail. The heat played havoc with their players as well as with one of their cars, which burned out the bearings and had to be left in Cobourg, resulting in more crowded travelling space for the players. In the first innings, G. Smith, one of their best players, had her finger put out of joint which, with the heat, caused her to faint, forcing her to retire from the game for the rest of the day.

The Sixth Line started a barrage of hits and each member of the team had a trip to the plate in the first four innings of the seven frame game and in the second there were fifteen players to bat before three were out, resulting in 19 runs in those four fixtures. The final score was 23 to 14 for them.

Travel showed up hard on the Victoria team and they did not play as tight a game as the Petes, which resulted disastrously for them. G. Fell and M. James were their stars, while H. Weir, J. Wood and M. Renwick played best for the Petes. V. Elliott was best when at the plate, getting four hits and four runs at five trips to the plate. Line-up:

ST. VITUS DANCE

A Trouble That Usually Attacks Young Children.

St. Vitus dance is the name generally given to a disease described by medical men as chorea. This trouble usually attacks young children, though older people may be afflicted with it. The most common symptoms are a twitching of the face and limbs. As the disease progresses the twitching takes the form of spasms, in which the jerking motion may be confined to the face or all the limbs may be affected. Frequently the patient is unable to hold anything in the hands or walk steadily. In severe cases the speech is often affected. The disease is due to debility of the nerves and relief comes through an enriched blood supply. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been most successful in reaching this trouble through their specific action on the blood, which it enriches and purifies. The following instance proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in this trouble. Mrs. Thomas Bowen, Bath, Ont., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been in use in my family for years and always with good results. I believe they saved the life of my only son. At ten years of age he grew very nervous and the trouble developed into St. Vitus dance. His legs and arms would jerk and twitch, then his speech was affected, and his condition was pitiable. Just then there came to me a little book telling of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to give them to him. By the time two boxes were used there was an improvement in his condition and by the time six boxes more were taken all traces of the trouble had disappeared, and he was well and strong. I have also given the pills to my growing girls, and I know of no better strengthening medicine. I may add that the same applies to grown-ups as well."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PURSE PRESENTED BY CONGREGATION

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham Honored By Bethel Church.

(Examiner Correspondence)

INDIAN RIVER, July 7.—Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, whose marriage took place recently, were honored on Wednesday evening when the members of Bethel congregation gathered at their home and presented them with an address and purse. Mr. Graham thanked the donors for their kindness.

After the presentation music and community singing was enjoyed. Mr. Graham gave a violin solo and Miss Muriel Fife recited. Dainty refreshments were served by the visiting ladies.

A miscellaneous shower had been given Mr. and Mrs. Graham a few days previous by their friends, when a pleasant evening was spent in dancing and music. Many pretty and useful gifts were received by them.

Barn Raising.

The raising of H. McKay's new barn took place on Thursday, when about one hundred men assisted, and also quite a number of ladies were present. With the exception of a minor accident, when Court Murphy, of Norwood, fell and sustained a broken thumb, everything went off splendidly. Tables for meals were placed on the lawn, and cameras were busy taking snapshots of the various operations.

Fish Caught.

Maurice Dunkley, who with his family has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Fife, made quite a catch of fish near Lang on Monday. He secured two bass and two lunge. Fish have been scarce and elusive in the Indian River in recent years.

Personals.

NEW PASTOR IS INDUCTED

Reverend R. C. Tait Takes Over Charge of St. John's Church.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7.—Following his appointment here some weeks ago, the Rev. R. C. Tait was inducted Thursday night as minister of St. John's United Church here, succeeding the Rev. Ernest Harston, who is now minister of a church in Oshawa. There was a large congregation present for the service and special music by the choir added greatly to the occasion. Following the service in the auditorium of the church, a social hour in the Sunday School rooms was greatly enjoyed with ice cream and cake served as refreshments.

At the opening of the service the Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, B.A., invited any ministers in the congregation to come to the front of the church and take their places beside the pulpit. The induction sermon was preached by the Rev. W. R. Tanton of Cobourg, who expressed his appreciation of the opportunity to visit Campbellford for the first time and to take some part in the induction of Mr. Tait. He was a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Tait and family, he said, and had also been acquainted with the former minister, Mr. Harston.

Mr. Tanton selected his text from Paul's letters to the Ephesians, the same book from which the Scripture lesson was read. Had he been selecting a subject for his sermon he would have selected 'The place of the church in the life of to-day.'

The Rev. Dr. J. T. Daly, Port Hope, addressed the minister and the congregation. To each in turn he outlined the duties that could be expected of them under ordinary conditions, and also outlined what was frequently the case where mnisters were included in too much of the social activities of the community and had not the necessary amount of time and energy to devote to his religious duties.

Mr. Tait comes to Campbellford from Unity, Saskatchewan, where he was known as a true Christian gentleman.

STRAWBERRIES POOR.

Crop in Bailieboro District Will Not Equal That of Last Year.

BAILIEBORO, July 7 (Examiner Correspondence). — The strawberry crop in this district is only one-half as great a crop as it was last season. The berries on the vines are an exceptionally fine quality but there are very few on the patches.

It seems to be general throughout the district that the crop is expected to be small, and this season the duration of the crop will be brief.

The berries are now at their best and up to date the prices are remaining quite firm.

At the commencement of the season the gardeners received thirty-five cents a quart box for the berries, but the price has now dropped to twenty cents a box.

The first week of the fishing season is almost past and quite a number of fine catches have been recorded. The first two days of the season the fishing was very poor and few good catches were made. Toward the latter end of the week the catches increased. One of the residents of South Monaghan landed a twenty-two pound muskinonge this week, while on Tuesday and Wednesday several exceptionally fine catches of pickerel were landed at the north side of the lake.

The fine weather on Wednesday made the busy farmers commence to think of cutting hay. Several fields of early hay were cut in this vicinity on Wednesday.

The farmers are now in hopes the weather will remain fine so that they can handle their hay as quickly as possible.

The hay crop is good this year, and all that is now required to make the hay is fine weather with sunshine.

STRAWBERRY IS ACCLAIMED KING

Local Growers Report Good Sized Crop of Berries Still Unpicked.

The strawberry, the favorite fruit, not alone of Dr. Johnson, the lexicographer, who acclaimed it as the king of berries, but of many lesser mortals who regard it with great affection, is, according to wholesalers, priced at a much lower rate locally than in other centres. In Peterborough and the district, it may be purchased at 13 cents a quart box, wholesale, while Niagara growers quote the same sized container as high as 25 cents. Local growers report a good-sized crop still unpicked, but advices from other district places, Norwood included, say that the majority of the berries have been disposed of.

New cabbage and carrots, potatoes and beets are the latest products of local vegetable gardens. New potatoes have not appeared on the market and are not expected for ten days or two weeks.

From the Niagara district come the black and white sweet cherries that made their debut in local stores a week back. To-day, sour cherries from the peninsula are expected, and next week will see the advance guard of the Early Richmond and the Montmorenci cherries. Hothouse tomatoes have been coming in from Niagara for some time, and an early shipment of field tomatoes from Leamington is expected.

Leather used for making shoes is much higher; sole leather is up 25 per cent. compared with a year ago, and the material used for uppers is 50 per cent. higher.

VERY OUTSPOKEN.

TOM MOORE

Canadian delegate to the Commonwealth Labor Conference in London, who, in the discussion on peace and war on Wednesday night, declared that war would end when financiers and manufacturers were conscripted as well as the poorer classes. Canada would not consider herself automatically involved in any war in which Great Britain was engaged, he said.

C.G.I.T. GROUP IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Edgar Fallis and Daughters Are Hostesses to Wide-Awakes.

MILLBROOK, July 7.—Mrs. Edgar Fallis and her daughters, Misses Elinor and Margaret, entertained the members of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. Group at their home, Seventh Line, Cavan, on Thursday afternoon, about thirty guests in all being present.

The weather was ideal for the outing, and a game of softball, played with lots of enthusiasm though the rules may not have been strictly adhered to, filled in the time happily for those who wished active exertion, until the supper hour.

The tea tables were laid on the wide lawn, under the trees, and healthy appetites did full justice to the good things provided.

Mrs. Fallis was assisted by her sisters, Mrs. R. Vance and Mrs. A. Earchman, and also by Mrs. F. McMahon, as well as her daughters, in looking after the needs of the jolly party gathered about the well supplied tables.

Music and other entertainment followed the tea hour, and the group held an informal business meeting, looking into details connected with its proposed week's outing at Chemong Park the last week in July. A cottage has been secured, and it is expected that fifteen of the girls will enjoy the holiday together; there will be a daily devotional period similar to the plan followed at the regular Provincial C.G.I.T. camps. The Group is trying this plan this year in place of sending two of its members to the training camp at White House, as has been its custom for the past few years.

The invitation for the group to hold an out-of-doors gathering at the home of Mrs. H. A. Earle, Fourth Line, Cavan, graciously extended by Miss Marian Earle, on behalf of her mother, was cordially accepted.

Mrs. Fallis and her daughters were heartily thanked for the generous hospitality extended before the pleasant gathering was brought to a close, and the various car-loads left for home.

This was but one of a number of similar gatherings the C.G.I.T. Group has spent at Mrs. Fallis' home, and there is a grateful appreciation of the kindness shown since it makes possible a social outing under the most favorable auspices.

Teacher Honored

A pleasant surprise was prepared for Miss Gladys Gray, who has been the popular and efficient teacher of Fallis Line School for the past two years, when the pupils, on the closing day, presented her with a handsome French Ivory clock, accompanied by an address.

Car Damaged

Rev. John Riddell had his car badly damaged in an accident in Toronto this week, when it and another car were struck by a truck which apparently was out of control through having its steering gear broken. Mr. Riddell and the other occupants of his car escaped uninjured but his car was completely overturned and the back driven in.

Personals

Miss Mary Howard, B.A., has been one of the leaders at the Normandale Camp Council, on Lake Erie, the gathering lasting for two weeks.

Miss Phyllis Kidd spent the weekend in Toronto, the guest of Mrs. O. B. Earle.

Miss Kathryn Duncan, of Cleveland, Ohio, who is visiting her aunt, Miss May Duncan, has gone to Bobcaygeon for a holiday outing with friends who are summering at that point.

Miss Maretta Gray has been engagdale Comp Council, on Lake Erie, the for the next year.

Grandparents' Race.—1, Mrs. W. Bristow; 2, Mrs. T. Bristow; 3, A. McMahon.

Interesting games of softball, with sides chosen from both ladies and gentlemen, were played and filled in the time happily before and after the supper hour.

The delightful gathering broke up about dusk, everyone leaving with repeated assurances of a day well spent and the hope that many more such family reunions may be possible year after year.

Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McMahon celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding-day, the guests on that occasion including children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and a large number of friends, so that considerably more than one hundred were present, in spite of most unfavorable weather which made a change of plans necessary, compelling the gathering to be in the house rather than out of doors as the original intention had been, and for which arrangements had been extensively made.

LAWN SOCIAL.

Gilmour Memorial Church Hold Annual Strawberry Social.

(Examiner Correspondence)

The annual strawberry social of the Gilmour Memorial Church was held on the church lawn on Thursday evening, several hundred people being in attendance.

The tables were tastefully decorated and the beauty of the scene was greatly enchanced by rows of colored lights, the church having recently installed electric lights.

The program consisted of instrumental music by Coldspring's Orchestra; vocal solos by the Misses Daisy Murray, Alma Blanchard, and Phyllis Rome; "Hurrah for the Highlands", by Jack Smith; readings by Miss Betty Edgar, "The Widow's Choice", "The Smack in School", and "Busy Little Bees", and by Miss Phyllis Moore. "The Balheaded Man" and "The Brown Patched Boy". These are both pupils of Mrs. F. G. McNeely.

The Rev. J. O Totten, of Bridgenorth United Church was also present and addressed the audience. The accompanists for the evening were Miss Musa Cox, Miss Daisy Murray and Miss Alma Blanchard.

Another Way to Say the Finest of Low Priced Sixes

JUST as the "sterling" imprint on silver identifies the best, so the mark of Fisher on its bodies distinguishes a car from others in its field.

When you speak of Pontiac as the lowest-priced six with bodies by Fisher, you are merely finding another way to say—"the finest of low-priced sixes."

For no other six of such low price offers the score of advantages which make the Pontiac Six the value leader of its entire class. Certainly none other offers any major feature comparable to the staunch, smart coachwork that the Fisher emblem represents.

Not only in style and color—not only in roominess and luxury of interiors—but also in sturdiness and quality of construction, Pontiac-Fisher bodies establish a standard never before attained in a six at Pontiac price. Like Pontiac itself, they are noted for ruggedness and long life. Like Pontiac itself, they provide every element required for complete satisfaction and for justifiable owner pride. P-7-7-28B

THE VIRGIN MOTHER. Matt. 1, 22, 23. "Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call His name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us."

MANY readers of the Bible must be struck by the reason which St. Matthew here gives for the occurrences connected with the birth of Christ. "All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet." We are, perhaps, tempted to whisper to ourselves that the event predicted is, after all, more important than the prediction: that it would have seemed more natural to say that the prophecy existed for the sake of the event, than the event for the sake of the prophecy: more natural to say that Isaiah's utterance was meant to prepare the world for Jesus Christ, than that the Birth of Jesus Christ, than that the Birth of Jesus Christ was designed to justify Isaiah by fulfilling his words. But, in truth, both the prophecy and its fulfilment were from God: and the independent and higher importance of the event does not really interfere with its also being a certificate of the Prophet's accuracy. There were other reasons, no doubt, for the birth of Jesus Christ of a Virgin Mother; but one reason for it was this—that it was already foretold, and on Divine authority. And it fell in with St. Matthew's general plan throughout his Gospel to insist on this particular reason. He is writing for Churches made up almost, if not quite, exclusively of converts from Judaism; and he is concerned, at almost every step of his narrative, to show that the life of Jesus, in all its particulars, corresponded to what Jewish prophecy, as understood by the Jews themselves, had said about the coming Messiah. So he begins at the beginning, with the birth of Christ; and he says that Christ was born, just as Isaiah had said that Christ would be born, and, among other reasons—because Isaiah had said so. These first Jewish Christians might feel wonder, even scandal, when first they heard of the embarrassment of Joseph and of the angelic assurances; but they had only to open the roll of prophecy to find that the history had been accurately anticipated. "All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call His name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us."

In St. Matthew's eyes, then, Isaiah is almost as much the historian as he is the prophet of our Lord's nativity. But is it clear that when Isaiah uttered the words which are quoted he meant to predict such an event as St. Matthew records?

It has been suggested that this was not really Isaiah's meaning: that Isaiah had in view some other event at once nearer to his own times, and more commonplace and ordinary than the birth of the Redeemer; and that St. Matthew accommodates the Prophet's language by a gentle pressure to the necessities of the supernatural account which he is himself narrating. And a main reason which is urged for this view of Isaiah's meaning is that, if we look to the circumstances under which his prophecy was uttered, it is difficult to think that so distant an event as the birth of Messiah would have at all served his purpose in giving a sign to Ahaz.

What, then, were the circumstances which led Isaiah to proclaim, "Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Emmanuel?" Ahaz, the king of Judah, was besieged in his capital by the allied forces of Israel and Syria, under their kings, Pekah and Rezin. These kings were really leagued against the rising empire of Assyria; but they thought that they would best consolidate their own power in Palestine by deposing the reigning family of David from the throne of Jerusalem, and setting up a vassal monarch, "the son of Tabeal," on whose services they could reckon in the approaching struggle with Assyria. Isaiah was sent to encourage Ahaz and his son to make a stout resistance, and to assure them that, notwithstanding the project of the allied kings, God would be faithful to His covenant with David. These associated kings, Isaiah says, need occasion Ahaz no anxiety; they were like brands that are nearly burnt out; there was no Divine force in Syria, and no political future for Israel. Ahaz had only to trust God, and all would be well.

Ahaz was silent—silent, because suspicious and distrustful—and then Isaiah bade him ask for some token which might assure him of God's presence with and goodwill towards him. "Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God; ask it either in the depth, or in the height above." Had Ahaz, then, asked for a token of God's goodwill towards himself personally, or his immediate descendants, it would, no doubt, have been granted. But Ahaz was bent upon an irreligious policy of his own; he thought that, by the aid of Assyria, he would be able to do without the God and the religion of his ancestors; he looked on God and His prophets as personal enemies, who thwarted his plans; and he did not wish to commit himself, by asking for a sign, to a religious creed and system with which he hoped, he had parted company for ever. Yet Ahaz, standing before the Prophet, could not refuse to say anything: he must accept or decline the invitation to ask for a sign. He declined to do so; and, as irreligious people often do in like circumstances, he pleaded a religious scruple as the reason for his refusal. The old law had warned Israel against tempting the Lord by asking for new evidences or "signs" of sufficiently attested truth; and Ahaz, who had resorted freely to the forbidden arts of necromancy, gravely produced this entirely insincere reason to account for his resolve—"I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord."

Then it was that Isaiah spoke, not without righteous anger, to King Ahaz and his son. "Hear ye now, O house of David, is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also? Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you a sign." A sign would be given; but Ahaz could now no longer determine its character and drift. It would show that God would be true to His promises to David: but it would not reassure the degenerate descendants of the man after God's own heart as to their dynastic interests. The earthly throne of David might perish; but the promise made to David of unfailing empire would still be safe, though it would be fulfilled in a distant age, and by unthought-of agencies. Just as Moses was assured that God had sent him, by the sign of a future event—the complete deliverance from Egypt—which at the time seemed impossible, so religious Jews of Isaiah's day, for whom Isaiah was really speaking, were to be assured of the safety of the great religious interests ntrusted to the race of David, by a predicted wonder, without parallel in history, but designed to persuade them that God might punish the rebellious kings of Judah, and yet work out the promised salvation of Israel and the human race. Behold—Isaiah cries as he gazes across the centuries, at the picture which passes before him—"behold the Virgin"—the language shows that he is thinking of one in particular—"is with child, and beareth a Son, and shall call His name Emmanuel."

It was, then, no part of Isaiah's plan to give a sign which should assure Ahaz of present deliverance; he had done that before in plain language. And when he utters the prophecy quoted by St. Matthew, he has other and higher objects before him, the nature of which must be determined, not by the real or supposed state of mind of Ahaz, but by the natural force of the Prophet's words. Here, then, let us consider the importance of the event to which Isaiah thus looks forward, and which the Evangelist describes as fulfilled.

I. This importance is seen, first of all, in the strictly preternatural character of the occurrence itself. "Behold, a Virgin shall conceive, and bear a Son." The foil to this prediction is the universal law by which our race is transmitted, that a child must have two human parents. St. Matthew is explicit in his account of the events which preceded our Lord's birth; but it has been contended that the word which Isaiah uses, and which is translated virgin, really means a young but married woman. If this was the meaning it is difficult to see why there should be any allusion to the mother at all: since the predicted child would only be born like all other children, and would be a poor "sign" in the prophet's sense. But the Hebrew word for "virgin" is used of Rebekah (Gen. xxiv. 43) before her marriage with Isaac; of Miriam (Exod. ii. 8) the maiden sister of the infant Moses; and in four other places in which it is found in the Old Testament there is no decisive ground for thinking that any but unmarried women are meant. I do not forget the names of scholars, who, moved by whatever considerations, have disputed the accuracy of our present translation; but one fact in connection with it is instructive, and may throw some light upon the motive of recent objections. When the first translation of the Hebrew Bible into Greek was made, about some two centuries before our Lord, in Alexandria, and nothing was supposed to be at stake, the Jewish translators rendered this word by "virgin." But when, in the second century of our era, Aquila, a Jewish proselyte of Sinope, having his eye upon the Christian appeal to Jewish prophecy, undertook a new translation of the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek, he rendered it by "a young woman." The word seems to have been originally employed in a narrower sense than its derivation might suggest. If the point could be decided on grounds of language—without reference to the claims of Christianity, or to the possibility of the supernatural—there probably would not be much room for hesitation.

The birth of Jesus Christ is not unfrequently discussed in our day, as the birth of a great man, but without reference to the virginity of His mother. Isaiah's prediction and St. Matthew's narrative are passed over, as if they were not of much importance to our estimate of the event. My brethren, it is necessary to say plainly, that the account in the Gospel is either true or false. If it is false, it ought to be repudiated by honest men as baseless superstition. If, as we Christians believe, it is true, then it is a momentous truth: it implies a great deal more than is to be expressed by saying that the Son of the Virgin was a great and extraordinary man; it carries us altogether beyond the limits of nature and ordinary experience.

Doubtless, here and there in the heathen world there were legends of sages or poets who were born of virgins; but these legends are related to the history of our Saviour's birth as are false miracles to the true. As the counterfeit miracle implies the real miracle of which it is a counterfeit, so the idea of a virgin-birth, here and there discoverable in paganism, points to a deep instinct of the human race, and the high probability that the Absolute Religion would satisfy it. Men felt—pagans though they were—the oppression and degradation of their hereditary nature; they longed for some break in the tyrannical tradition of flesh and blood; they longed for the appearance of some Being, who should still belong to them, yet in a manner so exceptional as to be able to inaugurate a new era in humanity. Revelation surely is not less trustworthy because it recognises an instinct which only led men to do it justice, and which was itself in accordance with moral truth.

For here we touch upon a primary reason for our Lord's preternatural birth. If He was to raise us from our degradation, He must Himself be sinless—a sinless example, and a sinless sacrifice. Our Lord Himself and His apostles abundantly insist upon this His sinlessness; but how was it to be secured, if He was indeed to become incorporate with a race which was steeped in a mighty tradition of evil? When by his transgression our first parent had forfeited the robe of grace in which God had clothed him in Paradise, he passed on to his descendants a nature fatally impoverished, and thereby biassed in a wrong direction: so that thenceforth, throughout all generations, evil was inherent in human nature. It descended like a bad name, or a disease, from generation to generation; and though here and there, as with Jeremiah, or the Baptist, there was a special sanctification before birth, yet the millions of mankind had to say with David, "Behold I was shapen in wickedness, and in sin hath my mother conceived me." How, then, was this fatal entail to be cut off decisively—so that all should understand it? The Birth of a Virgin was the answer to that question. The Son of Mary was still human; but in His humanity had inherited none of that bad legacy which came across the ages from the Fall. And truly "such an High Priest became us—holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners."

This, indeed, is not—as you will have felt—the whole account of the matter. The birth of Jesus Christ, as we Christians believe, marked the entrance into the sphere of sense and time of One who had already existed from eternity. At His birth, as St. Paul says, He was "manifested in the flesh;" but whether He is here called God or not in the true reading, it is thus, in any case, implied that He existed before His manifestation. The Father "sent forth His Son, made of a woman," as St. Paul again tells us. But the Son existed before He was sent forth—the expression is evidently chosen to imply this. And this previous existence did not date from creation: for "in the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God."

How was the entrance of such a Being into this our world so to be marked as to show that He did not originally owe existence to a human parent? We could not have dared to answer such a question beforehand; but we can see how it is answered by our Lord's birth of a Virgin. . . . Was it not natural that nature should thus suspend her laws, to welcome the approach and the blessing of her Maker?

II. The importance of our Lord's birth of a Virgin mother is further seen in its results. At this distance of time it is clear that no other birth since the beginning of history has involved such important consequences to the human race. We Christians have had nearly nineteen centuries in which to form comparisons and to arrive at conclusions. We have had time to take the measure of the great statesmen, soldiers, poets, teachers who have been foremost among mankind. Who of them all has left behind him a work which can compare with that achieved by Jesus Christ? As Napoleon I. once asked, what was the empire of Alexander, or of Caesar, or his own, compared to that of Jesus Christ? Theirs were transient; His is lasting. Theirs had reached a limit; His is ever extending. Theirs was based on force: His is based on convictions. Who again of the great men of letters has swayed the world like Jesus Christ? Doubtless they too have an empire. Who can dispute the influence at this hour of Plato—of Shakespeare—of Newton? But it is an influence which differs in kind from His; it interests the intellect, while His enchains the will. Nay, compare Him with the great teachers of false religions—with Sakya-Mouni, who preceded, or with Mahomet, who followed Him, in human history. I do not forget the statistics of Buddhism, or the undeniable activities of Islam in certain portions of the Eastern world. But these religions are the religions of races with no real future; Christianity is the creed of the nations which, year by year, are more and more controlling the destinies of our race. And, if it be urged that large portions of these very nations, Christian by profession, are now abjuring Christianity, it may be replied that such an apostasy is in the long run impossible. Man cannot dispense with religion; and when he has come into contact with the highest type of religion he has thereby exhausted the religious capacities of his nature: the Absolute Religion makes any other impossible for free and sincere minds. The present efforts to replace Christianity by an imaginary religion of the future, distilled out of all the positive religions of the world, is doomed to a failure only less complete than the attempt to replace it by mere negations. There are not wanting signs of a rebound towards the faith: there are no signs whatever of a rising religious force capable of superseding it.

Yes? all that is best, and most full of hope, in the civilised world, dates from the birthday of Jesus Christ. Doubtless we owe some things which rank high in the order of nature to the old pagan days. We owe philosophy to Greece, and law and well-ordered life to Rome. But the idea of progress, which, however it may have been misapplied, is perhaps the most fertile and energetic in modern public life, is a creation of the Christian creed; it springs from those high hopes of the future, whether of individuals or of the race, which Christ has taught His disciples to entertain as a matter of loyalty to Himself. And the institutions which make life tolerable for the suffering classes—that is, for the majority of human beings—such as hospitals, these date, one and all, from the appearance of Jesus Christ, from the principles which He proclaimed to men with sovereign authority.

To take one point among many. The position of woman in Christian society is directly traceable, not only to our Lord's teaching, but to the circumstances of His birth. Before He came, woman, even in Israel, was little better than the slave of man. In the heathen world, as in Eastern countries now, she was a slave to all intents and purposes. Here and there a woman of great force of character, joined to hereditary advantages, might emerge from this chronic oppression, might become a Deborah, or a Semiramis, or a Boadicea, or a Cleopatra, or a Zenobia,—might control the world or its rulers; yet the lot of the great majority was a suffering and degraded one. But when Christ "took upon Him to deliver man, He did not abhor the Virgin's womb." In the greatest event in the whole course of human history the stronger sex had no part: the Incarnate Son was conceived of the Holy Ghost, and born of the Virgin Mary. And, therefore, in Mary woman rose to a position of consideration unknown before, in which nothing was forfeited that belongs to the true modesty and grace of her nature, but by which the larger share of influence in shaping the destinies of the Christian races was secured to her in perpetuity. It was the Incarnation which created chivalry, and all those better features of modern life which are due to it; and they are no true friends, it seems to me, to the real influence and usefulness of women, who would substitute for the Christian ideal of womanhood another, in which woman is to compete with man in all the activities of his public life, and in the end to be relegated to some such social fate as would inevitably follow upon unsuccessful rivalry.

But these outward and visible results of the birth of Christ were far from being the most important. It is conceivable that such results as these might have been due to a religious genius of commanding influence, or to a man invested with miraculous powers, but still strictly and solely a man. The birth of Jesus Christ meant much more than this. It was the entrance of the Word made Flesh into the scene of sense and time; it was the manifestation of the Incarnate God.

Before the Incarnation there was a great gulf fixed between God and man. Man could think about God; he could pray to Him; he could practise a certain measure of obedience to His will. But in his best moments man was conscious of his utter separateness from God, as the perfect moral Being. He was conscious of sin; and this meant nothing less than separation from the All-Holy.

The Incarnation of Jesus Christ was a bridge across the chasm, which thus parted earth and heaven. On the one hand, and from everlasting, Jesus Christ was of one substance with the Father, Very and Eternal God. On the other, He was made very Man, of the substance of the Virgin Mary, His Mother. As the Collect says, He took Man's nature upon Him. When He had already existed from Eternity, He folded around Him, and made His own, a created form, a human body and a human soul, to be for ever united to His Eternal Godhead. Through this His human nature, He acts on God's behalf upon mankind. Through this His human nature, He pleads for man before the Majesty of God. Thus there is "One Mediator between God and man, the Man Christ Jesus." It is as Man that He mediates between the Creator and the creature; between sinners and the All-Holy; but His Godhead secures to His mediation its commanding power. If He were not human, we should be unrepresented in heaven, where He "ever liveth to make intercession for us." If He were not Divine, it would be impossible to say why His death upon the Cross should have infinite merit. At one and the same moment, He is as Mediator in the bosom of the Godhead, and in the closest contact with the souls of His redeemed: and this is a result of His entrance in a created form into our human world—as the Everlasting Son, yet withal as the Child of Mary. That this is the deepest meaning of Christmas, and of the birth of Christ, is implied in the name assigned by prophecy to the Virgin's Son—the sublime name, Emmanuel. From the day of the Nativity, God was known to be with man, not simply as heretofore, as the Omnipresent, but under new and more intimate conditions. From the day of the Nativity, men felt a change in the relations between earth and heaven. To be one with Christ was to be one with God; and this union with God through Christ is the secret and basis of the new kingdom of souls which Christ has founded and in which He reigns. Who shall describe the wealth of spiritual and moral power which dates from the appearance of the Incarnate Son in our human world—as our wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption? Here and there, we see, as by glimpses through the clouds, some streaks of the glory of this invisible kingdom of souls; but only in another life shall we understand, at all approximately, what it has meant for millions of our race.

And here, though we are still on the threshold of the subject, we must note two points in conclusion.

(1) Observe the contrast between the real and the apparent importance of the birth of Christ. To human sense, what took place at Bethlehem may well have seemed, at the time, commonplace enough. An infant was born, under circumstances of hardship, in a wayside stall. To those who did not look closely at what was passing, it might have occurred that a like event had happened scores of times before, and would often be repeated. Everybody did not hear the song of the angels, or mark the bearing of the Virgin Mother and of her saintly spouse. The Kingdom of God had entered into history; but certainly "not with observation." Nay, more—even among the worshippers of Christ the full meaning of His birth, as opening a new era in the history of the human race, was not at once practically appreciated. For five centuries and a half, Christians still reckoned the passing years by the names of the Roman consuls, or by the era of Diocletian, just like the pagans around them. It was only in the year 541 that Dionysius the Little—a pious and learned person at Rome—first ranged the history of mankind around the most important event in it, the birthday of Jesus Christ. Christendom at once recognised the justice of this way of reckoning time, and no attempts to supersede it—such as that which was made in France during the first Revolution—have since had a chance of success. But how often do we use the phrase, "the year of our Lord," without reflecting that it proclaims the birth of Jesus Christ to be an event of such commanding importance that all else in human history rightly understood, is merely relative to it—interesting only as it precedes or follows, as it leads up to or is derived from it. Yet, as I have said, five centuries and a half passed before this was practically recognised. So it has been ever since; so it is at this hour. Real importance is one thing, apparent importance another. The events which move the world are not always those which men think most about. The men who most deeply influence their fellows are not those of whom everybody is talking. The currents of thought and feeling which will shape the future are not those which are welcomed by the organs and interpreters of current opinion. When Christ appeared, the palace of the Caesar seemed to be more important to the destinies of the world than the manger of Bethelhem. No, brethren, depend on it, the apparent is not always or generally the real.

(2) There is a question which we should, each of us, lose no time whatever in answering, if it be not answered yet: What is my relation to Him who, for love of me, was conceived of the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary—my present Saviour, my future Judge?

STORIES FOR LITTLE PEOPLE

SAMUEL, OR THE PIOUS MOTHER.
(1 Sam. 1:11)
By M.B.

You have heard, my dear children, how the Israelites came into the land of Canaan. I shall now tell you what happened to them in Canaan after Joshua was dead.

Do you remember that the tabernacle was placed in Shiloh? The high priest lived in Shiloh, that he might offer sacrifices in the tabernacle.

I am now going to tell you of a high priest, called Eli.

Eli was a very good old man.

A great many people used to come up every year to Shiloh to worship God at the tabernacle.

Among the people who came up to worship at the tabernacle, there was a man who had two wives. You know that people might have two wives a long while ago, though they may not have two now.

One of these wives was a very good woman, and she was called Hannah; but she had no little child. The other wife was unkind and selfish; but she had a great many children. The unkind wife laughed at Hannah, and said that God gave Hannah no child because he did not love her. This was not true, for God loved Hannah very much. Poor Hannah used sometimes to cry when the other wife spoke so unkindly to her.

Once, when Hannah had come to Shiloh, and the other wife had been laughing at her, poor Hannah went to the tabernacle to pray to God. Eli was in the court of the tabernacle. He was sitting upon a high seat, and he saw Hannah come into the court. Now poor Hannah was praying to God in a very low voice, and her eyes were red with weeping. When Eli saw Hannah he thought she had been drinking too much wine, and he spoke roughly to her, and said, "Why do you drink so much?" How much ashamed poor Hannah must have been when Eli said this to her before all the people! But she answered very meekly, and said, "I have not been drinking; I have been praying to God, for I am very unhappy."

When Eli heard this, he spoke kindly to her, and said, "May God give you what you have been asking for."

What had poor Hannah been praying for? She had been praying for a little child, and she had been promising God to bring him up to serve God, and to teach people about God.

Hannah was very glad when Eli spoke so kindly to her, and she wiped away her tears, and she went home, looking quite happy. You see dear children, that it is a good thing to pray to the Lord when we are unhappy. I hope you do so, if you are sick, or if you are in disgrace, or if people are unkind to you.

Hannah went away from Shiloh to the place where she lived in Canaan, and God sent her a little baby, and she called his name "Samuel."

While Samuel was a baby, Hannah did not go up to Shiloh, but when he was a little child, about three or four years old, she took him up to Shiloh with her.

Hannah did not forget her promise to bring up her child to teach people about God; Hannah did not mean to keep him always at home with her, though she loved him very much: for she wished the good old high priest Eli to bring him up, and to teach him. So she brought the child to Eli, and said to him, "I am the woman that you once saw in the court of the tabernacle, praying to God: I was praying for this child, and God has heard my prayer, and I wish the child to be brought up to serve God."

Eli took the little boy to live with him. Hannah sang a beautiful song of praise to God for his goodness in hearing her prayers, and then she left her dear little Samuel, and she went home again with her husband.

Do you think she ever came to see her child? Yes, every year; and she always brought him a present of a dress such as the people wore in those days. It was a linen dress down to his feet, and it had long sleeves. Samuel used to wear a linen ephod also, such as the priests wore, though Samuel was not a priest himself. God had put his spirit into Samuel's heart, so that he liked serving the Lord in the tabernacle, and seeing the sacrifices offered, and hearing the Lord praised by the priests and the people. As he grew older he pleased God more and more, and a great many people loved him. How glad Hannah must have been when she came to see him to hear that he was a good child! It makes your parents, dear children, very happy to hear that you are good. And the angels are pleased when you are good, and Jesus your Saviour is pleased. I hope you will be like little Samuel, and be God's children while you are very young.

What lovely child, with flowing hair,
Old Eli's steps attends!
And why does he an ephod wear,
As by the priest he bends?

It is the child to Hannah sent,
When humbly she implored—
It is the child by Hannah lent
To her prayer-hearing Lord.

This child, with heavenly graced endued,
Was lovely in men's sight;
And by his gracious Saviour view'd
With infinite delight.

A PRAYER
For Thankfulness

O Merciful God, Who hast taught us by thy holy Word that it is a joyful and pleasant thing to be thankful; Give us grace, we beseech Thee, to be truly and sincerely thankful for Thy manifold mercies bestowed upon us, and grant that we may employ all Thy gifts and mercies to the setting forth of Thy glory, and the furthering of our own salvation, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ. Yea, doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ. Phil. iii., 7, 8.

Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh. Matt. xxiv., 44.

And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and of supplications: and they shall look upon me whom they have pierced, and they shall mourn for him, as one mourneth for his only son, and shall be in bitterness for him as one that is in bitterness for his firstborn. Zech. xii., 10.

Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. For consider him that endureth such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds. Heb. xii., 2, 3.

THE DIAMOND SCULLS.

By the time this appears in print the result of the final heat in the classic diamond sculls will have been announced, and, of course, all Canadians are hoping that the name of that gallant young sportsman, Joe Wright, Jr., of the Argonaut Rowing Club, will be heralded to the world as winner.

Wright's great attempt last year, the ill-luck through which the laurels were snatched from his brow at the last moment, and the modesty of his bearing on all occasions combine to win for him the backing of all his countrymen.

Win or lose, however, he and his clubmate, Jack Guest, have won fame for Canada, and it was an unfortunate twist of fate that the vagaries of the draw should have brought them together in the semi-finals and caused the elimination of Guest by his clubmate.

The eyes of the Empire are on the famous Henley course to-day, and The Examiner is merely voicing the ardent desire of all Canadians when expressing a hope that the 1928 diamond sculls winner will be that fine young Canadian, Joe Wright, from whom further triumphs in the Olympic Games are expected.

THE IMMIGRATION SITUATION.

The latest immigration figures contain not much comfort for those Canadians who believe that the main thing is to get in large numbers of new citizens, nor will they please those who feel that the important point is to have Britishers predominate in the masses of settlers.

The total for May fell short of the number for the same month last year, and, in addition, people of British birth were decidedly in the minority.

The regularity with which immigrants from the British Isles are outnumbered each month by settlers from other countries is causing much misgiving in many quarters.

It may be that this alarm is unnecessary; that the West will prove capable of assimilating and Canadianizing these new citizens of foreign birth, and convert them into useful residents of Canada, adopting Canadian customs and habits and adapting themselves to the British idea of government and justice.

Yet in certain sections there is sufficient evidence of communistic propaganda to give cause for worry over the fact that immigrants from foreign countries are each month in excess of those from the Old Land.

The situation creates a problem that challenges attention.

DRINKING SUBSTITUTES.

One of the claims made on behalf of Government sale of liquor was that it would do away with the drinking of rubbing alcohol and canned heat, a practice that had developed when the Ontario Temperance Act was in force.

The fallacy of that contention has been exposed by the Liquor Control Board, which in withdrawing alcohol from sale in the Government stores, admits that the use of substitutes for potable alcoholic beverages is still prevalent, and that those who have become addicts to the drinking of such substitutes will take them in preference to liquor.

It is a strange situation that promises to give the authorities considerable trouble.

Apparently the legalized sale of liquor offers no solution.

These unfortunate victims want nothing but the substitute they have learned to use, and it is evident that steps will have to be taken to deal with their case in a manner that will prove effective.

Offering them opportunities to buy liquor has failed; some other way will be needed to stop this practice, which, according to Ottawa reports, brings more men into police court than any other cause.

INSPECTING THE CANAL.

Arrangements are being made to have a number of local citizens interested in the Trent Canal make an inspection trip over the Severn River section in order that they may have first-hand information of that portion of the waterway that remains unfinished.

The visit will take place on Wednesday of next week, and the party will be the guests of the town of Midland.

It is of much importance that in the event of a deputation visiting Ottawa or of a visit from the Minister of Railways and Canals to Peterborough that the information presented to him should be as accurate and complete as possible, and the inspection arranged for next week will be decidedly helpful on this account.

There is need of an energetic campaign if there is to be any hope of a speedy completion of the canal.

Most of the members of the House of Commons look upon it as a second edition of the Newmarket ditch, and those who are not indifferent about the matter are hostile to any money being expended in this way.

All the information possible should be compiled in order that the members may be educated to the importance of the waterway.

LET IT DO ITS WORK.

(From the Stratford Beacon-Herald.)

At the meeting of the Stratford City Council a resolution was passed favoring asking the Government to amend the Mothers' Allowance Act so that a widow with one child could get a pension.

This Act was brought in to relieve hardship, and it should always do that. It is, perhaps, easier to get an idea of how it works by having in mind a specific instance.

There is one in the city where a mother has three children. The eldest daughter has just passed the age where the pension ceases—16. The child has not received a very advanced education yet, and if she were sent out to work her earnings would be very meagre.

There is another child well under the 16-year mark, and also a boy, who because of some physical affliction is in a public institution, but the mother has to supply his clothing.

Right now she faces the position where her pension is going to be removed because the one child has reached the age of 16 years; this child is not self-supporting, not by any means. There is the younger child to provide for the clothing for the boy, and yet the pension is going to be removed.

It may be the judgment of some under official that this pension should be removed, but not for a moment do we imagine it is the intention of those who administer the Act or of those who framed it.

The Act should be made flexible enough to come to assistance where the load is too heavy. If there are relatives who are in a position to aid, they should be asked to attend to their duty. If there are not, then the mother should have assistance, and the fact that there is only one child should not be a barrier.

OUR AMERICAN VISITORS.

According to one authority in the United States, some 406,000 citizens of that country visited foreign lands in 1927, and spent $770,000,000. The amount spent in Europe was about $452,000,000, and in Canada about $197,000,000, the remainder being made up in ways that need not be specified. Europe has the advantage of historical interest and of a variety of customs which contrast with the uniformity of life in the United States. Canada has the advantages of proximity, of striking and beautiful natural scenery, and of resources interesting to those who are seeking investments. Once the border is crossed, there are no customs barriers or military frontiers. Except in Quebec the English language is universally spoken, and even in that Province it is not difficult for a traveler to find his way about without a knowledge of French.

The money left by these tourists in Canada is a very considerable sum, but that is not the most important part of the movement. Up to this time Canada has been very imperfectly understood by citizens of the United States. Some have compared it with one of their own States rather than with the whole Union. Its political institutions and its relations with Great Britain are sometimes puzzling to foreigners. When we cannot agree upon our own status we need not wonder if outsiders have erroneous opinions on that subject. Personal observation will do much to correct these. It is not necessary to be a profound political student to realize that this is a highly civilized country, where freedom is combined with order and where justice is well administered. The fine school buildings must strike the eye of the most careless traveler.

Some of these visitors may become permanent residents of Canada, or may carry home such reports as will attract others. This tendency is likely to grow as time goes on. The country to the south is not yet over-populated as a whole, but there are parts of it where there is congestion, and when more elbow-room is wanted, Canada, with its vast area and sparse population, must appear as a land of opportunity. Unlike the European, the citizen of the United States may come here and spy out the land with comparatively small expense before deciding to pull up stakes. It is more like moving from one State to another than crossing the Atlantic.

There are marked differences in political institutions, but these are not likely to discourage migration. Governments and laws can be changed here as easily as in the United States, and discussion is as free. Nearly 28 per cent. of our population is of French origin and 39.17 Roman Catholic, but our visitors will find that racial and religious differences give us very little trouble, and that one of our most beloved statesmen, who was Prime Minister of Canada for fifteen years, was of the race and faith of the minority, and was finally defeated on issues having nothing to do with race or religion. Educational facilities are as good here as in the United States, and the fact that so many graduates of our educational institutions are appointed to positions in the United States is a tribute to the soundness of their training.

The visitor who looks below the surface and takes time to observe will find here much that is worthy to be noted and remembered. There are flag-waving tourists and there are Canadians too ready to take offence at the display of the Stars and Stripes, but thoughtful and reasonable people of both countries will find much profit in free intercourse and exchange of information and opinions. It would be interesting, for instance, for us to know what the visitors think of the presidential election, why one prefers the Republican and the other the Democratic candidate, what varying opinions are held as to prohibition and its enforcement.

Courtesy on both sides is of the highest importance Every traveler should regard himself as a representative of his country, under the same obligations as to dignity and courtesy as an ambassador, and he should be received with like consideration, whether he be rich or poor, famous or unknown. It is said that diplomacy in modern days has become more democratic than in time past. It is certain that we can make it so, and that every citizen may be a volunteer diplomat, and by his conduct help to maintain friendly international relations. There should be a generous rivalry in courtesy between the Canadian and his guest.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Men's clothing is to be conservative, designers declare. That will be hard luck for the boys who like to be "Collegiate."

London policemen have been forbidden to chew gum. There's evidently no spearmint influence at Scotland Yard.

"Give the bass a chance to grow," is the appeal made by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries, and all good sportsmen will obey.

The Provincial Secretary expects to obtain a revenue of $7,000,000 from the sale of liquor this year. And some people seem determined that Hon. Dr. Monteith will not be disappointed if they can help it.

The presidential election may be causing plenty of excitement over the border, but our tourist friends are apparently able to successfully forget it when they are over here.

The Italian flyers who succeeded in making the hop from Rome to Brazil have set a new distance record. And now some other aviator will set out to beat this mark.

The average daily cost of operating an automobile has been estimated at $1.00 per day. That does not include the fines for speeding, of course.

A man may be born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but never be able to make a stir.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

GOD'S MINUTE

Jesus answered them, do ye now believe?—John 16:31.

Our Father, God, we know Thee through Jesus Christ our Lord, and we praise Thee for all Thy loving kindness and tender mercies. With the assurance that Thou wilt never leave nor forsake us, we enter upon the duties of a new day. We left our eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh our help.

Direct us in all the way that we should take, in view of our great responsibilities and opportunities. Help us to earn our bread honestly, but not to be so busy as to let the King pass by. May we live our day before Thee in all reverence, quietness, love, and usefulness.

Remember our loved ones everywhere. Bless all for whom we ought to pray—the sick, the suffering, the sinful, God pity them and minister to their needs. Let Thy grace be upon every heart lifted up in true and simple desire for better life.

Bless our nation in all her crises. Give wisdom unto our counsellors and direction to those who lead our affairs.

Bless especially the Church of Jesus Christ, her missionaries and ministers, and bring us all to the redeemed in glory, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

A Thought

LIFE WITHIN

Life is full of vexations and troublesome things, of criticisms, and fault-findings and wrong attitudes and misunderstandings and a host of other nameless things that will, if one will let them, pile up before him and crowd in upon hmi in such a way as to shut out the bright day and induce gloom and depression and discouragement and sadness of heart.

If one is to save his own soul he must take an example from John Milton, who wrote: "He that hath light within his own clear breast, may sit in the corner and enjoy the bright day," and sometimes let the world wag by unnoticed, sensitive, very sensitive to many of the things which do not matter very much.

It is probably true that many of us are not able to be oblivious of the things that we ought to be oblivious of, to sit in our own corner and enjoy an inner experience of very genuine happiness even when life without is troublesome and difficult and annoying; because we have not got any very well defined place in which to sit, our life lacks any very well-defined centre of character and independence and assured conviction.

Life from without would not trouble us nearly so much if the life within were surer and better established. Upon that sunlight which is one's own, upon that light which is within a man's own clear breast, no one ought to be able to cast any dark shadow.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 7 (Canadian Press). — There was some demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for wheat here yesterday, and a moderate amount of business was worked. The car lot trade in coarse grains was quiet, but the tone of the market was steady.

The trade in spring and winter wheat grades of flour was small, but values were well maintained.

A fairly active business was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone to the market was firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was very limited, and prices were unchanged.

There were no new developments in the local egg situation, but the undertone to the market was firm, with a continued steady demand from the dealers for fresh extras, and all offerings made from Ontario shippers met with a ready sale at 36c to 36½c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points, and some business was also done in Western eggs at firmer prices. In a jobbing way trade was more active.

A feature of the potato trade was the weaker feeling that developed, and prices scored a decline of 5c to 10c per bag owing to the limited demand for supplies. Sales of car lots of Quebec varieties were made at 65c to 70cp er bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and New Brunswick Green Mountains at 70c to 75c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track. Receipts of new crop American potatoes of late have been more liberal, there being twenty-seven cars on track here yesterday, for which there continues to be a good demand, and sales of No. 1 grade were made at $3.10 per barrel, ex-track.

The market for imported beans was without any new feature to note, the prices being steady, with a small business passing in broken lots of choice white hand-picked grades at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were quoted at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track.

The tone of the market for butter was again strong, and another advance of ¼c per pound was established. There was a steady demand for supplies, and a fair amount of business was done. The receipts were 1,989 packages.

The undertone to the market for cheese continues strong, and prices at the country boards scored another sharp advance, which in the general course of events means that they will be much higher on spot next week. The trade was somewhat quieter in all directions, but it was reported that ocean freight space had been booked for 50,000 boxes with every indication of this quantity being increased by the close of the week. There was no change in spot prices announced. The receipts were 14,494 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 7 (Canadian Press). — Export business in United States wheat by way of the Gulf of Mexico showed new life yesterday, but the market effect was nil. Overwhelmed by enlarging receipts, especially in Kansas wheat values went heavily downgrade regardless of bullish developments, including Minnesota advices of black rust.

Wheat finished weak, 1¾c to 2¼c net lower, corn ⅝c to ¾c off to ½c up; oats, ¾c to 1⅛c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20c.

With ideal weather prevailing in the harvest region, and with primary receipts of wheat much larger than either a week or a year ago, the wheat market yesterday proved unable to develop lasting power to rally. Considerable buying at one time was based on renewal of talk about black rust in American spring wheat territory, but price upturns failed to hold, no actual damage being asserted.

Morton, Minn., reported black rust in practically every field near there, affecting the lower stems of wheat but not at present on the head stems.

Export transactions in wheat to be shipped by way of the Gulf of Mexico was done at 2 cents over the price of Chicago September delivery and was specified as for loading in the first half of August. What volume of wheat was taken on these terms, however, was not disclosed. Meanwhile, export demand otherwise for North American wheat was slack, with dealings totalling but 300,000 bushels and bears were making capital of Kansas advices that the protein content of new wheat is turning out to be higher since recent rains.

Corn showed a relatively strong tone, compared to wheat, but was sold quite freely on the hard spots. Cash houses were purchasing July, presumably against sales for shipment. On the other hand, country offerings to arrive were larger, and weather conditions favorable for the new crop.

Oats weakened under hedge selling. Some oats are being cut in Illinois.

Provisions were responsive to an upward trend on hog values.

There are Two Sides to this Story

MOST people think of their Chevrolet dealer as a NEW-CAR dealer.

But, while new car sales are the Chevrolet dealer's biggest reason for being in business, they form only one side of his activities. He must not only sell cars but he must also exchange them.

Every good, successful Chevrolet dealer must also be a good, successful Used Car dealer.

From his experience in selling Chevrolet cars, he knows motor-car values . . He knows that it is just as important for him to sell a Used Car as a new car . . He knows that Used Car buyers have a right to as much for their dollar and are entitled to as complete satisfaction as new car buyers . . He knows that satisfied Used Car owners will eventually become prospects for new cars . . He knows the value of good-will.

In short, our business as Chevrolet dealers depends on our reputation as used car dealers. That is why you are sure of a square deal and a sound dollar-for-dollar value, when you buy a used car here.

THE AD''ENTURES OF SECKATARY HAWKINS AND HIS CLUB

A new department for boys (and girls) with two thrilling stories to-day.

Introducing the Club That Meets Daily in the Shack on the River Back

ALL the boys in our gang call me Seckatary Hawkins. It's a funny nickname. I know, and you will wonder why they call me "Seckatary." But you see, when the boys in our town used to play together on the old river bank, right down from the Main Road, we used to get in trouble all the time with the boys from Pelham, which is just across the river. The Pelham fellows were pretty tough, and they hang out in little old shacks that they built for themselves to play in. Their people live up on the bank a piece, but the Pelhams are always playing around the river. Its just natural for a boy to play around a river, if he lives near one, and so you see how it was. We got in a fight with those Pelham fellows dern near every day.

So we decided to form a club on our side of the river, so as to figure out ways to keep out of fights with the Pelham fellows. We had a little meeting down on the river bank, and Johnny McLarren was elected Captain, and we picked out a place on the river bank to call our "meeting place," and built a snow fort there first, because it was winter time when we started our club. And then we had to have somebody to write down the minutes of our meetings, as we met every day after school, and we wanted to run our club right, just as men run their big clubs. So our Captain figured out that I would be the best one to write down the minutes, because all of us boys were little kids, and none of us knew how to write very good, and I'll tell you the truth, I couldn't spell very well myself. So when I wrote down in the book the minutes of our first regular meeting, I put down that Johnny had appointed me as "Seckatary." I didn't know how to spell secretary at that time. But anyhow, ever since that time the boys called me "Seckatary," and the name has stuck to me even to this day.

But we got along better after we formed our club. We had lots more fights with the Pelhams, to be sure, but we always beat them, and we got so at last that we weren't afraid of them—much. We had to change our meeting place when the winter was over and Jerry Moore's daddy helped us to raise a sunken house-boat out of the water, and put it up on the river bank with some logs under it so it wouldn't roll away. So here in this old stranded house-boat we made our headquarters and held our meetings regularly ever and held our meetings regularly every day after school. We had cleared it out and fixed it up with a long pine table, chairs for all the boys, and a little stove to keep it warm in winter weather. Later on we got a cupboard and an old organ, which we put in our stranded house-boat. Before it had sunk in the river it belonged to a man who had a little boy we called "The Skinny Guy" because he was so thin and tall. He was full of mischief, too, and he played a great many jokes on us when he first came to our old river bank in his pop's houseboat, and we were after him for a long while, but he was a hard fellow to catch. He could run like the wind and climb like a cat. And when he tried some of his tricks on the Pelhams, they got up in the air and tried to get their hands on him, but, of course they never did. So what did they do but sink his pop's houseboat.

It wasn't long after that till the Skinny Guy, whose name was Link Lambert, saw that the Pelhams were not on the square, and from that time on Link was always helping us out, and what he could do to them Pelhams in a fight was a caution. So finally we made Link a member of our club, and we were awfully glad we did, too, because shortly after that the Pelhams got in trouble with a kid from Watertown, which is just right at the head of our river, where it enters the bigger river. We never knew this kid's first name; we always called him "Stoner's Boy." He was the slickest thing that ever came down our river; and, oh, boy! maybe you think he couldn't fight! And he would bob up anywhere, any time, when we would the least expect him. He could travel without making a sound, it seemed, and we finally got to call him the "Gray Ghost." I tell you, he had every one of us boys afraid of him, and he most always had the Pelham fellows scared half to death.

It was the accident which happened to him, however, that came near breaking up our little club. He had kept us on his trail for many months, and then one day we chased him into Cliff Cave, where he used to have his hiding place, and a big pit was in this cave. Stoner's Boy had fixed it so that even if we did succeed in discovering his hiding place, we couldn't follow him into it. He had a long rope tied up in the roof of the cave somewhere, it hung down so that he could reach for it and swing himself across the pit. Then he would tie the rope up on an iron spike there, across the pit from us, and laugh at us, and disappear into the dark cavern beyond. But this particular day he didn't laugh. No. Something happened. Just as he was swinging across the pit, and we in the back of him, shouting and yelling, a big bat swooped down and struck him in the face. We heard him cry out, and then we saw him loose his grasp of the rope and he fell—down—down—down into the dark pit.

Well, that was a terrible thing for us to see. It was worse than we expected, because old Judge Granbery, who was the boss of our town, gave orders that our houseboat was to be destroyed, and we were not to be allowed to meet any more on the river bank. That was the last of our stranded houseboat.

Now the boys met at a place that was known to all of us—the old sycamore tree, in the trunk of which was cut the initials of every boy in our gang. We had one good old friend—Doc Waters, a man who has stood by us in every scrape we ever got in—and he was the only doctor in our town. He was a pretty good friend of the old judge's, and he went to him and asked if we couldn't have our meetings again, if we promised to keep out of trouble. Well, you know how it is, a man like that can do things, and it wasn't long before he got the Judge's permission to let us have the shack in the hollow for a clubhouse to hold our meetings in. Doc Waters fixed the shack up for us, and had a new porch built around it, and it finally looked like a first-rate clubhouse. Then the Skinny Guy had to go to Cuba, and I went with him; never mind what for, because I wrote that all down in a book once, and there's no use telling a tale twice. While I was in Cuba the boys had built a little room on the back of the clubhouse, which they called my writing room. Every day after school we meet in this clubhouse, and I write down the minutes of the meeting. I got to like this writing so much that I didn't stop at the minutes, but wrote down in this old "seckatary" book everything that happened to us boys on this old river bank.

We've got just a dozen boys in our club, now. There's Dick Ferris, our captain, and Johnny McLaren, who was our first captain, but lost in the last election. Then there's Bil Darby, our baseball captain, and Roy Dobel, who is chief cook and bottle washer when we go camping. Shadow Loomis is one of my old side-partners, and the Skinny Guy, whose right name is Link Lambert, came back this summer to spend vacation with us. The twins, Harold and Oliver Court, are old members—when they first joined a couple of years ago, you couldn't tell 'em apart. We had to put little badges on 'em to keep from calling Oliver Harold and Harold Oliver. They looked as much alike as two feet. Jerry Moore is the biggest and toughest kid in our club. He is a pessimist, but my Pa says every bunch of pepple must have a pessimist, just like food must have salt. I don't know if he's right or not, but somehow Jerry keeps things running straight in our clubhouse. Perry Stokes cleans up the clubhouse every day for us, and he calls himself the overseer, though most of the boys call him the janitory. Lew Hunter is our music master; he plays the organ when we hold singing practice. We boys have been practising singing for a long time. We can sing, too. And how!

Lately we've been having some more excitement down on our river bank. There's a giant—a real live one—roaming around here. He stays in a cave under the stonewall house, and there's a big gun under that house. It's so big that it reaches from the cave below the house and out through the glass roof of a room in which the doctor keeps a lot of big telescopes. A meteor fell a few weeks ago, on Burney's Field, and this crazy doctor said it was a message from the stars. He said it had a lot of writing on it, but when we looked at the thing we saw only a lot of scratches, made most likely when it struck the rocky earth.

The boys wanted to go camping. But our good old friend, Doc Waters, who is like a second daddy to us boys, said that old Judge Granbery, who bosses our town, gave orders to Jeckerson, his detective, to keep an eye on us boys so we wouldn't get hurt. There's a ghost bell down on Seven Willows Island, and until we find out what that is, we can't pitch our tents there. Jeckerson called up on the phone and said he would go with us to look at the island. The boys are anxious to go. In a few minutes Jeckerson will be here, and we will get on the Skinny Guy's launch and go down the river. The island is only about four miles down. I will write more when we come back.

I NOTICED that Doc had taken a large package out of the clubhouse before I locked up. But in the excitement at getting started in the big white launch, nobody paid any attention to Doc or anybody else except the Skinny Guy, and we all tried to crowd into the little pilot house with him to see how he worked the thing. Link steered into the middle of the river and we had a good time—sorry to see the trip coming to an end as he pointed her nose to the sandy beach on the left fork of the river as it wound about Seven Willows Island. Here we all got off, and Link was for going through the tangled wildwood to his old home, the houseboat in the backwater pool. But Doc called a halt there, and we had to follow where he and Jeckerson led. They talked together in low tones as they walked, and on coming to a level grassy spot, they stopped and Doc laid down the bundle.

"We're going to eat supper out here under the blue sky," he said. And then he told Roy Dobel to undo the big package and get things ready. For Roy was always chief cook and bottle washer on our camping trips. Roy knew how to cook, too.

Well, to make a long story short, because I know you are not interested so much in what we ate as what happened after that, we got through with our evening meal about 7 o'clock or a little after—it must have been after, because it had begun to grow dark. Then Jeckerson started to lead the way toward the old hidden houseboat. I wondered why he had waited until it grew so dark; but he told me in one sentence the reason: "Spies should never be seen."

"Oh," I says, "so we're spies?"

"What else did we want to look around this island for?" broke in Jerry Moore. "To find the ghost——"

"Hush that ghost talk down here on this island, Jerry," said Jeckerson. And after that Jerry kept pretty still. We walked along, keeping pretty close together, and finally we came in sight of the old dilapidated houseboat, covered with wild vines and creeping plants, snugly tucked away in the old lily pond.

"Go slow, now," said Doc Waters. "Jeckerson, you had better lead the way. Hawkins, you go next."

Link was on one side of me, and behind me was Harold and Shadow. I kept close to Jeckerson's heels. It felt kind o' spooky—ever since I had stepped off the boat onto this old island I had a peculiar feeling, as though this was no place for us to be. And I saw, too, that Jeckerson, brave man as I knew him to be, went rather carefully, picking his steps slowly as he neared the old houseboat.

"Let me take a look," I said as we came up to the side of the boat. The ground was awfully soft and muddy around the boat. I stepped onto the plank and walked across it and peered into one of the side windows. But it was all dark inside, and there was so much dirt on the glass that I couldn't see a thing through it.

"We'll have to go in," said Jeckerson. "Let me lead the way."

He took out his flashlight as he stepped to the door and softly lifted the latch. I was beginning to shake in the knees again. Always when I get nervous, I have the hardest time keeping my knees still, and they click together and make me shake all over. Jeckerson shoved the door slowly and softly, and then I saw the flash of his light brighten up the inside of the houseboat—

"There's nothing here," he said, out loud.

I turned my flashlight on, too, and stepped up beside him. By Jinks! The place was empty. Not a sign of the pigeons, nor the round parrot perch, nor the monkey's kennel, nor of anything that we had seen—

"Say! Have you boys been stringing us?" came Jeckerson's voice as he turned around.

Before anybody could give him an answer, there came from far away a sound—I knew it in an instant—by Jinks! we all knew it. It was the sound of the bell—the soft ghostly bell that we had heard the other time we were on this island.

"By golly!" roared Jeckerson. "Nobody is going to fool me with that kind o' trickery. Come on, Doc, corral the kids and let's look into this thing before it gets away."

We all turned and moved back the way we had come. Jeckerson drew the door to, and put his hand on my shoulder to make me walk faster. The sound of the ghost bell seemed almost as faint as a whisper—if such a thing could whisper—and we followed in the direction from which we thought it came. And suddenly the sound seemed to die out altogether. We stopped. Then, all suddenly again the sound started up again, over in an entirely different direction. We turned to the left and followed once again. But now the sound was growing fainter. Presently, as we walked in silence, we realized that we could only hear it at intervals, and then very faintly. Once it seemed to shake itself into a fury and rang louder, only to die out again and whisper itself into nothingness, and though we waited for quite a long while, it did not start up again.

"Well, I'll be hornswoggled if that isn't the funniest thing I ever came across!" exclaimed Jeckerson, turning to Doctor Waters. "Let's get back to the boat and get these kids home, and then maybe you and I can come back here and investigate——"

"Not me," says Doc, with a laugh, "you're the investigator. I'm only a poor country doctor. And I'm going to stay home and mind my own business while you mind yours."

AND so, laughing, we started back. We were now almost fully across the island, and we had to make at least a quarter of a mile back to the beach on the other side, where the boat lay. And it was on a diagonal path, that brought us suddenly in view of a dim light that stood out from amid a great patch of darkness.

"What's that light?" asked Jeckerson, shortly.

"It's in the old log house!" I exclaimed. And once more my knees clicked together. I ought to have better sense, I guess, but when you're talking about ghosts and thinking about ghosts and hearing ghostly sounds, why a fellow just naturally has to get nervous. And I wasn't listening to what Jeckerson and Doc were saying, as we started for the dim light. Something about seeing the thing through, I think was Jeckerson's talk, as he led the way up to the stockade of logs. The gate was open, and through it we could see the light in the window. I wondered whether or not the two boys, Norman and David, had come back to live there. But somehow in my heart I was afraid that I would be mistaken.

And I was. For when we looked into the window we saw that for which we had searched in the old houseboat. There was the monkey, the long-tailed parrot and the two pigeons. And sitting over by the table, eating his supper, sharing portions with his strange pets, was—who do you think it was?

It was the little old man with the gold rings in his ears. His old bagpipe that he played in town for pennies and dimes, lay on the table in front of his tin dishes. The monkey chattered at every bite of food he got, and held out his paw for every bite that the old man handed to the birds. Jeckerson was so anxious to get in, though. We fellows would have liked to watch for a while.

"Hello, you!" said Jeckerson, shoving open the door. "What are you up to on this island?"

The little old man dropped his fork and it jangled on the floor. He looked up, startled, as he saw Jeckerson.

"No!" he grumbled, in the same way that I had heard him answer me once when I bid him good morning. "No un'stan' ver' goot Angleece. Me goot man. Pleese, no hurt deece moonkey, deece birts——"

"You heard a bell didn't you?" demanded Jeckerson. "You must have heard it. You couldn't have helped hearing it—a bell, I'm saying. You heard that bell ringing on this island. You must have heard it often, if you've been living here long. Now, then, speak out! What was it?"

The little old man looked worried and shook his head. "Pleece!" he said. "No un'erstan' goot Angleese. No pells ringin' here. Pleece, you go 'vay, pleece. You no hurt me? I goot man. I poor man—play dootleseck—see!"

He reached over and patted his old bagpipe. Jeckerson had to smile, whether he wanted to or not. So did we all. It was plain to see that this poor old fellow wouldn't hurt a flea, and had only come to this ramshackle shack because he had no other place to go—he and his strange pets. Jeckerson wanted to leave at once, but we saw the old man put the bagpipe to his lips, and we begged Jeckerson to let us hear the old fellow play a tune.

"Well, just one tune," says Jeckerson, with a growl; "one o' them tunes is about all a fellow can stand, anyhow. And then we'll get out of this haunted place as quick as we can."

Which we did.

In New South Wales, the blowfly does an annual damage sometimes amounting to $10,000,000.

The feet of English women are growing larger. Four used to be the average size; now it is five.

"What' s the matter with opening the gate?" I asked.

On the Road to High Adventure With With Secretary Hawkins

WE BOYS certainly had a big first of July celebration down at the clubhouse on the river bank. Doc Waters and Jeckerson brought most of it. Of course, we all had some firecrackers, but the stuff that we set off at night was brought down by the two men. And, believe me, they had everything you could think of—roman candles and pinwheels and skyrockets—I only set off one pinwheel because I'd just as soon watch it as run the show, like Jerry Moore—he was so anxious to shoot the things off himself, and right in the middle of a big roman candle the thing busted in his hand and he thought he was shot. He howled like he was going crazy, and we all run up to him quick to see if we ought to take him to the hospital, but there was only a hole burnt in his shirt near the middle; and when he saw that was all he stopped yelling and started to laugh and said, "What d' you think of that?" I said I thought it was about time we stopped our fireworks till another year rolls 'round. Which we did.

"Well," says Harold Court to me, the next morning, "now that we've had our fun, let's get down to some hard work for a change."

I looked up from my book, in which I was writing the doings on the First.

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Excitement, that's what I mean," he answered. "We've got a chance to earn five hundred dollars if we find back those two lost boys—and here we are, sitting around as if five hundred don't mean a dime to us."

"I don't think you're right about that," I told him. "Jeckerson is the man we have to take our orders from, and he hasn't given us any new ones. All we have to do is to keep our eyes open and watch for something that will show us where those two boys disappeared."

"This hot weather is too much for fat boys like you, Hawkins," says Mar old, with a shake of his head. "You're foggy in the attic your—brains ain't working right—or you'd know well enough where those two boys are hiding."

"Go on," I said, sitting back in my chair, "go ahead and tell me, since you seem to know where they are."

"You saw as much as I did," said Harold; "when we went into the cave, and up those hundred steps carved in the side of the cave, into that room of the telescopes——"

"Well," I said, as he paused. "You didn't see anything that reminded you of the two lost brothers, did you?"

"I think I did," said Harold. "Yes, I'm almost sure I did. What did the old army major want when he came here with Jeckerson?"

"He didn't want the two boys," I answered, with a shake of my head. "He wanted their daddy——"

"Why?"

"Because their daddy had invented a big gun——"

"Exactly. And you saw that big furnace in that cave under the hill, didn't you?"

"What's that got to do with the big gun?"

"And you noticed something else there, didn't you?"

"The smokestack. Yes, I'll never forget that. It was the biggest smokestack I ever saw."

"Yes, it was big and round, like a great iron pipe, wasn't it?"

All of a sudden something crossed my mind.

"By Jinks, Harold!" I exclaimed. "It just comes to me now—I was too excited to think of it that day we were in that cave——"

"You mean you were excited," said Harold, "but I was not. I noticed something else—that smokestack thing wasn't connected with the furnace at all—therefore, it wasn't a smokestack, because no smoke could get into it——"

"No, that's right!" I exclaimed, excitedly. "By Jinks! Harold, it wasn't attached to the furnace at all——"

"Don't tell me something I already know," broke in Harold. "It wasn't a smokestack—it was a big gun!"

"You're right!" I said. "Now, I wonder what old Dr. Drago and the Giant want with that big gun down there in that cave——"

"They built it there," said Harold. "That's what the big furnace was for. Don't tell me. I know. And I'll bet you Dr. Drago knows where the boys' daddy is who invented that gun—and perhaps he can tell you where the two boys are, too."

I grabbed for the telephone and called Jeckerson's number. The voice of the Watertown detective came almost instantly over the wire: "Yes, Hawkins, I know your voice—have you found out something?"

I told him what Harold and I had just been figuring out. But I was honest enough to tell him that Harold had got the idea first, and that it didn't give any credit to me. Jeckerson laughed when I told him. "All right," he said. "I was sure you boys would figure it out sooner or later—but Doc Waters and I had it doped out right from the very first. I'll want all of you boys to meet me at your clubhouse to-night——"

"Sure!" I told him. "We'll be down here, anyhow, holding singing practice."

"Then I'll be seeing you," said Jeckerson, and hung up his phone.

WE ALL went down for a swim early in the afternoon, and just as we came back to the clubhouse we met a man coming from the river path.

"I have just been up to your clubhouse," he said; "I am looking for the boy you call Seckatary Hawkins."

"That's me," I said, stepping up. He handed me an envelope.

"I have been instructed to place it in your hands," he says; "there is no answer."

We all stood and watched him as he turned and disappeared in the woods.

"That." I said to Harold and Link and Shadow Loomis, who had crowded around me, "was the servant who works up in Dr. Drago's stonewall house."

"What's in the envelope, Hawkins?" asked Harold, excitedly. "A message, most likely."

It was a message, and I started to tear the flap of the envelope as we walked up to the clubhouse. It was a single sheet of note paper, folded twice. I sat down at my desk as I opened it up, and all the boys crowded round expecting me to read it out loud, which I did, and this is what I read:

"Dear Young Friend Hawkins:

"I am going away from here, on a long journey, from which I may never return. Before I go I wish to see that all of my dogs will get good homes. They are very valuable dogs, as you know, being full-blooded fox-hounds. I happen to know that the one called 'Indian' is very fond of you, and I just thought you might be as fond of him. If that is the case I wish to offer him to you as a present, so that you will have something to remember me by, after I am gone. You have been very nice to me, and I would like to do something nice for you. As I am leaving in a hurry, I suggest that you come as soon as you can and pick out the dog you want, before someone else gets him.

"Very truly yours,

"DR. EMILIO DRAGO."

Nobody said a word for a few moments after I finished reading. Then Shadow Loomis reached over and took the paper out of my hand and began to read it for himself. Harold was the first to speak.

"Well," he said, "are you going?"

"I just love that dog 'Indian'," I said; "I'd go to the end of the world for him."

"Then, of course, you're going."

"I didn't say so. I don't know what to do. There's something in that note that frightens me, fellows."

"Yes, sir," spoke up Perry Stokes; "you are smart to say so. I would not go, if I were you, sir. That is a strange house—up there on that hill."

"Boloney!" exclaimed Harold. "Send me—if you're afraid to go. I'll show you how to get the dog and get out of the place safely, even though there is a giant in it."

"I'll go, myself," I told him; "I'm not afraid—it isn't that—but I do want to use as much common sense about it as I can."

"I'm going with you," said Harold.

"No," I said; "you're going to stay right here, Harold——"

"But Gee, whiz!" he broke in; "I only want to help you, Hawkins——"

"You can help me more by staying here, if I do need help. Listen, you kids, you keep this note from Dr. Drago. You all come down here to-night for singing practice—I told Jeckerson you would—and he's goin' to be here. Said he wanted to see us. I'll try to be back in time. But in case I don't get back—well, you just show him that note, and tell him I went to get the dog. Tell Doc Waters, too, and the Sheriff——"

"And old Judge Granbery and everybody in town——" broke in our captain. "What for?"

"If I don't get back by the time singing practice starts, you fellows will know I need help—and it'll be safer to have as many men as you can. Now, then——"

"Gee, whiz! Hawkins, I ought to get in this excitement somehow—you oughtn't to go without me," protested Harold.

"You'll be in it, all right, if there happens to be any excitement," I told him; "and if there doesn't happen to be any—well, you haven't missed anything, and I'll have my good old Indian again. Well, I guess I'd better get started—so as to get back as soon as I can. Now, you boys understand everything?"

"I guess we do, all right," said our captain, Dick Ferris. "I hope nothing happens——"

"Cut out the gloomy talk!" spoke up Harold. "Of course, nothing's going to happen. If you feel that way about it, Hawkins better not go."

"I'm going," I said; "my mind's made up." I clapped my cap upon my head and walked to the door, quickly. But there I stopped, suddenly, and turned around. Something—I didn't know what it was—but something made me turn and take another good look at all those boys. And then I held out my hand. "Good-bye, Link," I said to the Skinny Guy, who happened to be nearest me. He took my hand and pressed it. There was a grave look upon his thin features. But he said no word. Harold stepped up next and shook my hand, and then Shadow, and then the rest, one by one, until the last, who was Perry Stokes.

"Goodbye, Hawkins," he said; "you may depend upon us, sir. If you're not back in time——"

"Oh, I'll be back," I said, with a laugh. But even as I turned and ran out of the door, I happened to think that the laugh sounded hollow. Something was tightening around my heart, I wondered, as I ran along, what made me feel so queerly about it. If I was afraid of some unknown danger, my common sense told me I should turn back. Yet something that mounted high above all my fears urged me onward. I struggled with the desire to turn back—back to the safety of the little old clubhouse and my bunch of friends—struggled against it for a half-mile, and then forgot it all and ran on the faster. Because, all of a sudden I felt that God watches over everybody, and I knew there must be something for me to do—I was being sent on an errand that I didn't understand, but down deep in my heart I knew I had to do it.

AND as I ran, I began to feel an eager desire to see inside of Dr. Drago's house again. What was it that held such curiosity for me in that foreboding place? Was it the room of the telescopes? Perhaps. Those big instruments through which one could see the stars in their brilliant glory, and the queer markings on the planets and the moon, that made you think they were far-away worlds, just like ours, with mountains and rivers and cities and people the same as we have. Was it the giant? Perhaps. We do like fairytale things—even when we see some of them, we still say "Such things can't be." The giant! Yes, I was almost sure it was the giant that made me want to have another look inside the big stonewall house and possibly the huge cavern in the hill below the house.

Well, here I was, at last. The great gray walls of the place stood before me. I stopped and looked up at the place, and it struck me strangely, quite a likely fortress as one would expect a giant to live in. I walked up to the big gate and pressed against it, expecting it to give slowly as the bells rang up in the big house. It did not give an inch, but the bells rang. I pushed harder, but nothing doing; it wouldn't budge. But presently I heard some sound on the other side, and looking up I saw a man's head and shoulders appear above the wall. It was the servant.

"Just a minute," he says, and started to pull something up from behind him. It was a ladder. He let it down slowly in front of me. "Now, climb up," he said.

I hesitated for a moment. "What's the matter with opening the gate?" I asked.

"It won't open," he said, shortly; "climb up."

I went up the ladder swiftly, and he helped me over. "Be carefull" he said. "Let me lift you. If you touch that wire, you'll be dead before you know it."

"Why, what is it?" I asked, as I stood on the big ladder beside him on the other side of the wall, and looked at the wire that ran along the top of the wall.

"It's electricity," he said, as he busied himself in getting the ladder back from the outer side of the wall.

"What's it for?" I asked, nervously.

"It's to keep people out," he said, "who don't have any business inside."

I said nothing as we went down the ladder, but I thought to myself, "Yeah, and it'll keep people inside, too." At that my eyes turned to the big gate. It was heavily barred with big logs, spiked into the great posts on either side. A battering ram couldn't break that gate down.

"So that's why it won't open," I said, pointing to the gate as we passed by. "No wonder. Looks like you didn't want it to open."

"It will never open again," he said, shortly, without even looking at me, and started to walk up to the house. "I'll tell the master you are here. He was expecting you."

"Yeah, I guess he was," I said, as we walked along," he told me to come and get a dog."

"You'll get it, all right," he said, as he led the way up the steps to the porch. I didn't like the way he said it, either. I wondered if he meant the dog, or something else. I turned around and looked at the dog-yard before going in. It was empty. Where, on other visits, I had seen a pack of noisy, yelping, fox-hounds of the finest kind, there was emptiness and silence.

"Where are all the dogs?" I asked, pointing toward the kennels. He turned with his hand upon the door-knob and looked at me with a thin smile.

"They are all gone," he said, "all but the one the master is saving for you. But come in, and he shall have the pleasure of telling you himself."

He stood aside to let me pass; and I went into the vestibule. He came in and closed the door, and I heard its lock click shut.

"Please step into the sitting-room and wait there," he said; "I shall announce your arrival to the master, and he will come to you presently."

I WENT into the big room and sat in the same chair that I had occupied the day Jeckerson had come here with me to bring the dog back. I listened, but could hear no sound except the footfalls of the servant as he went up the stairs in the big hall. I looked all around the room, and something about it gave me the creeps. Something was wrong with this house; or was it that something was wrong with the people who lived in it, and made the house seem so creepy? Surely, I thought, such a lovely big house could be a fine home, if fine people lived in it. And then suddenly I heard the bark of a dog. The next instant I heard a door open, and the dog came lumbering down the stairs. With a glad bark he headed for the room where I was waiting for him—it was old Indian—good old Indian, all right, and how glad he was to see me! By Jinks! I had got up and turned round to meet him, and he took one flying leap at me, and tried to put his paws around my neck, but his weight was too much for me, and back I went, and down upon the thick carpet; with old Indian on top of me.

"Hello, hello!" came a voice; and I raised up and looked over Indian's shoulder to see Dr. Drago standing in the doorway, smiling; and holding in his hand the long, thin cigaret holder, from which the smoke curled lazily to the ceiling. "So, you two have found each other again."

I laughed.

"Yeah," I said; "seems like he is so crazy to see me, he wants to kill me."

"Ah, no!" said Dr. Drago. "You and that dog were meant for each other. It would not do to take that dog from you, Seckatary Hawkins. You two are going to see a lot of excitement together. You are anxious to get back to the clubhouse with him, no doubt, but I have a reason for not wishing you to go out the way you came in——"

"Oh, I don't mind climbing that ladder over the wall?" I broke in. "Why couldn't I go out the way I came in?"

Dr. Drago smiled.

"This other way is so much more interesting," he said. "Step this way, please."

He lifted a curtain that hung on the wall. Behind it was a little door. He opened the door, and held it for me and Indian to enter——

Which we did. But I wish we hadn't.

HOLIDAY EXCURSIONS WERE ALWAYS GREATLY ENJOYED

Younger Generation Years Ago Always Looked Forward to Boat Trips.

FEW ACCIDENTS.

Special Trains Often Carried Large Loads of Excursionists.

(By W. P.)

There appeared recently in The Examiner a well-written and most interesting article on the passing of the livery stables in this city. Time works many changes, and while the automobile has largely supplanted the horse as a means of conveyance for business and pleasure, other changes have taken place as well.

For instance, where are the excursions that we when youngsters, fondly looked forward to? On public holidays, such as the Queen's Birthday, Dominion Day, Civic Holiday, etc., there were always a number by train or boat. For many years the Sons of England held their annual excursion to Sturgeon Point; going by train to Lindsay and thence by steamer and barge down the winding Scugog, to the Point. Here there always took place the pretty English custom of crowning the May Queen.

Or perhaps we would go down the river on the Kingfisher, or Otonabee to beautiful Idyl-wild, likely plowing our way through several miles of floating logs and thinking ourselves lucky if we escaped without breaking several buckets of the paddle-wheels. There was the open bar on board and no limit excepting your puse, as to what you imbibed. Generally we were late in arriving back at the old Wolfe street wharf—but think of what a happy crowd we were even if we were tired.

As an old steamboat man told us recently when recounting reminiscences of other days, he had often wondered, that there had not been fatalities when liquor flowed so freely, but he said that there had never been even a minor accident as to his knowledge.

Another favorable excursion was to Stoney Lake by the Cruiser, and later the Mary Ellen. For a time the steamer Columbian or Ogemah run from Bridgenorth or Chemong wharf (when the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway touched Chemong Lake) to Oak Orchard and Bobcaygeon. This is one of the most beautiful water trips in this section of scenic lakes, but few of the present generation have ever been over it.

Then there were the Sunday school picnics, when dad and mother, and the whole family too a day off. A train of ten or twelve coaches loaded to capacity, would have as its objective, Hastings, Norwood, Orillia, Cobourg or some other favored spot. Appetites in those days were good and a numerous family apparently would sometimes require a large clothes basket to contain dishes and eatables.

As we said before, times have changed.

IMPORTANT SUBJECTS COME BEFORE CANADIAN TEACHERS

Federation Holds Convention at Winnipeg in Middle of July.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 7 (Canadian Press).—Winnipeg will be the educational centre of the Dominion for at least three days, when the Canadian Teachers' Federation gathers for sessions at the Parliament Buildings here July 24-26. Educational work in Canada will be reviewed. A large attendance is expected and the visitors will literally own the city.

The crowded social program will not be permitted to curtail the sessions given over strictly to business. After the addresses of welcome from the Mayor of Winnipeg and the Provincial Minister of Education on July 24, the convention will hear the annual address of Dr. E. A. Hardy of Toronto, the president and the secretary-treasurer's report by Alderman M. J. Coldwell of Regina, Sask., and clear routine business out of the way.

The first intensive discussions are expected on the reports of the standing committees on July 25, such subjects coming up as overcrowded classes, tenure conditions, professional training and teachers' certificates, interchange of teachers, parliamentary and legislative representation and examinations. Dr. W. F. Russell, dean of the Teachers' College of Columbia University, New York, a distinguished visitor, will address the teachers on training. On July 25, the convention will consider the reports on the relation of the high school to the university, educational costs and superannuation, questions of great importance to the profession.

The hospitality which Winnipeg will extend to the visitors commences with a pre-convention dinner tendered by Winnipeg teachers. On July 24 the Government of Manitoba tenders a banquet while on the evening of July 25 the city fathers become hosts, taking the teachers for a drive about the city with high tea at Lower Fort Garry. LAKEFIELD WINS.

Defeats Curve Lake By One Goal in Fast Game.

LAKEFIELD, June 7 (Examiner Correspondence).—Lakefield trimmed Curve Lake here with a score of 4 to 1 last night. Madill was right on deck and helped the Lakefield boys come through by striking out nine men to his rival, Taylor's, 4.

The game was one of the best played here this year. The seven innings showed some real snappy fielding on the part of both teams. Curve Lake got the jump in the second innings and scored a run which was the first in the game. In the next frame Lakefield came through with the scoring punch to send two runners across the plate to put them in the lead, but the Indians soon overcame this lead in the fifth by scoring a pair of counters for themselves and, as before, Lakefield again scored a grace of tallies to put them in the lead and to hold the Curve Lake men scoreless for the rest of the game.

Line-ups:

Curve Lake.—B. Taylor, p; W. Crow, c; E. Coppaway, 1b; H. Taylor, 2b; W. Jacobs, 3b; G. McCue, ss; J. Fitzgerald, lf; Stabler, 2b; Maracle, 3b; Bryant, ss; Webster, rf; F. Payne, lf; Douglas, cf; Buchling.

Score by innings:

Curve Lake.....0100200—3

Lakefield.....0020024—4

Struck out—By Madill 9, by Taylor 4.

HOPPE PLEADS GUILTY.

Murdered Seven Year Old Girl Several Months Ago.

Hoppe, 23, pleaded guilty yesterday to the murder of seven-year-old Dorothy Stelagowski, whom he confessed he criminally attacked after abducting her from her home here several months ago. The judges of Lucas County Common Pleas Court will hear testimony to decide whether he is insane.

Judge Mosher Addresses.

eral witty stories and speaking in a crisp, clear-cut, fluent style, with a pleasing, well-modulated voice, the Judge gave a very entertaining talk that was really a brief birds' eye view of the work being carried on in A.M.O.S. organizations throughout the United States and Canada, emphasizing at all times the service to be done to the cause of Oddfellowship by the assistance of Samaritans, living up to their motto of "Truth, Friendship and Love."

Speaking of the lapse in membership noted in many fraternal societies throughout the past twelvemonth, and quoting a Knight of Columbus who told him recently that the K. of C. had lost 50,000 members during the year just ended, the speaker laid the blame partially to "the automobile, the radio and other modern conveniences." He spoke with enthusiasm of the recently-organized Junior Lodges which allow boys of eighteen years to become members of the Oddfellows' organization and of the challenge presented to Oddfellowship generally in the problem of keeping the youth of the land interested in something besides "dance halls and pool rooms and questionable resorts." In this connection, he referred to the five great State prisons of New York, in one of which, Auburn State Prison, are fifteen hundred men, and to the statistics which point out that fully fifty per cent. of the inmates of these five prisons are under twenty-one years of age.

Mad Rush For Pleasure.

Alluding to the utterance of the late President Harding, at the close of the Great War, advising the people to cool off and settle down and get back to normalcy, the speaker pointed to the mad rush for change and pleasure which animates the age, and the desire of people of all ages to capture fleeting thrills, a desire which leads them to "go up in aeroplanes or down into submarines or to speed in automobiles—anything, so long as they can get a thrill." Fraternal organizations, he maintained, could do much to safeguarding such an age, by the atmosphere of friendly, sociable well-being they extended to excitement-seeking youth.

As well as providing this pleasant social background, Samaritans were doing more in the way of providing relief for workless men in organizing unemployment bureaux and in assistance to charitable organizations like orphan asylums, one of which had been materially assisted recently by an A.M.O.S. Lodge.

Ending with an assurance that the Samaritans were just as fully recognized as other lodges, such as the Masons and the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, and kindred fraternal societies, the Judge concluded with an animated description of several important annual meetings attended by him during the course of his recent tour.

A hearty and very appreciative vote of thanks to the speaker was voiced by P.G.M. Carter, P.D.D.S.M. Moore of Bowmanville, and D.D.S.M. Ayers, with a final humorous note given to the meeting by the brief speech of P. J. Batten, Grand Monarchos of the local Lodge.

TREATMENTS FOR SKIN BLEMISHES

Many people present an unsightly appearance because of the presence on their faces of blemishes, such as moles, warts and scars. Some of these people may have drifted into unprofitable occupations because they could not do work which requires meeting the public.

Sometimes blemishes result in the development of inferiority complexes which are great handicaps. Most of these blemishes must be removed by plastic surgery or beauty specialists who have become expert in eradicating these skin blemishes, but even with the highly skilled technique which they have developed, it seems that many people are afraid to try these treatments.

There are some methods of treatment still in vogue which there is danger in using, such as the X-ray and radium, and I do not advise their use for the removal of these unsightly growths. I would like to recommend, instead, the use of the localized ultra-violet light which creates a deep sunburn within a few minutes, similar to that received at the bathing beaches. This chemical ray can be controlled so that it will only be applied to a local spot. No sensation is felt at the time of treatment, but within two or three hours the skin becomes swollen and blistered, and peels off within a few days, leaving a healthy growth of skin underneath. Only a small area should be treated at one time because a large burn makes the patient quite uncomfortable, but the smaller treatments are easily borne.

Each time a scar or pockmark is burned in this manner, it will be found to be smaller afterwards. Sometimes a great many of these treatments are needed before the skin regains its normal texture.

A doctor may use a high frequency spark which is quite effective when applied to the raised portion of scars or to moles.

The actinic ray is the most satisfactory method of producing face peeling, as any of the lotions, used for that purpose, are apt to contain phenol or mercury and are very dangerous, since the skins of different individuals are not all of the same thickness, and sometimes the poison penetrates deeper than it should, resulting in disfigurement or even poisoning, sometimes so severe that it has caused death. Any bad-looking skin will be improved with the ultra-violet or actinic treatment.

Warts will sometimes disappear within a few days after the beginning of an orange juice fast, and I believe this is because they are caused by a certain kind of acidosis which comes from the use of wrong food. A simple method of removing warts is to treat them with glacial acetic acid. Purchase ten cents' worth of these crystals at a drug store and with a toothpick place one of the crystals on top of the wart and allow to remain from five to ten minutes. This crystal will dissolve and absorb into the wart which, within a few days, will slough off.

Birthmarks and some small tumors should be removed by a doctor or beauty specialist who uses the electric needle or carbondioxide snow.

There is only one method of permanently removing superfluous hair, and that is with the electric needle. The growth may be discouraged through the use of a rosin and wax preparation which any druggist can tell you about. This is applied hot to the skin, and after it has cooled it is jerked off, pulling the hairs with it.

White spots on the skin are due to a local destruction of the pigment usually due to acidosis. They may usually be corrected by following a balanced diet, and using an ultra-violet light.

Questions and Answers.

Question: G. J. writes: "I enjoy the advice given by you on health and am trying to follow it. I have suffered from valvular disease of the heart since I was seven years old, and I am now twenty. The doctors I have had tell me there is no cure. I am in bed at the present time and have been for the past two months, and am now troubled with gas around my heart. As I eat only very light food, can you tell me the cause of the trouble?"

Answer: You have named the cause of your trouble when you write that you are troubled with gas around your heart. The foods you eat may be "light" in weight or "light" in nourishment, but they certainly are not the right foods or else you are not using them in proper combination with each other. Most valvular heart troubles are functional, and can be cured by proper diet and exercise. Send a large self-addressed, stamped envelope for a special series of articles which I have prepared on the cause and cure of heart derangements.

Question: K. L. writes: "I have recently undergone an operation for the removal of a stone in the bladder. Would be grateful if you would advise me as to a diet to guard against a recurrence of this trouble."

Answer: No special diet is needed except to cut down the quantity of food, use good combinations, and then exercise enough so the body will use up the food elements.

Question: Mrs. W. J. writes: "My little boy has a continuous discharge from the nose, especially the left side. How can I remedy this?"

Answer: A correct diet, free from catarrh-producing foods, will stop the cause of the discharge. Temporary help can be received through the use of the ultra-violet light applied directly in the nose through suitable applicators.

SHAW URGES POLICE PROTEST

Would Have Them Refuse To Undertake "Opiniate" Duties Besides Legitimate Cases.

HAS BROKEN LAW.

LONDON, July 6 (Canadian Press). — George Bernard Shaw's address at the annual convention of the police chiefs of Great Britain at Harrogate, was a serious contribution to the discussion of the duties of their office, though enlivened by characteristic Shawian humor. Perhaps with the celebrated case of Sir Leo Money and Irene Savidge in mind, "G.B.S." declared that all the scandals and protestations of the public, all the attacks on the police, came in that part of their duties in which they were not dealing with definite laws but with matters of opinion.

There had been a tremendous extension of police duty, declared Mr. Shaw, with a tendency to make the policemen more and more welfare workers. The movement had gone to the extent that there was now women police. Although if he were a chief constable nothing would terrify him more than this particular development. It was no doubt a development that would grow; and as women instinctively, the moment they got into a place, began to manage it, and finally had to be allowed to manage it for the sake of a quiet life, he was by no means sure that in another fifty years' time, his audience might not consist exclusively of ladies.

In twenty years as a motorist he had driven certainly 100,000 miles, and had never taken a single drive without breaking the law. Mr. Shaw recalled that on one occasion he passed through a police control at 27 miles an hour. There was no room for argument. He and the constables were perfectly civil to one another. The constables were greatly pleased when they got his name because they knew that the case would be put in the papers, and he was greatly pleased when he reflected what a mercy it was when they had not caught him half an hour before, when he was driving at fifty miles an hour.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

JENNIFER FRY is saved from drowning by NICHOLAS GAUNT, wealthy young man-about-town. Later he takes her to tea and asks to call, but she refuses because she is ashamed of her humble surroundings. They continue their friendship and Jennifer comes to love Nicholas, but he is suddenly called abroad by his mother's illness. During his absence Jennifer's father dies. She reads of his engagement in the paper, and stands in the crowd to see him and his bride come from the church after the wedding. Her mother died. For the next five years she was almost happy, working as secretary for a kind-hearted, middle-aged man named GURNEY. Then by chance she meets Nicholas again. He comes to see her.

CHAPTER IX

"HOW WILL IT END!"

"Only friendship!" Jennifer echoed Gaunt's words with a little sobbing laugh.

It was not much to offer to a starving heart, and yet it was so much better than nothing. But something within her urged her to refuse. Something argued with her: "Send him away. Don't take him back again. He treated you badly once. He'll only break your heart again. Send him away."

He seemed to understand her thoughts for he asked a sharp question:

"There's no other man, Jennifer?"

"No—oh no!"

"Then won't you take me back? It will be just the old days come again, and you used to be happy with me then?"

"Yes—oh yes!"

But even while she assented, she knew that the old days had gone forever and could not be recaptured. The simple happine s she had known then would not satisfy her now. Then there had always been the hope of something greater and more wonderful in the future, but now what was there for either of them to hope for, with the shadowy figure of his wife always between them?

But Jennifer loved him, and had always loved him. How much she had never realized till the moment when he took her in his arms and kissed her.

"Say 'yes,' my dear," he urged passionately. "We're both lonely, aren't we?—and it would be such a great thing to see one another sometimes, to always be sure of one another! Say 'yes,' Jennifer!"

She looked away from him into the little familiar room. She had been happy here and quietly contented in spite of her loneliness, but now she knew that such days could never come again. Gaunt had broken the even tenor of her life and reawakened her slumbering love for him.

Contentment had gone from her hearth forever; always now she would be listening for his step and his voice, restless till he came.

She turned her face to him again.

"Oh, if I can really trust you——" she faltered.

"You can trust me to my death and after," said Gaunt, and kissed her lips.

It was Jennifer who, as she afterwards said, recovered her sanity first.

She put him gently from her, and rising to her feet, turned on the light nd drew the curtains.

"If we're going to be friends we must be sensible! No more love-making or I shall send you away."

Nicholas laughed. He looked years younger and happier, and his eyes followed her with a sort of proud possession in them as she moved about the room.

"Of course, if you don't like being kissed," he said.

Jennifer kept her face carefully averted as she answered him.

"Kissing isn't a part of friendship, and you and I are going to be just friends."

But even as she spoke, her own words mocked her.

What was the use of an empty friendship that kept her outside the heaven of his arms?

"Very well. It's for you to say," Nicholas told her gently. He fumbled in his coat pocket.

"May I smoke?"

"Of course. I smoke myself sometimes."

"Will you have a cigarette now?"

She shook her head.

"It's supper-time. I've only got a cold supper, but if you care to stay——"

"I should love to, but I've promised to go out and play bridge."

"Oh!" She was conscious of a sudden chill, as if someone had opened a door and let an icy blast into her warm room of happiness.

"With your wife?" she asked constrainedly.

There was a little silence.

"No, not with my wife," Nicholas answered gently. He watched her with somber eyes as she moved about, altering knicknacks and nervously rearranging the crimson roses, then suddenly he held out his hand.

"Come here, Jennifer."

She shook her head.

"No!"

Gaunt said again:

"Come here, I want you."

"No!" There was an eloquent silence. Then Jennifer began to cry.

She cried like a child, standing where she was, her hands over her face.

"Jennifer!"

Nicholas Gaunt took a quick step towards her, and then stopped.

He knew quite well why she was crying, but he chose to ignore the fact that already his wife's shadowy figure had grown more real and was more insistently forcing itself between them. He wanted Jennifer as he had never wanted anything on earth, and he had sworn to have her on any terms rather than not at all.

Half a loaf was better than no bread to a starving man, and he was too selfish to think of the cruelty it must mean to Jennifer if her persisted in this demand for her friendship.

After a moment he said painfully:

"Would you like me to go?"

And she answered, sobbing:

"Yes, if you want to."

He walked to the door without another word and opened it, but before he had taken two steps along the narrow passage she followed him.

"Nicholas!"

Gaunt turned swiftly and held out his arms.

There were many kisses then and tears and whispered words.

"Why did you cry?" he asked, and she shook her head.

"I don't know. I was just silly."

But he knew why, and so did Jennifer.

"We're going to be so happy," he insisted. "The best of pals, real friends who trust one another completely."

"Friends don't make love," she said again, half laughing, half crying.

"Well, after to-night we'll just shake hands when we meet and say goodbye," he teased her.

But they kissed many times before Jennifer finally shut the door on his tall figure, and she was crying again as she went back to the little sitting-room which now seemed so much more lonely and empty than ever before.

Nicholas had gone, and she did not know where.

All she would ever know of his life would be the little time of it which he spent with her. The rest would always be a sealed book, closed with the shutting of her own door against him.

He might say they belonged to one another, but Jennifer knew that he could never be wholly hers while the figure of his wife remained between them.

But after the first storm of emotion, Jennifer found much happiness in her renewed friendship with Nicholas Gaunt.

She would not allow him to come to her flat again, but they met often.

In the summer evenings he took her for long runs in his car, or down to the river.

Sometimes they stayed out to supper at a wayside inn and came home late through the dew-refreshed night; sometimes they left the car and went for long walks through lanes and fields. Once they went to Rumpelmeyer's, and sat at the same table where they had first had tea together five years before. Little by little, Nicholas told her a great deal about himself. She discovered that he was a very rich man, and that he had a big house in Chelsea and a villa at Cap Martin.

She knew that his wife was pleasure-loving and extravagant, and that she disliked children.

Jennifer never quite knew how she gained so much information about Lady Edith, for her name was never openly mentioned between them after that first night, and yet she often obtruded into their conversation and cast a cloud over their happiness.

Nicholas seemed to grow younger.

"When I'm with you I feel only a boy," he said once and laughed; with his handsome eyes on her face. "Jennifer, you must admit that our friendship is a splendid success."

"Yes," she agreed quietly.

"And you are quite happy?" he insisted. "As happy as I am?"

She said "yes," again, just to please him, but her heart was full of restlessness, and always as soon as he left her the new torturing jealousy awoke. What did he do when he was not with her? Who were his friends? She would lie awake at night tormenting herself, and trying in vain to pierce the future. Was this all she could ever hope for? And how would it end?

Third Game

The two consecutive winds put the Petes in the finals when they met the picked team from Lennox and Addington. This was a real smart collection of female softball players who brought a lively crew of rooters who kept up a red hot line of chatter all through the game. Four games in three days show up hard of of the Peterborough representatives and they went down fighting. The tired players tried gamely to make a comeback but were powerless in the hands of the hard hitting Easterners who held them scoreless after the second innings and scored 15 runs to Sixth line's 3. M. Hall was tired and did not do herself justice and was replaced by L. Bowie in the second. They started out with their usual snap but it soon faded, so tired were the softball veterans and they fell before the hard hitting of the opposition. In the second frame there were twelve batters at the plate and seven runs while in the fourth there were two home runs and two doubles with five runs, it was only in these two frames the east representatives had any edge and errors were the sad reason for failure to pull the game out of the fire before it was too late.

B. McGuire sure could lean on the old ball and had three hits to four trips up with a homer included, she also struck out three while Sixth line hurler sent one away from the plate. A nice double play in the ninth which was the prettiest play of the day was from M. Hall on second to V. Elliott on frst, killing two birds with one stone.

Their opponents played nice ball with few errors except in the first after which they settled down and gave their pitcher good support. M. McGuire retired for a few innings at first and MT. Grahan. took her place until she felt like returning to the mound.

Score by innings:—

Sixth Line ..... 210 000 0— 3

Lennox & Addington 170 802 x—15

This final game was played about four-thirty in the afternoon after the standard events had been run off.

The final for the men's softball was played at the same time when Hastings romped away from Northumberland to the tune of 23-10. Errors again are the excuse for the losers but Hastings played a stirling game of ball. A fast and snappy game with fielding worth while watching. The batteries were: Hastings—Pierce p., Jeffs c. Northumberland—Summerville p., Campbell p., Carr c.

The line-ups:—

Hastings—Frasher, Hasslett, Dawford, Birkette, Pierce, Jeffs Carlile, Heagle and Warren.

Northumberland — Summerville, Clair, Campbell, Duncan, Dawson, Bowie, Carr and Duncan and Wield.

Score by Innings:—

Hastings ..... 612 034 7—23

Northumberland .... 260 000 2—10

Medal Awarded

A medal is to be awarded to the young man and the girl receiving the highest number of points in these events. This was won by Lorne Keno of Prince Edward for the men with the score of 15 points. The highest girl was Margaret Perrin of Durham with 11 points.

The silver cup donated by the Farm and Dairy of Peterborough to the county winning the highest number of points in the standard events which was won last year by Hastings was won this year by Northumberland with a total of 51 points. This cup has to be won two years by the same county but not necessarily in succession.

The standing of the other counties are as follows—Prince Edward second with 37 points, Durham 36, Hastings 22, Peterborough 8, Lennox and Addington 6 and Victoria 1.

An airplane from Belleville arrived and took up passengers to give them a birdseye view of the picnic and was kept busy morning and afternoon taking up the curious thrill seekers. The dance hall attracted many where a smart band from Pittsburgh made the dancers forget the heat for a few minutes. Bert Fox and Bobby Howe with their syncopators.

The Brighton office especially Mr. Smith deserve much of the cerdit in making this picnic a success as the burden of the organization and the routine of the work fell upon their shoulders.

Friends of Mr. George E. King of Windsor, formerly of Peterborough will be interested in the itinerary of his second annual tour to Europe, in which a number of local people, as already noted, embarked last week. Leaving Montreal on the Anchor-Donaldson S.S. "Letitia" on June 29th, the party arrives at Belfast on July 7th. Tomorrow, they tour Belfast and spend the 9th, 10th and 12th in Scotland, visiting Ayr, the birthplace of Robert Burns, the Trossachs and Edinburgh. From July 13th to 17th is spent in London and and July 18th sees them at the Hague with Amsterdam, Brussels and Ostend as stopping places for the next three days. On July 23rd they will be in Paris, staying there until the 27th and embarking for home at Cherbourg on July 28th, on the Cunard liner S.S. "Alaunia." Extension tours have also been planned to Switzerland, lasting from July 28th to August 11th, and to Switzerland and Italy combined, the latter extending from July 28th to August 18th and including a sight-seeing tour of Interlaken, Lucerne, Lugano Milan, Venice, Florence, Rome and Montreaux. Mrs. King accompanies her husband on the tour.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

A warm weather tea gown of mauve chiffon and lace which may be worn without the chiffon drapery.

Holiday time is a time when one's clothes should be most compact. There is nothing at all amusing about having to take five trunks, three hat boxes and a shoe box for a week's visit away from home when the nine pieces of luggage have to be strapped to the back or side of one's car. There may be another passenger in the car with nine pieces of luggage—in which case one would have to end by sending the car with the luggage and going by rail oneself.

Every article in your summer wardrobe must be chosen with an idea of serving as many purposes as possible. Hence the wide-brimmed hat that may be relieved of the brim and turned into a little evening toque, dinner frocks which with the addition of a very insubstantial coat or jacket may be turned into afternoon frocks. I saw a transparent velvet negligee the other day which was intended also to do duty as an evening wrap.

The teagown shown in the sketch has the advantage that it may be worn with or without the drapery, thus playing the role of two negligees in one. Teagowns of that sort are appropriate for informal late afternoon hours at home and may be worn through the dinner hour.

In an informal wardrobe a coolie coat that would do admirably for a beach wrap will also do for a negligee. These are usually of printed challis and therefore possess some warmth, but are so thin that they take up scarcely more room than silk. Some of the new coolie coats are reversible—so that you may have the effect of two different coats in the space of one.

This is the time of year when one runs across all sorts of little fads, differing widely at different resorts. In some places one sees nothing but stockings of sunburned hue—at another resort the fashion for light-colored stockings has gained much headway. Here there is a vogue for thin woolen stockings for wear with all types of sports clothes—and there wool stockings are not seen at all save in the form of little cuff socks actually worn on the tennis court.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

WHAT are these things which we call friendships, and how are they engendered? Here in Peterborough we have 25,000 people, all living, working, praying and playing; vitally interested in the business and mystery of life and travelling towards the same goal—but how many can we boast as our friends? It is very odd. We recognize faces, idiosyncracies of speech, appearance or gesture, but apart from that we have for one another no real—certainly no vital—existence whatever.

• • •

As one writer remarks, city life is like the existence of a certain type of octopus, which scurries through the water throwing out a flood of ink—like fluid to conceal its movements. We see the cloud of ink, and know the whereabouts of the beast, but of the beast itself we see nothing.

• • •

But one must do something; we must maintain the conventions of society. So when Mrs. White of Ashburnham entertains Mrs. Black from the west end, each trots out her little stock-in-trade phrases: "have you found a new house?" we ask, just as we might say: "have you scratched a hole for yourself in the ocean-bed, Beast?" And then, when that topic is exhausted, we start another, safely impersonal. Oh! we may talk of our husbands and babies and maids—but not—not really—personally!

• • •

How handy that ink is to cover our real thoughts!

• • •

I wonder what we should all look like if the ink-supply were cut off, and we were left stark, here in Peterborough, with our cliques revealed and our conventions useless?

• • •

They were ladies of another day, with long-skirted frocks that had tight bodices laced with ribbons. They sat at spinning-wheels and sang sweetly to adoring swains, leaning over their shoulders. It was at St. Paul's strawberry festival last week. What was it they possessed, these women of another age, the alluring women who charming rather than provocative. Wasn't it gracefulness?

Seen in one of the stores is a delightful simple coat in spider web fabric, a Canadian production. In double breasted style, with narrow belt, the coat's only trimming is on the cuff, which is set off by three buttons.

• • •

Just arrived in the city is a crenelle tea service that apparently received its inspiration in the crenelle-topped octagonal towers of old English Tudor castles. It is altogether beautiful, from tray to lamp.

• • •

I saw, the other day, a lovely little hat of white linen petals, designed for evening wear.

• • •

"I don't see why," a business man told me, "women can't use system in their housework just the same as men do in their offices. It would make things so much easier for them." Well, I couldn't see either. It seems a reasonable proposition. But I asked him for an example. "Well," he said, "when I get to my office in the morning, first thing I do is clear up the routine—open and answer mail, check orders, inspect the work done between my last visit to the plant the previous evening and my arrival this morning. Then my mind is free for executive work and for planning. But women I know will rise from the table and go to the piano, leaving the dishes there—and all the time they are playing there must be, at the back of their minds, the consciousness of unwelcome routine yet to be done."

A good example, don't you think? But how extensively true is it?

Last year I discovered a gem of a lake, in a setting of granite. I have seen Killarney, but the memory is not half so sweet as my recollection of this lake a few miles from Peterborough. I have camped amid the cathedral-spired peaks of the Rockies—without the thrill that I received when I topped the last hog-back rock that hid this little lake. I have taken the pack trail through huge Montana forests—but it was not less lonesome or nearer to nature than the stunted growth around this Peterborough lake. In this county, at front door and back of the city, we have vistas that are medicine for the soul; white dawns, burning sunsets, distant trails, dashing rivers, miniature Niagaras, and solemn silences that ease the spirit. A wonderful heritage that we should know better!

Deep rich greens, burning oranges and glowing blues are seen in the new footwear in certain city stores, with geometric designs.

A white slip-over frock for the girl of 10 to 15 has plaits in its front skirt, a turn-down collar and youthful bow tie. A belt slightly blouses the one-piece back. Tie, belt and narrow hem are in green, with two green fish embellishing the slit pocket.

In the same store is a new play suit for very little people. It consists of abbreviated shorts, cut in one piece, held by cross-over braces. There is a blouse which is removed for the sun bath.

My own choice for the perfect tailored blouse of the season is one I saw at a church affair last week. It was of white satin, with surplice lines of fagotting and a buttoned side closing.

Roxy, whose visit to Peterborough a few years ago was a widely-advertised advertising stunt, has deserted the "mike" long enough to put down on paper the opinion that "dancing today occupies a spotlight position second to none in amusement." Certainly, the dance halls in this district do not lack patronage. And some of the dancing is amusing!

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, JULY 8, 1928.

After the early morning hours this should be a lucky day, according to astrology. Benefic aspects dominate strongly.

The clergy are well directed and will find increased interest in religious matters, as the summer draws to a close, the seers predict.

In the first hours of awakening under this planetary government there may be an inclination to count one's woes instead of one's blessings, but later the mind will regain its poise for the stars are encouraging in their influences.

Women are again subject to the best direction of the stars, which will stimulate them to take part in great reform movements.

Lovers may rejoice while this configuration prevails for it is most favorable to their hopes and ambitions.

This should be a most fortunate day for plighting vows of lasting devotion. Engagements to marry are most fortunately aspected.

This is an auspicious sway for visiting friends or relatives. Both men and women should be able to make the best impression, since the tendency is likely to be toward revealing fine feeling and high aspiration.

According to ancient lore this should be an uncommonly lucky day for fishing.

Summer resorts are especially well aspected under this sway which presages extraordinary patronage.

Those who start vacations under this direction of the stars may expect romance as well as rest and recreation.

Uranus is in a place that should assure enthusiasm regarding military training.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of aid through women friends. Older persons may not be helpful.

Children born on this day probably will have unusual ability after they have found their right places in life. They should be wisely studied and carefully guided.

MONDAY, JULY 9, 1928.

Astrologers read this as rather an uncertain day in planetary government, and for this reason it is well to be careful in all things.

It is not an encouraging sway for those who deal with banks or seek financial settlements.

While this rule prevails the stars favor all who have succeeded more than those who are still struggling.

Brawn rather than brain should benefit by this rule of the planets, which favors workers.

It is not a day auspicious for planning or for interesting persons in schemes of any sort.

Aviation is not well directed by the stars while this configuration prevails.

There will be marvelous development in aerial navigation before the close of the year, astrologers predict, and transcontinental travel will be greatly stimulated by quick journeying.

This is read as a lucky day for the opening of theatres and the presentation of new plays.

The stars smile on those who wed today and promise prosperity through the special interest of employers and friends.

It is not an auspicious sway under which to make new ventures and important initiative should be delayed.

Again astrologers announce strong reactionary tendencies in dress as well as social customs.

Domestic interest is to be stimulated in the coming year when homes will be centers of entertainment instead of clubs and hotels.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of journeys and surprising experiences in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will have the gift of successful leadership. Subjects of this sign have the pioneering instinct and are often exceedingly independent.

BOY LIVES 5 YEARS WITH WILD WOLF.

Wichita Falls, Tex., June 25 (By NEA Service).—Sin Roba, Indian youth who is now 18, has come back to civilization after living for five years in the mountains with only a wild wolf for company.

When Sin was 13, his father was forced to leave his home in an Apache reservation because of smallpox. The boy and his mother decided to go along. They headed for the mountains. Within a short time both the father and mother died, leaving Sin to shift for himself.

Officials, who discovered him near the Rio Grande, brought him here. In broken Spanish he told a thrilling story of his experiences. After his parents died he captured a wolf cub which he taught to help him in the hunt for food. He was naked when captured and refused, at first, to put on any clothing or eat cooked food.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR BAD STOMACH GIVES SWIFT RELIEF

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Home Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with three or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy tablet form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia tablets, which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that 99 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia Tablets!

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

BY DR. FRANK McCOY
America's Foremost Dietetic Authority.

AUTHOR'S INTRODUCTION TO ARTICLES:—In beginning this series of articles, I want to assure my readers if they are above normal in weight, that there is absolutely no danger in taking off excess poundage through the methods I am advocating. I am not going to suggest the use of any remedies, pills, nostrums, thyroid extracts, or any harmful preparation. Through my health articles and from the lecture platform, I have taught millions of people in North America how to reduce their weight without a single record of anyone being injured, in any way, from following my instructions. On the other hand, everyone who has followed directions explicitly has benefited to a remarkable degree, and many fat folks are now enjoying perfect health because of rigid adherence to these directions.

You have heard that people have been made ill by trying to reduce. Many newspapers recently have devoted a great deal of space to criticizing weight-reducing methods. The authorities quoted apparently, had the misfortune of not understanding scientific dietetics while trying to reduce their patients. Many people have been injured by harmful remedies, but I have never known of a single case where anything but good has come from scientific dietetics properly applied in reducing fat folks to the normal.

Now Come The Instructions!

If you have been carrying around excess weight, it is because you have eaten too much of certain kinds of food, and because you have not exercised sufficiently. To secure the quickest results in weight reduction, it is only necessary to stop all food entirely and allow the body to use up its excess fatty material. The bear does this for three months in each winter, eating no food at all, but living entirely on his fatty tissue. The fat bear is very sluggish during most of the year, and is only in fine condition in the spring-time after completing his winter's fast.

It is true that you can gradually reduce your weight through living on a careful diet, but there is an added advantage in taking the fast at the beginning of the treatment. No matter how carefully you think you have lived, in addition to accumulating excess fatty weight, your body has gradually become filled with toxins and impurities from the faulty metabolism from which every fat person suffers. During the fast, these poisons are eliminated from the system, and your health is improved in every way. The headaches which you have had occasionally will disappear. Those rheumatic pains in the joints will vanish like magic, and even your fallen arches and sore feet will be relieved as you get rid of the morbid material in your system, including the heavy fatty freight which you have been carrying about.

I will dwell more on this subject of eliminating poisons during the course of this series of reducing articles. To get you specifically started on the reducing regime, I am going to give you exactly the instructions you should follow, starting with tomorrow morning.

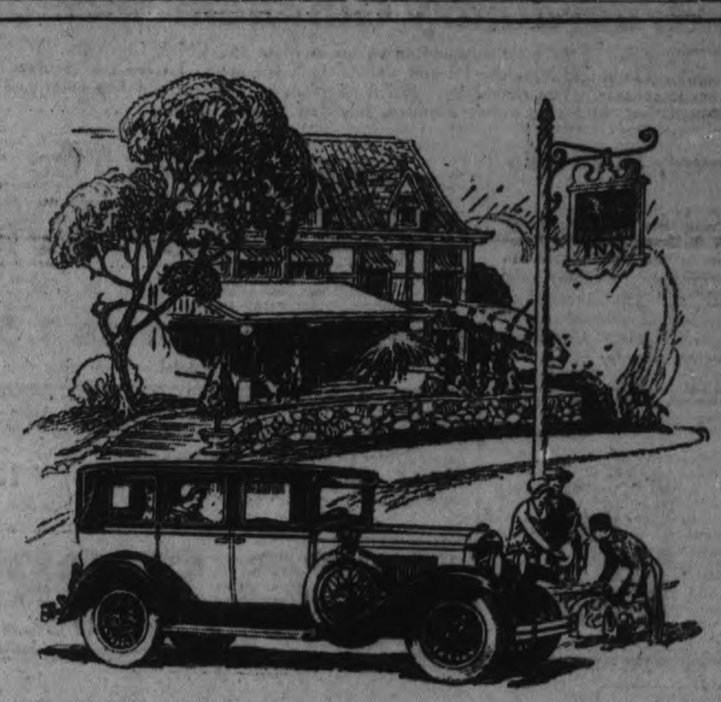
Upon arising in the morning, you are to take an enema followed by a warm sponge or shower bath. As soon as the enema is completed, you are to take an eight-ounce (8 ounce) glass of orange juice, together with whatever water you desire. The eight ounces of orange juice should be repeated every two hours during the entire day.

You may use water with the orange juice, or in between times, according to your desire, but do not use any food or liquid of any other kind. No soups, crackers, milk, malted milk, coffee, or any such food or drink should be used.

Just before retiring, another enema should be taken, as in the morning, followed by a warm sponge or shower bath.

Do not be surprised if by tomorrow night you have developed a slight headache. If you are very toxic, besides being fat, these toxins will be stirred up by the fasting regime, and headaches will result for the first few days, until a sufficient amount of poisons have been eliminated.

I advise you to go about your regular duties as before, taking short walks each day; but do not take any systematic physical culture exercises as long as you are on this fruit fast.



The Ideal becomes Reality

CADILLAC, and its companion car, LaSalle, have caught and crystallized present-day motor-car ideals as no other cars have done. In them the ideal becomes reality, not alone in the exuberant beauty of their Fisher and Fisher-Fleetwood body creations, but also in the tireless, effortless ease with which the 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder engine delivers its inimitable performance.

For these two cars alone share Cadillac quality as they share in Cadillac prestige. CAD-2010X

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

AT MOUNT PLEASANT.

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 7. — The Mount Pleasant Branch of East Durham Women's Institute will continue throughout the coming year with the Roll Call Rally Contest, which had splendid results in the past year, as an inducement to bringing the members to the meeting on time. This contest is so arranged that two captains were chosen, Mrs. Thomas Graham and Mrs. Garnet Shields, who selected all the members on their respective sides. After the singing of the Institute Ode, and repeating the Lord's Prayer the roll is called by the secretary. Members who are present and answer to the roll call subject on the program for the year are awarded five marks, those who are present and do not answer on the said subject receive only two marks, while those who come after the roll is called do not receive any marks. At the end of the year the marks are counted, and the side with the least number of marks is entitled to treat the winners. This year Mrs. Shields' group of members were the losers, and at the July meeting held at her home a treat for the winners in the form of refreshments consisting of bread and butter, strawberries and cream, cake, and a cup of tea were provided.

Printed programs are used by the Institute, on which are printed four subjects for the program for each month, along with the name of the person at whose home the meeting will be held, also the names of two ladies who are appointed responsible for the program of the said meeting, also the names of two other ladies on the refreshment committee to assist the hostess. As an explanation to those Institutes who do not use the programs, on the front of the program is printed the Institute motto, "For Home and Country," then the Institute Ode, and the order of the regular meeting. On the back of the program is printed the names of the district officers and the names of the branch officers of the eight branches in the East Durham District. As an example, the program contains for the month of August, four subjects: 1. Grandmothers' Day and Picnic: 2. The Most Profitable Outing for the Family: 3. Our Opportunities: 4. Labor Saving, Roll Call, Pickling Recipes. Home, Mrs. Bland, responsible. Mrs. W. H. Lowes and Mrs. Hubert Gardiner. Lunch Committee, Mrs. John Handley and Mrs. McLean. We find these programs very beneficial throughout the year.

AT MILLBROOK

Community activities by the local branch of the Women's Institute, during the past winter, included a novel entertainment and social gathering known as "Grandfathers' Night," held in the Town Hall and very largely attended.

"Grandmothers' Days," and "Children's Days," have been featured by most branches in the district, and throughout the province, but a "Grandfathers' Evening" was something unique in programs.

Invitations sent out two weeks before the event intimated that guests must come in old time costume or pay a fine and prizes were given for the costumes which the three judges decided best represented the styles worn in the period about Confederation days.

Several of the grandfathers contributed to the program, and in one case, at least, a grandfather, Mr. Charles Thorndyke, and his youngest son, Joe, sang duets together.

Step dancing, more or less cleverly executed, was demonstrated by a number of the men, including the oldest grandfather present, Mr. Arthur McMahon, who received a prize for having this distinction, while the award to the youngest grandfather went to Mr. W. I. Larmer.

Old-fashioned dances were especially featured when the formal program was concluded, and the floor cleared for tripping the 'light fantastic,' Mr. L. S. Morton acting as floor manager, and leading off in many of the dances with his wife who wore a becoming bridal costume belonging to a period many years earlier than the present day.

A handsome quilt, made by the Institute members, for which tickets had been previously sold, was given to the holder of the 'lucky number' during the evening, Mrs. F. P. Stinson being the fortunate winner. The numbers were placed in a hat, Mr. George Winslow, of Winnipeg, who was visiting in the vicinity, being chosen to make the draw.

The executive, who with a number of competent workers, planned and successfully carried through this unusual evening, about which many inquiries have been made, included: Mrs. C. Thorndyke, president; Mrs. R. J. McKnight, vice-president; Mrs. Will Armstrong, secretary, and Mrs. T. H. Aiken, treasurer.

AT AWRSAW

One piece of social and educational work entered into by the Women's Institutes has been studying, practising and presenting plays. Very few branches but have done some of this. The plays chosen have been of a high class.

Perhaps in this connection it might be well to notice some of our English sisters' work along the same line. In Wiltshire and Dorset during the last few years the branches have studied separate acts from different Shakespearean plays, one from "Hamlet," one from "Merchant of Venice," one from the "Tempest," one from "Macbeth," and there have been put on during either an afternoon or evening, and entered into as a contest by the branches of a county. The plays are put on by the women and young girls of the community. Of course social conditions are somewhat different from ours. There are very few communities in which there is not at least one woman who has plenty of time, and can devote all the time necessary to practicing the whole caste and to individual drilling. The village and country young girls are intensely interested and take a delight in the preparations as well as in the presentations.

When the contests are over, generally all the branches meet for a jollification at some larger grounds. As many as eighteen have gathered thus.

AT CAVAN

The Institute programme for July contains the following topics:

1st—Our flag and what it calls for.
2nd—Canadian women of note.
3rd—Value and care of milk.
4th—Simple dishes for warm weather.
5th—Roll Call—My pet proverb.

Cavan Women's Institute meets July 19th at Mrs. A. B. Kennedy's home.

The lunch committee is Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Miss F. Hunter, Mrs. F. M. Staples and Mrs. E. Syer.

The programme committee is Miss A. Kelly and Miss L. Syer.

AT LAKEFIELD

The Lakefield branch of the Women's Institute, has for the past year horked quietly, giving aid to the needy and the first anniversary of the organization will be marked by a new departure and one which will be of great value to the community in many ways.

An enterprising member proposed the erection of road signs at the village limits to let tourists know that Lakefield is here and to call attention to the beauties of the community. The matter was taken up with enthusiasm and a committee consisting of Miss M. Sanderson and Mrs. Cameron were appointed to proceed with the work of getting the signs made and put up.

As these signs will cost money, it was decided by a practically unanimous vote to hold a Strawberry Social to pay for the making and erection. The social date has not been announced but will be held in the near future.

It has been a matter of regret to many citizens that Lakefield has lagged behind other places in having these road signs, and it is a real community service for the Institute to take the matter up.

A Tip or Two

SPANISH EGGPLANT.

For variety, cut eggplant in cubes, soak in salt water and cook slowly in a Spanish sauce made of tomato, green peppers and seasoning.

PLEASANT LIGHT.

If you cannot afford lampshades for every light in the house, try using the new orange or other soft colored bulbs in the regular sockets.

CLEAN PURSES.

Light colored leather purses can be cleansed as well as shoes or gloves by using any commercial cleanser and wiping until dry with a soft towel.

LABELS ON PANTRY SHELVES FAIL TO TELL WHOLE STORY

Man Who Tried to Dodge Shaving Ran Into Difficulty.

TOO COMPLICATED.

Even Old Dutch Fails To Make Use Perfectly Clear.

By Marion.

A recent article in Printer's Ink, followed up by a letter from a reader, piqued my curiosity in regard to directions on packages on the pantry shelf, and I found on a tour of inspection that conditions were even worse than had been told. It appears, for one thing, as if the man who used to be able to write the ten commandments on the head of a pin had been given a job with some of the firms turning out common or garden cooking ingredients. The type is too small.

And then, in many cases, the meaning of the directions is not clear. Queer words and obscure phrases are used too often. One needs a dictionary of ample size on the kitchen table in order to cook sago pudding. It isn't right.

In my opinion, the package should tell in simple words just what the contents will do and how to do it. New and unusual uses should be told, of course, but I may never have used the product before, and I may wish to make the most elementary dish with it. And then, too, the label should tell what not to do.

The Story of a Shave.

Here is the sad story of a man's shave, told by himself in the aforementioned P.I. Read it and weep:

The other night I needed a shave badly. My wife told me so, my daughter told me so, and I knew it myself. A trip out in the country, after a day in town without shaving, made my deplorable condition even more noticeable. On the return home that evening I discovered that the wife had been using some of her favorite depilatory. She had one of those quick and sudden ideas. "Why not try it on your face? Think how much trouble it would save if you could just put this stuff on and wipe off your stubbly beard without all the trouble of stropping and shaving!

"It wakes me in the morning and you know it does," she said. "Won't you try it for me?"

Always wanting to oblige the ladies, I went to the medicine closet, took down the package and with her help tried to follow directions. The directions, the package booklet said on the front, were very simple but very important. They were somewhat as follows:

1. Bathe parts to be treated with cold or lukewarm water and dry. Do not use hot water.

2. Shake the bottle and place a small quantity of preparation into a small saucer or cup. (Do not use a metal receptacle.)

3. With a tuft of absorbent cotton twisted on the end of a wooden probe, apply preparation freely to the hair and skin. Pat—do not rub

4. Keep hair saturated from two to five minutes depending upon its coarseness and thickness.

5. After hair is dissolved, wash off with cold or lukewarm water (never hot water). Dry by patting or blotting with absorbent cotton or soft towel. Do not rub.

We were now ready for action. The rules seemed easy. Having shaken the bottle as directed, I secured a toothpick for a "wooden probe," put some absorbent cotton on it, poured the preparation into a receptacle, which was not metal, and after bathing my bearded face with lukewarm water and drying it, I patted and patted for some time. It is quite a good-sized patting job to pat an entire face from scalp line to the last bristling hair on a rather long neck with absorbent cotton on the end of a toothpick. It takes infinite patience, gentleness and dexterity. It took, in my case, almost two and three-quarter minutes until the last bit of beard had been thoroughly patted and saturated. Then it was that rule four started to fool me. It said to keep the hair saturated from two to five minutes, depending upon its coarseness and thickness. My beard, my barber tells me, is of exceptional coarseness for so fine and tender a skin as mine. The combination was disastrous. I kept patting and patting some more. When I told my wife my barber's diagnosis of my beard, she suggested that five minutes was not long enough. So by the clock she was to watch until I had patted for seven minutes. The patting went on in spite of much smarting and finally some startling symptoms as the liquid hunted for the hair root beneath the skin. To keep the hair saturated it seemed to me that rule four meant that more and more patting had to be done. My face was turning a dark green. I knew how the victims of the Spanish inquisition felt. Also the baby started to cry and my patting and patting went on until the wife came back and said, "Oh, my goodness, it is nine minutes instead of seven. Wash it off, right away quick." I filled, rather hastily, the bowl with lukewarm water and washed it off. Results were not nearly so good as I had been led to expect.

Whereas the beard should have come off as a light snow disappears before a hot April sun, it peeled off in spots and rows, taking some small amount of skin with it and leaving numerous ridges and tufts of beard where there should have been only a smoothness like that of a baby's rosy cheek.

Once, out on the farm, we had an old dog named Jeff who unfortunately contracted a very bad case of mange. As I looked at myself in the glass one could easily notice my striking resemblance to that Dog Jeff of long forgotten days.

I washed the tortured face again. Three more bits of beard came off, leaving only seventy-four obdurate hairs still sticking. It was unnecessary to warn me not to rub. My whole face felt exactly as though it had been sandpapered after a severe case of sunburn. I had been grievously wounded in several places. It was suggested by a usually sane member of my family that the applications and the patting be continued until I looked more like a man, less like a dog, but that suggestion was promptly withdrawn after my reply. Then it was that this same wife of mine discovered a little envelope hidden in the folds of the direction booklet and on it were these words:

For use on the face, the powder contained in this envelope should always be dissolved in two tablespoons of hot water in a separate bottle. When cool apply a little of the solution to the skin of the face before using.

She read those words aloud. But it was too late. The damage had been done. The face pains grew worse as I sensed the import of the warning which had come too late. The burning sensation grew worse. Having had a bad case of sunburn once which had been relieved by fuller's earth, I rushed for a package. There was a picture on the cover of a funny looking English nurse powdering a blond baby. It was made by A. & F. Pears, Ltd., of 71-75 New Oxford Street, London, W.C. 1. It was unopened. There were a lot of lines on the packages. If I wanted to use it as a dusting powder I was to cut it at one place. If I was going to use it with a powder puff I mustn't cut it there, but instead cut only between the lower dotted lines.

There were other directions. I was suffering. Speed was essential. I poked a pencil through the bottom and threw a handful on my face, too sore to touch. After a time it helped. Then I began to wonder if all directions were purposely made complicated to compete with cross-word puzzles and other brain teasers. If so, why?

And Other Things.

That is the man's story, and it is not a bit overdone, as you can tell by inspecting your own pantry and medicine cupboard shelves. I, for myself, found it out. The label on the shaving cream which the man of the house tried to avoid in the last story reads: "First wash face thoroughly with any mild soap and dry. Place shaving brush under faucet and moisten. Then squeeze from tube 3-4 inch of the cream and, with a rotary motion, starting at the chin, work up a lather. Wet the razor blade and shave." That, I submit is an insult to the intelligence of the average male. How does the maker know that this particular man cannot get along with only half an inch? Or why shouldn't he use two inches if he feels like it? What particular virtue is there in starting at the chin? To the feminine mind that seems absurd. Why not start at the left ear, if the man so desires? In fact, why wouldn't this do for that particular label: "Your face will feel as smooth as the talk of a fake stock salesman after you use this cream. Just use your own judgment, and go to it."

I like the directions for Mennen's Talcum. The label says: "Use after the bath." Whole paragraphs might have been written to make it complicated—but they weren't and it isn't.

Among Women.

To come to our own realm, look at your Old Dutch Cleanser package. The directions are quite simple, aren't they? But wait: "Wet the article to be cleaned and sprinkle lightly with Old Dutch Cleanser. Scrub with brush or cloth and take up clean. For general kitchen use sprinkle the powder on cleaning cloth or brush." I ask you, what is one to take up clean; the cloth, the pot, the pan, the brush, or the package? I don't know.

In the office is a fire extinguisher. There are 500 words of directions in small type on it, telling how to fill it, long words that explain all about how to get ready for the next fire. And, buried amidst the verbiage, the simple directions: "In case of fire, turn upside down." But who would have the nonchalance to read that mass of matter, with the flames creeping toward him?

There's a baby food on the shelf, which has been used in our house for years. The directions say: "The feeding of infants requires the training, experience, and skill of a physician and is not within the province of this company. Therefore, we give no directions for use in this connection, but leave that to the physician."

That is nice and ethical, and maybe the physicians think the company is just lovely for saying such things, but I never heard of a physician recommending Dryco. For the sake of a baby marooned in a little town where there are no high-priced baby-feeders, why not put on the label: "But if you have no doctor, here is a guess at the proportions for various ages. Try it on your baby if no doctor is available. See how it works."

That is what I like about Kaffee Hag and Postum directions. They tell the usual proportions of one teaspoon to the cup, and then add: "Your taste is the judge" or words to that effect.

Certainly, as P.I. pointed out, and as my correspondent said, the makers of commonly-used products should simplify and translate their labels.

It is generally recognized that women in cold countries like Norway and Russia have the best complexions. The explanation seems to be that they massage their faces regularly with ice, which is excellent for the skin. Chemists have just discovered a substance that has the same beneficial effect. It consists of a powder which is poured into a jar and a little water added. In a few minutes the contents are as cold as ice but quite dry. They are then rubbed over the whole of the face.

There are as many rats as there are human beings in England, the population being 44,000,000.

(Sent by Mrs. C. M.)

MARION'S MAIL

Dear Marion:

Will you please tell me whether it is proper for the bridegroom's parents to accept wedding gifts, or should they forward the packages to the bride's home? Is it not an insult to the bride and her parents for them to open the packages and keep them until the newlyweds return? —G.W."

Wedding gifts are always meant for the bride and are supposed to be sent to her home. It certainly was not proper for the other family to open and retain the gifts, though they may have done so with the best intentions. It would be a pity, though, to greet the returning couple with an estranging inter-family row, wouldn't it? For their sakes, forget and forgive.

"Dear Marion:

My baby is weaned now, and is getting four bottle feedings a day and the usual vegetable soup, cereal and orange juice. I am giving the baby sunbaths this summer instead of cod liver oil. My trouble is to break the baby of the 10 o'clock bottle at night. She is big and fat and healthy, and I am sure doesn't need it, but she cries so that I don't want to disturb the rest of the family and so give in to her. I would appreciate any suggestions you can give me for stopping this feeding. The baby is 11 months old and I think should sleep all night now. I surely appreciate the help I got from Dr. McCoy through The Examiner this spring.

When a baby is getting four feedings in the day time and eight ounces of milk at each feeding, there is really no need for the night feeding and most children who get all the food they should have for their needs won't waken for this feeding. They simply break themselves of it. Be sure that the daytime feedings are all that they should be in every particular, and that the baby gets her full allotment of milk, then when she wakens at night offer a bottle of water or else a drink from a cup. Say "Go t sleep" and leave her. She may whimper for a while, but don't be weak. If you are satisfied that the diet is right you can afford to be deaf to her cries. Some habits are hard to break, but we have to break them for the child's own good, and an uninterrupted sleep from 7 to 7 is better for the well nourished child than a night feeding.

"Dear Marion:

I have been very interested in the letters in your column, and also in the other items on the Women's Page. It certainly is a great improvement, and now I always turn to this page first when I get my paper.

I think those women who wrote telling about their husbands were right in one way and wrong in another, but your advice was good. It does do one good to get something off one's mind now and again, but at the same time they ran the risk of their husbands reading the letters and being hurt.

There is one solution for nearly all the difficulties to which they referred, and it is easy in nearly any house—give the man a room of his own. You will find, I think, that he will take a pride in keeping it straightened out, and all you will have to do is an occasional dusting. It's easier dusting, too, when all the books and trophies are gathered in one place than when one stumbles over them in every room and hall.

I worked this idea with my boy, who is fond of carpentry and tinkers around a lot with hammer and saw. I gave him the summer kitchen in summer and the cellar in winter (having no room available) and he has a bench and tool racks that keep his stuff tidy. It certainly helps to keep him off the street, and he appreciates it.

My husband has a desk in the corner of the dining room (a roll top) and when we get a larger house I plan a den for him. I would like a sewing room, but perhaps we can use the same room.

I am looking forward to reading further expressions of opinion from your readers.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. L. B."

Thank you very much, Mrs. L. B., for your kind expression of appreciation. I wish to make this page really valuable, and depend upon you and other readers to help me out. Your solution of the difficulty of accommodating male folk is interesting, and I surely hope you soon get that den and sewing room.

THE SATURDAY MARKET BASKET

Market interest seems to have settled on fruits and new vegetables, for each week there are several new ones to add to the family menu. A few more home grown products are coming in to replace the foreign produce supplied us in the spring. Home-grown strawberries and tomatoes are quite plentiful in the stores now. In fact, the strawberry season is said to be at its best and this would be a good time for the housewife to obtain her supply for preserving. White granulated sugar (Dominion) is quoted at $6.40 a cwt. and Redpath sugar is $6.50 a cwt.

Home-grown strawberries are marked at 15c. and 18c. a quart box. Luscious dark red cherries are 30 and 40c. a lb.; plums in many varieties are priced at 3 for 10c. and smaller ones at 25 and 30c. a dozen. There are quantities of melons (Honey Dew) at 35 and 40c., watermelons for $1.25, cantaloupes for 30c. and some for 20 and 25c,

Bananas range in price from 3 lbs. for 25c. to 25 and 30c. a dozen; apples(eating) for 50c. a dozen or 5c. each. Grapefruit are priced at 2 for 25c. and some are 3 and 4 for 25c.; oranges range from 50c. to 80c. a dozen.

Peas sell for 20c. a quart; string beans 30c. a quart or 20c. a lb.; carrots for 10c. and 15c. a bunch; beets 3 and 4 bunches for 25c.; cauliflower heads for 10c., 15c. and 20c.; cabbages are plentiful at 5c. a lb. New potatoes are offered from 43c. to 50c. a peck, and spinach for 2 lb. for 25c.

Iceberg and leaf lettuce is available now, iceberg selling for 10c. and 15c. a head and leaf lettuce for 5c. a bunch; red radishes at 5c. a bunch; green onions 3 bunches for 10c. and cucumbers are priced according to size, the larger ones marked at 15c. and 18c.; tomatoes range in price from 15c. to 30c. a lb. Asparagus can still be had for 15c. a bunch.

Asparaguds Timbale.

Here's an idea for using asparagus:

Two bunches asparagus, one and one-half cups fine dried bread crumbs, one-half cup milk, one-quarter cup melted butter, one scant teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, three eggs.

Wash and scale asparagus. Cut off tough ends and save for a soup. Cut tender stalks into inch lengths. Dry stale bread in a slow oven, letting bread brown slightly. Roll and sift crumbs. Heat milk and add to the crumbs, using enough milk to moisten. If the crumbs are not brown they will absorb more milk, but the brown crumbs taste better. Add melted butter, salt and pepper. Beat eggs until very light and add to crumb mixture with asparagus. Turn into a well buttered mold, filling mold about two-third full. Cover closely and steam 45 minutes. Unmold and serve garnished with parsley. Serve Hollandaise sauce separately in a sauce boat.

— after all there's nothing like H.P. sauce

Different in every way from every other sauce—with a rich, fruity flavor entirely its own.

The H.P. flavor suits all tastes and every dish—not one sauce for one dish but H.P. for them all.

All Grocers and Stores sell H.P.—get a bottle to-day and always keep one handy.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

By John Hart.

Florence Davidson was one of those persons that practice what they preach. Her preaching was done through the columns of the "Evening Gazette," under the caption, "Advice to the Lovelorn, by Arabella Anderson." Every day, except Sunday, Florence answered questions of young women, and some young men, in regard to love affairs, preceding the replies with an article of general advice.

These articles written by Florence lately had been accumulated and published in pamphlet form under the title, "Keep Them Guessing," and these pamphlets were distributed free of charge to the readers of the "Gazette" who submitted the necessary coupon.

Florence was a strong advocate of "guessing" in love affairs. She argued that a young man's interest became stimulated when he found himself unable to fathom the depths of his idol's nature.

Because Florence practiced what she preached, Harvey Roberts was kept constantly on the anxious seat. She never would admit definitely that she would marry him, but whenever he became convinced his case was hopeless she would be sure to lend him fresh encouragement by means of a few choice words of sentiment. He was "kept guessing."

Harvey did not realize that he was the constant subject of experiment for Arabella Anderson of the "Gazette." Indeed, he was not aware that Florence acted in that capacity on the newspaper, although of course he knew she held some position there. Yes, Harvey was experimented upon shamefully in order that the readers of the "Gazette" might profit; but from this it must not be inferred that Florence did not care for him. She really was in love with him, but felt she must follow Arabella Anderson's advice in order to keep him on the matrimonial eligible list.

"Shall I see you this evening?" he inquired. She had been particularly amiable, and he was confident she would be glad to have him call.

"I think not, Harvey. Really, I believe we should not see so much of each other for awhile. Besides, I have another engagement."

"He'.l call me up in a day or two and beg me to relent," she confidently told herself later that day, "and of course I'll yield to his pleading. It's all in the game."

Florence was ready to relent, but she didn't get the chance, for Harvey failed to fulfill her expectations. He did not telephone to her and she received no word from him through the mail. When three days had passed she began to be worried.

Then came the climax. Florence went to the theatre one evening with her mother, and there she saw Harvey with another young woman.

At first Florence was angry. What right had Harvey to pay attention to another girl after the many protestations of love he had poured into her ears? But her anger cooled and anxiety took its place. She stood ready to forgive if only Harvey would come back.

But Harvey made no effort to see Florence. He must be away on business, she decided; but she discovered he was not out of town one evening when she went to a restaurant for dinner and found him dining there with the same girl who had accompanied him to the theatre. This time Florence shed tears.

Well, it was all over. She had lost Harvey now, she was convinced. And it was her own fault; she knew it and admitted it. She wrote "Advice to the Lovelorn" with little heart now, because she was beginning to doubt the soundness of the policies she advocated.

Then one day Florence met Harvey on the street, and she stopped him.

"Why don't you ever come to see me?" she asked him.

Harvey appeared his same old self. "I'll see you tonight—if you haven't another engagement," he said.

Florence had no other engagement and Harvey called. He got right to business at the street.

"I love you, Florence, and I want you," he told her. "but I'm tired of never knowing where I am at. If I can't have you all to myself I won't have you at all."

"You mean—" she said very sweetly—and meekly.

"I mean that I am proposing to you again, for the last time. If you say yes, well and good. It will make me happy. If your answer is no I'll be unhappy, but I'll never bother you again. But if you accept me all this tact and diplomacy stuff of yours has got to stop. How about it?"

Florence was silent for a moment. When she spoke there was hint of tears in her eyes.

"It suits me, Harvey," she told him. "I'll marry you, and I'd never keep you guessing. You can depend on me all the time."

When Harvey left her that night he was far happier than he ever had been before. He whistled a gay tune as he walked home under stars gleaming in a deep blue sky. He went to his room and sat for a long time gazing at a picture of Florence and smiling. It was a smile of triumph as well as happiness.

Before retiring he opened a drawer of his dresser and brought forth a paper-covered book.

"This Arabella Anderson has the right dope," he murmured. "Only she forgot to mention that it works both ways. Maybe she didn't know it when she wrote this 'Keep Them Guessing' volume."

RED HOT JULY DAYS HARD ON THE BABY

July—the month of oppressive heat; red-hot days and sweltering nights; is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come on suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I want to be excused," said the worried-looking juryman, addressing the judge. "I owe a man a pound I borrowed, and he is leaving town today for some years I want to catch him before he gets on the train, and pay him the money."

"You are excused," returned the judge in icy tones. "I don't want anybody on the jury who can lie like that."

The Women's Page of The Examiner is for the more than ten thousand women readers of The Examiner. No rank in society is recognized above another; there is no class, or creed, or clique here.

So far as is possible the items chosen for this page are local—that is, they refer to incidents in Peterborough district . . . incidents in your life, and the life of your neighbor.

It is a neighborly page. Scores of women have passed on their favorite recipes, their little hints on caring for baby, their pet peeves and their splendid ideals in life.

It is a helpful page. Here every day you will find ideas that will help you in housework, in sewing, in dressing, in caring for your children, in cooking.

And because of these things, we say that it is YOUR page—because you are neighborly and helpful and thoughtful.

We have delightful recipes contributed by some; others have helped by telling how they overcome difficulties; we have just received a wonderful little poem for the Saturday "Little Songs of Love" column.

Won't you add your contribution?

Raybestos Strengthen Hold On First Place In E. P. L.

WINNERS PLAY ERRORLESS BALL TO WIN BY 2-1

Good Pitching and Remarkable Fly-Chasing Features of Close Contest.

OUTHIT COGS 7-4.

Corbett and Crary Do Good Work in Deep Outfield.

Good pitching and remarkable fly-chasing, marked a neck-and-neck battle between Raybestos and Cognawagas last evening, the Rays getting the decision by 2 to 1, giving them a firmer hold on first place, and increasing the interest in the struggle for second position and a berth in the playoffs. The winners played errorless ball and outhit the Cogs by 7 to 4.

Corbett travelled far afield to bag two foul flies, and Crary went back deep to take two flies, going down with the ball on each occasion. Three of the Cogs' four safeties were doubles and Centrefielder Moore of the Rays slammed out a triple. The Cogs slipped on a nice opening in the fourth when Cripps, who led off with a hit was caught away from the bag. Billingsley drew a walk and Grose hit for two bases, the net result being only one run.

The contest produced a nice pitching duel between Vannest and Masterson, the latter finishing strong when the Cogs put a runner on with one gone. Crary got to second with Rooke pinch-hitting for Baker, but the batter hit a pair of fouls and missed the third strike. Vannest, with a double to his credit, sent out a long fly to Nicholls to end the game.

Raybestos put a runner on in the first, when Wilson mussed up Scully's grounder, but nothing developed. The Cogs went out in a row.

The second saw Moore hit for three bases with two gone. He slid into the bag to escape the throw-in and just made it. Vannest fanned O. Nicholls to stop a run.

Delahaye drew a pass for the only runner to get the bag for the Cogs, Masterson fanning two in this frame.

Errors by Wilson and Crary on ground balls put two on for the Rays in the third with one out. Scully popped to Crary, who went over towards first to get the ball, and when Hillier on second dashed for third, he was doubled.

Vannest collected a double for the Cogs, only to be left stranded.

Rays scored in the fourth. Barry hit to right, where Grose played the ball slowly, Barry taking an extra base. He went to third on a passed ball and scored on Corrin's sacrifice fly, which Crary went after and caught as he fell.

For Cogs, Cripps bounced a hit off H. Nicholls, only to be caught off first on a peg from the catcher. Billingsley was passed and he stole second, to score on Grose's double.

In the fifth, O. Nicholls crossed the opposition by hitting cleanly across second. Hillier also singled in the same direction. H. Nicholls flied out to Cripps. Scully slammed one between first and second to send O. Nicholls home.

Cogs failed to get going in their half, passing out in order.

Rogers got a single into left in the sixth, but it only meant a rest, and Cogs fared no better. Cripps doubled only to be caught when Billingsley tapped to the pitcher, who threw to Scully for the putout on Cripps.

Masterson opened the seventh for Raybestos by popping to Crary. Hillier hit into middle and was forced at second by H. Nicholls, Scully was thrown out by Wilson.

Hillier threw out Delahaye in the Cogs' last effort, and Crary walked. He got to second and with Rooke at bat for Baker, there was a chance to tie the count. Rooke slammed a hot one down first, but the ball was foul. He tipped another, and missed the third strike. Vannest hit the ball hard and long into left, where Nicholls, playing deep, got the range and stood still to make the catch.

Toronto Rowing Club Chosen to Represent Canada at Olympics

A SCULLER WELL WORTH WATCHING

Jack Guest began his rowing career about five years ago with the Don Rowing Club. He rowed a heavy four and in a junior eight. Neith crew won at the Henley, and next season he migrated to Argos and rowed seven in a junior eight. This crew also took a nose-dive and was beaten. A year ago last summer he began sculling, after winning the club's novice singles two years before. He had at this time practically decided to give up rowing in a crew, but ended by pulling seven in a heavy eight-carded crew when they graduated into senior ranks at the Middle States regatta at Philadelphia a year ago last fall.

All along young Guest and his father were staunch supporters of the double blue. Feeling that he would do well in a single, it was decided that he should have a go at it.

Early the following spring a new shell was ordered. A few days after he got it Guest's boat crumpled up in the middle. That was around the 6th or 7th of March and Jack had a ducking that would have made George Young take a flying leap for the hot showers.

He has a wonderfult future ashe has a long stroke with plenty of power behind the blades. His boat runs very smoothly between strokes. His slidework is smooth and even and there is no jolting or rustling between strokes. Just at this time, however, the bad news came along that his new boat would not be finished in time for the Canadian Henley last fall.

However, a clubmate, Ted Wright, a junior sculler, unable to take part in the Henley, offered Guest his shell for the summer campaign. It was accepted. Before Guest and Wright left for the Royal Henley critics claim that Jack was probably one of the best prospects seen in a long time.

His style is similar to that of "Young Joe's" although not so fast. At recent tests on the "Royal Henley" course he was about four lengths behind Joe on the mile.

WIN FROM WINNIPEG IN FINAL TESTS

Argonaut Crew Won By More Than Length in Eight-Oar Event.

NOT SEND 4-OARED CREW.

Committee Decided Against Both Argos and Winnipeg Crews.

ROYAL HENLEY COURSE, St. Catharines, July 7 (Canadian Press).—The Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto qualified to represent Canada in the eight oared event at the Olympic Games by defeating the Winning Rowing club eight in the final of the Olympic trials, late yesterday.

The Toronto crew won by more than a length in six minutes, 38 seconds. It was an even race from the start to the first mile mark. The westerners entered the last 400 yards with a lead of three-quarters of a length. Argonaut spurted and after thirty strokes were again up to the Winnipeggers, and finally swept in front near the finish.

Will Not Send 4-Oared Crew

POINT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 7.—The Olympic rowing committee yesterday decided not to send a four-oared crew to represent Canada in the Olympic games.

Thursday the Argonauts senior four with coxswain, and the crack Winnipeg crew without coxswain, both crossed the line winners.

P. J. Mulqueen, honorary president of the C.A.A.O., yesterday announced at a meeting of the Olympic committee at which Col. Bovey, President Smith, Harvey Pulford, C. S. Riley and T. Louden, of Toronto, were present, discussion took place as to the calibre of two types of fours. It was resolved that neither the fours with cox nor the fours without had shown sufficient class to justify the committee in choosing them to justify the committee in choosing them to represent Canada at the Olympic games."

It was also resolved that the Argonaut and Winnipeg eights had shown sufficient high calibre to warrant sending them to Europe. Col. Bovey stated following the meeting that all the crews had been so excellent that if it had been decided to send any crew the Argos would have rowed over again.

Some surprise was expressed here, as the Winnipeg crew was considered fast and smooth by experts. The Argo boat was also powerful.

Socks Seibold Wins Thirteenth Game of Season For Reading.

ORIOLES LOSE OPENER.

ROCHESTER, July 7 (Canadian Press).—Socks Seibold won his thirteenth game of the season for Reading here yesterday afternoon, pitching the Keystones to a 6 to 4 victory over the Rochester Red Wings in eleven innings. Rochester tied the count with a three-run rally in the ninth inning when Seibold was touched freely, but the veteran checked the Red Wings in the next two frames.

Reading scored the winning counters on a pass to Hawks, Leggett's sacrifice and successive hits by Walsh and Scott.

Following the league game the Red Wings hooked up with the Philadelphia Nationals in an exhibition game, the Phils winning 6 to 0.

Orioles Lose.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 7 (Canadian Press).—An error by Andy Anderson sent the Baltimore Orioles to defeat in the opening game of the series with the Bisons here yesterday by a score of two to one. With two out and a man on second in the seventh inning, Al. Moore hit a grounder to Anderson, who allowed the ball to roll to left field, Mangum scoring the winning run and Moore taking two bases. Mangum was entitled to victory, as he easily outpitched Bolen, a former Bison. Mangum allowed only four hits, while Bolen was tapped for nine.

MARMORA WINS OPENING GAME

Defeat Madoc 18-10 in Trent Valley League Fixture.

MARMORA, July 7 (Examiner Correspondence). — Marmora Girls' softball team played its opening fixture in the Trent Valley League on Thursday evening on the local diamond, defeating Madoc, the visitors, by 18 to 10

Madoc girls apparently felt the absence of their main pitcher, Eva Rupert and their play at times developed a raggedness which could only be considered as transient. On the other hand, the home team showed that under Manager Tom Cousins one and all have benefitted from the continual practices and will prove stiff opposition for the other teams in the league. Failing to respond in the first to a solitary run obtained by Madoc, the local girls opened out in the second, a two bagger by Jean Thompson yielding two runs. In the third, Madoc batted well, a triple by A. McMillan being one of the best features of the whole game. Going out to field in that innings, Madoc began to loosen and errors plus hits realised half a dozen runs for Marmora. The same score was similarly repeated in the fourth after Madoc had added one more to their total. The fifth saw the homesters well holding their advantage and scoring their final four.

In the sixth, Madoc rallied and got a single run. M. Leonard made a beautiful catch in this innings. In the final innings, Madoc reduced Marmora's lead by crossing the plate three times.

Jean Thompson pitched extremely well for the winners; whose next game will be at Stirling on the 12th of July.

GIANTS RETAIN EARLY LEAD

Poor Fielding By Pittsburgh Aids New Yorkers Win 11-7.

CUBS WIN 14-8.

NEW YORK, July 7. (Canadian Press).—Jumping off to a start of seven runs in the first, the New York Giants retained their advantage to the finish in the first game of the series at Pittsburgh yesterday, defeating the Pirates 11 to 7. Poor fielding and the loose pitching by Russell and Miljus gave the Giants their big margin in the first. Dawson then entered the box and did fairly well over the rest of the route.

Joe Genewich started for the Giants but was unable to hold the Pirates well enough in check to suit John McGraw, who was yanked in favor of Jim Faulkner with none out in the fourth. The Pirates had a total of three runs at the time and got no more until the ninth when they put on a rally for four.

The Cubs routed Jess Petty with an avalanche of base hits in the third inning, and hammered his successors, Moss and Koupal, with sufficient vigor to win from Brooklyn, 14 to 8, at Chicago in the series opener. Chicago made twenty hits, including Hack Wilson's twentieth and twenty-first home runs, delivered in successive times at bat against Petty in the second and third.

Hack's blows gave the Cubs three of their first four runs, and sent him three home runs ahead of Jim Bottomley of St. Louis for the National League lead and second place in the two major leagues. Carey and Herman hit homers for Brooklyn. Percy Lee Jones was hit hard, but held the Robins well in hand until he had a large lead.

Other clubs did not play.

White Sox Win.

NEW YORK, July 7 (Canadian Press).—Despite a four-run rally in the ninth by Washington, the Chicago White Sox yesterday gained a 9 to 8 victory over the Senators in their series opened at Washington. Both clubs used three pitchers.

Other games were rained out.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since my last the Petes has win themselves 2 ball games and handed 1 away, but on the whole they're a mile ahead of where they was 2 weeks ago. They was nothing wrong with the gang Dominion Day. They got good pitching from Mister Hardill and Mister Heckman, and while they wobbled a bit in the field, they stuck in enough timely hitting to sock Belleville on the chin in the morning and leave Deloro hanging on the ropes in the p.m. affair. 2 wins in 1 day was a mighty sweet showing, and naturally the boys couldn't stand prosperity, so Wed. they jumped down to Joe Daley's town and made a presentation of a game to the Ponies, which, seeing the Ponies took 2 on the chin Monday, was gratefully received.

The boys is always bad down in that town—apology for a ball ground—and Wed. they performed up to their usual standard, with the result that a swell pitching performance by this young Mister Lefty Macdonald was thrown away. Mister Macdonald is referred to as Lefty, it oughta be explained, because he throws that way. Anyway, he handcuffed Kingston's leading hitters in great style, and if his defence hadn't of collapsed behind him, Mister Macdonald's 1st start woulda been a easy win. That famous slugger, Mister Geo. Ads, couldn't do nothing against him, and if Mister Ada's waist-line ever starts to shrink as rapid as his batting average did the other evening, his tailor will have to step on the gas to keep his trousers fitting him.

By the way, hitting .300 oughta be a pipe for the Kingston players if the scoring is as lenient as it was in this game. The official scorer give Mister Cherry and Mister Buck hits on the softest kind of errors, and it took a lot of charity to give Mister Cherry a home run on that smash that got away from our Mister Jake Hall. At the most it was a triple, and a good throw-in woulda nipped him at the plate. Batting averages oughta flourish under that kind of scoring—but what's the use? They don't mean nothing if a bird is to be given a hit every time he gets on base. And the worst of it is, the same kinda of leniency wasn't extended to the visitors, the reverse English being applied to what they done.

This Central Ontario League race, Mac, would make a guy looney trying to dope it out. Here's the Petes, can knock off Belleville 3 times in a row and can't take a fall outa Kingston in 3 shots. A licking don't, however, mean much in this crasy scramble, seeing everybody's getting their share of them and the whole gang is in a heap. The Petes still look to have as good a chance as anybody with this smart young pitcher, Mister Macdonald added to the pitching staff. They got the best gunners in the loop, and while the team needs strengthening in several positions and is not well balanced, neither is any of the others, and they ain't got the pitching the Petes has. If the home gang can plug up the defensive holes the hurlers should carry them through to the top. Even as it is, the good heaving the home talent has had in the last 4 games has give them 3 wins and should of win the 4th.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

HERE IS ENGINEERING that really means something to the Automobile Owner

THERE'S a deal of talk these days about the engineering back of this or that car. Most of it covers a multitude of sins or the lack of something definite to talk about in the cars themselves.

Even in the face of this situation, we want to tell you what Reo engineering means to the buyer of a Reo Flying Cloud. Because Reo engineering can be measured by Reo owners in terms of dollars and cents, of performance and comfort.

Here, precisely, are some of the facts about Reo engineering.

1. Reo engineers have the same experimental facilities that are available in any laboratory. This means that Reo engineers test carefully and select materials and parts that they know have the strength and the durability necessary to uphold the Reo reputation for long life.

2. Reo engineers will not content themselves with the road tests possible in a limited testing area. Before the first Flying Cloud ever started down the production lines, Flying Cloud engines, Flying Cloud brakes, Flying Cloud clutches, transmissions, steering gears, axles—every integral part—had been subjected to hundreds of thousands of miles of terrific punishment on the highways of the Middle West, through the sands of the deserts, over the rocky trails of the Sierras, through the muds of Louisiana bottom lands.

3. Reo engineers are admitted leaders in their field. There may be—probably are—others of equal skill and foresight. But Reo engineers are unique in their freedom to develop their ideas and put into effect their plans. For Reo engineers are unrestricted by a financial policy, built of necessity around a huge indebtedness; Reo engineers are unhampered by the production problems imposed inevitably by a large, immobile plant; and Reo engineers are supported by a capable production personnel whose loyalty to Reo is reflected by the lowest rate of labor turn-over in the industry.

4. Because of these conditions, Reo engineers are free to take advantage of new developments quickly, free to pass these along to Reo buyers more promptly, free to direct the production of automobiles which embody engineering ideals rather than production requirements.

These facts about Reo engineering will take on additional significance the moment you compare Reo Flying Cloud performance, comfort, ease and construction with any other car. There's one near you—try it for yourself.

SPLIT PROMISES BETTER CONTESTS

Marathon Divided Into 10 and 15 Mile Events Attract Widespread Entry.

TORONTO, July 7.—(Canadian Press).—Competition for the world's long distance professional swimming championship in the races to be staged here Aug. 29 and Sept. 5, by the Canadian National Exhibition will be even more keen than it was last year, judging by the number of inquiries and entries received by swim officials.

Last year, 299 swimmers took to the water for the 21-mile grind in which Ernst Vierkotter, of Germany, crawled his way to the championship. Thirty-two countries were represented in the entries.

Entries for this year's races began to come in this month but inquiries have been received from all parts of the world since last September. These indicate an imposing line-up of aquatic stars and a battle for supremacy which will be even more of an international affair than the previous one.

Like the 1927 event, the third Wrigley Marathon will be entirely under the direction of the Canadian National Exhibition, with Elwood Hughes, its director of publicity, in charge of arrangements. The distance has been changed and the race split into two sections to be staged a week apart. Purses for the two events will total $50,000.

Women swimmers will compete in a 10-mile event in Lake Ontario off the Exhibition seawall on Wednesday, August 29. A week later all the men entered will race in the second event over a 15-mile course at the same spot. The five leading women in the previous race will also have the opportunity of going after the world's championship in the open contest, but no other women will be accepted.

The size of the purse—$25,000 to the winner of the championship and an equal amount to be split up among the other leaders in the two contests—has attracted widespread attention and inquiries have been received from numerous countries.

Australian swimmers have decided to make a strong bid for the honors and a number of outstanding swimmers from the Antipodes are expected to reach Canada in time to put in several weeks of training.

Although Ernst Vierkotter's entry has not yet been received, swim officials feel confident that eventually he will enter. It is pointed out that nowhere else will Vierkotter find a swim which offers so great financial inducement and in addition it is though he would wish to defend his title.

Chief interest among the early entries is centred in a powerful quartet of United States women stars who were among the first to announce their intention of taking part. Millie Gade Carson who conquered the English Channel immediately after Gertrude Ederle, is a certain starter in the 10-mile race. Ethelda Bleibtrey, of New York, who was the Olympic swimming sensation of 1920, is another of this quartet.

With her is Ethel Hertle, blonde New Yorker, who was the fastest among the women in last year's swim. She stayed right with the leaders for 14 miles of the 20 miles and was awarded a prize of $3,000 for her game showing. The fourth of the group is Mrs. Lucy Diamond who was the best of the women in the 1927 Lake George swim. She was placed second to the winner of the race, Edward Keating, who was the only one to finish the course.

Before the entry list had been opened 48 hours, a score of competitors had filed their official forms and more than 100 swimmers have already informed race officials that they have started training.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Harrison's North Enders and De Laval will open the week's schedule in the city softball league on Monday night.

On account of the fact that some of the players on the K. of C. line-up did not show up at the Park last night the game was defaulted to the Lockworks.

* * * * * *

The Canucks piled up an early lead yesterday to win from Graftons by an 8-3 score in a bantam group fixture. Both teams were short of players at the start but after the fourth inning a snappy form of ball was displayed, the winner showing the best work in the infield.

* * * * * *

Hynes showed up well on the mound for the Canucks and was given good support by his teammates while Stanger for the losers was wild at times allowing the south end crew seven free passes.

* * * * * *

The Raybestos strengthened their lead in first place of the city section of the E.P.L. last night by defeating the Cogs 2-1 in a close contest featured by good pitching and remarkable fly-chasing.

* * * * * *

The winners have won five, lost one and tied one to hold down a percentage of .833 while the Cognawagas are in second place with three games to their credit, three lost, one tied and a percentage of .500.

* * * * * *

The Rays played errorless ball and outhit the Cogs 7 to 4. Long distance hits were the feature of the game with Corbett and Crary doing some good work in the outfield for the visitors.

The Cogs are due for a tangle with Bethany at the latter's home field on Tuesday while the Crescents who hold down third place will mix it with the Raybestos here on Friday.

* * * * * *

On account of the Chautauqua tent taking up the playing space in Confederation Park some changes have been made in next week's city softball league schedule.

DeLaval and North-Enders meet next Monday night in the first game of the softball league in what promises to be a tight contest. Neither of these teams have lost a game this season, three victories apiece being chalked up to their credit.

* * * * * *

Lockworks and C.G.E. will play on Tuesday night in Confederation Park while the K. of C. and Teco are slated for a clase on Friday at King Edward park, the game to be called at the usual time.

URBAN SHOCKER IS RELEASED

Yankees' Pitcher Fails To Get in Condition For Season.

UNCONDITIONAL.

NEW YORK, July 7 (Canadian Press).—Urban Shocker, one of the last of the spitball pitchers left in major league baseball, yesterday was unconditionally released by the New York Yankees. Late in reporting and not in the best of shape, Shocker agreed with Manager Huggins that he could not reach effective form this year.

Huggins was willing, it was understood, to place Shocker on voluntary retired list, but he asked for his unconditional release to which he was entitled as a ten year man in major leagues.

CANUCKS WIN FROM GRAFTONS

Take 8-3 Decision in Bantam Fixture of City League.

GOOD FIELDING.

The Canuck Bantams defeated Grafton 8-3 by piling up five runs in the seventh frame to break the tie which existed for one inning.

Both teams were short players at the start and after much delay the game was started. Graftons got a run in the first on errors, and the Canucks also secured one in the same manner in the fourth.

The Canucks showed snappy infield work and gave Hynes good support. They hit more consistently than their opponents and were leading until the sixth when Routly got a homer and Stanger's double scored Widdess. That made the score 3-3, but in the seventh the Canucks got three hits and two walks to score five runs. Leasure hit a homer in the seventh and Masters came in on errors. Stanger was wild at times, the Canucks touching him for seven free passes. Summary:

GLORIAN SWANSON IN "SADIE THOMPSON" BASED ON MAUGHAM CLASSIC, COMING TO THE CAPITOL, MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Gloria Swanson's second independent production, "Sadie Thompson", will be the feature film at the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Raoul Walsh, director of "What Price Glory?", made the film, also collaborating with Miss Swanson on the scenario, and acting the role of Sergeant O'Hara. W. Somerset Maugham's classic story, "Miss Atkinson," is the original source on which the film, "Sadie Thompson" is based.

Lionel Barrymore appears in the film as Alfred Atkinson, a self-appointed and officious reformer. Dr. and Mrs. McPhail are played, respectively by Charles Lane and Florence Midgley. James Marcus, Will Stanton and Sophia Artega are also in the cast.

"Sadie Thompson" is the narrative of an intolerant individual's insistent projection of his dominant personality into the pitifully weak and feminine existence of an outcast girl who is trying to "live and let live." Maugham's classic is a drama of tolerance, a colorful romantic, throbbing story of human souls in conflict. Greatest of all Maugham's literary creations is "Miss Thompson" the gaudily dressed lady who flaunt s a parasol and tilts a high-hat feather at a Marine as readily as she flares into stinging resentment at self-appointed intruders into lives of others. Gloria Swanson has said that she likes "Sadie Thompson" better than any other one of her screen characterizations; that she was happiest in acting the part. Hence, film-goers who attend the Capitol Theatre will be seeing on the screen Gloria Swanson's favorite screen character and W. Somerset Maugham's greatest literary character.

Humor, wistful and sardonic; anger, sudden and bitter; soul-love, sacred and profane; these are the essence of Gloria Swanson's film, "Sadie Thompson", just as they were the soul and body of Maugham's classic story.

AT THE REGENT.

AND MIX' HORSE WINS DURING FILMING OF "THE CIRCUS ACE."

Tom Mix found a new diversion for Tony, his famous horse while making scenes for "The Circus Ace," Fox Films latest drama starring Mix. "Mr. Sydney Springer," a kangaroo recently brought from Australia by Harry Abdy, an English showman and actor, is featured in this drama as part of the circus menageries and pet of the chief buncoman.

Tony is of one the most famous "cow" horses in the West and among his favorite diversions is running down goats while Tom lasses them, a difficult sport, because the goat is so small that the horse has trouble in following it. Tom sent Tony after the kangaroo. It was a new sport for the horse, but after the first attempt he had no difficulty in rounding up the leaping native of Australia and giving Tom a good opportunity to rope the animal.

It was Mix's first turn at the sport but in spite of the fact that the kangaroo was in the air half the time, Tom roped him half a dozen times in succession and then declared that the first time work would permit it, he intended to go to Australia and rope the 'roos on their own soil.

"The Circus Ace" is now playing at the Regent.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE ALWAYS GLAD TO SEE ANYONE FROM OUR HOMETOWN

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Did you ever see anyone from your home town in a distant place? Then you know something about that grand and glorious feeling.

We become very much attached to the place of birth or residence. It is a common practice to refer to a man as hailing from such and such a place, Mr. Jones of Detroit, Mr. Brown of Albany, etc. The man is identified with the place in which he lives and consequently with the people who live there.

You are glad to meet someone from the home town because you are both in on a secret. You have something in common. You share a mutual interest. This attracts you to each other just as the secret grip and rigmarole of a lodge or any fraternal organization creates a fellow feeling among the members.

Homesickness doubtless plays a part in one's delight at meeting someone from the home town. It is as though a part of the town came to you. Fresh memories are aroused by the person from back home. Hence the degree of warmth that you feel on such an occasion is somewhat dependent upon the degree of homesickness.

We think more of the home town when we are away from it. The tendency is to forget the unpleasant things and recall only the pleasant association connected with the old town. We have to get away from a place to appreciate it.

The man from home arouses a sense of familiarity that is pleasing. While among strangers you do not feel at home. Things are so strange and different. There is an unconscious tension. Meeting a familiar face releases the tension, you feel at home and you experience a sense of security that is more than welcome. No matter what your associations back home with the man you greet in a strange place you know you can bank on his friendship. The "we feeling" shared with a townsman is the same stuff of which patriotism and loyalty to country are made. The effect is identical.

LYRICS OF LIFE

OUTGROWN

The clothes of childhood, I suppose.
Are things that every child outgrows.
We lay them lovingly away.
The rompers of a younger day.
The little collar edged with lace
That once made sweet a boyish face,
The little dresses daughters wore
That larger daughters need no more—
We fold them with a tender hand.
And children just can't understand
Why mothers sigh a little, too,
The way that mothers always do.

Yes, time its changes always brings,
And now we turn to other things.
The clothes are put away upstairs,
But not a mother's hopes and pray'rs.
The dresses I shall not regret
If children come to Mother yet;
I pray to heaven they shall find
A mother's understanding mind.
Time moves, and I must move as fast,
Not linger in some lovely past.
Not dwell apart, and live alone,
A mother by her child outgrown.

A HOME FROM HOME

What is a bungalow camp? It is indeed very easy to sum up. A home from home. It is not a tent-like encampment as we often imagine it to be, indeed no cheerier atmosphere could be found than amidst one of these rustic yet luxurious camps, filled with life, brimming over with a determination to get the best out of the surroundings, and indeed, life itself. Let us consider the French River Camp, situated in the heart of the rugged and beautiful country such as the province of Ontario possesses. Here is an ideal vacation for the canoeist, fisherman, golfer, the tennis enthusiast, and above all there is the privacy of a house of your own to sleep in. Again, there is a Devil's Gap Bungalow camp, amid equally delightful surroundings, a few miles from Kenora. All kinds of aquatic sports are available, including excellent fishing. Mention must also be made of Nipigon River camp, which lies deep in the north woods.

GREAT FIELD IN OPEN GOLF MEET

British, Canadian and U. S. Champions Will Probably Compete at Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., July 7.—(Canadian Press).—Golf in Canada reaches its greatest height on July 26-28 at the Rosedale golf club here, when the Canadian open title will be contested by one of the finest fields that ever struggled for the coveted honor. Preparations are being made to handle the largest galleries in the history of the sport in Canada and the course itself has been put in fine shape. Par is 72, 36 each way, and the length of the course is 6,764 yards.

Tommy Armour, former United States open champion, will be here to defend the Canadian Open title. Walter Hagen, British Open champion, Johnny Farrell, new United States Open king, Gene Sarazen, second to Hagen in the British championship and Macdonald Smith, former United States Open titleholder, will probably be among the invaders to oppose the best of the Canadian golfers.

Hagen—"The Haig"—has won every open title in the world except the Canadian title and he is determined to annex the Canadian title before long. He has made repeated attempts since as far back as 1912, when he first started on his great golfing career. Farrell and Sarazen have likewise failed so far in repeated efforts to win the Canadian title.

Armour last year won the title by finishing just one stroke ahead of Macdonald Smith. He thus kept the Canadian Open title still in the hands of the United States, whose golfers have won it continually since Karl Keffer, Ottawa, won it in 1914. The last Canadian to even achieve runners-up's position was Charles Murray, Montreal, in 1920 second to J. D. Edgar of Atlanta.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

The creeds of the various religious organizations of Christendom differ somewhat on minor points, but the said organizations (with few exceptions) endorse current erroneous doctrine.

The reason why those erroneous doctrines are preached, may be through honest ignorance, monetary considerations, popularity, or some reason unknown.

It is strange that the rank and file accept error, without any questioning, whereas a little honest investigation would give them to see the error and absurdity of dogmas, that they have been taught to accept as the truth of God.

The bigot who holds tenaciously to error does not appear to desire to know the truth.

The honest doubter of error welcomes truth and gladly accepts it.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday afternoon, July 3, in First United church, Hamilton, when Dolly Evalien, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John English, of Hamilton, and Elmir Gilkinson Brown, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Percy Brown, of Peterborough, were married by Rev. Dr. J. E. Hughson. The bride presented a charming picture, escorted by her father. The wedding march was played by Mr. Charles McIlroy.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of orchid georgette, period style, trimmed with gold lace, with picture hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Miss Claire English, becomingly gowned in pink taffeta with sand hat. Mr. Cecil P. Brown, brother of the groom was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the happy couple left for a motor trip to Montreal, Quebec, and points east. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

WILBY—DOUGHTY

An interesting wedding which united two members of far apart sections of the British Commonwealth of Nations took place at St. John's church at half past eleven oclock this morning, when Florence Daphne Doughty of Melbourne, Australia, was united in the hold bonds of matrimony to Alan George Wilby of this city, formerly of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. D. Paterson. Witnesses to the signing of the register were Mrs. F. M. Craig and Mrs. Carl L. Criddle.

The bride wore a lovely gown of light rose georgette, with large hat and fox fur neckpiece.

Mr. Wilby and his bride left for a honeymoon at Stoney Lake, to live in Peterborough on their return.

McINTOSH—PETRIE

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at one o'clock on Saturday, June 30th at Cedar Hedge Farm, Otonabee, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Petrie, when their eldest daughter, Pearl Helene, became the bride of Stanley Gordon McIntosh of North Monaghan. Rev. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride, who entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by her sister, Miss Mae Petrie, looked charming in a floral French chiffon gown and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

The bride received many pretty and useful gifts including a cheque for one thousand dollars from the bride's father and substantial cheques from her brothers and sisters.

IN MEMORIAM.

REYNOLDS—In loving memory of Mother, Mrs. Frank Reynolds, who died July 7, 1923.

God knew that you were suffering,
He knew that you were in pain;
He knew that you would not get better
In this world again.

God saw the road was getting rough
And the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."

—Ever remembered by Mrs. George Conboy.

IN MEMORIAM

McGHEE—In sad and loving memory of our dear Mother, Ella Jane McGhee, who departed this life three years ago to-day, July 7th, 1925.

Many a thought of sweet remembrance,
Many a memory, fond and true,
Many a tear in silence falling,
Many a longing, Mother, just for you.

—Sadly missed by her loving sons and daughters.

IN MEMORIAM.

McGHEE. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Ella McGhee, who passed away July 7th, 1925.

Those who loved you sadly miss you
As it dawns another year;
In the lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever dear.

Sweet is the word remembrance,
As these few lines will show,
You will always be remembered
In the days that come and go.

Graves of Late Comrades and Brethren Decorated

ODDFELLOWS HOLD ANNUAL DECORATION

Two Hundred and Fifty Brethren Parade to Little Lake Cemetery.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Rev. William McDonald, of Knox United Church, Was Special Speaker.

The graves of two hundred and ten late members of Peterborough Oddfellowship were beautifully decorated on Sunday afternoon when, despite the terrific heat, some two hundred and fifty of their living brethren made their annual pilgrimage to Little Lake cemetery and there concluded a beautiful memorial service. They were led by the Peterborough Salvation Army Temple band whose part in the service was a well rendered one. The decoration of the graves was carried out by the leaders and chaplains of the seven sections whose names follow below while brief addresses of fitting nature added to the impressive event.

No better indication of loyalty could have been given than the spectacle of so large a number of the brethren forming in line on George street, marshalled by Brother R. J. Martin, P.G., P.D.D.G.M. Their route to the cemetery was taken by hundreds of city folk, who also gathered at the "City of the Dead."

The Service

In Little Lake Cemetery, Bro. R. H. Ford, P.G., P.D.D.G.M., presided as chairman and following his introductory remarks on the nature of the service the band led the singing of the ever-beautiful "Nearer My God to Thee." There followed brief words by the Noble Grand, Brother R. R. Ford, P. G., P.D.D.G.M. and prayer by the chaplain, Brother J. Price, P.G., while the remaining musical parts of the service consisted of a selection by the Salvation Army Temple Band and the hymn "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

The Rev. William McDonald

Mr. McDonald in his opening remarks spoke of the great pleasure it was for him, an outsider to the Order, to be asked to speak on such a noteworthy occasion. He said that such a parade as yesterday's carried him back to the days when he was young, and witnessed one similar in his home town. The speaker spoke of the tie that binds the Oddfellows together not only in life, but in death, and Decoration Day is one of the ways in which this tie binds the living with the dead.

He then referred to the burial custom of the Indians and contrasted it with the way the dead of today are committed to mother earth.

"We in Peterborough are to be congratulated on having such a beautiful cemetery and we should always hold precious the memories of those who had forethought enough to procure this land. Here we can in a most fitting manner do honor to our loved ones who have gone into the great beyond."

Looking at the box of flowers in front of him, he concluded, by saying that the red stands for sacrifice, the blue for loyalty and the white for purity.

The Decoration day services were concluded by the placing of flowers upon the graves and the success was due in a large part to the decoration committee and to the section leaders and Chaplains whose names appear as follows:

"Red" Leader Is Assassinated

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 9 (Canadian Press).—General Protogherov, chief of the Macedonian revolutionary organization, was killed on a busy street here Saturday night. He was shot down by three men who escaped in the confusion. Officals are maintaining the greatest secrecy over the affair.

The General has been out of the public eye for some time, but has been active behind the scenes on the Balkan stage. He was minister of provisions in the Bulgarian cabinet in war time, but took up the Macedonian revolution cause later, and in February, 1927, presided over an assembly of the revolutionists.

It is thought that his death may have been an indirect result of a recent fiasco when assembled revolutionists could not agree on plans and a bloody fight resulted.

SAMUEL CLARK PASSES AWAY

Former Dean of Ontario Legislature, Representing Northumberland, Dies

SERVED THE PUBLIC.

PORT HOPE, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Sam Clark, former Dean of the Ontario Legislature, died at his home in Cobourg on Sunday night after a brief illness. He had been in ill-health for several years, and withdrew from politics in 1926.

During his long period as a member of the Legislature, Mr. Clark made hosts of friends. An uncompromising Liberal, he was never defeated in election, and beside being a member of the Legislature, he was four times elected Mayor of Cobourg. He was first elected to the Legislature for West Northumberland in 1898, and held the seat until 1926. He was born in Hampton, Ontario, July 29, 1853, the son of Thomas and Maria Clark.

Mr. Clark was a town councillor nine years and a member of the board of commissioners, town trust, five years. After his first election to the Legislature in 1898, he was returned in 1902, 1905, 1908, 1911, 1914, 1919 and 1923.

The exact time for the changes to take effect has not been determined, but neither will leave Japan until next Autumn.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—United States customs and immigration border patrol men made two seizures of liquor and ale on the upper river early today, arrested six men and confiscated two motor boats, a row boat and two automobiles. The liquor and ale seized was thrown from the lower arch bridge into the river. A few hours later a freight car, loaded with 100 barrels of whiskey was seized in Erie yards.

LEGIONAIRES PAY TRIBUTE TO DECEASED

Members of Peterborough Branch of Canadian Legion Decorate Graves of Comrades.

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY.

Short Services Are Held at Cenotaph, Confederation Square and Veterans' Plot.

A gratifying representation of the various military units in the City of Peterborough featured the annual parade and decoration services which took place to, and in Little Lake Cemetery on Sunday afternoon. The heat of the day seemed to matter not for the parade, augmented by the following-in of a lengthy line of Oddfellows, bent on a like mission, stretched for many blocks down George street, while the 57th Band at the head, and the Salvation Army Temple Band leading the lodgemen added greatly to an already impressive spectacle.

Pleaced Wreaths.

Falling in near the cenotaph on Murray street, the veterans, through Captain Abraham, did honor to their fallen comrades overseas by the placing of a beautiful wreath at the foot of the cenotaph. The Dominion, and also branch chaplain, the Rev. Father Paul Costello, spoke briefly on this occasion, after which the lowering and raising of the Union Jack, accompanied by The Last Post and the Reveille, took place.

On Confederation Square, a wreath was placed at the base of the monument to Captain Brown, killed at Batouche during the Riel Rebellion, after which the parade proper started for Little Lake cemetery.

The Service

On the veterans' plot, in the cemetery, seemingly more beautiful on this occasion, the veterans formed, while their Captain, James Abraham, who is president of the Peterbrouogh branch of the Legion, spoke in brief yet fitting terms of the significance of the gathering. "We have formed our lines here, year after year, to honor our fallen comrades who were not left behind on the fields of France and Flanders or other European theatres of war, but who came back, broken in health, until called to the Far Beyond by our Supreme Commander," said he. "Thus, those men made the supreme sacrifice. I want all the relatives of these comrades who have gone before to know that our sympathy goes out to you in your hour of service. Yearly, our roll call grows more lengthy, and our original ranks are depleted. This occasion is one on which we are proud to honor those who have gone before."

Storm Interferes

During the early stages of the service, a storm had been gathering and with a view to completing the decoration of the various graves, as well as owing to the extreme heat, other speakers courteously withheld their addresses, while the Rev. Father Paul Costello spoke, representative of all. His Worship Mayor Denne, His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke, A. E. Peck, M.P., and other noted citizens were to have spoken during the afternoon.

Graves Decorated.

Following the addresses of Captain Abraham and Father Costello, and the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," there sounded out the lonely strains of "The Lost Post," followed by the more challenging Reveille. The graves, more than one hundred in number, were visited and upon each was placed flowers and a small Union Jack. Lines were reformed and the singing of the National Anthem closed the service—the veterans had paid their tribute and marching off the plot, to a point outside the cemetery, they dismissed.

TRANSPORT VESSEL CRASHED ON ROCKS OFF CHILE COAST

Three Hundred Passengers Are Drowned and Captain Ends His Life On Bridge.

ONLY FOUR SURVIVORS.

Boats Capsize When Launched in Raging Sea—Rudder Breaks.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 9 (Associated Press).—Upward of 300 lives were lost when the army transport Angamos crashed on the rocks at Punta Chinpel, near the South Chilean coast town of Lebu, on Friday night. The exact number may never be known, as the vessel had made several stops en route and its passenger list had changed.

Only four survivors have been found and they tell a terrible tale of a three-hour struggle for life-preservers, places in the boats, and even handholds on bits of floating wreckage which followed the crash.

The ship lost her rudder in a storm and when the commander, Ismael Suarez, found himself unable to prevent the catastrophe he committed suicide on the bridge.

Chilean naval vessels and tugs, summoned by wireless, rushed to the

R. R. Hall, K.C., Congratulates Commission On Decision To Inspect Orillia Utilities

The members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission are to be congratulated upon their decision to go to Orillia to inspect the operations of the Orillia Light and Power Commission because they will get first hand information from the Orillia Commission, which was not cajoled or humbugged into casting in their lot with the Hydro Electric Power Commission It is most important that the members of the local commission should make a close comparative examination of the statements and rates furnished by the Orillia Commission and by the Peterborough Commission

Orillia's Electric Power Assets

Our local commission will find that Orillia is the owner of 6,000 h.p. without any Hydro Electric strings attached to it. They will also find that as of the 10th of December last, Orillia's electrical department owned electric power plants worth $833,156.68 and of this amount no less a sum than $32,503.73 is invested in gilt edged securities to provide for the future retirement of liabilities against her electrical department, and the sum total of al her liabilities of her electrical department is only $276,592.03 and that during the year 1927 she reduced her liabilities on Capital Account to the extent of $20,493.40. If Orillia's progress continues as it has in the past, in less than 10 years SHE WILL OWN ELECTRIC POWER PROPERTY IN HER OWN RIGHT WORTH $1,000,000 FREE OF ALL LIABILITIES OF ALL KINDS.

Orillia's Power Rates

Our local commission will futher find that Orillia is prepared to sell 10 h.p. or over on a flat rate basis, delivered to her manufacturers at $13.00 per h.p. per annum for ten hour service and for prompt payment the manufacturer will be allowed a discount of 15% off his power bill. If the manufacturer wants to run 24 hour service a day, he will be charged only $18 per h.p. per annum on the rated capacity o fhis motor and for prompt payment will be allowed a discount of 15%. The power, and lighting rates, both domestic and commercial are in like proportions.

Orillia and Hydro Commission

Every possible effort was made by the Hydro Commission of Ontario to induce the citizens of Orillia to cast in their lot with the Hydro Commission and thus enable the Hydro Commission to make "ducks and drakes" of Orillia's birth-right. Orillia is to be congratulated upon the fact, that she did not sell her birth-right for a mess of Hydro Commission pottage. Even Esau, when he sold his birth-right for a mess of pottage got real food, but the Hydro pottage is pricipally composed of chaff with a small percentage of molasses.

Orillia and Peterborough Contrasted

According to the Hydro report for 1927 Peterborough is charged up with a liability of $1,142,189.00 upon which she paid last year $55,828 in interest alone and all the City of Peterborough got out of it was 5293 h.p. with not one red cent of provision being made to enable this City to own one fraction in the Central Ontario Power System. On the other hand Orillia will own, in less than 10 year, power property worth $1,00,000 without a cent against it.

Our Local Commission will further find that the Hydro Commission charged this City last year $28,000 for alleged losses made on the sale of power to private customers and companies. Orillia pays not one cent of money for Hydro Commission blunders.

Further Contrasts on Power Rates

Our local commission must further contrast the fact that this City pays $32.00 per h.p. per annum on a WHOLESALE BASIS, whereas Orillia delivers power to its own consumers at only $13.00 per h.p. per annum for 10 hour service and $18.00 per annum for 24 hour service. Please remember that Orillia's costs per h.p. ARE RETAIL COSTS and NOT WHOLESALE COSTS. According to last years' statements it actually cost the power and light consumers of Peterborough $96,238 to buy power IN ADDITION to paying $32.00 a h.p wholesale cost as well, which on a total consumption of 5293 h.p. is equivalent to $18.00 cost for delivering power and light in addition to the $32.00 per h.p. Hydro charge as well.

Truth vs. Humbug

Our Local Commission will further find that the statements of the Orillia Commission are candid and simple and that no effort whatever is made on Orillia's behalf to juggle the figures, whereas Hydro report shows power consumers in this city are paying one $18.97 RETAIL while the Local Commission, which sells this power, PAY $32.00 PER H.P. WHOLESALE plus $18.00 per h.p. for distribution. Reader, stop and think! IF A FAKIR DID THIS, HE WOULD BE GOALED IMMEDIATELY.

ORANGE LODGES HOLD REGULAR CHURCH PARADE

City's Orangemen Attend Divine Service at St. Paul's Church.

MINISTER SPEAKS.

Rev. William Allan Delivers a Most Eloquent Sermon to Visiting Brethren.

Between three and four hundred members of the local L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. lodges paraded through the sweltering heat last night to St. Paul's Church, where the Rev. William Allan delivered the annual church parade message. All the lodges were present in the parade with the fife and drum band leading, following the marshal and the colors; then came the members of the juvenile lodges, ladies lodges, Royal True Blues, Black Knights of Ireland Preceptory and the other Orange lodges in the city.

At the church, the centre section was almost filled to capacity with the visiting brethren. The minister for the Scripture lesson read part of the 27th chapter of Acts, and later took his text from the 41st verse of the same chapter using the words, "Where two seas met."

Mr. Allan, in dealing with these words, used them in a little different way than the context and endeavored to say something that would help those present and fire their imagination and brighten their hopes.

The used the word "seas" in a symbolic fashion, showing where in human life and history there has been the meeting of two seas and wherever there has been success to both nations and people it has always come from the seas that sought its help in God.

"At the door of human history, two seas met there was the sea that represented man which was pure and innocent meeting the world of hate and evil. Satan has always given rise to a sea of hate, hatred against God but such as never reaches God unless it goes through someone he has made. The result of the meeting of these two seas is what the Scripture calls sin. It is not a question of degree whether one man is as sinful as another, but the whole ship of humanity has been wrecked, and the best man is a sinner as deserved of hell as the most hateful creature God has made." As the best sunset does not always come after a beautiful day, so the speaker contended the greater glory came out of the salvage of the human race.

"Two seas met at the cross of Calvary. God's hatred of human sin is to be found in the life of His Son and the death which He suffered on the cross. To overcome this sea of of God's love for the sinner. The two God's hatred of human sin, is the sea are distinctly arrayed against each other but closely related, and when these two meet, God in His mercy seeks to save the sinner."

There met two seas at the grave of Jesus Christ. There was the sea of death and sorrow, but on the third day there was the sea of Eternal Life which overwhelmed the sea of death."

The speaker then told of the promise that those who are taken from earth by death shall be met again by their friends in the Eternal Home.

"The morning of Pentecost two seas met there was the cool- cold callous, organized orthodox religion of Judism and there arose another sea, that of new life seeking to express itself which turned the world upside down and headed it towards God. Then there started missionary enterprise."

More than once two seas have met in the cause of British history, declared the speaker, and he gave for examples, the time of Alfred the Great, when England was about to be over-run by Danes and Alfred, in his goodness, relied on the word of God. The speaker also gave numerous other examples in British and European history.

Martin B. Chenhall presided at the organ and M. B. Chenhall, Jr., played the 'cello. Mrs. Walter Byers, in a fine voice, sang, "Just As I Am," and the choir of male voices rendered in a very acceptable manner, "When We Stand Before the King." The anthem was, "What of The Night, O Watchman"

Around the City

Over the week-end there were two fires. On Saturday at 6.41 p.m. the Department was called to 681 Aylmer Street to extinguish a roof fire. This was put out with chemical and with only small damage. On Monday, at 9.26 a.m., at the corner of King Street and Pearl Avenue an automobile caught fire, caused by a short circuit from the battery, which gave the firemen another run. The car was not damaged.

Revolver Fired In Pocket

Frederick Horn is Victim of Peculiar Accident at Dunsford.

MAY RECOVER.

Found Lying By Roadside Where He Had Rushed For Help.

(By Staff Reporter.)

Frederick Horn, an employee of Mortimer Courtney, Dunsford Post Office, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen while cleaning a revolver about eight o'clock last night.

Mr. Courtney told The Examiner he believed he had just left the house about five minutes when the accident occurred. He and Mrs. Courtney were to spend the evening with Rankin Thurston and when they left Mr. Horn all alone he was sitting whistling on the back steps. They first learned of the accident when George Sheehy, a son of Archie Sheehy who first found the wounded man, rushed to Mr. Thurston's place to tell them that Horn had been found shot on the roadside.

When they returned they found Mr. Horn at the roadside near Mr. Sheehy's place one farm north, where he had rushed before collapsing. He had told Mr. Sheehy that he was cleaning his .22 caliber revolver and was just putting it in his pocket when the gun wnt off. Miss Stella Sheehy heard the shot first and, running to see what was the cause, saw Horn rushing down the road and collapse just before reaching the farm.

When the victim had shot himself he dropped the gun on the floor of the kitchen and rushed from the house trying to reach Mr. Sheehy's home. An unidentified man arrived soon after Mr. Sheehy went to Mr. Horn's assistance and tried to phone a doctor but the lines were busy so he went to Michael Houlihan's house, where they got in touch with Dr. Earle of Omemee. To make sure of the call E. Alliott went again and phoned to Omemee. They left Mr. Horn on the roadside fearing to move him, not knowing how serious his injuries were While waiting Mr. Courtney went into the house to heat some water and make preparations for the doctor. On entering he found the kitchen as Mr. Horn had left it, his cigarettes lying on the table and the revolver lying on the floor near a couch on the east side of the kitchen. The place still remained undisturbed this morning awaiting the officials when The Examiner visited the home.

When Dr. Earle arrived he immediately rushed the lad to Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay. The boy never lost consciousness and was able to tell Mr. Sheehy and his chum, Brian Asken, how the accident occurred. When he arrived at Lindsay he walked into the hospital.

Mrs. Courtney told The Examiner that as she had a fear of guns she had warned Horn against carrying the revolver. He kept it in his dresser drawer and she always had an idea something like this would occur. They had no idea why he had the gun at the time of the accident, as he was all alone, but lately he had shooting rabbits with it. He purchased the last cartridges for it a week ago.

Miss Stella Sheey said that she was in the house and heard the noise, which sounded like a shed door slamming, and she went out to see the cause of it and saw Horn running down the road screaming and finally collapsing near her home.

No one had any definite idea how the accident occurred except for Mr. Horn's story. As he went to get some cigarettes from the table, he said, the gun went off while he was putting it in his pocket.

AIRMEN BREAK MARK SET BY ITALIAN FLIERS

Surpass Former Record By Six Hours and Fifty-two Minutes.

HONORS FOR GERMANY.

Plane Travels 5,030 Miles in Two and Half Days in Air.

DESSAU, Germany, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—Johann Ristics and Hans Zimmerman, German pilots, had established a new record for duration in the air when they landed at 9.30 o'clock on Saturday night. When they came down they had surpassed by 6 hours and 52 minutes the Italian record held by Major Carlo Del Prete and Captain Arturo Ferrarin. The new record stands at 65 hours and 36 minutes.

The machine reeled off 5,030 miles in its two and a half days in the air.

In Junkers Plane

Professor Hugo Junkers, just back from the United States was a grateful spectator as his plane, piloted alternately by Ristics and Zimmerman, reeled off the tell-tale rounds on the montonous shuttle between Dessau and Leipzig which meant a new air record. He was the first to greet the tired airmen as they climbed from their plane and to congratulate them upon their achievement.

When it was announced at 3.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon that the record of the Italian fliers had been broken one hour, as is required to make a new mark effective, there was tremendous cheering from the Junker's aerodrome. The birdmen were swamped with congratulations when they finally landed.

They brought the new duration blue ribbon to Germany in a one-motor Junkers plane, the D-1231 a sister ship of the Bremen and Europe. It was this type of plane in which Ristics and Cornelius Edzard brought to Germany its first world endurance record of 52 hours, 22 minutes in August, 1927, and which this year carried Captain Herman Koehl, Baron von Huenfeld and Major James H. Fitmaurice from East to West across the Atlantic.

THE WEATHER

Sunday was a very warm day. During the afternoon, about two o'clock, the temperature went up to 92 degrees in the shade. This was where there were shady trees and where breezes could blow freely. I think I voice the opinion of most people when I say that the heat was never felt more oppressively. The air was full of humidity (moisture) which made it worse. A thunderstorm, which passed to the north, cooled the air from 92 to 72 degrees, for an hour, but the relief was only temporary. Hailstones fell heavily in some places, while in nearby localities there were none.

The rainfall was .21 of an inch. The warmest day last year was June 30, with 93 degrees.

One man, who had his thermometer exposed to the sun told me he had reached 120 degrees, while another man, under the same conditions, got 111 degrees. However, the official figures under the usual conditions, were 92.—W.P.

The children are looked after in relays, some staying for two weeks, others from three to four weeks, according to their general health and condition.

Fisherman From Small Village Claims He Saw Parachute Descending From Loewenstein's Airplane

LONDON, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—An exchange telegraph company prints a rather startling despatch from Dunkirk which gives a new theory on the disappearance of Captain Alfred Loewenstein.

The fisherman of the small village of Bray-Dunes on the coast of France, says despatch, is reported to have stated that he was certain he saw a parachute fall from the skies, about the time the Loeowenstein plane was crossing the English Channel and alight a few miles from the place where he was. He also saw a boat near the place where the parachute came down.

PRESS SUPPORTS APPOINTMENT OF VISCOUNT BYNG

Observer Declares Joynson-Hicks Did Wise Thing in Nominating Byng.

LABOR DISAPPROVES.

Some Surprise Shown in Ministerial Circles at Hostile Criticism Evoked.

LONDON, July 9 (Canadian Press Cable)—The Sunday newspapers state that there is much surprise and disappointment in ministerial circles at the hostile criticism which the appointment of Viscount Byng of Vimy as Police Commissioner of London has evoked, inasmuch as it was anticipated that the appointment of the former governor-general of Canada would command general approval.

The suggestion that Byng is too old for the past at the age of 66 years is regarded by the Sunday newspapers as insupportable, even with the limited tenure of office which is contemplated. Lord Byng is regarded to all intents and purposes as in his prime.

Writing in The Observer, John Garvin strongly supports the appointment, declaring that Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary, has done a wise thing in nominating Lord Byng for the commissionership. Mr. Garvin offers the opinion that a better choice is unimaginable, and the country is fortunate in having available such a man.

Mr. Garvin asks the Labor party, from whose ranks the strongest criticism has been forthcoming, to reflect on many things before allowing itself to be carried further in its "hasty opposition."

"This great soldier," says The Observer, "is a great gentleman. As governor-general of Canada he occupied one of the highest civic positions in the world and gained a full insight into the political and social working of a whole free community."

The Observer is convinced that Labor is in danger of "clutching the wrong end of the stick" when it fears that Lord Byng's appointment may mean strong bias at Scotland Yard towards a "militarized and continentalized spirit."

FESTIVAL HELD AT BALLYDUFF CHURCH

Enniskillen Dramatic Club Presents the Comedy, "Getting Sandy."

The annual strawberry festival of Ballyduff Presbyterian Church was held Friday. As is customary, the congregation, and friends from many miles, gathered, and a sum of almost $200 was taken. A splendid array of edibles was made to vanish. The driving shed, a spacious affair, was turned into a miniature theatre, and with two "spotlights" on the stage, Enniskillen Dramatic Club "put on" a comedy, "Getting Sandy," reflecting credit on players and directors alike. Several vocal and elocution numbers filled in the intermissions, and comedy and artists rounded out a fine program. Rev. Mr. Walker was chairman.

Several Peterborough people motored to Ballyduff and enjoyed the affair.

SALE OF COOKING HELD BY WOMEN

Catholic Women's League Hold Bazaar in Campbellford Store.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9.—Moderate prices for excellent goods did much toward making the sale of home cooking and other articles held in the store recently vocated by Hume Bros., Front Street, the singular success that it was. The sale was held under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League of St. Mary's Parish. All afternoon there were a good number of customers in the store and when the closing hour arrived, the supply was practically exhausted. As well as articles for sale, there was a ham donated by Mr. George O'Sullivan, raffled at ten cents a ticket or three chances for twenty-five cents. Joseph Quinn was the fortunate person who held the winning ticket. All told, the sale will enrich the coffers of the League by an amount slightly in excess of one hundred and twenty-five dollars.

URGES ASSOCIATION PROVINCIAL POLICE

Formation of Dominion Body Urged by Willmott Maddison of Alberta.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 7 (Canadian Press).—The formation of an all-Canadian provincial police association, in the interest of better co-operation among the various provincial organizations and consequently better public service, is urged by C. Willmott Maddison, constable at Lethbridge headquarters of the Alberta provincial police.

The sponsor of the plan believes that if the various provincial forces were affiliated in a strong dominion-wide organization, the Saskatchewan government would not recently have been compelled to hand back the policing of their province to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. This is no disparagement of the government force, he stresses, but other provinces are getting satisfactory protection from their own organizations.

Co-operation between the different provincial organizations is essential in the prevention of crime and the punishment of criminals, Constable Maddison points out. Such co-operation necessarily already exists but is entirely voluntary. A dominion association would give the provincial policemen an opportunity of getting better acquainted with their fellow-workers in other provinces. "It gives us an opportunity of exchaning our views and ideas, which tends to create that fellowship and 'good fellowship and good feeling which is so absolutely necessary if the police of the country are to function properly and efficiently," he declares.

"Throughout the American continent, associations, composed of police chiefs, detectives and sheriffs, have at the present time become very strong and effective organisations, and the results of their getting together is no doubt shown in greater accomplishments by the rank and file which go to make up the largest part of any police force," he said. "The results already show that this good work must be kept up, and there is no question but that the public is coming to realise that it means increased efficiency.

"An all-Canadian Provincial Police Association is entirely constitutional and practicable. It would serve a useful purpose to the rank and file of the several forces concerned and also the public at large. It would, unquestionably, devolop a large degree of esprit-de-corps between the rank and file and their many superiors and permit a better understanding of police work in general by the public.

"It would develop a closer acquaintance of individual members—distance being no object. It would enable members to obtain first-hand knowledge of practical achievements accomplished by one another from time to time."

"Mother, I'll bet the Princess looked just like you" . . .

Such artless tribute is the reward of women who retain "that schoolgirl complexion" by this simple rule of skin care

IN his heart every boy wants to think his mother the most beautiful mother in all the world. And thousands of mothers fulfill this hope by safeguarding their youth, past the thirties and well into the forties.

Don't let life, and its cares and responsibilities, rob you of your right to youth and beauty. Correct skin care is a large part of the formula for staying young—and looking it.

Natural ways in complexion care, ways any woman can easily follow, have supplanted the artificialities of yesterday. Proper cleansing of the skin, say leading beauty authorities, is the keynote to the preservation of that schoolgirl complexion.

This simple daily rule

That means soap and water; but NOT just "any" soap. A true complexion soap is meant. Others may prove too harsh. So, largely on expert advice, thousands use gentle Palmolive in this way:

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold.

If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, particularly at night.

Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Palmolive costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

International Nickel Is Only Active Stock On List

TORONTO, July 9. — (Canadian Press.)— Trading was light on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Prices showed little change and fluctuations for the most part were fractional, losses about balancing gains. International Nickel only really active stock on list, was up ⅛ at 97. Brazilian at 60¾ was fractionally higher.

Hayes Wheels, gained ¼ to 31 and National Grocers dropped ¾ to 97. Massey Harris was down 1 at 41.

In curb section International Petroleum had largest turnover and was down ⅛ at 40⅛. Imperial Oil was unchanged at 69 and British American gained ⅝ to 39½. Canada Dry dropped ½ to 77 and the rights were a point higher at 181, after touching 155.

Dr. Duncan Campbell Scott, deputy superintendent general of Indian affairs, who has been appointed by order-in-council to be one of the six commissioners of the Northwest Territories, in place of John W. Greenway, commissioner of dominion lands, who died some time ago.

Wheat Prices Are Easier After a Strong Opening

CHICAGO, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices underwent an early set-back to-day after an upturn at the outset. Houses with connections in the south-west took to the selling side and reports current indicated that wheat harvest operations would be resumed to-day despite rains. Opening unchanged to ⅛c higher. Wheat scored some advance all around but then averaged lower. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting unchanged at ⅞ off and later showing a general sag.

In Heavy Trading Prices Are Irregular

TORONTO, July 9 (Canadian Press).—In heavy trading prices were irregular on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day. Noranda, last week's sensation, was lower, although sales volume was large. Opening unchanged at $54.50 and touching 55.50 issue, closed at 53.50, with a net drop of 1.00. Hudson Bay, too, was lower, closing at 19.95 for a drop of 5. Sherritt Gordon was the climber, advancing 30 to 7.90 at the close after touching 8.00. Pend. Oreille, with few sales, was up 20 at 15.40. Hollinger at 13.65 was up 15, and Wright Hargreaves at 4.00 was unchanged. Despite heavy trading, Abans remained unchanged at 3.25. Vipond scored a gain of 11 to 56. Teck Hughes at 10.95 was up 5.

Buying Is Selective Early Gains Vanish

NEW YORK, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Major speculative activity in to-day's stock market was again on the up side, but buying continued selective in character. Early gains of 1 to 6 points were interspersed with several soft spots. Trading was on a slightly larger scale than last Friday. The total sales in the first three hours running close to 1,200,000 shares.

There was no change in the credit situation. Call money renewed at 5½ per cent, but the amount available was reduced by calling of about $15,000,000 in loans.

Nearly a dozen issues mounted to new high ground for the year, the list including Montgomery Ward, Indian Refining Preferred, Motor Products, Warner Bros. Pictures A, and General Gas and Electric B, General Railway Signal, Allied Chemical, Davison Chemical, and American Express all gold 4 to 5 points higher.

Case Threshing broke nearly 6 points. Heaviness also cropped out in General Motors, Radio, International Telephone and Atlantic Refining.

THE CAREER OF HERBERT HOOVER

Ages and stages in the career of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce in the Collidge cabinet and Republican candidate for the presidency in the November elections, although he has spent most of his life in the Orient and Europe, he is at heart thoroughly American, having seven generations of pioneer stock behind him. The illustration (1) Hoover at the age of 16 with his brother Theodore, who was 20, and his sister Mary, 14; (2) a recent picture of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover; (3) Mrs. Hoover; (4) Mr Hoover: (5) where Hoover spent his early childhood in West Branch, Iowa; (6) Hoover's father, the late Jesse Clark Hoover, an Iowa blacksmith; (7) Hoover's mother, Hulda Minthorn Hoover, who was a Quaker, and, like her husband, died when Herbert was still a small boy, and (8) a war-time group showing Hoover, at that time United States food administrator, and General John Pershing, American army commander, discussing war problems with members of the Children's Relief Fund.

TRANSPORT VESSEL CRASHED ON ROCKS

scene, but by the time they arrived there was nothing for them to save. Eighty bodies were found on the beach near Coronel.

215 in Crew.

The transport left Punta Arenas, southernmost city in the world, in the Straits of Magellan, with 291 persons on board. Of these 215 were crew and 76 passengers. The latter included a number of women and children.

The ship had loaded with coal at Punta Arenas, the fuel being intended for use of Chilean naval vessels in northern waters, and the passengers were mostly laborers and their families on route to the nitrate fields in northern Chile. They were travelling at Government expense.

Several stops were made en route and while a few of the original passenger list may have debarked, it is thought here that additions to the quota brought the total number aboard to more than 300.

The storm was encountered late in the day. For several hours the Angamos struggled to make headway against wind and wave, but she was badly battered. Then her rudder was smashed and she started to drift toward the breakers. At 10 p.m. she struck.

With no rescue in sight, attempts were made to launch the lifeboats, but they capsized in the tremendous seas almost as rapidly as they struck the water, and their human freight was tossed on the rocks by the breakers or drawn back into the angry sea.

She Gained Weight With McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets

You remember of course—not so very long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now— if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about —all she did was to take on weight —filled out the hollows in her face, neck and chest— any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk— Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

PARISH HONORS REV. O'SULLIVAN

Rev. Dean O'Sullivan is Presented With a Purse By Port Hope Parish.

CONTAINED $500.

Very Rev. Dean Frank O'Sullivan, who assumed charge last week of the affairs of the parish of the Immaculate Conception in Ashburnham after spending the past twenty-one years in Port Hope, as parish priest of St. Mary's Church there, was presented before his departure from Port Hope with a purse containing $500 in gold.

The presentation took place at a social evening held in St. Mary's Parish Hall on Thursday evening, when a large number of the members of the congregation gathered, together with Monsignor Kelly and Rev. P. Butler of Cobourg. E. P. Gallagher occupied the chair, and the presentation was made by Alex. Gordon, while T. J. O'Neill read the address. At its conclusion, little Margaret Sheehan presented Dean O'Sullivan with a bouquet of flowers.

Dean O'Sullivan, in reply, thanked the congregation for this most generous gift and evidence of loyalty and affection, which he greatly appreciated. He also explained that by this transfer a greater field of service was opened up for him and said that the change would probably help the work in St. Mary's Parish.

Words of tribute to Dean O'Sullivan were expressed also by Monsignor Kelly and Rev. P. Butler. Refreshments were then served.

On Sunday, members of St. Mary's Church presented their departing pastor with a Spiritual Bouquet, as a further evidence of their regard for him.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE STAMP OF FATHER

Your name is painted on the sign
That hangs above your door,
Your brand is stamped upon the line
Of goods within your store.
I know you keep the signboard bright
Through every summer rain,
And see that all your goods are right,
And free from dust and stain.

But you've a son, a little lad,
That people often say
Is just the picture of his dad,
In looks, and every way.
I hope no evil habits mar
The day, when day is done,
Because whatever fathers are
Is stamped upon the son.

If sons resemble us in face,
Perhaps in walk and speech,
Upon their souls we stamp our grace,
Our character we teach.
The words we use, the books we read,
The things we think are joy,
The daily life a father leads,
Are stamped upon his boy.

JAMES STEVENSON PARK.

The spectacle of an outfielder frantically searching in the long grass for a lost ball while the batter runs round the bases for a technical home run, as happened at James Stevenson Park Saturday, is not edifying to a baseball fan, and more than that, is a poor advertisement for the efficiency of the city's parks department.

There does not seem any reason why this condition, which is not peculiar to the present season by any means, should be allowed to develop.

The local senior baseball club pays enough revenue into the city's coffers each year to meet the upkeep of James Stevenson Park, and surely to entitle them to something better than a ball ground with a deep fringe of knee-high grass and weeds around the outfield.

And if they did not pay a cent, for the very appearance of things the Parks Committee should see that the grass in all parts of this park is kept trimmed.

It is one of the most picturesquely situated athletic grounds in the Province, and it is a pity that its appearance should be spoiled by the sorry looking hay crop that on Saturday formed its background.

Out of the revenue paid into the city—15 per cent. of the gate receipts—by the ball club, surely enough should go back into the maintenance of the park to keep it trim and neat.

THE JACKSON PARK CAMP.

The Peterborough Health Association's summer camp at Jackson Park for children whose health is below standard opened last week with an attendance of 70 children, and will be continued for eight weeks, during which time it is expected that a large number of local youngsters will be given the benefit of the fresh air, nourishing food and intelligent supervision that distinguish this camp.

Such work is of great importance.

In every centre there are children whose health is below normal because of lack of proper nourishment or from other causes, and it is of the utmost value to the community that such children should be brought up to standard and given the same chance in life as their more robust companions.

The Jackson Park camp provides this chance for Peterborough children.

It is ideally situated in a beautiful natural park on high and pine-covered ground, and with a picturesque stream wending through it and offering opportunities for wading and bathing.

Here the children can play to their heart's content, are fed the nourishment their bodies demand, and are looked after intelligently so that they obtain the most benefit from their outing.

Splendid work this and worthy of the united support of the community.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED.

The celebration of the Twelfth of July in Peterborough this year means the old-time influx of visitors from all parts of the district, complicated by the fact that thousands of those who visit the city for the demonstration will come by motor car.

Visiting machines added to the hundreds of cars in operation here will mean a traffic problem that will keep the police department busy, and in this important task they should have general co-operation.

Special regulations in regard to parking and guiding the conduct of pedestrians have been published by the police, and The Examiner trusts that the public generally will be ready to do its share to make these rules effective and to reduce congestion and confusion to the minimum.

The forbidding of parking on George street during the parade will be appreciated by the Orangemen themselves and by the thousands who will want to see the lodges march past.

At the same time much of its effectiveness will be lost if those on foot crowd into the road as the parade approaches.

A little thought on everybody's part will greatly facilitate the success of the occasion and eliminate most of the crowding and inconvenience.

WELL ROWED, WRIGHT!

The hope of all Canada was realized on Saturday when Joe Wright, Jr., of Toronto, won the famous diamond sculls at Henley, and thus for the second time in the long history of the competition brought the world's most coveted sculling prize to the Dominion.

Wright's clean-cut victory was all the more satisfactory in that it was won over R. T. Lee, the fine Oxford oarsman who last year captured the sculls when Wright was the victim of ill-luck in the final heat.

There were no boom incidents Saturday, and after a hard fought race the young Canadian rowed across the invisible finishing line a winner on his merits.

What ever he may do at the rowing events at the Olympic Games—and Canadians are hoping that he and his splendid fellow-oarsman, Jack Guest, will do much—Wright is assured of a royal reception when he returns to Canada, and especially in his home city, Toronto.

And when honor is being paid, the winner's father, gallant old Joe Wright, Sr., who gave up a lucrative position as a rowing coach in the United States that his son might have the benefit of his training and might enter the competition as a Canadian, should not be forgotten.

Mr. Wright, Sr., sacrificed much, but he had his reward on Saturday.

THEY MAKE MEN'S FASHIONS.

The presence in Toronto of the International Association of Clothing Designers, which is holding the second convention in its history here, calls attention to an industry which is a household word and yet about which comparatively little is known. Factory-made clothing has reached extensive proportions only within the last quarter-century, and its success is due largely to the work of the designer. This is the man who creates the styles, is responsible in the last analysis for the fit, and is usually the supervisor of construction. He has become a student of human anatomy, knows how to make the weak spots appear strong and to tone down the obtrusive points. The marvel of it is that he does this with a customer he has never seen, some one who may live a thousand miles or two away from him. He has standardized his patterns to meet every classification of the human frame, yet makes provision for the hundreds of exceptions that come to his attention. His skill and study have been responsible for the success of "ready-made" clothing.

The designer has been called the artist of the industry for the reasons mentioned, and also because he understands how to fit the patterns of the fabric to the model and the shades to the customer. By right he ought to wear a dreamy expression as well as a meticulously made suit, for his gaze is always into the future. He studies tastes and trends before his customer realizes there are such things. He knows to-day what will be worn a year hence, because it is his business to know. In connection with the convention now in progress a style exhibit is being held showing conceptions of what well-dressed men will wear next spring and summer. After the convention these will be worked out in patterns, and preparations will be made to put the careful dresser of 1929 squarely on his feet. They are a designing lot, without doubt, but men in general might become slovenly without them. So the human race, including men and women, owes them a debt of gratitude.—The Globe.

CONSIDER THE MAN IN THE CAB.

(The Winnipeg Evening Tribune)

He arrived with a black-and-gold shield under an arm and a sheaf of grim literature in his hand and he said, "These are actual facts, new stuff taken down from the lips of eye-witnesses, these ain't newspaper clippings."

He was a locomotive engineer, a representative of the Brotherhood. The Saskatchewan Legislature had furnished him with a text in an amendment to the Vehicles Act, coming into effect in May, and having to do with municipal "Stop" signs at level crossings. And there was a congregation to his hand of eight hundred and fifty delegates from the rural municipalities of Saskatchewan in convention assembled in Moose Jaw. The papers in his hand furnished the baleful illumination of his text.

He told something of the making of the locomotive engineer, "many called but few chosen," out of every hundred men starting only seven reached the responsible goal of engineer of a passenger train. He told of the rigid physical examinations these had to pass every two years thereafter, eyesight alertness, nerves tested anew. And he told of the value of a modern passenger train, six or seven hundred thousand dollars, for which the engineer is responsible, besides the mail and express, from two hundred to five hundred passengers, and the Sacred Schedule—he must not be ahead of time and he must not be late.

* * * *

The seven emergent out of every hundred had reined their iron steeds and kept their iron nerve for twenty-five, thirty or even forty years. That was before the motor car began to try to beat the engine over the level railway crossings. They had always had to be wary of the crowds on the station platform who stub a toe or chase a little dog off the tracks ahead of the incoming train, they had had to know subconsciously which of the forty or fifty levers and valves to put a hand on in a split second, and they had had to keep an eye peeled for the lining up of the switches, but these were nothing to this new ever-imminent horror, the level crossing accident. "Every time," said the speaker, "that an accident occurs at a level crossing, there's an engineer mixed up in it." As he talked, he looked with occasional wistfulness at the grisly sheaf in his hand. He did indicate one or two of the unimagined tragedies, but nobly refrained from making his audience look too closely at the retails. One could see his restraint was a sacrifice, but he did wish out loud that some of the careless public might be made to go out with the engineer after an accident and with a shovel help pick up the mess into a shawl.

Hitherto the engineer had been the only man compelled by law to do certain things, to blow his whistle and pull his bell, but this new legislation compelled the motorist to bring his car to a standstill before the sign at a level crossing, and was the first mitigation of the engineer's plight. The speaker had come to-day to ask the support and co-operation of the rural municipal officers in putting the new legislation into effect.

* * * *

Coming back to the engineer, the speaker stated that a near-accident saps the engineer's valor almost equally with a bad accident. A second one may mean a year's mental anguish. And the same conditions have to be faced every day. The tragedies are recurrent, the iron nerve wears out and the veteran engineer bleakly leaves his cab to take the throttle of a yard engine or go to a minor run. When a man has scraped from his engine with a stick all that is left of the flower and flame of a life, there is something broken in him ever after.

On his way out the engineer sat down beside the press table and told a last accusing story, his own experience. It was a very disheveled example of a make of car to which the humorists of the past two decades are heavily indebted. "Plug her!" shouted the fireman suddenly. "Soak her, Tom!" With a tearing cry the engine came to a stop under his hand and the car on the crossing shivered past to safety. Sweat was running in rivulets down the engineer's face, there was a trembling in his legs and his insides were turning over, but the immeasurable fool in the car, the black wing of Death still shadowing his shoulder, turned in his seat and thumbed his nose in derisory farewell.—N. M.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Well rowed, Joe Wright! Your home land is proud of you as a great sculler and a gallant sportsman.

The fellow who likes to ask, "Is it hot enough for you?" has been having his inning, but he had better watch his step. There is a limit to human endurance.

When this column noted a lack of originality in this year's crop of fish stories that picturesque incident of the Rice Lake fish containing three missing decoys was overlooked.

Winnipeg believes in being thoroughly up-to-date. Witness the arrest of a pair of youths who tried to steal an aeroplane for a joy ride.

The United States has lost its supremacy in tennis, and perhaps when the Olympic returns are all in it may be found that American leadership in track and field events has also ceased to exist. Reports from European countries show some startling performances.

It's not a better home we need for man, it's a better man we need for the home.—Ashland Bugle.

The Question Box

L.M. Q.—Is it possible for there to be a month without a full moon? Doesn't the moon make the months?

A.—It is possible, but extremely rare. February 1866 was such a month, but the phenomenon had not occurred, previously to that, since the creation of the world, and will not occur again for 2,500,000 years.

GOD'S MINUTE

Great is Thy faithfulness.—Lam. 3:23.

May we never forget to be thankful to Thee, our Father. Thou dost daily load us with benefits. Thou art continually planning for our welfare; yet we are indifferent to Thy great goodness. We pray, and our prayers are answered, but we forget often to say "Thank you."

Make us more mindful of Thee, of our dependence upon Thee, and of Thy readiness to supply all our needs. Then may we do more than speak our praise; may we live our praise, and show our love to Thee by our acts.

Be present with us in our home. Teach us to trust Thee, to listen to Thy Word, to do Thy will. Teach us the joy of serving Thee. When doubt disturbs us, may we have a vision o Thee that will take away all distress. Forbid it that we should darken the days of others by doubting words.

Forgive our sins, and make us more earnest in prayers, in gifts, in service. Let our home be a center from which blessings go out to neighbors near and far. And show us how to live always to the praise of Thy Ho.y Name. Amen.

A Thought

THE BOON OF SLEEP

If you are to work well, you must sleep well. If you are to keep your health and strength and youth—to carry your powers of work with you to the last—you must sedulously pay court to your pillow. It will commonly be found that the men who carry their years lightly are men who possess the faculty of sleeping at will. If you have much work to do, you must not count time spent in sleep to be time lost. It is time gained. It is an essential part of the duty of the day. I had once an old servant who used to say, "Well, I have done my work. I have cleaned up, and now I'll get my sleeping done." Sleeping was, in her philosophy, a thing to be done — not a passive state, but an active part of her duty. And every workman should so consider it. Let him sleep in his bed, if he can, at proper hours of the night; if not, let him sleep at any odd time, when nature invites him to rest himself. If we do not play tricks with ourselves, if we work hard without over-working ourselves, sleep will rarely be coy to us. As a general rule, it may be said that busy men are better sleepers than idlers, and that mental labor contributes more to sound sleep than bodily fatigue. I believe that only mere novices in work are kept awake by the thought of it. Experienced workmen acquire a habit of shaking off its environments when they will. If there be one thing in life for which I am profoundly thankful to the Giver of all good gifts, it is for the faculty of sleep.

I have two friends, who are with me night and day,—
True friends and constant, ever by my side;
Than mother more devoted, or young bride;
Yet when one comes, the other steals away;
For jealous friends will no joint vigil
keep;
The one's great name is WORK; the other's SLEEP.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 9 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here Saturday.

A feature of the domestic trade was the increased demand for Argentine corn, and sales of some fair-sized quantities were made for July and August delivery.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Friday's finish to ½c lower, with corn ¾c to 1⅛c off; oats ⅝c to 1⅛c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

Until the last half-hour Saturday, wheat displayed a general upward trend owing largely to black rust report from the Dakotas and Minnesota. Besides, prevailing weather was of a kind likely to hasten development of rust, and a leading expert telegraphed from Yankton, S.D., that in two places he had found black rust on the top sheath of wheat, between Yankton and Mitchell, S.D., he said, traces of rust appear on the sheath of some what in about fifty per cent of fields of Ruby wheat. There was also talk that black rust had been discovered in Southern Manitoba.

As the day drew to an end, though, sellers of wheat became more numerous, and price gains failed to hold. It was shown that wheat receipts Saturday, at Kansas points especially, were of larger volume than a year ago. Hedge selling was much in evidence, and only a limited export business was heard of. Bears also put stress on Nebraska advices telling of wonderful harvest weather there, and on the fact that notable weakness here was being shown by the corn market.

Weather conditions for the new corn crop were excellent, and the plant was reported to be making rapid growth. Commission houses and speculators were active sellers, and December corn touched nearly the lowest price yet this season. Oats sympathized with corn. Cutting of oats was reported as under way in Southern Indiana.

Provisions had a firm tone, helped by good demand for meat.

Many do not yet realize this!

"My bill for that call was 60 cents", said Mrs. King.

"I can't understand that!" said Mrs. Jones, "it cost me 75 cents when I telephoned".

Of course the explanation is that the first party had said to the operator when placing her long distance call "I will speak to anyone there".

That made it a Station-to-Station call, which is about 20 per cent cheaper than a person-to-person message.

Station-to-Station calls, besides being cheaper, are nearly always quicker than person-to-person (where we must locate a particular individual). Moreover, low evening rates (after 8.30 p.m.) and still lower night rates (after midnight) apply on station-to-station calls, and in most cases connection is established while you remain at the telephone.

Remember please — station-to-station calls are quicker and cheaper.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

THEORETICALLY we all admire the roseate hues of early dawn, but when they stream into our rooms an hour or so before we need to get up (or desire to)—well, we don't feel like writing poems about them. In winter we may be glad to have what light there is coming in the windows of our bedroom to cheer us in the task of getting dressed, but on warm summer days it isn't so pleasant to have a room on the east side of the house.

• • •

In a bedroom that I saw the other day there was a screen arrangement that I thought was most attractive. It was a single leaf screen some four or five feet wide, made with an attractive wood frame with spreading legs provided with small castors. This made it perfectly solid and easily moved. The panel was filled in with lovely rose brocade to tone with the decorations of the room, but chintz or any attractive upholstery fabric would have answered the purpose.

This screen was moved up beside the bed at night, casting a shadow on the sleeper in the morning. It was also useful, the lady of the house told me, when the owner of the room was undressing, as it could be moved up to the window as a screen, shutting off all view of the room while still allowing the air to circulate. A blind, as everyone knows, shuts out the air.

In another home where I was a guest in spring, a practice is made of changing the furniture around for summer. In winter it is impossible to vary the setting, usually, because of radiators and furnace outlets, near which beds and fine furniture cannot be placed. It seems like a good plan to deliberately move the things there for summer.

A few days ago I had the opportunity of speaking to a beauty specialist on a subject brought to my attention by "Bunchie." The argument put up by Bunchie is that once a woman starts using a regular course of creams she starts a habit she must keep up. The retort of the beauty specialist is "There is no good argument against constant and intelligent care of your face." And, of course, she is right. If we wish to avoid the coarsening results of exposure to sun and wind and lake water that surely follow vacation, we must take special care during the next few months.

• • •

Over the holiday last week I called at a certain summer resort not far from Peterborough, and it struck me as being, for that day at least, a second Lido. There were lovely ladies littering the beach; there was, a little way up, tennis; and still farther up among the trees, dancing.

• • •

Not so different, after all, from what one sees at the smartest resort in Italy—and a lot easier to reach.

• • •

The Lido has been called "the most care-free spot on the continent of Europe." Well I didn't see anyone worrying at this Peterborough resort. Thin, fat, weak, strong, beautiful and—otherwise—were all children again, happy, and even boisterous.

• • •

The sole trimming on a frock of love green crepe de chine seen at that same resort that night was a double mouchoir of self fabric knotted together just behind the left shoulder, one end hanging down the back, the other passing through a slit in the frock on the right shoulder.

• • •

In a north-end home is a table lamp of glass, in which liquid of different colors can be poured. The idea is that the reflected light can be made to bring out the best in any decoration color scheme. It works, too.

• • •

Good-night, sweet dreams, and happiness to-morrow!
The clouds will pass. The sky will lift at dawning.
Joy is so certain, Dear, can you not borrow
A little hope and faith to last till morning?

—Anne Campbell.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

Did you feel a little hungry this morning when you got up for breakfast? Well, never mind, you will find that your hunger will be disappearing in a day or two, as the first few days are the hardest on this orange juice fasting diet. You must persevere, if you want to get the best results, both in respect to your losing weight, and in order to cleanse your system of any accumulated impurities which have been clogging up your circulation.

If you will follow this orange juice fast today, you will find that your blood is already beginning to improve with an increase in red blood corpuscles and an improvement in the blood's color. During the orange juice fast, it is astonishing how the blood will change, and how, even in pernicious anemia, the good cells of the blood will be increased in quantity and quality with a corresponding decrease in the white blood cells.

These white blood cells are the scavengers of the blood, and as they decrease it shows how much of the bodily toxins you are eliminating. Many thousands of laboratory tests upon patients have shown that this blood change always takes place, and there is no kind of stuffing diet that you can take which will improve the color of the blood to such an extent as when living on nothing but orange juice and water.

Of course, I do not expect you to live on this diet indefinitely, but I will expect you to continue the orange juice for several days.

As soon as the enema is completed, you are to take an eight ounce (8 ounce) glassful of orange juice, together with whatever water you desire. The eight ounce glassful of orange juice should be repeated every two hours during the entire day.

You may use water with the orange juice or in between times, according to your desire, but do not use any other food or liquid of any other kind. No soups, crackers, milk, malted milk, coffee, or any such food or drink should be used. Just before retiring, another enema should be taken, as in the morning, followed by a warm sponge or shower bath.

You are to follow, exactly, this same regime for tomorrow, not varying from it in any way. If you will watch your weight on the scales, you will find that by tomorrow night you will have lost four or five pounds. Part of this loss will be in fatty tissue and a small amount of poisonous material will also be thrown out from bodily waste, from which your body is freeing itself.

Do not be frightened by the words "fruit fast." I might just as well have called it a fruit diet, as you are really getting a large amount of food material from the orange juice, but not enough to interfere with the elimination of poisons and the reduction of fatty tissue. However, if you use a few crackers, in addition to the orange juice, you will find that your weight will not reduce, and you will be quite ill in a few days from this unwholesome combination of food which retards elimination and upsets metabolism.

There is a specific curative value in the orange juice diet which you cannot get from living on any ordinary food.

Remember, the poisons that are stirred up during this fast must be eliminated through the skin baths and internal baths with enemas.

Be earnest in following these instructions and you are bound to succeed in your weight reducing, and also in improving your health.

Tomorrow, continue with the same instructions as I have given you for today, that is, briefly:

One plain warm water enema, upon arising, followed by a warm sponge or shower bath.

Every two hours during the entire day you are to have eight ounces of orange juice, together with whatever water you desire. Water may also be taken anytime during the day.

Another enema, before retiring, followed by a warm sponge or shower bath, the same as in the morning

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

I want to tell you right here that The Examiner has surely made a wonderful improvement in the last year, and none is so welcome as the pepping up of the Women's Page. I always turn to it first, now, and I find something there every day to interest me. I like the new name for the 'personals' column, and I think lots of people will like to get their names in there now when it is known as 'Neighborly Notes.' And do you know, I don't think I have ever seen a 'What-not'—but it must have been a delightful piece of furniture if it contained half as interesting things as one finds in your column.

I wish to ask your advice about beauty treatments. I have, at present, an almost perfect skin, and don't require treatment. I seldom use cream—certainly none of the so-called cleansing cream—and I can't see why I should start. It seems to me it is only starting a habit that then must be kept up. But my girl friends all use regular treatments, and tell me I should. What do you think? I shall be looking for your answer, because it seems to me that all your advice is so sensible—and understanding.

Yours sincerely,
Bunchie."

Thank you Bunchie; such praise is overwhelming. I am glad that you like the new Women's Page, and hope I can live up to your good opinion.

Your inquiry is of so general interest that I am discussing it in the "What-not" column to-day. I think you will find the advice sensible, but I certainly do not advise going in for powders, paints and creams in wholesale quantities as some girls do.

• • •

"Dear Marion:

I am going away for a vacation and wish to select a white dress. Were you choosing, would it be flannel or fugi?

Sincerely,
Marge."

It all depends on what kind of vacation, Marge. Flannel would be very suitable for a boating excursion, but not so good if you intended playing tennis a lot. Personally, with the choice of only two fabrics, I should take the fugi.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)
TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1928

Many stars frown today upon the earth, according to astrology, which reads the aspects as unfavorable to various human activities.

Early in the morning the aged should benefit from the planetary influences which should stimulate mind and body.

Workers have a fortunate guidance under this configuration, but they may be inclined to find fault with their environments.

Under this sway the mind is likely to be open to pessimistic and depressing thoughts. It is not a favorable time to make decisions.

Disappointments and discouragements are supposed to multiply while this rule prevails and for this reason a positive attitude of mind should be maintained.

It is not an auspicious day for asking advice or assistance from persons who wield power of any sort.

Political campaigners may find uphill work while this direction of the stars continues and they should relax effort to gain votes until better conditions prevail.

Women may be especially difficult to deal with today when the stars are believed to encourage willfulness, indecision and egotism.

This is read as rather forbidding wedding day, since brides may show a disposition to rule.

Accidents now will increase alarmingly, the stars presage, and many deaths by drowning are indicated.

Education continues subject to stimulating influences and efforts to revive ancient culture will be made in a spectacular manner.

Tendency to individual opinion will be curbed under this sway and the rule of the mass idea will gain.

Political leaders should benefit from this configuration, which aids organization and makes dictation easy.

Women will not be successful as a rule in the autumn campaign, it is prophesied, only one or two gaining national prominence.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have many small vexations in the coming year which should be fairly successful.

Children born on this day probably will have first rate opportunities all through life. Subjects of this sign attain lasting fame.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Two-piece wool bathing suit with Patou's shorts pleated to look like a skirt. The color scheme is yellow and brown. The little wool beret with pompon on top is made to fit closely over the rubber skull cap.

Choosing one's bathing wardrobe this season is a very complicated matter. It is no longer enough to possess a single bathing suit with a few hastily selected accessories. The girl who can afford it has many bathing costumes—carefully selected ensembles—and she devotes as much attention to making choice of them as she does to choosing her dance frocks.

Of the bathing suit itself there are many sorts, of every possible color and design—caps and helmets, shoes, possibly stockings and socks and appropriate jewelry to go with them. Then there are beach costumes usually of the long pyjama sort, and a wide variety of beach coats, some of them fairly short and some quite long—not to mention beach capes and large beach rugs of toweling. Then there must be an appropriate bag for carrying one's specially considered vanity accessories a beach parasol and possibly a folding beach chair or stool colored to harmonize with one's beach ensemble.

The bathing suit may be one of three distinct sorts—a simple one-piece garment that many women prefer for swimming, a two-piece with shorts and a separate upper portion consisting of a sweater tunic worn over the shorts or a top portion tucked inside the shorts—or a suit made with a top portion extending down to form a short skirt to cover the shorts.

You may if you like select an ensemble consisting of matching suit with a coat to match. Mary Nowitsky of Paris has originated some charming models of this sort. One I saw the other day was of flower-printed silk with knitted sections at the lower part of the shorts and as a hip band for the sweater-like top portion. Then there was a knee-length long-sleeved coat of the same material and a silk cap with a band of knitted material to be slipped on over the tight-fitting rubber cap.

Social Amenities

NON-SKIDS

To prevent dresses from slipping off hangers, wind elastic bands around each end of the hangers.

"Hands never say" "Dishpan" now!

Less than a cent a day keeps dishpan hands away

A little Lux in the dishwater goes so far that you can "do dishes" the Lux way every day in the year and never notice the cost. And the result is priceless.

Unlike so many other soaps, the tissue-thin, transparent, Lux diamonds contain no free alkali. They do not redden or roughen the hands, but keep them soft and smooth.

Women themselves, in cleansing their fine things in Lux, discovered its kindness to the hands. Now millions use Lux for dishwashing.

Save your hands. Keep a package of Lux on the kitchen shelf.

CHAPTER X
THE CHALLENGE

Sometimes Jennifer wished with all her heart that they had never met again, and sometimes she told herself passionately that if he left her now she would not go on living.

There had been no more kisses. Nicholas kept faithfully to his promise of friendship, and often Jennifer felt that she hated him because of the coolness with which he greeted her when they met.

"I don't believe he really loves me," she thought bitterly, and then sometimes she would surprise a little fierce look in his eyes when they met her own that would set her heart leaping with joy. But they were living on the edge of a mine, though perhaps only Nicholas realized it. After the first week or two Jennifer found herself beginning to lose interest in her work at the office, and once or twice she found Mr. Gurney looking at her with a puzzled expression in his eyes.

"Aren't you well, Miss Fry?" he asked in concern one morning when she had made several bad mistakes in his letters; and at the kindliness in his voice the ready tears started to Jennifer's eyes.

"I'm quite well, thank you," she stammered. "Why do you ask?"

"You look pale," Mr. Gurney apologized.

"I'm quite well," Jennifer insisted, and the subject dropped.

But in the morning Mr. Gurney broached it again.

"What about holidays this summer, Miss Fry? It's nearly the end of July. You ought to be arranging something."

Jennifer said quite truthfully that she had not given the matter a thought.

She knew Nicholas was later on probably going for a sea-trip with some friends, and she had intended postponing her holiday till then. She felt she could not leave London while he was there.

"Why not go next week?" Mr. Gurney urged. "The weather's good now, and business is slack. I can manage to spare you for a week or two."

"You're very kind," Jennifer said, but her heart sank. She did not want any holidays—what enjoyment could she hope to find in them without Nicholas?

But when she saw him that evening she told him she was taking a fortnight's holiday from the following Monday.

They were dining in a quiet Soho restaurant, and though she still wore her dark office frock, Gaunt was in evening dress. He had apologized for it, saying he was "going on somewhere later."

Jennifer's heart contracted. How she hated that "going on."

She knew it meant many pretty women, and lovely frocks, and all the things in his life from which she was debarred, and she kept her eyes lowered to hide their pain.

"Where are you thinking of going for a holiday?" Nicholas asked, after a moment, and she answered indifferently:

"I don't know. I went to Cornwall last year."

There was a little silence, which he broke.

"You're not going alone, are you?"

She looked up quickly, flushing a little.

"I always go alone."

Gaunt toyed with the matchstand before him; there was a frown between his eyes.

"It can't be much of a holiday alone," he said abruptly.

Jennifer laughed. "I'm used to it."

Gaunt looked away from her, down the room.

"Edith goes to Venice to-morrow," he said suddenly. It was the first time for weeks that he had spoken her name, and the hot blood rushed in a tide to Jennifer's pale face, even while in her heart she was dumbly grateful to him for having said "Edith" and not "my wife."

"Oh, is she?" she said with an effort. "And you'll be starting on that yachting trip soon, won't you?"

"I can cancel that," Nicholas said, and he raised his eyes and looked steadily at her.

Jennifer tried to speak, or to laugh away the sudden tension which seemed to have crept into their conversation, but she felt powerless. She could only sit dumbly looking at him, her heart beating so fast it seemed to choke her. And Nicholas Gaunt said again:

"I can cancel that—if you wish it, Jennifer."

Jennifer shook her head, and with a great effort she found her voice.

"I! Of course not! Of course I don't wish it."

She was talking at random. "Why should I wish it? Isn't it all arranged? It will be a lovely trip. Of course you must go?"

He let his hand fall heavily over hers as it rested on the table, and the grip of his fingers hurt.

"Let me come with you, Jennifer. No one will know, and it would be just Heaven—alone with you; and the sea, and the sun! I've kept my word about our friendship, haven't I? I swear I'll always keep it. But just let me come to be with you. What time do we get together now? Just a snatched hour or two about twice a week. There's no harm in it, and nobody will ever know. O, my dar.ing——"

Jennifer drew her hand sharply away. The little words of endearment had roughly awakened her from the dream into which she had fallen beneath the magic of his voice.

What right had he to use those words to? What right could he ever have?

"No," she said breathlessly, and then again, "No, no! No!"

Nicholas flushed to the roots of his hair and his eyes grew fierce.

"You don't trust me?"

She shook her head.

"It's not a question of trust. I just don't want you to come with me, that's all."

Unreasoning jealousy rose within him.

"If there's some other man——"

Jennifer turned white to the lips.

"You must be mad," she whispered.

He looked at her with hard eyes. They had unexpectedly reached the parting of the ways and they both knew it, and tried desperately not to know it. Though so little had really been said, the game they had played for so short a time was finished, and now they were just passionate man and woman, fighting against their love for each other and trying vainly to hide it beneath the bluff of friendship.

And Gaunt's angry eyes said: "You shall give in to me, you shall!" and Jennifer answered as determinedly as ever: "Never! Never!"

Then the moment passed, and the clash of wills was over, and Jennifer caught her breath with a little gasp, and felt suddenly very cold, and presently they were out in the summer night together and Gaunt had called a taxicab.

He put her into it and stood for a moment at the open door, bare-headed.

"Send for me if you want me," he said abruptly.

CHAIN STORES AID COMMUNITY WORK

Contribute to Local Chamber of Commerce Budgets on Comparable Basis.

Chain stores are taking a greater interest than ever before in community development in the cities in which they operate, as a result of the program of co-operation being carried on by the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, says a statement received by the secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and a member of the national secretarial body.

From this work, started two months ago, chain systems are subscribing to local Chambers of Commerce budgets and agreeing to contribute to community chests on a basis comparable to that of local merchants.

While some chains have contributed their fair share in the past, others have been satisfied to do business in a city without subscribing toward development of the local field. A survey by the national association discloses a realization on the part of the chain store managers themselves, that there are shirkers in their ranks. These managers, the association officials say, are determined to see that no farther condemnation is heaped on all chain companies because of the failure to do their part in the commercial, industrial and civic development of the territory in which they are merchandising.

Eleven hundred commercial executives throughout the United States and Canada make up the membership of the national association. It was founded in 1914, and has as its chief purpose the dissemination of information on matters of secretarial technique, thereby seeking to improve the efficiency of all commercial organizations.

ORANGE LODGE ATTENDS CHURCH

Campbellford Orangemen Hear a Most Inspiring Sermon.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9.—Brethren of L.O.L. 36 attended divine service in Christ church at seven-thirty last night. The parade was headed by the Northumberland Regimental Band in mufti. The centre aisle of the church was reserved for the visitors of the order and the front of the church was decorated with flowers for the occasion. The Reverend N. Clarke Wallace welcomed the Orangemen not only as Rector of Christ church but as a member of the order. His sermon was particularly adapted to the occasion.

As a text, Mr. Wallace selected Matthew, chapter 22, verse 21, "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God, the things that are God's." Before dealing with his text, he read from the constitution of the order certain passages dealing with the qualifications required for the order. The text, he claimed, was a command concerning their duty to God and to the state. The passages read from the constitution book contained the whole doctrine of tht trinity, God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost. The result of such a belief was a reader of God's word, a sincere observer of God's day and a regular attendant of God's house. This would prick the conscience of some who were present, he claimed since they did not read God's word nor did they go regularly where they would hear it. Some would be regular attendants, some fairly regular and some would only go when there was a church parade. The term "church parade" was not to his liking. There was a sinister sound to it. Divine service was a much better term. This was the term used in the qualifications of an Orangeman. It was the duty of all Christian men to meet together for divine service, and certainly the duty of Orangemen. The visible church is the congregation of faithful men, and it was the only organization in the world whose sole purpose was for the propogation of the principles of Christ. Orangemen had pledged themselves to try to be sincere followers of this faith.

The second duty was to their country, or in words of the text, to Caesar. There are certain things that Orangemen believed to for the good of the county. It was not only their right but their duty to believe in these things and they must promote these ideals. Perhaps the most imporntat of these was to maintain the membership of Canada in the British Empire, and to make sure that nothing will be allowed to weaken our loyalty to that symbol of unita, the Throne. They made no claim to exclusive loyalty to Protestantism, but would admit no man within their pale whose principles are not loyal and whose religion is not Protestant.

Mr. Wallace believed that there were forces at work within the Dominion and Empire deliberately attempting to eliminate the the loyalty of the people. By constitutional means they might have the right to do so. But while these things were in force, it was their duty as Orangemen to be much more zealous for the throne and Empire. Do we not need at least one organization one that is organized for the express purpose of combatting alien sentiment and preserving and advocating our own British ideals.

Orangemen must no mind being called bigots. They must believe in their cause and fight for it. But they must not forget that others had the same right to fight for their cause Although it might be necessary to denounce a cause, it was not necessary to denounce the individual or the organization opposing. It was necessary to be interested in the political party to which they were attached, but they should put their principles before their party. Above all, the Orangemen must remember to be considerate and tolerant in their judgment, especially towards those who opposed them in faith and principles. The must endeavor to bring forth the practical fruits of righteousness and obedience to God's commands, as humble and consistent servants of God and followers of the Saviour.

STOP THIEF!

Constipation steals away your HEALTH!

STEALTHILY at work—day after day—in millions of homes—the scourge of constipation takes a costly toll. Its booty is health. Its spoils are beauty and charm. Yet, because its cruel effects are not immediately apparent, millions ignore the danger of habitual faulty elimination.

Over and over your doctor will stress the necessity of including sufficient roughage in your diet. He knows that insufficient roughage in what you eat is one of the chief causes of constipation.

Post's Bran Flakes is a roughage food which acts as an efficient body regulator. Eat it regularly. You'll delight in its delicious flavor.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation, brought about by too little roughage in the diet, should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal, with milk or cream. You will like it as well as any cereal you ever tasted. Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time. But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity. Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers, in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

Seniors Lose Early Lead To Motor City Crew

PETES FALL TO PIECES AFTER SETTING UP NICE LEAD AND OSHAWA'S STRONG FINISH WINS

Dainty Driven to the Bench, But Morrison Saves Day for Invaders.

COUNT IS 10 TO 6.

League Leaders Come From Behind When Local Crew Collapses.

(By F.D.C.)

After driving Duke Dainty, Oshawa's veteran left-hander, to the showers in less than four innings and looking all over winners, the Petes' pitching and fielding both crumbled to pieces, and Oshawa, fighting hard behind excellent relief pitching by none other than Hank Morrison, erstwhile infielder, came from a long way behind to win Saturday's Central Ontario League fixture at James Stevenson Park by 10 runs to 6.

At the end of the fifth the Petes led by 5 runs to 1, and Oshawa's lone counter was a gift from the city's park department with the groundkeeper credited with an assist.

To explain, it was the result of a drive to left, the ball being lost in the jungle of long grass and weeds in the outfield long enough for an Oshawa runner to make the circuit.

That was a plain fluke, and stacked up against the five markers credited to the Petes the solitary run looked small.

But the Petes cracked wide open in the sixth, their long lead netted to one run in that frame, disappeared altogether in the seventh, and was lost sight of completely in the eighth, the league leaders scoring three runs in each canto.

Up to that stage Jeff Hardill had been holding the Oshawa hitters thoroughly in check and had been helped by sparkling support.

And then a couple of misplays, a couple of hits, and the rout was on. Oshawa almost tied the score in the sixth, and when they started all over again in the next session and had taken the lead, Hardill was relieved by Andie Macdonald who got the side out after one more run had been scored only to fall foul of another Oshawa onslaught in the eighth that harvested three runs out of four solid hits.

Meanwhile the Petes who had given Duke Dainty one of the worst lacings in his career getting ten solid smashes off him in 3½ innings and who finally drove him to cover with a terrific shelling in the fourth folded up like a concertina before Morrison who went to Dainty's rescue. The relief pitcher who has been playing the infield for years, allowed the homesters but three hits and one lucky run for the rest of the battle, and his steady work gave the leaders a chance to rally and finally pull the game out of the fire. The lion's share of the credit ought to be given to him. Morrison did not appear to have much on the ball, but it was enough to tie the Petes in a knot while the motorists piled up runs on their own account.

There was some brilliant fielding by both teams as well as plenty of the other kind, each outfit having six errors, which is not senior form by any means. Macdonald playing left field for the Petes while Hardill was on the rubber, had the two feature plays, making two beautiful running catches. The Petes also rolled off a fast double play that was smartly executed.

How It All Happened.

In the first McCallum struck out, Wolfe rolled to Harrison, and Macdonald made a great running catch of Jones' four fly.

The Petes wasted two hits. Macdonald struck out and Rowe was tossed out by Young, but Ash singled to left and Harrison was safe on a high one to right. Swanston filed to Matthews.

In the second Johnstone tossed out Matthews. Young filed to Rose, and Johnston was under Dainty's high one.

The Petes got plenty of action but no runs in their half. Heckman singled solidly through short and Hardill was safe on McCallum's error. Batten struck out. Johnston singled to centre and Heckman was tossed out at the plate although a slide would have beaten the throw. Macdonald got a life on T. Morrison's error, but with the bases full Rose fanned.

Oshawa made their first hits in the third. T. Morrison filed to Batten and Johnston made a nice play on Elliott's fast roller. Kellar singled over second and McCallum through third, but Hardill threw out Wolfe.

The Petes opened the scoring in their half. Ash was safe on T. Morrison's high throw to first and Harrison on Sutton's fumble. Swanston moved them up with a sacrifice and Heckman walked to fill the bases. Hardill scored Ash and Harrison on a single past McCallum. Batten singled to centre, but Johnston filed to Wolfe and Macdonald was thrown out by T. Morrison.

Young's fluke home run gave the visitors a run in the fourth. Jones rolled to Hardill and Matthews filed to Macdonald. Young's long fly went for a homer when the ball dropped behind Macdonald and was lost in the long grass. Dainty was safe on Batten's error, but T. Morrison fanned.

The Petes drove Dainty to the barn with quartette of ringing blows. Rose opened with a sharp double to left and scored on Ash's hard hit single to centre, Ash going to second on the throw to the plate. Harrison hit a terrific single to centre, scoring Rose and going to second when Wolfe threw to try to get Ash. Swanston rolled to McCallum, but Heckman rattled a double off the left field fence scoring Harrison. This was enough for Dainty and Hank Morrison went to the firing line. He got Hardill on a roller to McCallum, and Batten on a fly to Young.

A great running catch by Macdonald who grabbed a drive from Elliott after a long chase was the first play in Oshawa's fifth. Kellar singled over second, but was snuffed out along with McCallum when the latter hit into a fast double play, Johnston to Harrison to Ash.

The Petes did nothing. Johnston rolled to T. Morrison. Macdonald struck out and Rose bounded to the box.

The tide turned in the sixth. It opened harmlessly enough, too, with Hardill tossing out Wolfe, but Jones reached second on Johnston's low throw, and Matthews was safe on a high toss by Batten. Matthews stole second and scored with Jones when Young singled to left. Young went round to third on Macdonald's wide throw home, and scored when Morrison singled to left. T. Morrison sacrificed and Elliott rolled to Hardill.

That made it 5 to 4 and the Petes did nothing in their half. Ash rolled to McCallum. Harrison struck out, and Swanston was tossed out by T. Morrison.

The motorists took the lead in the seventh. Kellar opened with a double to left and McCallum was safe when Swanston tossed low to first after fielding his bunt. He stole second. Wolfe was called out on strikes, but Jones singled through the box to score Kellar and McCallum, and gave Oshawa a one-run margin. Macdonald went to the rubber, Turner going to left field. Matthews singled through short to score Jones. He was out stealing. Young got a lucky double on a high fly back at second, but H. Morrison rolled to Batten.

Two errors did the Petes no good in their half. With Heckman out via the called-strike route, Turner was safe on T. Morrison's error. He was forced at second on Batten's roller to Elliott. Batten went to second on a high throw to complete the double, but Johnston lined to McCallum.

Oshawa clinched their victory in the eighth. T. Morrison filed to Turner. Elliott singled over first and Kellar over third for the fourth hit in succession. Johnston knocked down McCallum's hot shot, forcing Elliott at third, but Wolfe singled to centre to send Kellar in and he and McCallum scored on Jones' double over third. Matthews rolled to Harrison.

The Petes got one back. Macdonald was out on strikes, but Rose got a fluke double on a high one to right field, which McCallum and Matthews let fall between them, and rode home on Ash's single to left. Harrison forced Ash and Swanston rolled to McCallum.

In the ninth Young struck out. H. Morrison rolled to Harrison. T. Morrison was safe on Batten's fumble, but was forced on Elliott's roller to the same player.

For the Petes Heckman was called out on strikes and Turner got none the best of a close decision when he rolled to Young. Batten singled to centre. Johnston filed to Wolfe.

WINNIPEG CREW WINS HANLAN MEMORIAL CUP

BURNS IS BEST SCULLER

Argow Singles Racer and Leanock of Hamilton Win Twice.

DUNMAN IS SECOND

ST. CATHARINES, July 9.—The Wyandotte crew, which came Friday unexpectedly to the Canadian Henley from Philadelphia, winners of the senior eights and Hanlan Memorial Cup last year, failed to retain the championship in a hard-fought race with the Winnipeg crew late Saturday.

Winnipeg won by a three-quarter length of open water and were rowing 38 strokes to the minute for the first quarter mile. It was nip and tuck between them. Detroit and the second Wyandotte crew were close together all the way. Near the halfway Winnipeg began to draw away from Wyandottes and steadily increased the distance between them. Winnipeg finished fresh and were pulling strong at the end. Wyandotte second crew finished third and Detroit fourth.

There are two American crews against the one western representative of Canada in this historic race.

In the senior four race Winnipeg are expected to win. Victorious in the Olympic trials they were not considered fast enough to be sent to Europe. They intend to prove that they are faster than the Olympic committee thinks they are.

The weather was agains perfect for rowing as it has been for the other two days of the regatta. Hardly a ripple stirred the course and the spectators could see the starting point, almost a mile and a half away, fairly clearly.

Malvern Collegiate have crews entered in the high school events and should certainly win points.

The Kiwanis juniors, holding down second place, are slated to meet the Lork Works on Wednesday night at James Stevenson Park. It may be too hot to work, but it is not too hot to play golf. That seems to be the case at the local golf clubs. Never before have the golf clubs of this district enjoyed such a tremendous patronage. The Peterborough and Meadowbrook golf clubs are enjoying a phenomenal year. More snappy golf events are being lined up for the near future.

U. S. PLAYERS TAKE HONORS

Win Majority of Events in Ontario Lawn Tennis Championships.

AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 9 (Canadian Press).—United States players carried off the majority of the honors in the Ontario Lawn Tennis Championships here on Satuday afternoon, winning both senior singles, the junior singles and the mixed doubles. The two other doubles events were won by the Canadian entrants. There was an international flavor to the final matches, three of the six events being Canadian versus American. In these three, the United States players were the winners in two, and lost one.

The men's singles event, the blue-ribbon title of the meet, was won by John H. Doeg, of Santa Monica, California, in a three-set battle against Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Massachusetts. After the conclusion of the first set, which went to Doeg at 8—6, it was fairly apparent that the Westerner was going to take the match. The event was strenuously contested by Chapin, but the fact that he has played comparatively little tennis for the past eighteen months weighed heavily against his chances.

In the first set the games followed service until three games all was reached, each man taking his own delivery. Doeg broke through to win Chapin's service on the seventh game, only to lose his own service at 4 games all. The process was repeated on the ninth and tenth games, each losing his service, and on the next two each man won his own. Doeg broke through again in the thirteenth and won the next, and the set.

The second set was all Doeg, Chapin only getting a single game, the fifth, on his own service. In the third and deciding stanza games followed service to three all again, but Doeg broke through on the seventh and won the eighth also, and the match. It was clearly Doeg's match, all the way. His service was working beautifully, and his clever use of the chop bothered his opponent a good deal. The service in fact was one of the strongest seen here for some time.

The woman's singles title was Canadian against American, with Mrs. A. H. Chapin, Jr., third ranking United States player, pitted against Miss Phoebe Grierson, of Ottawa, 1927 winner of the title. Mrs. Chapin won the match, proving quite too strong for Miss Grieson. Mrs. Chapin hits very hard, proving quite too strong for Miss Grieson. Mrs. Chapin hits very hard, drives well, volleys well, and generally, plays a great game. Miss Grierson does all of these things also, but not so well as does Mrs. Chapin, and there in a few words lies the answer to the match played on Saturday afternoon. The score was 6—1, 6—1.

Wrestlers Named For Olympic Team

MONTREAL, Que., July 9 (Canadian Press)—Three wrestlers were definitely named and two others were recommended for inclusion in the Canadian Olympic wrestling team to Amsterdam, following the completion of the Olympic mat trials here Saturday night. The two men recommended will make the trip if further funds to finance their expenses are forthcoming.

Don Stockton, 174 pounds, of Montreal, who carried the Maple Leaf into the international competition at Paris in 1924, will again be sent to the Olympiad as Canada's representative. Morris Letchford, another Montrealer, was selected for the 158 pound division and Earl McCready, Regina heavyweight and inter-collegiate champion of the United States was the third choice. "Lefty" Priestly and Dan McDonald, both of Toronto, were the two to be recommended.

RECORDS BROKEN IN OLYMPIC TESTS

World Marks Shattered by George Hamn in Broad-Jump.

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

HARVARD STADIUM, Cambridge, Mass., July 9.—(Associated Press).—The final America Olympic track and field tryouts were completed Saturday with an orgy of record-breaking. The slaughter of time and distance included two new world's marks, another world's record equalled, two new American records and eight new national championship marks.

The world's marks were shattered by Ed. Hamm of Georgia Tech., when he broad-jumped 25 feet, 11 1-8 inches and by Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston A.A. when he stepped off the 800-metres in 1.51 2-5.

The world's 110-metre high hurdle record was equalled by Steve Anderson, University of Washington, while American standards were lowered by Ray in the 10,000 metre run and by his Illinois A.C. clubmate, Ray Conger, in the 1500 metre final.

Charley Borah, Southern California star, staged a comeback to win the 200-metre dash, beating the Olympic record three times, while Charley Paddock finished second to clinch his place on the Olympic team for the third time in eight years.

The national A.A.U. championships, decided in conjunction with the Olympic tests, resulted in the Los Angeles A.C. carrying off the team title with a total of 35 points. The New York A.C. was second with 22 and Illinois A.C. third with 14.

Paulino Uzcudun Wins European Title

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 9 (Canadian Press). — Pauline Uzcudun, rugged Basque heavyweight, knocked out Ludwig Haymann, German champion, in the eleventh round of their match for the European heavyweight title here Saturday night.

More than 13,000 fans saw Pauline better the Teuton into overwhelming defeat. Haymann could do little more than defend himself. His hardest punches failed to disturb the tough Basque. Thrice in the first seven rounds Haymann went to the canvas under Paulino's punching. Haymann failed to win a round, being constantly on the defensive and vainly trying to ward off Paulino as he waded in both both fists flying.

Shortly after the eleventh round opened, Haymann went down for a count of seven. He staggered to his feet only to go down and out from another terrific punch delivered by his relentless rival.

Montreal Royals Lose Double Bill

MONTREAL, Que., July 9 (Canadian Press).—Indifferent pitching and inability to come through with hits in the pinches cost the Royals both ends of a double-header with Jersey City here yesterday afternoon. Both victories fell to the credit of Arthur Johnson, elongated left-hander of the Black Cats, who though batted from the mound in the first game, was given credit for the victory. Eight pitchers performed in this struggle which took nearly three hours to complete. Johnson relieved Shoffner in the second, Shoffner, oddly enough having come to Arthur's rescue in the first. A crowd of 12,000 saw the two games.

BIRDS LOSE TO READING

Bisons Collect Eight Runs in Fifth to Defeat Orioles, 17 to 3.

USE THREE HURLERS

ROCHESTER, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—Rochester lost to Reading here yesterday, 8 to 3, with Welsh master of the situation throughout the game. Quellich hit safely on each of his five trips to the plate getting two triples, one double and two singles for a total of 10 bases.

BUFFALO, July 9. — (Canadian Press).—Staging a batting frolic in the fifth inning that produced eight tallies, the Bisons had only a romp to thrash the Orioles here to-day, 17 to 3.

Twelve men faced three hurlers in this round and nine hit safely. Barret, up twice, rapped two singles, while Fisher registered a homer and a force-out. Al Moore and Barrett led a crashing batting attack productive of 24 hits. Werts hurled fine ball for the Bisons, retiring after seven innings because of the oppressive heat. Werts also hit a homer and a double.

PONIES LOSE TO BELLEVILLE

Railroad Boys Beat Kingston Five Runs to Three.

PITCHING GOOD.

BELLEVILLE, July 9.—At the Exhibition Park on Saturday the Nationals and Kingston met in a Central Ontario Baseball League game. A good game of ball was played by both teams, and the result was a win for the Belleville team by a score of 5 to 3. The visitors scored two of their runs in the first inning by some wild throwing. Utronki, for the winning team, and Jamieson, for the Kingstonians, both had good control of the ball. George Sullivan, of Kingston, was behind the plate, and Ken Colling, of this city, on bases. The teams:

SPORT CHATTER

(By F. D. C.)

The trouble with Saturday's ball game was that a thunder storm failed to blow up in about the fifth or the sixth.

That game looked as safe as the fact that Joe Wright won the Diamond Sculls until three Petes collapsed half way home.

The local gang drove 'Duke' Dainty out in less than four innings and then after getting rid of a regular pitcher were stopped in their tracks by an infielder.

Macdonald's two running catches and a fast double play in the fifth were bright features of the Petes' defensive work.

It was a queer mixture that Saturday affair. Brilliant baseball in spots and very much bush league at others. The Petes did some of their best hitting and fielding of the season—and some of their worst. Oshawa didn't look to be in the picture at all until the sixth, when the Petes' fielding and pitching both went bloole at the same time. And then the league leaders took advantage of the opening in good style.

Kellar, the Oshawa first baseman, who was ninth man in the batting order, had a perfect day with three singles and a double in four times up. Herb Wolfe, on the other hand, hit safely only once in five trips Ash with three hits, was the Petes' leading hitter. The local first baseman has banged out 11 hits in his last five games.

Change of Frocks Would Change Luck

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 9 (Canadian Press Cable).—Now that Joe Wright, Toronto Argonaut sculler, has won the diamond sculls, his mother and sister have been able to change their frocks.

"Joe would not hear of us changing our frocks on any day before the race as he said it would change his luck," his mother said.

Wright and his parents are preparing to proceed to Amsterdam, where he will pair with Jack Guest, his clubmate and pal whom he defeated in the diamond sculls semi-finals, in the Canadian Olympic doubles team.

Disqualifications at race tracks are very unusual but a photograph of the actual foul is more unusual. The above photograph was snapped by a newspaper photographer who happened to be standing at the stretch turn at the Windsor race track on June 22, when the race in question was being run. He "shot" the picture just as the actual foul was taking place and for which Homefire, the horse that finished first, was disqualified. Homefire (No. 5) is the horse on the outside. J. McTaggart, the rider, is seen leaning over on his horse's neck with his head partially concealed by the horse's head. Homefire was coming around on the outside of the leaders as they were turning into the stretch for home, when the horse bore sharply into the others and knocked them off their stride and out of the contest. J. Chalmers on Sinon is seen with whip raised high in the air, snatching up his horse to keep from going down. Little Phil McGinnis is on The Third Prince, the next horse, and he had great difficulty in keeping his horse from falling. Tony Ruiz, With F. Silas up, was also knocked out of the race by the impact. Chalmers and McGinnis laid claim of foul, which was sustained by the stewards and Homefire was disqualified, the race being awarded to Sinon with The Third Prince second.

Shiner Johnston got back into the game after a long absence and played nice ball at third.

The League standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Oshawa	7	4	.636
Belleville	8	5	.615
Kingston	6	7	.462
Peterborough	5	7	.417
Deloro	3	6	.333

Games Wednesday—
Peterborough at Kingston.
Belleville at Deloro.
(double header).

Games Saturday—
Kingston at Peterborough.
Belleville at Oshawa.

The season so far as the Petes are concerned, is half over and a glance at the situation at the mid-way mark shows that while the homesters have a big edge over Belleville and Deloro they have been unable to win a game from Oshawa or Kingston, neither team of which looks particularly strong. The Petes have dropped three games in succession to each of these two clubs and can't do better now than break even on the season with them. On the other hand they have won three games in a row from Belleville and won two out of three from Deloro. Were it not for the local crew Belleville would be a mile in front in the league race, as the Petes have been responsible for three out of the five losses sustained by the Railroaders. Walter Gerow's men are ahead on the series with Oshawa, Kingston and Deloro. Of course anything can happen in a race of this kind and with twelve games to go the battle for first and second places promises to be red hot all the way down the stretch..

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Big names in "Sadie Thompson" Gloria Swanson's big production which opens at the Capitol to-day.

Gloria Swanson, world-famous film star.

Raoul Walsh, director of "What Price Glory," and Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad."

W. Somerset Maugham, celebrated English novelist and playwright.

Lionel Barrymore, Blanche Friderici, Charles Lane, Will Stanton, Florence Midgely and James A. Mercus are in cast.

Sets by William Cameron Menzies.

A story drenched with the lure of the tropics, filled with love interest, drama, sublime happiness and human suffering.

These are the high-lights of "Sadies Thompson," Gloria Swanson's second independent picture for United Artists, which opens at the Capitol to-day. Taking its title from the name of the heroine, "Sadie Thompson" was adapted from W. Somerset Maugham's widely read South Seas story, "Miss Thompson"—the story of an amazing conflict between an outcast of San Francisco's underworld and a reformer who seeks to remold her life more nearly in keeping with his own ideas. It is a tale of simple desires and selfish ambitions, breath taking in its emotional intensity and startling in its climax. Its characters are flesh-and-blood personalities whose joys and sorrows and weaknesses and ideals come within the understanding of everyday folk everywhere.

Miss Swanson plays "Sadie Thompson" the pathetic outcast who is plunged to the depths of misery through the influence of the despotic reformer, "Alfred Atkinson." During the production of "Sadie Thompson" the producer-star repeatedly remarked that she had never played a character which held her interest so closely, nor one the spirit and "feeling" of which she could enter into with such complete abandon.

QUAKER OATS WON SOCCER CUP MATCH

Foster Opened Scoring—James Added Another Before Interval.

QUAKERS 5, De LAVAL 1.

De Laval Were Off Their Game—Quakers Finished Very Strong Near End.

The DeLaval were eliminated from the Holloway Cup on Saturday afternoon when the Quakers triumphed by the score of five goals to one. The winners had only ten men against the losers eleven and now meet the Canadian General in the final match. A fair attendance of spectators were present.

Opening Exchanges Fast

The DeLaval won the toss and took advantage of the hot sun at their back while the Quakers faced the rays. On starting the Quakers were only at inferior strength with nine men but Buchen completed the tenth player against their opposition. The losers had the better of the exchanges but weakness in front of goal spoiled scoring chances. Time and again the gold and black stripe forwards would work inside the defense to miss by inches. Then the winners had a look-in, and eventually from a left wing attack the ball went across looking for the necessary touch to be converted.

Opportunities Lost

Visit after visit was paid to the respective custodian's charges but the finishing lacked the force behind it to be of any account. On one occasion Downer broke away on the right to test Curtis in goal with a drop shot that the goalkeeper failed to hold properly and did not like the legitimate shoulder he received while in possession of the ball. A few minutes later Pulley evaded the defense nicely and travelled into the goal alone with the ball at his foot to raise it over the bar. Play run from end to end for a while until the break went in favour of the winners.

Foster the Marksman

Confining himself to his position as a full back Foster went up the field, with the ball at his foot right through the DeLaval team. He passed it to James who banged a hot one at Coleman from twenty-five yard range. The opposing defence piled up in a heap in their endeavour to clear the attack but Foster waited outside to carry the sphere right into the uprights and tap it into the net. Two minutes from the interval Carmichael beat along the wing with the half-back paying close attention to him while on the journey to the goals. Quick as a flash he passed the ball back to his unmarked partner—James—who drove a right foot drive into the net past the whole defense. Half time. Quakers 2, DeLaval 0.

HALF TIME

The second half was contested more keenly than first, both goals being jeopardised, but Curtis in goal had the more anxious time on the whole because the DeLaval were forcing the issue in an attempt to reduce the margin against them. The "play the man" style of game became more pronounced and several of the players were cautioned by the ruling official.

Players too Anxious to Score

Both teams paid repeated visits to the goal areas to gain nothing tangible, in fact, they were too anxious to score instead of taking their time when in an excellent position to register a goal. A peculiar situation revealed itself at this point when the DeLaval lot never could get going properly some weakness always showing itself to spoil otherwise fairly good efforts.

E. Abraham Scored

From a spasmodic attack the De Laval reduced their opponent's lead when Abraham beat Curtis from close range. Thirty minutes had gone when T. Wilson centre forward, broke away and beating the backs for speed, shot the ball into the net. After this set back the losers never shaped like pulling the match out of the rut.

Quakers Added Three More

Fifteen minutes from the finish, the Quakers dominated the play and added three more goals when Williams diverted a Carmichael cross, on the drop of the ball as it touched the ground. Before the finish James in an individual rush bulged the net with number four, then Strudely made it five. The final score being Quakers 5, DeLaval 1.

Goal scorers—For the Quakers, Foster, T. Wilson, James (2) and Strudley. For the DeLaval, Abraham.

The Teams

Quakers—W. Curtis, goal; H. Curtis full back; Foster, Buchanan and Curron halves; Carmichael, James, T. Wilson, Strudely and Williams forwards.

DeLaval—Coleman, goal; Cross and Ward, full backs; Watkins, Fowler and Dyer halves; Downer, Pulley Evans, Abraham and Hanson forwards.

Referee—Alex McKinley. Linesmen Tait and Hodgson.

HASTINGS WINS FROM LOCK WORKS

Strong Finish By Home Team Wins Game Seven To Four.

By defeating Lock Works at home on Saturday afternoon, Hastings regained the leadership of the series. The score was 7 to 4, and only a strong finish by the homesters saved the contest.

Keene plays in Curve Lake to-day, and at home next Friday evening with the Indians. This is the only game scheduled this week.

The standing is the county series is:

	Won	Lost	To play
Hastings	6	1	1
Lock Works	4	2	2
Keene	2	3	3
Lakefield	2	4	2
Curve Lake	1	5	2

In the city series, Cognawagas go to Bethany to-morrow evening, and Crescents and Raybestos meet Friday night. East Peterborough League teams will provide the hardball game at the Orangemen's sports bill at Exhibition Park on Thursday afternoon.

CRICKET

The Peterborough C. C. easily defeated the C.G.E. C. C. on Saturday afternoon at the Oval by 67 runs. The Peterborough team opened the batting with Dunkerly and Imming with 13 runs scored. Dunkerly was bowled off his pads. Thorpe, the next bataman, scored at a fast rate and along with Imming, who was batting very carefully, carried the score to 33 before the latter was caught Frank Dyer and Thorpe then carried the score along quickly to 75, when Thorpe was bowled by R. Dyer, the retiring bateaman having made 39. Dyer was caught after scoring 23. Smith also batted very well for 23 and was helped considerably by Stuart and Gore, who kept up their wickets while Smith did the hitting. The score finally reached 125. Jack Wade bowled well, capturing 4 wickets for 28 runs. Binks took 2 for 10 and R. Dyer 2 for 17.

The C.G.E. batting was weak with the exception of Jefferson (who is also a member of the Peterborough C. C.). He was the only batsman who played the Peterborough bowling with any confidence and due to his efforts the C.G.E. total reached 58, he having made 38 out of that total, finally being the ninth man out, caught and bowled by Thorpe, Frank Dyer bowled well, taking 4 wickets for 18, Dunkerley took 3 for 18 and Thorpe 2 for 9. The game was enjoyable and the fielding of both teams was good, although a few catches were missed, mostly due to the strong sun in the field men's eyes.

OLYMPIC TRIALS OVER THE FALLS.

John F. "Duke" McGarry, veteran starter of track and field events, certainly caught the boys right ready when he pulled the gun for the final heat of the 100 metres in the Canadian Olympic trials at Hamilton. Every sprinter is leaving his mark with the crack of the pistol. From LEFT to RIGHT the runners are: "Buck" Hestel, of Windsor and Hamilton, Ralph Adams of Hamilton, Johnny Fitzpatrick, Hamilton, Percy Williams, the Vancouver school boy flash, the winner of the event, in a time that tied the world's record, 10 and 3-5 seconds; Cyril Coaffee of Chicago and Winnipeg, who received his first defeat in Canada in eight years, and Leigh Miller, the maritime provinces champion.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE INCLINED TO BE DISCOURTEOUS AT HOME

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
Author, The Springs of Human Action

We are inclined to be discourteou n the home because we take too muc or granted. We know we can coun n the love of those who are near an lear to us and we grow careless abou he little courtesies that are so essentia o polite society.

A man in his home will turn on the adio and get the program he likes without consulting wife or children. Or he will turn off a concert that the others are enjoying simply to satisfy a whim of his own. He does not do it out of disregard for their rights and feelings. He simply does not think. He takes too much for granted.

In like manner the daughter is discourteous to her mother whom she dearly loves and would not dream of hurting and yet she is careless in little things because she does not stop to think. She presumes on her mother's love. Mothers are the greatest sufferers because they are the most willing to be sacrificed. They demand the least. They get it.

There seems to be a tendency in human nature to take advantage of others whenever and wherever opportunity arises. We all have it in us to dominate and to exploit. It is precisely for this reason that society has developed certain rules and regulations in the form of etiquette and "manners" which place a check on the native egocentric tendencies of mankind and compel consideration for others.

Sometimes we are inclined to be discourteous in the home as a reaction against an over-dose of it outside. We feel that home is the place to relax and do as we please, which is another way of taking license to be selfish and egoistic.

The best cure for discourtesy in the home is to realize the danger and come to a definite understanding that at least for a definite period each member of the family will treat every other member as a perfect stranger. The results are astounding. Try it.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Doctors sometimes refer to America as a nation of neurasthenics, which means those with nerve debility. One peculiarity of a neurasthenic is that he may develop the symptoms of almost any other disease because he readily receives suggestions, especially about sickness.

The symptoms of neurasthenia are so many that it is almost impossible to give a complete description of a case, but there usually is an inability to sleep, or lying awake for hours with a tendency to fall asleep when it is time to get up for work, and arising more exhausted than when they retired. There are weakening pains, headaches, eyeache, night sweating, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, muscular spasms such as difficult breathing, choking sensation, and fault finding and criticism.

Most people who have a nervous breakdown compliment themselves with the belief that it is due to overwork, but it is more likely due to a toxic condition of the body, associated with an unpleasant environment. Many of these sufferers are under the impression that their disease is incurable and that they are doomed to death. Doctors sometimes add to this trouble by assuring these patients that they are "just a bundle of nerves" and that they need a good rest or trip to the seashore, or any place where they are not living at that time.

The sooner the nervous patient realizes that he alone is responsible for his trouble, the more quickly will he find the real cause. One cannot get away from one's own bad habits by taking a trip to the country. It is destructive habits that are practiced twenty-four hours a day at home that are causing the nervous breakdown, and if these bad habits are changed to good ones, the patient will then be on the road to health and happiness.

Many men and women patients of forty-five or more claim they have had from five to ten nervous breakdowns. These people will generally assure the doctor that they have been overworking when they probably have really been suffering from a lack of enjoyment of their work.

Really successful men and women seldom complain of nervousness. It is only those who waste energy with dissatisfaction with what they are, and are constantly disappointed at their lack of success, who develop real nervous breakdowns.

When really nervous women become angry, they sometimes work themselves into a hysterical state, almost losing their reason, screaming and kicking until they are exhausted or get what they want. This is a little different from nerve exhaustion, but it usually shows a spoiled nature that is simply having an acute attack of bad temper. In almost every case of hysteria there is a pelvic congestion. Temporary paralysis is frequently produced by hysteria. The patient is sometimes unable to move, although perfectly conscious, and retaining the power of reason and speech. Sometimes there is a paralysis of the vocal cords or inability to swallow. This paralysis usually only lasts a few minutes, but in extreme cases may continue for years, if the cause is not removed. In almost every case there is a congestion in the womb of the female, or the prostate of the male. This may be caused by prolapsed organs or inflammation. This trouble, which is often related to or mistaken for nerve exhaustion, is all brought on by pelvic congestion.

Real nerve exhaustion is usually brought on by the absorption of poisons from the intestines, so you see that in both these cases, a cure depends upon a proper functioning of the abdominal region, combined with good mental habits and proper recreation.

Questoins and Answers.

Question: Mrs. O. J. L. writes: "Please tell me the cause of severe pain at the lower end of the spinal column. When sitting or lying down it is the most painful. What would you recommend as a remedy? I suffer from piles and constipation."

Answer: First, get rid of your constipation, then your rectal trouble will quickly disappear, and perhaps the pain in the lower spine, as such pain is often caused from constipation and the distension of the rectum because of the packing up of fecal matter.

Question: K. L. M. asks: "What special element does the grapefruit contain that makes it such a healthful fruit?"

Answer: The large amount of organic quinine contained in grapefruit is beneficial in liver complaints.

Question: Jerry writes: "Every fifteen minutes or so, night and day, I have a "flush" or heat wave. These are preceded by a most depressing sensation. I have had them for about ten years."

Answer: You probably have some kind of functional heart disorder which makes your circulation irregular. Systematic exercise and diet if persisted in, will bring about a cure.

Question: Mrs. O. H. asks: "Is an operation for varicose veins on the leg a serious one?"

Answer: Removal of the enlarged veins is always a dangerous procedure not so much because of the danger of the operation itself, but because of the after-effects. It is far better to wear an elastic stocking, or to reduce the size of the vein by electrical treatments or the application of ice. The ice should be held against the enlarged vein for three or four minutes at a time, and this treatment given two or three times daily.

BIG REDUCTION IN AUTO TIRES

Price Changes Range From Five to Twenty Per Cent.

EFFECTIVE NOW.

TORONTO, July 6.—New price schedules—revised to the extent of from five to twenty per cent. in the interests of the tire users of Canada,—were proclaimed yesterday by all the large rubber companies. They become effective immediately.

The price reductions come largely as a result of the recent drop in the price of crude rubber. While the policy of lower prices is a general one for the rubber industry, it is difficult to state the exact effect which it will have on the retail price of individual tires, owing to the fact that the different manufacturers issue different price lists and that the final fixing of prices to thep ublic is left largely in the hands of the retail dealer. With these provisions in mind, however, one of the largest tire concerns computed yesterday that the actual saving to the consumer would be as follows:—

Size of Tire	Old Price	New Price
31x4	$18.10	$15.45
30x3½	11.40	9.70
32x5	35.40	30.10
20x4.40 balloon	12.70	10.20
34x7.30 balloon ..	38.70	32.90

Unsettled Business

Officials of the rubber trade expressed some perturbation during the day over the fact that the heralded reductions had been declared to include mechanical rubber goods and footwear. A. B. Hannay, secretary of the Rubber Goods Association, stated that such was not the case and that between "thirty and forty million dollars worth" of business had been unsettled by the report.

The Dunlop Company, while stating that yesterday's cuts affected only tires and tubes, stated that mechanical rubber goods had been dealt with by price cuts, which had become effective on July 4th. The immediate tire and tube reductions could not be given the company in detail, but were declared to represent the five to twenty per cent. reductions which were common to the industry.

The Gutta Percha Company, through Herbert J. Coffey, managing director, announced a similar reduction. "The reductions," Mr. Coffey stated, "vary according to type and size, ranging from five per cent. to twenty percent. The company has been able to reduce tire prices owing to the fact that we are now working on lower-priced crude rubber and, naturally, desire to give consumers the benefit of the lower market."

The Seiberling Company, also confirmed the policy of lower prices." On rubber sundries such as water bottles the reduction does not apply."

The Good year Company averaged the price cuts from 15 to 16 per cent. "The schedule of reductions has not been figured out, but will be issued during the day," C. H. Carlisle, vice-president and general manager, stated. "The list of reductions does not follow any reductions in prices in the United States, but is based altogether on the Canadian competition and the cost of production. It comes two or three weeks sooner than anticipated, and the public will benefit accordingly."

Well, this is a fine bunch of pictures we have to-day, isn't it We are going to have sixty pictures this week, and by the end of next week all our pictures will have been printed. Then we are going to have another kind of competition. Please don't send in any more pictures of this kind. Hundreds have come to us, and now only 104 will be left for next week.

Isn't that a great dog "Spot" drawn by Walter Hurst. Evidently Walter takes good care of his pet, because it has a nice kennel and two dishes one for water and the other for food. Dolly Croft's cat was all gra in the picture, but of course we can't make it that color in the paper, so it doesn't look as nice here as Dolly's drawing did. Mildred Creighton must be a little housekeeper—she has drawn a steaming cup of bovril for us. Doesn't that bathing girl drawn by Catherine Gash look cool? It's a pretty good drawing for a girl of twelve, too. I like the little bird that Jessie Stevens drew, and I only hope Isabel Hartley's cat doesn't get it. Frances Nolan forgot to put her address on her drawing of a bird, but she certainly can draw. That's a pleased looking cat of Billie McEwen's — and why shouldn't it be, with a nice fat mouse like that? I wonder if Douglas McPherson has been in the country lately? He knows what a barn looks like, anyhow. Doris Brooks printed under her ship, "Well Under Way," which is a very good title, and Tommy Mackey calls his speed-car the "Butterfly." Frances Bestard forgot to tell either her age or her address, when she sent in her house. I think the three kittens drawn by little five-year-old Irma Dunford are just too cute. And those hens of Stewart Gardiner's are sure having some fight. What is it they have, Stewart? A worm.

If you have sent in at drawing and it was not traced, or too big, watch for it this week or next.

man, having served in the Imperial Armys as a private in The Ordnance Corps. He enlisted on April 18, 1920. From 1922 to 1926, when he received his honorable discharge on completion of service, he had served in Constantinople and other parts of Turkey and also in Egypt. Then he trained on a government farm and came to Mr. Courtney's employment from the settlement bureau at 32 Adelaide street, Toronto. He was born in Manchester, England, where his father is a journalist. Mr. Horn is about twenty-five years of age, with dark complexion, brown eyes, and brown hair.

His army record is very good, recommending him as a willing and energetic worker, and able to work without supervision. The record reads in part: "He has been employed on general duties as a storeman and has given satisfaction. He is clean, honest, willing, reliable and sober." Mr. Courtney has employed him about three weeks and found him very good at his work, considering he has always worked at something different. He has found Horn very nice, making a number of friends in his short stay. He was known as "Fred" to everyone around.

Mr. Horn was operated on last night by Dr. Earle, assisted by Dr. L. V. Shire and Dr. Logan of Lindsay. They found he had been seriously wounded in the abdomen and had little hope of saving him at the time. On telephoning the hospital this morning, it was found that he spent an easy night, and that hopes for his recovery were high. Mrs. Courtney said he had great faith in his recovery and had said before leaving for the hospital: "You can't kill an old soldier."

The speaker at to-day's luncheon was S. J. Hayes, member of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, who gave a most interesting address upon the subject of "The Fisheries of Nova Scotia."

Mr. Hayes, who was introduced by Vice-President Ross L. Dobbin, prefaced his reference to modern fishing conditions by pointing out the antiquity of fishing as a Canadian industry, showing that it ante-dated any other industry in this country. The French fishermen visited the Nova Scotia fishing grounds, Mr. Hayes pointed out as far back as 1498.

The speaker explained that fishing in Nova Scotia nowadays was divded into three classes: deep sea fishing, off-shore fishing, and in-shore fishing, and the former was again subdivided into trawl fishing and hand fishing. He told of the Nova Scotia fishing fleet putting out for three trips of from six to eight weeks' duration a year, carrying their crews of twenty or twenty-five men and their nests of dories, wrom which the fishing was done. Most of this fishing was operated on a co-operative basis, with captains and crews each holding shares and sharing in the profits. Mr. Hayes also told of the modern steam trawlers which secured their catch of perhaps 150,000 pounds of fish in a couple of days. Reference was also made to lobster fishing, which next to the cod-fishing, was the most important in the province. Altogether in Nova Scotia 20,000 people were engaged in fishing and the industry in addition provided work for many other people.

Mr. Hayes was heartily thanked for his interesting address.

Rotarian Jack Seels announced that with the arrival of three more boys at camp to-day the roll call at Camp Skookum would now number 50 boys and many of them were endeavoring to extend their visit, so enjoyable had been the first week's experience.

WEDDING BELLS

McELROY—FOX

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Mary Carmelita Fox, daughter of Mr. Stephen E. Coffey, 298 Pearl avenue, became the bride of Vincent McElroy of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McElroy of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Corkery.

The wedding music was played by Miss Hurley and Miss Geraldine Collins sang during the progress of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a lovely gown of ivory georgette, made in bouffant style with long, tight sleeves. The short, scalloped draperies of the skirt had a deep underflounce of Chantilly lace and seed pearl embroidery ornamented the front of the bodice.

The long ivory tulle veil was caught in cap effect over either ear with clusters of orange blossoms, worn by the bride's mother, and had a fine ornamentation of seed pearls.

White kid slippers and white silk hose were worn, with a string of pearls. The bride carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Rita Coffey, was in peach georgette, made with ruffled skirt, the front of the bodice trimmed with french flower and pendant streamers of narrow green ribbon. A large hat of transparent horeshair in peach shade was worn, with blonde shoes and hose, and fox scarf. The bridesmaid wore a corsage bouquet of columbia roses.

Mr. John Foley of Toronto supported the bridegroom.

After the church ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served to forty guests at the home of the bride's father, where decorations were carried out with white bells, daisies and white peonies, the bride's cake centering the table.

Mr. McElroy and his bride left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon trip to Montreal, Quebec and Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

The bride travelled in a smart ensemble of navy and Poiret twill and sand canton crepe, with small hat of printed silk in sand and rose shades, amber fox scarf, the gift of the bridegroom, sand shoes, hose, gloves and purse.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was an amethyst-set lavalliere and to the best man a desk man a desk pen.

Mr. and Mrs. McElroy will live in Toronto.

IN POLICE COURT

A long-drawn-out case came to naught in Police Court on Saturday when a charge laid against Edgar Sinclair, under the scope of the Inland Revenue Act, was dismissed for want of sufficient direct evidence. The Inland Revenue Department was represented by Wilfred Huycke, while J. A. O'Brien appeared for Sinclair.

Sinclair's connection with a still, found near or on the farm of Robert Davidson, in Belmont Township, was not sufficiently apparent, and the case was dismissed by Magistrate O. A Langley.

PINNED BY CAB.

Companion Pigned By Hand Near Flames For Terrible Hour.

WINDSOR, July 10. — (Canadian Press.)— Pinned beneath his overturned truck on the Provincial road a mile south of Old Castle, Louis Aiello, of Windsor, was burned to death early to-day. His cousin, Mile Mario, was rescued by passing motorists after he had been seriously burned.

The truck was returning to Windsor from Niagara Falls with a load of empty beer bottles when it plunged into a ditch and took fire. Aiello lay directly beneath the cab and it was believed he was unconscious from the fall. Mario's hand was pinned beneath the truck and he lay near the flames for half an hour before the flaming machine could be raised sufficiently to permit of his escape.

FOUNDER'S DAY IS CELEBRATED

Local Salvation Army Pays Tribute To Late General Booth.

FOUNDED IN 1865.

Standing alone on Mile End Waste on July 5th, 1865, the late William Booth started the wonderful organization, the Salvation Army, known at time as the Christian Mission, and Sunday night round the world was Founder's Day and the same order of service was followed by hundreds of thousands of Salvationists in the 85 countries the organization is now working in. The evening service at the local corps was conducted by Ensign and Mrs Green, officers commanding the corps here, opened with silent prayer, followed by one of the songs composed by the Founder, "O Boundless Salvation Deep Ocean of Love."

Many gathered at the service, who were privileged to hear William Booth, and recalled that majestic figure white haired and flowing white beard standing erect as he lived out the last verse:

And so Hallelujah!
The rest of my days
Shall gladly be spent
In promoting thy praise.

How he would emphasize the Hallelujah and how his magnetic personality would carry the crowd and the singing stir everybody. Another composition of the late General was sung:

"There is a better world they say
Oh so bright, oh so bright,

Followed by prayer offered by Mrs. Hayward.

Ensign Green gave a brief outline of the history of William Booth. Born in the city of Nottingham in 1829, in days troublesome and gruesome in the history of England—days of murder and robbery, public whippings and executions. Was it not God's mercy that this leader was born. The centenary of Wm. Booth's birth will be celebrated on April 10th of next year.

Boyhood and youthful days seemed mostly to impress on the mind of the founder the great need of the human race, Jesus Christ, and he gave himself entirely to do the work of his Master. One of the culminations of the youth of Wm. Booth was his 'darkest England scheme,' brought about by his seeing the terrible need of the homeless and the outcast.

"When one considers the growth of the Army," continued Ensign Green, "can we help but thank God from the bottom of our hearts for raising up General William Booth, our beloved founder, and thank God also for our present General Bramwell Booth who so ably leads the Army now?

"If you asked me for the outstanding feature of Wm. Booth I would

He was assessed $500 for flying that resulted in an accident at Curtiss Field, Long Island, and an equal amount for low flying over the Chicago Municipal Airport last May.

NEW YORK DECLARES WAR ON VICE

NEW YORK IS WORSE THAN 20 YEARS AGO

Night Clubs and Speakeasies Are Causing Moral Decline.

DANCE STUDIOS HIT.

Cloaked With Respectability Clubs Take Toll of Better Youth.

NEW YORK, July 10. — Conditions of vice in this city are at a lower standard than they were twenty years ago, according to the annual report for 1927 of the Committee of Fourteen. The report attributes the situation to night clubs and speakeasies, which have developed a situation which is worse than those existing under the old Raines law, which the committee was organized to reform.

The practises of speakeasy "hostesses" have brought about a situation similar to the proverbial Japanese Geishas, the Committee asserts.

"The hostess of the night club and speakeasy is the American counterpart of the Geisha girl," says the committee's report. "She is employed for the main purpose of increasing the sales of liquor, food and other drinks; incidentally, she is to provide esthetic, social and sexual entertainment for the men customers.

Her sex appeal largely accounts for her success. She is the successor of the old-time rustler who worked in bars on a commission basis many years ago. She was divorced from the saloon business together with her sister, the professional prostitute, long before the Volstead Act went into effect. That was one of the chief accomplishments of the Committee in its early days.

"The speakeasies and night clubs are now too numerous to succeed from the sale of liquor without the added attraction of 'hostesses.' Their use in these places did not become general until the last two or three years. The greatest demand appeared in the fall of 1927 when agencies and clubs became bold enough to advertise for recruits. So far as is known the only paper to accept these advertisements is one daily tabloid.

"These advertisements have had the result of drawing not only local girls into this occupation, but also girls from outside places in various parts of the United States.

'Experience Unnecessary.'

"Other hostesses are recruited from 'closed' dance halls which in turn advertise extensively for 'young, attractive girls over 18, experience unnecessary.' Still others are known to have been inmates of houses in Albany, Troy, Detroit and other cities still tolerating such resorts. The various stages * * * will be described in the special study of night clubs and speakeasies made possible by the liberal co-operation of the Bureau of Social Hygiene. This study is nearing completion and will be published separately.

"It is believed that the night club and speakeasy have been directly responsible for a marked increase in the volume of vice. This is especially true, because they provide a place for operations. No similar places

CLUB WILL TEACH GIRLS SWIMMING

Kiwanians Are Planning To Teach 65 Girls of City to Swim.

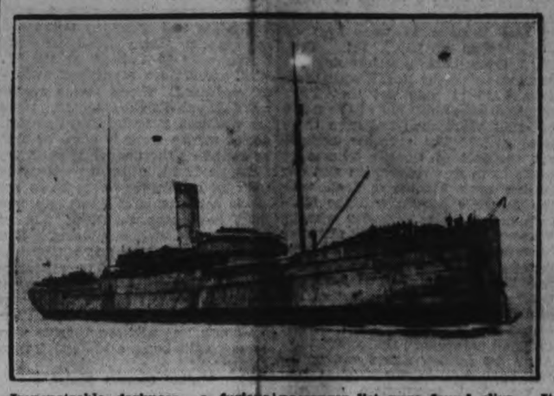
Realizing that some sort of check upon child drowning should be attempted, the Kiwanis Club is organizing a campaign to teach 65 girls to swim.

This campaign which is to be carried on provides six lessons, and the members of Kiwanis Club expect in that time to make each able to free themselves from difficulties in the water.

The Kiwanis Club believes that the best and practically the only time to teach an individual the art of swimming is in early youth when the bones are still light and the muscles supply.

These lessons are at the Y. W. C. A.

CARRIES 300 TO SEA-BOTTOM



Impenetrable darkness, a furious storm just off shore, a broken rudder and a series of jagged rocks served to send the Chilean army transport Angamos down Friday night off the coast of Chili and only four of its 295 members of the crew and passenger list were found alive. It was one of the greatest tragedies along this part of the seaboard. The captain suicided on the bridge. The passengers were mostly natives travelling to work in the nitrate mines. The picture shows the Angamos.

Canada Wins National Rifle Association's Colonial Prize For Runners-up.

BISLEY CAMP, July 10 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Mother Country team, representing the British Isles, won the Imperial Kolapore Cup this afternoon. Canada, which had won the cup for the past three years, became second.

The winning team's aggregate score was 1,094, and the Canadian team's score was 1,085. Canada wins the National Rifle Association's $250 Colonial prize for the runner-up.

Six teams of eight men each competed, each man firing ten shots at 300, 500 and 600 yards. The competition is 57 years old.

The Canadian team defending the Imperial Kolapore Cup at Bisley this afternoon was seven points behind the leading Mother Country team at the two-thirds mark, with shooting completed at two of the three distances, the Mother Country had a lead of six over Australia and India, who were tied for second place, while Canada in fourth place was another point lower.

Scores at the 500 yard range:

Mother Country, 373; Australia, 371; Canada, 370; India, 369; Guernsey, 361; Jersey, 352.

Shooting Keen

Shooting was keen at the first of three distances in the Imperial Kolapore Cup Competition this afternoon and Canadian team of eight marksmen, defending Great Trophy, were in third place, tied with Australia at this range. The leading team, mother country, was only four points ahead of the Canadians however.

Weather Good

Weather conditions were ideal. Eight fine shots, selected from 16 Canadian marksmen competing in meet, were especially delegated to defend the cup against onslaught of five other teams—Australia, Britain, India, Jersey and Guernsey.

LITTLE CHAPS ARE RESCUED

Earnest Barnes Saves Two Boys From Drowning at Inverlea Beach.

GOT INTO DEEP HOLE.

Two little chaps had a narrow escape from drowning at Inverlea Park yesterday afternoon. They got into difficulties in a deep hole near the first arch of the Smith Street Bridge and Ernest Barnes, who is an engineer at The Canadian General Electric Company, was fortunate enough to be on hand at the time to perform a speedy rescue.

Mr. Barnes told The Examiner that he had just gone up after his children, who were swimming in the river at the park, and while on shore a couple of children called his attention to a youngster struggling in the water. Not being far from shore, Mr. Barnes believed him to be fooling, as many often do, and did not think anything about it until he saw another boy going to the rescue. Immediately realizing how serious the situation was, he started to wade out to pull them in, believing it to be shallow, as it was near the shore, but to his surprise he dropped into a hole, which also was inside the safety markers, and had to swim to the boys. He got under them and pushed them to safety on shore, saving them from drowning.

The life guard at the Park told Mr. Barnes that he was unaware of the hole being inside the markers, and that they had been placed in the same places as in previous years. Together they moved them so as to mark this danger spot.

GANGSTERS IN NEW YORK FACE A NEW MENACE

City Drills Police in Use of Revolvers to Curb Outbreak.

KILLERS ARE KNOWN.

Gangland's Own Weapon Will Be Used in Suppressing Outlawry.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Gangland has its answer!

This morning 18,000 pamphlets, each describing the use of the pistol, will be distributed to the police and detectives of Greater New York, under the signature of Commissioner Warren.

This is taken to mean that the department will prepare to meet gangland with gangland's own weapon when and if occasion arises.

The pamphlet, which is thirty-nine pages long, not only explains in detail the use of the service weapon but it also lays down the rules to be observed in employing it.

It enjoins the police to be wary of shooting the weapon while running, and points out the danger to passersby from richocheting bullets.

It warns them not to fire a revolver unnecessarily.

And it warns them to take extreme precautions in using the revolver where there is the danger that others than the criminal for whom it is intended may be hit.

Commissioner Warren points out that while the police are instructed in the nature and technical use of the weapon, pistol practice unnecessarily has been limited, and it is presumed to be a part of the step taken with the distribution of the pamphlet, that additional efficiency in the use of the firearm will be sought by extension of the target practice.

Meanwhile, police are working feverishly to beat the guns of gangdom in avenging the killing of Frankie Yale. The police are fearful of the red-flowered legend that graced Frankie's funeral:

"We'll see them, kid!"

Before the sextons at Holy Cross Cemetery had finished smoothing the damp earth over the bullet-riddled body of Francesco Ioele, alias Frankie Yale, "Little Augie" Pissano and others had gathered the clan and departed for Harlem, where a council was staged.

True, police arrested Augie and his companions for violation of a traffic regulation—the charge really didn't matter. They wanted information, not getting which, they turned the boys loose. And to Harlem the boys went, meeting there with "Louis the Wolf," and his Harlem hoodlums.

Police Race With Avengers.

In an effort to forestall possible outbreak of the feud in Atlantic City, detectives were reported dashing to that city, accompanied by members of Yale's former aggregation, to head

Poll No. 3—Byersville	31	57

The voting in the township was very small, much smaller than an important election like this should warrant.

Expedition Starts To Seek Amundsen

ST. MALO, France, July 10 (Canadian Press).—A new expedition to seek Roald Amundsen and Lieut. Rene Guilbaud with their missing crew got underway to-day, under the command of Dr. Jean Charcot, famous Arctic explorer.

Dr. Charcot sailed in his vessel "Four Quoi Pas," the ship in which he made several of his voyages to the Polar regions.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO

Major and Lance Sergeant Are Hit By Bolt at Petawawa.

MONTREAL BATTERY.

Third Man Is Killed When Stable is Struck—Horses Stunned.

PETAWAWA CAMP, July 10—Major M. O'Halloran and Lance-Sergeant A .T. Goudley, both of the Seventh Field Battery, Montreal, were killed when lightning struck two guns of a field battery while at practice here yesterday afternoon. Sergt G. Ferry of the same battery was seriously burned about the legs and neck.

Killed Sunday Night

Gunner F. W. Dyson of the Third Medium Battery, R.H.A.C., Kingston, was killed Sunday night when a stable was struck. Two other men who were with him at the time received severe electrical shocks. A horse which was in the stable was also killed. Dyson was born in Sheffied, England, and was 21 years of age.

When yesterday afternoon's storm broke, Major O'Halloran, commander of the Sixth Battery, and his men had just dismounted. Major O'Halloran was standing in the open field and was immediately killed by a thunderbolt, which also injured Sergeant Ferry, who was standing near by. Lance-Sergeant Goudey was standing at another end of the field and was struck by a separate bolt. Gunner Dan Conquerwood of Toronto was holding one of the horses, which was stunned, but he escaped injury. Gunner Conquerwood was talking with Gunner Dyson on Sunday night when the latter was killed, and he attributes his escape on both occasions to the fact that he was wearing rubber boots and a rubber raincoat.

Two Others Injured

Two other persons received shocks in the camp on Sunday. They were Miss Theo Tamblyn, daughter of Colonel D. S. Tamblyn of Kingston, who was knocked unconscious by lightning when she was turning a tap at the time. It took several hours to revive her. Dr. J. A. Linton of Toronto, camp doctor, was telephoning at the time, when lightning struck the instrument, throwing him eight feet and stunning him for a few moments. He was able to personally direct the attempt to resusciate Major O'Halloran, Lance-Sergeant Goodey and Sergeant Ferry.

Frank Rose, Well Known Industrial and Labor Authority, is Dead.

LONDON, July 10 (Canadian Press) —Frank Rose, Labor member of the House of Commons for Aberdeen North since 1918, and well-known as an industrial and Labor authority and statistician, died to-day at the age of 71 years. A by-election in his constituency is, of course, necessitated. In the last general election, he had a majority of 4,704 over his Conservative opponent.

Refugees Suffer Fever

Are Suffering From Depression and Sickness, Cabled Report States.

IMPOSSIBLE TO LAND PLANE.

Ice-Breaker Krassin Advanced To Within 25 Miles of Camp.

STOCKHOLM, July 10.— (Canadian Press.)— Lieut. Lunborg, who was marooned on the ice off Foyne Island with five Italia survivors for five days, says that all were suffering from fever and most of them showed signs of mental aberration. Little hope is held out for their immediate rescue. Their morale is low.

Other details coming from Spitzbergen conflict with reports of the disaster given out by General Umberto Nobile. All telegrams from the base ship Citta Di Milano, where Nobile is, having accepted the rescue first, are being censored.

It was learned, however, that Nobile now says that the radio was all right from the first minute after the dirigible crashed on May 25. Nobody can explain how Citta Di Milano and other stations were unable to pick it up until June 9 when the base ship first announced that it had established communication with the survivors.

General Nobile's mysterious statement about the unexpected fall of the Italia and that the crew was not prepared appeared to conflict with the fact that there were 500 pounds of provisions in the navigating cabin for six people. This was held to indicate that measures had been taken for a forced landing, otherwise the stores would have been kept in the dirigible's interior.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 10.— (Canadian Press.)—Five survivors of the Nobile Arctic expedition who are encamped on the ice near Foyn Island, have plenty of supplies and equipment, but are depressed and ill, and need more encouragement until the Krassin can reach them, said a report received here yesterday from Captain Tornberg, leader of the Swedish rescue expedition. The captain's message said:

"The group which is under the leadership of Lieut. Alfredo Viglieri, has stores for three months, but all are suffering from depression and are sick.

"A landing on the ice with a sport plane is possible only when the temperature is below freezing, and even then it is attended with grave risks. At present the temperature, because of cloudiness, is above the freezing point.

"The ice-breaker Krassin has advanced to within about 25 nautical miles of the camp and eventually, if ice conditions improve, can reach the refugees.

"Dr. Finn Malmgren and his two companions who started to seek land afoot, are either drifting on the floes or have perished. They had no weapons and wore bad footgear for ice work.

"The Nobile men who were carried away in the balloon part of the Italia probably were killed by the explosion which the Nobile group observed after the catastrophe.

"The Swedish Junkers plane can now be sent home."

Bandit Chieftain Is Assassinated

VERA CRUZ, Mexico City, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Travellers coming from the region of Tierra Blanca say that Mateo Amador, bandit chieftain, who long operated in the State of Vera Cruz, was recently assassinated. It is believed that one of his followers turned traitor and killed him while he slept.

With the recent killing of Vidal Tenorio, considered the worst bandit in Vera Cruz, Amador's death removes the two principal bandit leaders in the state.

Crowd Attacks Prohibition Agents in Buffalo Roadhouse Administrator Orders An Investigation Into the Affair

BUFFALO, July 10 (Canadian Press).—An account of a fight in a roadhouse in which two prohibition agents were severely beaten was disclosed to-day with an announcement by Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, that he had ordered an investigation of the affair. Agents entered the "Big House" in Cheektowaga early Sunday morning, and while they were searching the place they were attacked by the crowd. One man may lose an eye.

Patrolmen Rain Shot On Man Fleeing To Canadian Side Rower Had Landed 3 Aliens On Shore Of United States

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 10 (Canadian Press).—An alien runner escaped from the United States border patrol men early today in a hail of bullets from the patrolmen's guns after he had landed three aliens on the Niagara River shore at Lewiston, New York. He rowed back to the Canadian side, the bullets hitting the water above his boat. The runner was described by patrolmen as an Indian who operated his row boat with his face covered by a handkerchief. They claim to know his identity. None of the bullets is thought to have hit the runner.

The aliens were captured by the patrolmen. They described themselves as Joseph Bartiflick, Andrew J. Voriha, both Czecho-Slovakians, and Joseph Lekesan, a Jugo-Slav.

Edward Johnson Gives $25,000 To Guelph Board To Establish Department of Music in City Schools

GUELPH, Ont., July 10 (Canadian Press).—Edward Johnson, world famous tenor and native of Guelph, to-day notified the Board of Education of his desire to contribute $25,000 payable $5,000 a year for five years, to establish a department of music in city schools. Voice culture, instrumental and orchestral music would be undertaken, and J. L. Yule, of Kitchener, personal friend of Mr. Johnson's, is suggested as director of the department.

ODDFELLOWS PAY TRIBUTE TO DECEASED

Members of Stirling Lodge Hold Annual Decoration Ceremony.

ADDRESS GIVEN.

Rev. E. W. Rowland Inducted Into New Charge at St. Paul's Church.

STIRLING, July 10. — (Examiner Correspondence).—On Sunday afternoon, the annual decoration ceremony of the I.O.O.F. was observed when over fifty graves were decorated with floral emblems and a short eulogy recited in honor of the memory of those who had gone but were not forgotten.

On account of the extreme heat, the attendance was not up to the usual number. About fifty were in line, led by the Stirling band discoursing music on the way to and from the cemetery, also at intervals while there. There were members of the order present from Springbrook, Madoc and other places, as well as a large attendance of people, who had, as on similar occasions, placed floral tributes on the graves of their deceased friends.

Bro. Past Grand Harold Ashley was Acting Noble Grand, and performed his duties in an efficient manner. Bro. P. G. Fred Hulin was the chaplain. Bros. Past Grands W. T. Sine and J. W. Sarles, who have led the rank and file on a great many similar and also more solemn occasions, were marshals for the day.

Upon returning to the hall, the brethren were treated to iced lemonade, which they certainly enjoyed.

New parade colors, recently purchased by the lodge, were worn for the first time.

Pastor Inducted

A large attendance greeted the Rev. L. S. Wright, president, and several members of the Presbytery of the United Church, when they assembled in St. Paul's Church here on Friday night for the purpose of inducting the Rev. E. W. NEW PASTOR IS INDUCTED

Rev. J. O. Totten Takes Over United Church in Bridgenorth Circuit.

ADDRESSES GIVEN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BRIDGENORTH, July 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—The induction of the Rev. J. O. Totten to the Bridgenorth circuit of the United Church was held on Friday evening. Representatives of the three churches—Fairview, Bridgenorth and Selwyn—were present.

The Rev. R. F. Stillman, of Norwood United Church, was Moderator and occupied the chair. The following other ministers were present and took part: Rev. A. H. McConnachie of Springville; Rev. S. A. Kemp of Lakefield; Rev. J. B. McCormack, of Lakefield Baptist Church, and Rev. W. S. Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial.

The scriptural reading was given by the Rev. W. S. Edgar, and the Rev. J. B. McCormack led in prayer, while the induction sermon was given by Rev. A. H. McConnachie, taking his text from Acts 19:2, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed"

We are in the habit of holding the great days of the year as they come in turn—Christmas, Easter, Mothers' Day, and Children's Day, but apart from our Anglican brethren we do not celebrate the birthday of the Christian Church, which is known as the coming of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, to put in other words, "There is something lacking in the Christian Church of to-day. This was the verdict not only of its enemies outside, but of its best friends within. Paul had found a similar lack in the church at Ephesus of his day. Since his question in our text, 'Have ye received the Holy Ghost sinec ye believed' Evidently this is the lack in the church of to-day. The absence of the Holy Spirit is seen in the modern church, in our lack of the sense of sin, in the dearth of conversions, in the lack of spiritual power, and in the want of breadth of vision. We are too narrow-minded and parochial and bigoted in the church of to-day. The spirit will give us new and enlarged vision. It will also impart power from service. May we open our hearts to receive it now."

The Rev. S. A. Kemp gave the address to the congregation, telling them to play for their pastor, not to be too ready to adversely criticize him, to be faithful and loyal in standing by him and thus help to realize the Kingdom of God in their midst.

In the absence of Rev. A. E. Thornley of Mark Street Church, who was to have given the charge to the minister, this duty devolved upon Rev. R. F. Stillman. "The various names by which a church leader was known were very significant. The first name was the "preacher"; it means of course, one who preaches, and a preacher must not let anything interfere with the proper preparation of his sermons, as preaching is his first and main business. Another name was that of "pastor," which means a shepherd; he had to look after and tend to the flock of God. This included visitation of the sick, and attending the spiritual culture of the young, and leading souls into the Kingdom. Then another name was "minister," which means servant. The idea is embodied in Christ's great statement, "The minister is the servant of the church."

The right hand of fellowship was given to the new minister by the other ministers present and by the congregation.

During the course of the evening, the Bridgenorth choir sang two anthems. After the Benediction, the entire company retired to the basement of the church, where refreshments were served by the ladies of the circuit.

ORANGE LODGE ATTEND SERVICE AT MARMORA

L.O.L. 319 Accompanied By Junior Branch March to United Church.

INSPIRING ADDRESS.

Visitors From Nickle and Springbrook Lodges Take Part in Procession.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, July 10.—On Sunday evening Marmora L.O.L. 319 paraded to Marmora United Church for divine service. In the procession were also seen the new Juvenile Lodge No. 34 which marched at the head visiting brethren from Nickle and Springbrook lodges and members of Harmony L.O.B.A. 600. The service taken by Rev. H. E. Eburne was of a most hearty character commencing with the militant hymn of the order "Onward Christian Soldiers." Following a well given solo by Mrs. E. C. Prentice it being a setting to "Jesu, lover of My Soul," portions of I Kings 19 and Romans 12 were read by the chaplain of L.O.L. 319. Bro. W. J. Cottrell. A most inspiring address was given by Rev. Eburne upon John 17.15 "I pray not that Thou shouldest take them out of the world but that Thou shouldest keep them from evil." The preacher brought out the fact of Christ's witness to God's truth in vivid fashion and enlarging upon his theme dealt with the Apostolic witness and the Master's desire for present day witness. Witness, he reminded his attentive hearers is not the repetition of mere hearsay but the declaration of absolute knowledge. Such is necessary before acceptance in a court of law and such is required by Christ, declared the preacher. Rev. A. B. Caldwell pronounced the benediction. After the service, sisters and brethren adjourned to the Orange Hall where short appropriate addresses were given.

CAMP MEMBERS ATTEND SERVICE

Take Part in Morning Worship at Trinity United Church.

AT MADOC.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, July 10.—The extreme heat of Sunday, July 8, seriously affected the congregations in all the churches, especially in the evening. The presence of about fifty boys and young men from the community camp at Moira Lake at the morning worship at Trinity United Church helped to make up a much larger congregation. Seven or eight of the young men also helped in the choir and made the songs of praise much more hearty.

The anthem was given by six little girls from the Sunday School, who sang, "Brighten the corner where you are." They were the Misses Helen Wellman, Phyllis Reid, Clarice Dafoe, Thornton Love, Jean Whytock and Jean Nickle.

The Rev. G. W. Rivers spoke very earnestly to the boys and the members of the Young Worshippers' League on "Mr. Facing—both ways," and taking for his text for the sermon, "He that goeth forth with weeping, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again, bearing his sheaves with him." Mr. Rivers said, "Every Christian should take his part in the church work. The discouragements came from our own lack of skill and from obstacles put in our way. The encouragements were the promises of sure results and the joy of bringing in the sheaves."

The subject for the evening service was "Character and Environment," taking for his text, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?"

Sunday School Picnics.

The Presbyterian Sunday School will hold its annual picnic on Wednesday, July 11, and Trinity Sunday School will hold theirs on July 25 at Osone Park, Moira Lake.

TEACH CHILDREN MISSION WORK IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Decided at Meeting of United Church W.M.S. at Warsaw.

CHURCH SOCIAL.

WARSAW, July 10. — The regular meeting of the United Church W.M.S. was held at Mrs. James Greystock's home, the president, Mrs. George Taylor in the chair.

The idea of a Mission Band was discussed. It did not seem feasible to get the little ones together on a week day. The Sunday School superintendent had been approached, also the teacher of the primary class in the Sunday School, and it had been decided that at the monthly special missionary session of the Sunday School, Mrs. Hanthorne take the primary and beginners' classes and give them special children's lessons in missionary work. It was decided to ask the South Dummer W.M.S. to conduct the service for the Sunday that is annually devoted to W.M.S. work.

Mrs. Robert Moore gave a most interesting and appealing talk about the places where foreigners are looked after in Canada by the W.M.S. There are twenty-six nationalities helped. Where there are no married missionaries settled, there are deaconesses or travelling nurses. Social service work is done, as well as spreading the Gospel news. They must go hand in hand. Even in some of our larger towns there are whole settlements of foreigners who must be taught the Bible and be made good Canadian citizens. Mrs. Moore had put time and energy into preparing her talk. The allocation for the Warsaw branch this year is $150.00. The meeting was in charge of Group A. After the benediction, ice-cream and wild strawberries were served, with buns, cake, and lemonade.

United Church Social.

The United Church annual ice-cream social was held on Friday evening. While the tables were being cleared, there was social converse on the lawn. The program, for which Rev. H. B. Herrington was chairman, and in which the new piano played a conspicuous part, consisted of one verse of "All Hail the Power" by all present; a few words by Mr. Herrington; mouth organ selection by Kegham Mouradian; piano duet by Lucille Herrington and Murietta Jory; solo, "Love's Sweet Lullaby.' 'by Henry Batten ,and encore, "In the Window of the House Upon the Hill"; recitation, "He Tried to Tell His Wife," by Fred Crowe, with encore, "Any Train"; a piano solo, Ruth Kennedy; cornet solo, Gerald Crowe; recitation by Violet Darling, "Camping," with encore, "Thanks for the Buggy Ride"; piano solo, Willa Darling.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 10.—Millbrook Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 308, held its annual Decoration Day services in the Town Hall square on Sunday, July 9, at 2 p.m., and in spite of the extreme heat more than two hundred people gathered for the occasion.

There was a good representation of the Order in the parade from the I.O.O.F. Hall, the Orono military band heading the march to the square, where the brethren and members of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, were grouped about the Soldiers' Memorial for the decoration ceremony.

The singing of "Nearer My God to Thee," led by the Orono band, appropriately opened the service, which was in charge of Brother D. Sheppard, Noble Grand of the local lodge, Brother V. R. Hunter, P.G., acting as chaplain.

Rev. P. C. Howard, chaplain of Millbrook Lodge No. 308, gave the first address, emphasizing the similarity between the principles of Oddfellowship, with its bonds of brotherhood and isterhood, and those of the Christian faith.

Pointing out that the service was to do reverence to 'those of our number who have gone forward,' the speaker urged his hearers to remember that lives well spent are never lost, and that the principles and practices of Oddfellowship are to be reproduced in daily conduct by those of us left to carry on, though some of our number answer the summons of the Father, and find their work in a higher sphere.

"Reward is based upon the use made of opportunities which life afforded, and death is but the beginning of a real life this world is only the ante-room leading up to the great

RELIEF FROM GAS STOMACH PAINS DIZZINESS

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent. of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mrs. George Bell, of 317 Grey Street, London, Ont., writes as follows:

"I had suffered for years with stomach trouble. Gas would form and bloat me up so I could hardly catch my breath. My nerves were shattered; I did not sleep because weak and run-down and spent enough on medicines to furnish a home.

"Two months after starting Tanlac, however, I had gained eleven pounds and was entirely free of indigestion. Now I have no gas, no pains in my stomach. The headaches have disappeared. My nerves are calm. I sleep like a child, am always ready for my meals, and my housework seems like play to me."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run-down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs, and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist to-day. Money back if it doesn't help you.

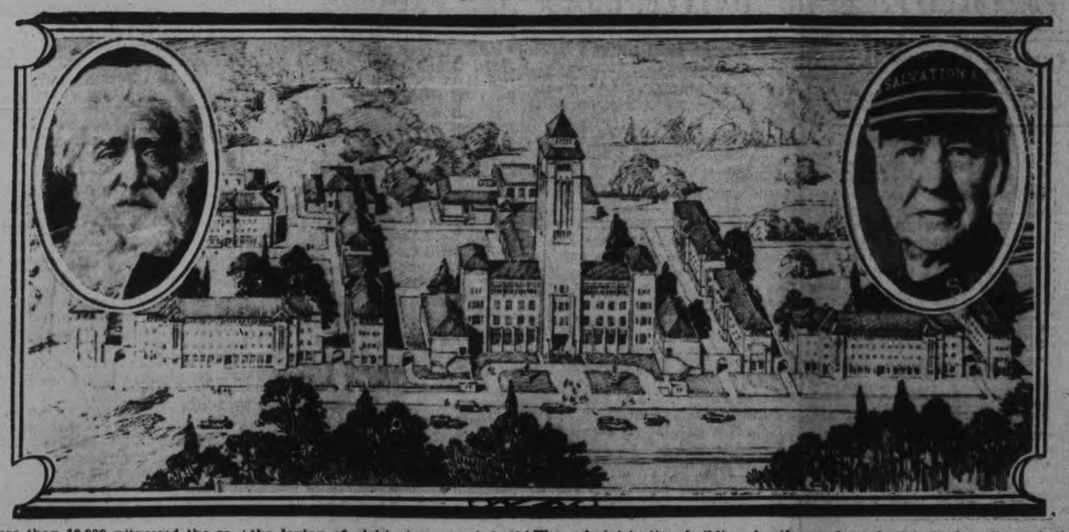
ARMY BUILDING MEMORIAL TO FOUNDER



More than 10,000 witnessed the recent stone-laying ceremony at Denmark Hill, London, in connection with the projected memorial to William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. The present head of that organization, General Bramwell Booth and his wife, took a leading part at the dedication service, which involved the laying of eight stones on behalf of diverse interests. Construction work is already well advanced upon the memorial buildings and it is expected that they will be ready for opening in 1929, on the 100th anniversary of the birth of the founder. The archietect's sketch shows how the buildings will be placed in their 7½ acre property at Camberwell. The administrative building in the centre, with its 190 foot tower, will dominate the smaller units, which include twelve hostel blocks, each of which will accommodate about fifty cadets, a dining hall, which will provide for 500 at one time, an assembly hall with a seating capacity of 1,000 and half a dozen other buildings to be used as lecture halls, class-rooms and so forth. It is estimated that £380,000 (about $1,900,000) will be required for the memorial. Of this sum £250,000 has already been subscribed. REPORTS TO CITY COUNCIL

Committee of the Whole Council Report.

Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your Committee was waited upon by members of the Nicholls Hospital Trust in regard to a proposed enlargement and improvement of the hospital. They said that the capacity of the hospital had to be increased. The hospital accommodation in the city was 225 beds, 140 in St. Joseph's Hospital and 85 in the Nicholls Hospital, and this was inadequate for the needs of the community. One of the greatest needs in the Nicholls Hospital was for more and better accommodation for maternity cases. The Trust had been working on the problem for fifteen months and had plans prepared to increase the capacity up to 150 beds. While enlarging the building they proposed improving the old building by installing a new heating plant, making the old building fire proof and in other ways. The estimated cost of the work was $350,000.00. They asked the Council to provide $300,000.00, and they intended raising $100,000.00 by subscriptions, $50,000.00 to complete the work and $50,000.00 for endowment for equipment.

We recommend that a By-law be submitted to the qualified electors to raise $300,000.00 by the issue of debentures towards paying for the enlargement and improvement of the Nicholls Hospital at a date to be fixed later.

2. We recommend that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario be advised that this Council is willing to submit a By-law to the qualified electors to authorize the purchase of the gas plant and three other parcels of real estate owned by the Commission in Peterborough for $300,000.00, provided the Commission will take the City's debentures extending over a period of thirty years and bearing four and a half per cent. interest in payment.

Board of Works Report.

Your Board of Works beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That a petition asking for improvements on Euclid Avenue be referred to the City Engineer and the Street Commissioner to take action on the matter.

2. That the sewer on Caddy Street be extended about 40 feet to serve Mr. Rogers' property, he to pay the cost of the work.

3. That with reference to an application of the Wm. Hamilton Co. that Murray Street be paved west of Reid Street the Company be informed that it is too late to advertise for this work and to get it done with this year's paving programme, but that the street be oiled.

4. That a petition asking that Aylmer Street from the Canadian Pacific Railway to Lansdowne Street be paved be received as it is too late to have it done this year.

5. That the letter from the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, asking that action be taken to prevent a recurrence of the over-flowing of the creek be referred to the Chairman of this Board and the Mayor and the City Engineer to interview, without prejudice, the B. F. Ackerman, Son & Company and procure other information.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

SPURGEON'S PICTURE FOUND

The thousands of Baptists in Toronto attending their World Alliance Congress, expressed keen interest in this picture of one of their most distinguished co-religionists, Rev. Chas. Spurgeon. The noted preacher sent the photograph to a friend in Canada many years ago. The letter which accompanied it was undated, but the watermark on the linen notepaper was 1873. Mr. Spurgeon was born in Kelvedon, Essex, England, in 1834, and preached in London until his death in 1892. The portrait is considered in the nature of an historical find.
